The Nineteenth Annual Congress will be held at Buffalo, N. Y., April 30, 1908.

✓ ABSTRACT OF PROCEEDINGS OF DENVER CONGRESS

The Eighteenth Annual Congress was called to order in regular session at the Brown Palace Hotel, Denver, Colo., at 10 A. M., June 3, 1907, by President General C. A. Pugsley. The Rev. R. W. Clark, of Michigan, led the Congress in prayer.

The President General appointed Mr. Vandercook, of Illinois, Mr. Pierce, of Wisconsin, and Mr. Burgess, of Connecticut, a committee on credentials. The total number of members of the Congress present was 92, including the President General, the Secretary General, Vice-President General Bray, and delegates as follows: Alabama, 1; California, 2; Colorado, 6; Connecticut, 2; District of Columbia, 6; Illinois, 7; Indiana, 1; Iowa, 1; Maine, 1; Maryland, 2, and 1 substitute; Massachusetts, 5, and 19 substitutes; Michigan, 4, and 5 substitutes; Minnesota, 1; Nebraska, 2; New Jersey, 7; Empire State, 5, and 1 substitute; Ohio, 1; Pennsylvania, 1; Rhode Island, 1; South Dakota, 2; Vermont, 1; Washington, 1; Wisconsin, 3.

Addresses of welcome to Colorado were delivered by Lieutenant Governor E. R. Parker, Acting Mayor A. J. Spengel, of Denver, and Dr. William F. Slocum, President of the Colorado Society. The President General responded to the words of welcome, and reviewed the work of the Society during the year, particularly in the line of patriotic education of our foreign born population.

Col. A. S. Hubbard was introduced as one of the founders of the Sons of Revolutionary Sires in California in 1875, the basis of the present organization.

The regular order of business was then taken up.

The report of the General Board of Managers reviewed the business of the year, concluding with the action of the Executive Committee on February 19, in recommending a new Constitution and new By-Laws, proposed by the Revision Committee appointed by authority of the Boston Congress.

By unanimous consent the regular order of business was suspended and the Congress considered the final report of the special committee on the National Charter. Mr. Beardsley, chairman of the committee, announced that the Act of Incorporation had been approved by President Roosevelt on June 9, 1906. The committee submitted an engrossed copy of the charter, certified to by the Secretary of State, Compatriot Elihu Root. The report was accepted, and to the Charter Committee was voted the thanks of the National Society.

Mr. Beardsley further reported that the granting of the charter rendered necessary certain amendments to the Constitution and By-Laws.

By unanimous consent the regular order of business was further suspended to receive the report of the Revision Committee, which was read in full, and Chairman Beardsley explained in detail the reasons for the few variations from the old Constitution and By-Laws.

The Congress thereupon considered the new Constitution by articles and sections, and certain amendments were agreed to, full discussion being given to objections. The Congress then adopted the entire Constitution, but the motion was reconsidered to allow further discussion by the California delegates and others. Mr. Beardsley then moved that the report of the Revision Committee be adopted; that the entire present Constitution be repealed, and that the new Constitution as amended be adopted as a whole.

The motion was seconded, put by the President General, and carried.

A recess of five minutes was then taken, during which time a meeting of the General Board was held, and the new By-Laws were duly adopted.

The Congress being called to order, Mr. Beardsley announced that the Society had adopted a Constitution not repugnant to the National Charter, and that the Board had adopted a set of By-Laws so amended as to be in accordance with it. He thereupon submitted a certificate, signed by the President General, the Secretary General, and the Chairman of the Charter Committee, setting forth these facts.

Mr. Beardsley then submitted, for adoption by the Congress, the following resolutions, preceded by a preamble, reciting the action of the Corporators in organizing under the charter, etc.:

Resolved, That each and every, the acts so made and done by the said persons named as incorporators in said act, and such other persons, if any, as they may have associated with them, be and the same are hereby affirmed, adopted, ratified, and approved by this Congress, to have the same effect as if the same had been made and done by this Congress, or by and in pursuance of its sanction and authority previously given.

