Number 4

Published at the office of the Secretary General (A. Howard Clark, Smithsonian Institution), Washington, D. C., in May, October, December, and March.

Entered as second-class matter, May 7, 1908, at the post-office at Washington, D. C., under the Act of July 16, 1894.

THE OFFICIAL BULLETIN records action by the General Officers, the Board of Trustees, the Executive and other National Committees, lists of members deceased and of new members, and important doings of State Societies. Secretaries of State Societies and of Local Chapters are requested to promptly communicate to the Secretary General accounts of all meetings or celebrations.

If we want to advance the interests of our Society, we can do it in no better way than by placing our hands to the work, whatever it may be, wherever we find a work of true patriotic character to be done; and so doing we shall make this beloved Society of ours a pride, not merely to ourselves, not merely to a few who may be interested in historical matters, but a pride to this, Our Nation.

PRESIDENT GENERAL STOCKBRIDGE, Buffalo Congress Banquet, 1908.

OFFICIAL NOTICES.

LOUISVILLE CONGRESS.—The Twenty-second Annual Congress will meet at Louisville from April 30 to May 3, 1911, as the guests of the Kentucky Society, under the direction of the following Kentucky Committee on Arrangements: R. PROPOSED AMENDMENTS TO THE CONSTITUTION.—By vote of the Toledo Congress, there is favorably recommended for action at the Louisville Congress an amendment to Article III of the Constitution providing that "No one shall be entitled to membership in any State Society who has previously been a member of any other State Society and dropped for the non-payment of dues, until the indebtedness of such individual to the first Society shall have been adjusted." (See National Year Book, 1910, p. 128, and OFFICIAL BULLETIN for May, 1910, p. 17.)

The Arkansas Society recommends an amendment to Article VII, changing the date of the Annual Congress "to some time later in the year, or during the summer months, when it would be more convenient for delegates to attend a National Congress." Formal notice of this proposed amendment has been issued to State Societies.

✓ CONGRESS OF 1912.—Invitations that may be received at the Louisville Congress for the Twenty-third Annual Congress in 1912 will, under Article VII of the Constitution, be acted upon by the next Board of Trustees, elected at Louisville.

✓ THE JOHN PAUL JONES CRYPT at Annapolis has at last been authorized and its construction provided for by the Naval Appropriation Act passed by Congress and approved by the President on March 4, 1911. President General Marble and Rear Admiral Baird, of the District of Columbia Society, have persistently called attention to this needed legislation, and the State Societies have effectually co-operated toward accomplishing the proper burial of the remains of Admiral John Paul Jones, discovered in Paris after long search at the personal expense of Gen. Horace Porter, former President General of the National Society of Sons of the American Revolution.

✓ ORGANIZATION WORK.—The Organization Committees in the North and West and in the South have accomplished much work since the issue of the OFFICIAL BULLETIN for December. On January 31, 1911, a new charter was authorized for a Society in South Dakota; on February 4 the North Dakota Society was chartered. On February 17 a charter was granted to the Philippine Society and a cable message of the fact sent to Judge Lobingier, at Manila. On February 22 the North Carolina Society was organized, and on the same date a charter was granted to the South Carolina Society. The National Society is now composed of fifty organizations, with State Societies in all but West Virginia and Georgia.

✓ COMMITTEE ON INFORMATION FOR ALIENS.—The National Society leaflets Nos. 1 and 2 are continually being distributed throughout the country, and they are accomplishing much toward the early assimilation of foreigners into the American body politic. Leaflet No. 1 explains what the United States is—its opportunities, government, and institutions—and will be sent in any quantity to any address free of charge. It is printed in English, Italian, Yiddish, Polish, Magyar, Slovenian, Slovak, Croatian, Swedish, Greek, Bohemian, German, Norwegian, Danish, and Lithuanian. No. 2 leaflet, on naturalization, is printed only in English. For information or for supply of leaflets, address the Chairman of the Committee, Commander John H. Moore, U. S. N., 1755 P Street, Washington, D. C.

PRIZE ESSAY MEDAL.