Resolved, That the National Society of the Sons of the American Revolution, as the same has heretofore existed, hereby accepts, ratifies and adopts the charter granted by an Act of Congress, approved June 9, 1906, as and for the charter of this Society, to the end that this Society may be merged in, and be and become the body politic and corporate created by the said act.

On motion, duly seconded, the preamble and resolutions above cited were unanimously adopted, and the entire organization was declared to be an incorporated Society under the provisions of the Act of Congress of June 9, 1906.

The amendments to the Constitution as printed in the OFFICIAL BULLETIN are: (1) The modification of Art. IV, Sec. 2, so that applicants may continue, as heretofore, to join any State Society they desire; (2) Art. VII, Sec. 4, was made effective after the adjournment of the Denver Congress, and (3) Art. IX was added: "This Constitution shall take effect upon its adoption."

The Constitution now in force omits the words "civil officer" as a basis for eligibility. By Art. III, Sec. 2, names shall not be placed on the roll of membership of State Societies until the application papers have been approved by the Registrar General. The General Board of Managers has become the Board of Trustees, elected by the Congress. State Societies are hereafter to be represented in the Congress only by members of their own State Society.

The Congress then, at 1 o'clock P. M., adjourned for the day, and reconvened at 9 A. M., Tuesday, June 4. The first business in order was the reports of the General Officers.

The Secretary General read, in abstract, his annual report, reviewing the doings of the National Committees and of the State Societies, which have been set forth from time to time in the OFFICIAL BULLETIN.

The Registrar General reported that the number of new members registered during the year was 709, the largest numbers being 120 in the Empire State Society; Massachusetts, 86; Ohio, 49; Connecticut, 46; Illinois, 38; Hawaii, 26. The total active membership is 11,118, and the total enrolment since 1889 has been 18,192. The Massachusetts Society ranks first with 1,557 active members; Empire State second, 1,276; Connecticut third, 971; District of Columbia fourth, 538; Illinois fifth, 529. From the sale of badges, rosettes, and ribbon the Society received a commission aggregating $332. Five medals were awarded for patriotic service in the war with Spain, making a total of 647 since 1899. Three hundred and eighty-three certificates of membership were engrossed.

In commenting on the Registrar General's report Commander Moore urged that since one of the chief objects of the Annual Congress is to come together and get a little more enthusiasm, the delegates should this year go back to their State Societies and try to increase the roll by at least a thousand new members. Mr. McClary urged the organization of Societies in North and South Carolina, Georgia, Mississippi, North Dakota, Wyoming, Idaho, and in the territories not now represented in the National Society.

In the absence of the Treasurer General in Europe, by reason of ill-health, his report was read by Mr. Beardsley. The report showed a cash balance on April 27, 1906, of $6,997.99; receipts during the year, $6,517.62; total receipts, $13,515.61. The disbursements aggregated $4,016.36, and the balance of cash on hand, May 24, 1907, was $9,499.25.

On motion by Commander Moore, seconded by Colonel Lyman and Colonel Armes, of the District of Columbia, a resolution, recommended by the Naval Records Committee and approved by the General Board of Managers, was adopted favoring the passage of a law establishing a Record and Pension Office in the Navy Department, where the Naval records of the United States may be permanently preserved, carded, and indexed.

Rev. R. W. Clark, chairman of the Educational Committee, reported in detail on work done in the distribution of three publications: (1) A Welcome to Immigrants, (2) Patriotic Education, Historical Topics for Discussion by State Societies, and (3) Public School Tests, a Program for the Use of Schools. Extracts from letters of State Societies were read, showing the needs of various communities. Sub-committees working in coöperation with the National Committee have been appointed by several State Societies.

The remarks, on the educational report, by Mr. Hubbell, of New Jersey; Admiral Baird, of the District of Columbia; Major Tolman, of Illinois; Mr. Marble, of New York; Colonel Penny, of Pennsylvania; Mr. Webster, of Nebraska; Mr. Hersey, of Colorado; Mr. Dewey, of Vermont; Colonel Lauman, of Illinois, and Major Tebbetts, of Alabama, showed a widespread interest in the work of the Educational Committee in promoting patriotic advancement and education.

The following resolutions, recommended by the Committee, were unanimously adopted:

1. Resolved, That the National Educational Committee be instructed to prepare programs of topics relating to American history, citizenship, and the general welfare of the country, for consideration by State Societies at their regular meetings.

2. Resolved, That the officers of the State Societies are requested to ascertain what public school instruction is given in American History, the form of government and the spirit of the laws of the United States, in order that—

- (a) such instruction be introduced if now neglected and
- (b) if done imperfectly that it may be improved upon.

3. Resolved, That it is recommended that State Societies arrange for public lecture courses on the constitutional system and principles of the American Government, to be delivered in the public schools in the interest, primarily, of the adult foreign born population, to give them a proper conception of our institutions and form of government.

4. Resolved, That it be recommended to the State Societies to provide for the reading of papers on the Federal Constitution, or on laws of the several States, the inter-relations of the Federal and State governments, and the several constitutional guarantees of individual liberty, for consideration at local meetings of the Society.

A report was received from Mr. W. V. Cox, chairman of the Committee on National Parks, reviewing the work of the State Societies in the preservation of historic spots and in the erection of memorials of events of the Revolution.

On the recommendation of the Committee a resolution was adopted, approving bills introduced by Senator Lodge in the U. S. Senate, and by Representative Bradley in the House, authorizing the appointment of a Commission on Revolutionary National Parks; and a resolution commending the work of the various State Societies in preserving and marking the battle-fields of the War for Independence, and specially commending the efforts of the Empire State Society of the Sons of the American Revolution and the American Scenic and Historic Preservation Society to establish a National Park in the Highlands of the Hudson in commemoration of the Revolution.

From Mr. Joslin, chairman of the Publication Committee, was received a report setting forth the establishment of the OFFICIAL BULLETIN as a means of disseminating Society news and recommending that the plan be made permanent. The first BULLETIN was distributed under date of October 15, the next December 15, and others March 15 and May 15, aggregating 103 pages of matter pertaining to the work of the Society and recording new members added to the roll. The size of the Bulletin and the number of copies that might be issued is limited only by the funds available. The regular edition has been one thousand copies, and several hundred additional copies have been printed for distribution by those State Societies that subscribe for the BULLETIN at three cents per copy.

Commander Moore presented a report from the Naval Records Committee, stating that a law had been enacted in the form recommended by the Boston Congress for bringing together in Navy Department the Naval records of the Revolution. He reported that much material had already been gathered, and estimated that nearly 100,000 new names will be added, by the passage of this law, to the lists of those who served afloat during the War of the Revolution.

A committee, appointed by the Board, consisting of Gen. Edwin S. Greeley, Mr. Morris B. Beardsley, and Mr. W. A. Marble, presented a tribute to the memory of Hon. Walter Seth Logan, ex-President General, who died July 19, 1906, and after remarks by Mr. Beardsley and Mr. Marble, the tribute was adopted by a rising vote.

Major Tolman, in behalf of the Illinois Society, presented a resolution, which was discussed and referred to the Board of Trustees, recommending the publication and distribution by the Government of the rolls of all soldiers and sailors who have served in the Army or Navy of the United States during any war in which this country has been engaged.

Mr. Trueman G. Avery, President of the Buffalo Chapter of the Empire State Society, extended an earnest invitation to hold the Congress of 1908 in Buffalo, and a letter was received from the Bureau of Publicity of Niagara Falls, inviting the Congress to meet at that place.

Mr. Shryock presented a communication from the Maryland Society, inviting the next Congress to meet in Baltimore.