The accompanying illustration shows in full size the medal which was awarded by the National Society several years ago in gold and silver as a prize for the best essays on the principles of the Revolution, written by students of certain colleges and universities. They have been struck in bronze and are for sale to such State Societies as may desire to award them to college or high-school students, or to others, in competition, under such rules as the Societies may prescribe. On the reverse of the medal is space for the name of the successful medalist and for the name of the Society or individual making the award. Correspondence concerning the medal may be addressed to the Chairman of the Educational Committee, Col. Charles Lyman, Treasury Department, Washington, D. C.

Jesse Penney Martin, 3144 Humboldt Street, Denver. The report of the Secretary shows the Society to have been full of activity during the year, adding new members equivalent to ten per cent of the total in February, 1910. The Society publishes a monthly bulletin, entitled "The Spirit of Seventy-six," edited by the Educational Committee, which is announced to include a short biographical sketch or a literary article. The February number gives a sketch of President Wardner Williams, and begins a paper by ex-President Rev. John H. Houghton on "China: Its Awakening." Services were held on Sunday, February 19, at Grace M. E. Church, Denver, in memory of compatriots Edwin Scott, Irving H. Paine, and William N. Hover, who had died during the year, when an oration on "Washington's Message to the Twentieth Century" was delivered by Compatriot Dr. Elmer E. Higley.

The annual banquet was at the Brown Palace Hotel on the evening of February 22, Past President Williams presiding as toastmaster. Addresses were made on "The Flag," by Compatriot Rev. William A. Philips, Greeley Chapter; "Patriotism in the Revolutions of Today," by Compatriot Senator Arthur Cornforth, Colorado Springs Chapter, and on "George Washington," by Compatriot Rev. Rufus B. Peery, Ph. D., Denver Chapter. Telegrams of greeting were exchanged with Societies of Sons of the American Revolution in Arkansas, Maine, Oregon, Rhode Island, New Mexico, Michigan, Pennsylvania, District of Columbia, and Florida, assembled to commemorate the birthday of the first President of the United States.

The Denver Chapter, at its meeting on January 19, listened to papers by compatriots General John Chase and Edward Gilliam on the literature of the Colonial period and William Livingstone, the famous patriot of New Jersey in the Revolution. The Daughters of the American Revolution, aided by Secretary Kirby, of the Colorado Society, designed a Colorado State flag composed of a broad white stripe between two blue stripes, with the great seal of the State on the white stripe. The Chapter passed a resolution recommending the adoption of the flag by the legislature of Colorado.

✓ THE CONNECTICUT SOCIETY held its twenty-second annual dinner at the Hotel Garde, Hartford, on February 22. Dr. George C. F. Williams, Chairman of the General Committee and President of the Jeremiah Wadsworth Chapter, of Hartford, presided as toastmaster. Addresses were made by President Curtis, of the State Society; Hon. Edward L. Smith, Mayor of Hartford; Rev. William Douglas MacKenzie, D. D., LL. D.; Col. Norris G. Osborn, and Rev. John Calvin Goddard.

Mayor Smith said that present-day democracy was a complex thing as compared to the days of Washington. This country was a melting-pot, and it needed time and a flux to make the component parts unite. He urged the wider dissemination of patriotism among all the people. The Sons of the American Revolution could not keep to themselves their inheritance. No probate judge ever distributed the inheritance to any one. It was the property of all the people.

Dr. MacKenzie spoke on "Some Ideals of Democracy." "What is the fundamental ideal of a democracy?" was asked by Dr. MacKenzie. General Washington and his followers intended that there should be, not a king only, but no one king. All men were kings. Immigrants and Sons of the American Revolution alike must be possessed with this idea of each being a kingly private citizen and willing to assume responsibility. They must not leave every matter to legislators. They must take to themselves the right to judge and power to exercise the office of king.

Another feature of democracy was the brotherhood. Besides being a king, a citizen should be a brother and not hold any as his subjects. In the heart of any true democrat was the feeling of brotherhood. Democracy did not depend upon living on these shores. It was an idea that all true democrats should see extended.