Mr. Dewey, in behalf of the Vermont Society, invited the Congress of 1909 to meet in that State.

The Washington Society, through its President, Judge Hanford, invited the 1909 Congress to meet in Seattle on the occasion of the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific Exposition.

Major Tebbetts, President of the Alabama Society, invited the Congress to meet in Mobile in 1911, the two hundredth anniversary of the founding of that city.

Colonel Hubbard extended an invitation from San Francisco for some future Congress.

ABSTRACT OF PROCEEDINGS OF THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES.

The Board of Trustees met at 3 o'clock P. M., June 4, President General McClary presiding.

The President General nominated the following to comprise the Executive Committee, and they were approved by the Board:

The President General, chairman ex officio; Gen. Francis Henry Appleton, Boston, Mass.; Hon. Morris B. Beardsley, Bridgeport, Conn.; Judge Henry Stockbridge, Baltimore, Md.; Commander J. H. Moore, U. S. N., Washington, D. C.; Col. George C. Batcheller, New York, N. Y.; Mr. Theodore H. Eaton, Detroit, Mich.

The resolution adopted by the Congress recommending the establishment of a Record and Pension Office in the Navy Department, was referred to the special committee on Naval Records for action.

A resolution from the Illinois Society, calling for the publication and distribution by the Government of the rolls of soldiers and sailors who have served in the army or navy of the United States in any of the wars in which the United States has engaged, which was referred to the Board by the Congress, was considered and referred to the Executive Committee.

Invitations for the Congress of 1908 were considered, and it was unanimously voted that the Nineteenth Annual Congress convene at Buffalo, New York, on April 30, 1908.

The Board discussed methods for largely increasing the membership, and the Executive Committee was requested to formulate and carry into effect such plans as should appear the most effective to this end.

It was voted that to the Executive Committee be delegated power to act on such matters referred to the Board by Congress or such new business as in the judgment of the President General may not require the action of a meeting of the Board of Trustees.

A. HOWARD CLARK,
Secretary General.

ANNUAL BANQUET

The banquet at the Savoy Hotel, on the evening of June 4, given by the Colorado Society, was presided over by Mr. Howard T. Vaille as toastmaster. Addresses were delivered by Mr. Henry J. Hersey, Dr. William F. Slocum, Governor Henry A. Buchtel, of Colorado; the retiring President General, Mr. Pugsley; President General McClary, Mr. Joseph F. Tuttle, Jr., of Denver; Mr. Daniel M. Lord, of Chicago; Mr. W. E. Sweet, President of the Sons of the Revolution in Colorado;

Major William Frye Tebbetts, of Alabama; Colonel George A. Armes, U. S. A., of the District of Columbia, and Col. Charles A. Williams, U. S. A. An address by Dr. Moses Greely Parker, who was unable to be present, was read by Mr. Pettingill, of Colorado Springs.

In the course of his address Mr. McClary said:

"The thought occurred to me that I would like to say a word or two on 'looking forward.' Perhaps as a Society we have been given a little too much to looking backward. Still it is but natural. The primary reason we organized for was to look backward in history * * *

"With our new charter we should begin a somewhat new era, and I have noted that spirit in this Congress * * * Nearly all the speeches that have been made today in this Congress have been with reference to the future. * * * It is proper tonight to look forward, and, taking our new charter as a beginning, to consider what we can do to broaden the influence of this great Society in the United States.

"The need of today, I believe, if it could be expressed in two or three words, would be of sane men, sober-minded men. * * * At a time when labor unions seek in some cases to dominate politics, to dominate labor, to reduce everything to a dull, dead level; at a time when some corporations do not realize that they are public servants; at a time when some politicians find the greatest of powers in the setting of class against class; * * * at a time when to be thrifty and acquire a competence is a disgrace; at such a time we need sane men. Where can we better look for that kind of sanity than to an organization of this kind. Purely American, our oldest and our best stock.