Finally, every citizen should be a servant. Each should die, if necessary, in his profession—the soldier, pastor, lawyer, and physician. Men in all of these professions had died because of the carrying out of their service. The merchant and the politician should get the same idea of service. The sense of personal honor should be in the heart of every merchant and every servant of the people. When that spirit was inculcated among men, then democracy would be the greatest success and the success that Washington and his men would have wished. The Sons of the American Revolution should be the leaders in lifting the democracy of this country and making this country a higher land for all who come to its shores.

The General Silliman Branch of Bridgeport, Conn., held a banquet at the Stratfield Hotel on January 19, when over a hundred members and lady guests were present. Among the guests were Mrs. John T. Sterling, Vice-President General of the Daughters of the American Revolution; Mrs. John Woodhull, Regent of the local Chapter, and Judge Morris B. Beardsley, ex-President General of the National Society.

Compatriot O. H. Brothwell, President of the Chapter, was the toastmaster, and the speakers were the Rev. A. C. Thompson, of the Emmanuel Church; Rev. John De Peu, pastor of the North Congregational Church; Gen. Edwin S. Greeley, and Edward Mallory, of New Haven.

THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA SOCIETY at its meeting on December 21, 1910, listened to an address by Compatriot Lee McClung, Treasurer of the United States, on the currency system and forms of U. S. bonds and the financial methods of the Treasury.

The meeting on January 19 was ladies' night, when about 200 members and guests were present at the Arlington Hotel. Addresses were given by President General Marble, and by Mrs. Sternberg, Vice-President General of the "Daughters." After the literary and musical program there was a supper and dancing.

At the annual meeting, at noon on February 22, Hon. J. W. Collier, of Mississippi, delivered an oration on Washington. The following officers were elected:

President, Col. William B. Thompson, Munsey Building; Vice-Presidents, W. V. Cox, Wallace D. McClean, Col. Gilbert C. Kniffin; Secretary, Paul Brockett, Smithsonian Institution; Treasurer, Philip F. Lerner, 918 F Street; Registrar, Albert D. Spangler; Assistant Registrar, John E. Fenwick; Historian, Selden M. Ely; Librarian, Charles W. Stewart, Navy Department; Chaplain, Rev. Thomas S. Childs.

THE EMPIRE STATE SOCIETY held a meeting at the Hotel Astor, New York City, on the evening of February 21. There were over two hundred and fifty members and guests present, including ladies.

The program included an illustrated lecture by Mr. Norman P. Hefley, President of Hefley's Institute, Brooklyn, entitled "Siberia, Russia, and the Islands of the Arctic."

The Nominating Committee of the Society made its report, naming for re-election most of the former officers. Much interest has of late been shown by the different local Chapters in the State in the way of increasing the membership; several have made arrangements to carry on a more vigorous campaign than has been done heretofore. The President of the Society has just returned from visiting many of the Chapters and proposes to make visits on others during the coming year; he was accompanied a part of the way by President General Marble.

The annual church service was held at the Calvary Methodist Episcopal Church in New York, on Sunday evening, February 19. Rev. Charles L. Goodell, D. D., Chaplain of the Society, officiated.

On December 12, 1910, the Society, through the Newburgh Chapter, presented the Broadway Grammar School of Newburgh, N. Y., with a "McDonald's" bust of Washington. President Burroughs made the presentation speech, which was followed by the acceptance of the bust by the President of the Board of Education, Mr. Samuel E. Shipp.

On February 15 the Society presented to the Lenox Avenue Collegiate Reformed Church, Lenox Avenue and 123d Street, New York City, at 8 o'clock p. m., a portrait of Washington.

The Buffalo Chapter of the Empire State Society held a banquet at the Buffalo Club on February 8, when President General William A.

Marble, and President John H. Burroughs, of the State Society, were guests of honor of the Chapter, of which Trueman G. Avery is President. About a hundred members and guests were present. Compatriot J. Barrett Rich presided as toastmaster.

President General Marble, after the toastmaster's welcoming introduction, extended to the largest Chapter in the Empire State greetings from the National Society. Especially cordial was the greeting extended to President Avery.

In a review of the work and progress of the National Society, Mr. Marble said there are now forty-eight full-fledged State Societies, with North Carolina and South Carolina applying for charters. Mr. Marble urged action by Congress to complete the John Paul Crypt at Annapolis.