"And that brings me to the practical question. In order to exercise the influence which is our due in this country we must increase our membership many fold. One man can do something; many can do considerable individually; but to really accomplish things in a great country containing many millions of people, we require a careful, complete, and large organization. We have everything but the last. I therefore will end my remarks by appealing to all present to seek to largely increase the membership of our State Societies. It would more than double our influence.

"The Board of Trustees, this afternoon, considered methods by which they could assist the State Societies in this campaign for more members. We need not fear for lack of principles, because they are already formulated, and we are already moving along those lines, but we certainly should greatly increase our numbers and strengthen our organization, and thereby greatly increase the number of sane men working along similar lines to correct, guide, to make, and to lead public opinion."

Mr. Tuttle, in his address, reviewed the history of Colorado from the time of Coronado's march in his quest of the Seven Cities in 1541, when he probably visited the present site of Denver. He rehearsed the story of Marcus Whitman's ride from the far Northwest through the Colorado country to Washington City in 1843 to save Oregon for the United States, and pictured the wonderful development of our Nation in the great West.

CHURCH SERVICE, RECEPTIONS, ETC.

On Sunday, June 2, at 8 P. M., special services were held at St. Mark's Church, with sermon by the Chaplain of the Colorado Society, Rev. J. H. Houghton. The service was attended by many of the delegates who had arrived in Denver that evening.

On Monday evening at the Woman's Club there was a reception to delegates and ladies, given by the Daughters of the American Revolution.

Wednesday morning, June 4, members of the Congress left Denver as the guests of the Colorado Society on a trip to Colorado Springs, and proceeded by special train to Cripple Creek, where they were received by the Mayor. A meeting was held in the City Hall, where brief addresses were made by the Mayor, by Mr. McClary, and Mr. Pugsley, and a golden key to the city was presented to the Society.

Wednesday night was spent at Colorado Springs. Thursday morning the delegates were the guests of Gen. William J. Palmer at a breakfast at the Antlers Hotel, after which they were formally received at the City Hall by Mayor Heizer, President Fertig, of the City Council, and other officials. To each delegate was presented one of the medals struck in commemoration of the Pike Centennial. Carriages were then taken for a ride through Palmer Park, the Garden of the Gods, and Manitou.

In the afternoon a reception in honor of the delegates was given at her home by Mrs. Elizabeth Cass Goddard, granddaughter of General Cass, and Regent of the Zebulon Pike Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution, assisted by the State Regent and others. A reception was also given by President and Mrs. W. F. Slocum at their home at Colorado College.

THE TRAVELING BANNER

The Board of Managers of the Colorado Society, on June 19, adopted the following resolution, which has been approved by a majority of the National Executive Committee, as an incentive to recruiting work:

Resolved, That the Colorado Society offer as a prize to the National Society a banner, to be known as the "traveling banner," to be awarded to any State organization of the Sons of the American Revolution having a membership of one hundred or more, for the largest percentage of increase in numbers during the year preceding, said banner to be assigned annually to such State Society at the annual meeting of the National Congress.

The banner will be made ready in time for the next Congress at Buffalo, 1908.

DOINGS OF STATE SOCIETIES

THE MICHIGAN SOCIETY has issued a list of committees for 1907-1908, defining the duties of each committee, and a calendar of the Historical Section with the following program of topics:

October 23.—"Benjamin Franklin."

November 15.—"Our Duties to Recent Territorial Acquisitions."

December 13.—"Munsterberg's Americans."

January 17.—"Centralization of Government."

February 21.—"The Continental Congress, its Authority and Influence."

April 15.—The Annual meeting.

April 24.—"The Amalgamation of Immigrants into American Citizens."

THE MINNESOTA SOCIETY has issued a souvenir pamphlet of the celebration of the 175th anniversary of Washington's Birthday by that Society at Peoples Church, St. Paul, including patriotic addresses by President John Day Smith, and Most Rev. John Ireland.