President Burroughs of the State Society delivered an address reviewing the achievements of the Chapters throughout the State, particularly extolling the work done by the Newburgh Chapter.

Prof. Horace Briggs outlined the patriotic work of the Buffalo schools over which the flag floats daily, and complimented the work of the local Chapter.

J. Barrett Rich, Jr., gave a history of the "boy scout movement," originated four years ago by Lieut. Gen. Sir Robert Baden Powell and transplanted from England, not to train soldiers, but to make men.

The other speakers were Henry R. Howland, President of the Buffalo Chapter of the Sons of the Revolution; George D. Emerson, who told of the work of the Frontier Landmarks Association with the coöperation of President Avery; the Rev. Carl D. Case, who urged his hearers to imbibe the spirit of their ancestors instead of trying to follow in their footsteps.

The Rochester Chapter met on the evening of February 7, when addresses were delivered by President General Marble and by Treasurer General Burroughs, who is also President of the Empire State Society.

Mr. Marble, in speaking of recent public references to the red flag of Socialism, spoke with a feeling which quivered in his voice, and taking up an American flag he waved it dramatically above his head:

"I have read in newspaper columns the statement that a few days ago from a public platform in this city, a learned professor made the statement that some flag, which he referred to as red in color, had a broader and deeper meaning than these Stars and Stripes," he said. "Giving to every man a right to express his own opinion, I claim the same right for myself, and say to you that if he is correctly reported, he does not know the full meaning of what Old Glory stands for today.

"Not only is that flag the emblem of liberty and peace, but it stands for that broader spirit of patriotism, that love of right, that hate of wrong, that spirit of justice to all mankind everywhere than which no flag stands as its coequal.

"Well may we quote those patriotic words in answer to any statement which calls in question the honor of our flag: 'Where'er an American is today, on land or on the sea, whether at home or far away, a priest or laymen he, let patriotism have full sway, all other thought disserve; we'll pledge this toast, that come what may, the Stars and Stripes forever.'"

The National and State officers were welcomed on behalf of the local Chapter by Charles E. Ogden, secretary to the Mayor. President Clinton Rogers presided.

President Burroughs endorsed the sentiments expressed by Mr. Marble, and said: "As members of the Sons of the American Revolution we cannot hear unmoved the substitution of any flag, be it black or red, in place of or above the floating colors of the nation's Stars and Stripes. We are more than mere compatriots of a proud heritage. We are citizens, intent upon the developing of even a better government than that which was builded for us by our forefathers, and I declare that it is not for better government to install malice or doubt into the hearts of fellow citizens by casting unnecessary reflections upon a sacred emblem."

✓ THE IDAHO SOCIETIES of "Sons" and "Daughters" united in the observance of Forefathers Day on December 21, by holding a banquet at the Owyhee Hotel, Boise, which was attended by about fifty members and guests. Col. M. W. Wood, President of the Society, presided as toastmaster. The program of the evening was as follows:

"The Citizenship of Idaho," Governor James H. Brady; "The Manners and Customs of Our Forefathers," Mrs. Charles W. Purcell, State Regent of Idaho, D. A. R.; "The Religion of Our Forefathers," Rev. W. S. Hawkes; "Our Appreciation of Our Forefathers," John H. Upton; "The Personnel of the Signers of the Mayflower Compact," Mrs. H. L. Chamberlain; "The Laws of Our Forefathers," Harry Keyser; "The Morals of Our Forefathers," Hon. J. T. Morrison; "The Privations of Our Forefathers," Will H. Gibson; "The Finances of Our Forefathers," C. A. Hastings.

At the annual business meeting on February 22, the following officers were elected: President, M. W. Wood, Lieut. Col. U. S. Army (retired), Boise; Vice-Presidents, D. W. Church, F. S. Harding, C. A. Hastings; Secretary-Treasurer, Harry Keyser, 332 Sonna Bldg., Boise; Registrar, W. H. Gibson, Boise; Historian, H. L. Chamberlain; Chaplain, W. S. Hawkes.