THE NEW JERSEY SOCIETY took a prominent part in the Orange Centennial Celebration on June 14, the principal event of the day being the unveiling in the Colonial cemetery at East Orange of a statue of "The Dispatch Rider." The State Society and the Orange Chapter of the Sons of the American Revolution, escorted by the "Old Guard" of New York, marched at the head of the civilian column in the parade, under command of Justice J. Franklin Fort. Compatriot David L. Pierson, who conceived the idea of the celebration and the statue, made an address at the unveiling, in which he said, in part:

"In the dawn of this newer patriotism, coming from the clear constellation of noble souls that have graced the pages of our American history, out of the mystic past, there has come this beautiful figure, the Dispatch Rider of the American Revolution, conceived in the great crucial days of our Revolutionary War and designed by the cunning hand of the man of Concord, Frank Edwin Elwell, the sculptor. In the strong spiritual lines of this young man who did such heroic work in carrying messages from army to army, and in sounding the alarm which called the minute men to duty and warned the women and children of the advance of mercenaries employed by the British, we see the highest type of American manhood; his manly brow, his clear-cut eye, his sharp, strong chin, and withal, the pathos depicted in his countenance, telling us that there is in our great American republic a type of citizenship that is willing to sacrifice for American principles."

Frank Edwin Elwell, the sculptor, in his address, said:

"The greatest tribute that we can pay to our ancestors is not in bronze or stone, but in emulating that stalwart and splendid honesty which was the sure foundation of this great nation, and has been its bulwark and its strength."

There were also addresses by Mrs. Donald McLean and John Temple Graves.

Under the auspices of the New Jersey Society a memorial tablet marking the site of the Monmouth Courthouse, used as a hospital in the battle of Monmouth, on June 28, 1778, was unveiled on July 4th. The bronze tablet depicts in bas-relief the original courthouse. The stone was taken from Washington's headquarters at Rocky Hill. The tablet was designed by James E. Kelly, of New York. Colonel C. J. Wright, proprietor of the New Jersey Military Academy, made the address of the day. Samuel C. Cowart, in behalf of the Monmouth Battle Monument Commission, made the presentation speech, and Halstead H. Wainright, counsel for the Board of Freeholders, accepted the marker in another historical address. Orchestral music was provided, and Vredenburg Rifles, Company G, N. G. N. J., fired a military salute. Rev. Arthur W. Remington, pastor of the Freehold Presbyterian Church, made the invocation and prayer.

The address of Col. J. R. Mullikin, Secretary of the New Jersey Society, is changed from 58 Spruce Street to 312 Belleville Avenue, Newark.

THE RHODE ISLAND SOCIETY on May 30 held patriotic exercises at Hopkins Park, Providence, assisted by 200 school children of foreign parentage, who, grouped before the statue of Admiral Esek Hopkins, renewed pledges of patriotic allegiance to the Stars and Stripes. The program opened with an address by President George F. Weston, of the Rhode Island Society, who said that this was one of the annual visits paid to such spots in order that one of the principal anniversaries of the nation might be fittingly observed. He then went on to show that the strength of a nation lay in the strength of its people, and described how in a few minutes' time one of the best armies ever raised was assembled at Lexington and Concord. A volunteer army of today would be as eager to respond to the call of patriotic duty as was ever that of the 18th century, he believed. Mr. Weston closed with a reference to Gen. Grant's famous observation that some of the nation's greatest victories were achieved in times of peace, citing the Geneva arbitration as an example.

After prayer by Chaplain Webb, a recitation on What Constitutes a State, was given by Emilio J. Rocchio, one of the school children, which was followed by an original essay on Esek Hopkins and His First Naval Victory, by Miss Retha Izora Hermann, also a public school pupil.

Miss Hermann's essay was then given in Italian by James Ricco, a pupil of the Classical high school. He interpreted clearly and concisely the language of the address for the hundreds of his countrymen gathered about the statue, making it possible for all to participate understandingly in the exercises.

Following the singing of "Memorial Day" by the school came the ceremony of formally decorating the spot with the flag, followed by the flag salute, in which a child of Italian parentage, bearing a small flag, recited in perfect English a bit of verses by George T. Packhard.

The response was by the pupils of the school. With one accord they raised the flags with which each had been equipped and, waving them enthusiastically, answered in concert:

"I pledge allegiance to my flag and to the republic for which it stands; one nation, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all."

With bared heads, all present who understood the language, then sang "The Star Spangled Banner."

Mayor P. J. McCarthy was introduced as the orator of the occasion. He began by thanking the Sons of the American Revolution for inviting him to be present and to speak at the foot of a monument to one who had been a foremost figure in the war for the achievement of independence.

"We are assembled here on Memorial Day to honor the memory and life work of men who served the country in times of war, who made patriotic sacrifices for the welfare of the nation, to the end that all our people might enjoy life, liberty, and happiness. Memorial Day was ordained as a national holiday, dedicated to the observance of patriotic ceremonies in commemoration of the services of deceased soldiers and sailors who served the country on land and sea in times of danger. The good works of men live after them, and we are assembled to sing the praises of our dead, who have earned the gratitude of past, present and all future generations of Americans. Commodore Hopkins served us during the Revolution and in recognition of that service, more than 100 years later, we are assembled at his monument to honor him.

"I am pleased to notice the school children here, led by their teachers, and instructed in the lessons suggested by the day and what it signifies—each scholar bearing a flag. An address in the Italian language has been delivered on the history of Commodore Hopkins. This suggests the thought that our citizenship represents all races, all blended together in one title, the highest civic honor man can attain, that of American citizenship, which means a citizen of a free country, whose flag represents freedom, equality, government of, for, and by the people, for which we should first thank God and then thank the soldiers and sailors who served the country from first to last.

"I wish to impress upon the school children that the American flag means much to the oppressed of all nations—equality. To fully appreciate the blessings to mankind which it signifies we must read the history of the United States and the lives of its warriors and statesmen.

"For my own part, I was born in the Emerald Isle, came here an infant, found friends, support, education, and equal opportunity. For myself and my race I thank God and the Revolutionary fathers and the noble men who gave their lives to establish this republic, and for the divine blessing this country has been to us. I am modestly proud of the part my race has taken in the struggle for American independence. In the abolition of slavery and the establishment of our United States as a nation, they did their part side by side with other races, all equally zealous for our common good. My race ever was and ever will be true to the Stars and Stripes, and I know that if ever the flag is in danger from within or without, men of my race will be found on the firing line in its defence.

"Let us, therefore, thank God for the national blessings we enjoy, and spend the day in prayerful remembrance of the good deeds of our noble and honored dead."

The OFFICIAL BULLETIN, issued from time to time as may seem expedient, records action by the General Officers, the Board of Trustees, the Executive and other National Committees, lists of members deceased and of new members, and important doings of State Societies. State Secretaries are requested to communicate to the Secretary General accounts of meetings or celebrations by their Societies. The BULLETIN is sent to the General Officers and Trustees and the National Committees, to new members whose records are printed therein, to a number of newspapers, and a moderate supply to State Secretaries for general distribution.

Arrangements are being made to furnish one issue free to State Societies that will agree to distribute it and to subscribe for the three other issues during the year, at the cost of printing extra copies. This cost will be two cents or less per copy, according to the size of the edition.

The Executive Committee deems a substantial increase of the membership of the Society its greatest present need. It is not sufficient that the annual additions of members should keep pace with the losses incident to death. As a Society chartered by Congress, an important, patriotic line of work is being entered upon, and that this may be vigorously prosecuted and extended, and that the National and State Societies may exercise the influence which they ought, the Executive Committee urges upon all State Societies and individual members the supreme importance of additions to our membership. We should have three times the number now borne on our rolls. The time is opportune for aggressive, concerted action.