✓ THE ILLINOIS SOCIETY held its annual meeting in Chicago on December 3, the anniversary of the admission of Illinois into the Union. An illustrated address upon "The Illinois National Guard" was given by Capt. O. D. Steele. The following officers were elected: President, John D. Vandercook, 230 No. Park Ave., Austin Station, Chicago; First Vice-President, La Verne W. Noyes, 130 Lake Shore Drive; Second Vice-President, Chancellor L. Jenks, 1217 Ridge Ave., Evanston; Secretary, Louis A. Bowman, Room 1018, 135 Adams St., Chicago; Treasurer, Francis J. Cushing, 1016 Chamber of Commerce Building; Historian, Harlan W. Cooley, 159 La Salle St.; Registrar, Frederick L. Lothrop, 1834 Larchmont Ave.; Chaplain, John Timothy Stone, D. D., 71 East Elm St.; Sergeant-at-Arms, James Edgar Brown, 59 Clark St.

The January meeting was one of the largest the Society has held. It was at the Auditorium Hotel, Chicago, and addresses were given upon "The Education of the Immigrant in American Citizenship," by Miss Grace Abbott, Superintendent of the Immigrants' Protective League, and upon the "Responsibility and Opportunity of Chicago Citizens in Relation to Immigrants," by E. A. Halsey, ex-city comptroller of Chicago. The addresses were given wide newspaper publicity. Fourteen new members were voted in.

The Society arranged for a celebration of Washington's Birthday by a popular meeting in Association Auditorium, in which other patriotic societies joined. A new local Chapter has just been organized at River Forest, Ill.

The Oak Park Chapter held its annual banquet on February 20, with Rev. Dr. John Timothy Stone, Chaplain General of the National Society, as the guest of honor. He gave an impressive address upon the character of Washington under the caption "An Example in Statesmanship." Two interesting addresses by members of the Chapter were given as follows: "Washington's Christmas Visit to Trenton," by Col. H. R. Brinkerhoff, U. S. A., and "The Discouragements of Washington," by F. C. Caldwell, Esq. Owing to the emphasis placed upon the display of the flag on national holidays by this Chapter, more flags were in evidence in Oak Park than ever before in its history. All the committees of the State Society have taken up their year's work with enthusiasm and the outlook is in every way bright.

The Springfield Chapter of Illinois observed Lincoln's Birthday Anniversary on February 12 by holding joint services with the Daughters of the American Revolution in the Second Presbyterian Church, where an address was delivered by Col. Charles F. Wells, President of the Springfield Chapter, and by Rev. Adelbert P. Higley, Chaplain of the Chapter. All the patriotic organizations of the city were represented.

✓ THE INDIANA SOCIETY met in annual banquet at Indianapolis on February 25 to commemorate the capture of Fort Sackville, Vincennes, by Gen. George Rogers Clark. At the business meeting the following officers were elected: President, Horace C. Starr, Indianapolis; First Vice-President, James E. Somes, Terre Haute; Second Vice-President, J. E. Vaile, Kokomo; Third Vice-President, Austin F. Denny, Indianapolis; Secretary, Bennett B. Bobbitt, Indianapolis; Treasurer, Stanley Curtis Brooks, Indianapolis; Registrar, Garvin M. Brown, Indianapolis; Chaplain, The Rev. Christopher S. Sargent, Indianapolis.

Addresses were delivered by President General Marble, responding to the toast, "The War of the Revolution"; Col. Henry A. Greene, U. S. Army, on "The Wars to Come"; Charles W. Moores, on "Lincoln"; Merrill Moores, on "Patriotic Societies," and President Horace C. Starr, who outlined the policy of the Indiana Society during the ensuing year.

✓ THE IOWA SOCIETY commemorated Washington's Birthday by holding meetings of two of its Chapters. The Woodbury Chapter of Sioux City held a joint banquet on the evening of February 21 with Daughters of the American Revolution. Capt. Elbridge D. Hadley, State Secretary, delivered an historical address on Ticonderoga, and Miss Harriet Lake, State Regent, spoke of "The Daughters and Their Work."

About 150 members of the Ben Franklin Chapter of the "Sons" and the Abigail Adams and Beacon Hill Chapters of the "Daughters" held a joint banquet at Des Moines on the evening of February 22. Mr. Elmer Marston Wentworth, Vice-President of the Iowa Society, and a member of the National Executive Committee, presided as toastmaster. Among the speakers were: Edwin S. Earhart on "The Necessity of Organization." He said:

"I dare say that one hundred voters could be found in Des Moines who do not know who George Washington was. It is our duty to make good citizens of these voters. There are a million foreigners brought into the United States each year. The need of our Society is plainly apparent. These immigrants are a menace to our Government. They are ignorant; they seek the cities and not the broad prairies. The first thing they do is to learn to vote, but they are not in sympathy with our institutions."

"Let us unite the spirit of 1776 with 1911" was the plea by Mrs. Bessie L. H. Miner, acting Regent of the Abigail Adams Chapter, in her toast on "Lest We Forget." "We pursue the work of educating the men and women of tomorrow in patriotism 'lest we forget.'"

Mrs. Eva Paull van Slyke, Regent of the Beacon Hill Chapter, responded to the toast, "Our Country's Welfare is Our First Concern, and who Promotes that best Performs His Duty."

THE KENTUCKY SOCIETY has elected Mr. Robinson A. McDowell, Kenyon building, Louisville, Ky., as its Secretary in place of Mr. Boardman, removed to Tennessee. The Society is active in preparation for the Congress and promises all who come "a hearty welcome." The Society is arranging to suitably mark the graves of Revolutionary soldiers and patriots buried in Kentucky.

THE LOUISIANA SOCIETY at its annual business meeting at New Orleans on December 10, 1910, re-elected Edward Rightor as President, elected John Day, H. N. Pharr, and Thomas Sloo as Vice-Presidents, and re-elected all the other officers for the ensuing year.

The annual reunion and banquet of the Society was held on Washington's Birthday. About twenty-five members and guests were present. Speeches were made commemorative of the occasion. In the absence of Rear Admiral Henry Lajarte, commander of the French fleet at New Orleans for the Carnival, Dr. L. G. Le Beuf delivered an address in French, expressing the sentiments of Admiral Lajarte on the occasion. President Edward Rightor was toastmaster. After speaking a few words welcoming the members and guests to the banquet he introduced Edwin T. Merrick, who responded to the toast, "The Day We Celebrate." Col. Lansing S. Beach, Corps of Engineers, U. S. A., responded to the toast, "The Army," and paid a glowing eulogy to the men in the service. Major Samuel A. Kephart, U. S. A., another invited guest, responded to the toast, "The President of the United States." He called upon the banqueters to drink a rising toast to the President, and this was heartily responded to. He called attention to the necessity of making the home guards in each State strong and inviting, so that membership in the militia, upon which depended the great strength of the Nation in times of war, might be such as to make the militia inviting to the better classes. H. W. Robertson, William Fayssoux, A. Brian, L. Legarde, and Sam A. Kephart, of Jackson Barracks, a member of the Pennsylvania Society, also made speeches commemorative of the occasion, calling upon the members for closer acquaintance and affiliation. Secretary Dimitry urged every member to wear the insignia of the Society and to do their share to increase the roster.

✓ THE MAINE SOCIETY held its twentieth annual business meeting and banquet at Riverton on February 22. It was one of the largest meetings in the history of the Society. The principal address was by Prof. Henry S. Nash, D. D., of Cambridge, Mass., on "The Birth of the New Democracy." He said that he was a hardened optimist, and he saw the dawning of a new day. Some of the signs of this great change for the better are the steps taken for the redemption of boys, the playground movement, and the splendid reforms in city government, which began in Galveston after the flood disaster there. The retiring President of the Society, Hon. Melvin P. Frank, told of the work being done by the Sons of the American Revolution, particularly in the marking of the graves of soldiers and sailors of that War.

The following officers were elected: President, Dr. Seth C. Gordon, Portland; Senior Vice-President, Capt. Silas B. Adams, Waterville; Secretary, Rev. Joseph Battel Shepherd, Portland; Registrar, Albert R. Stubbs, Portland; Treasurer, Convers E. Leach, Portland; Librarian, Nathan Goold, Portland; Historian, Hon. A. F. Moulton, Portland; Chaplain, Rev. William G. Mann, Westbrook.

✓ THE MARYLAND SOCIETY held a meeting at the Hotel Belvedere, Baltimore, on the evening of February 22, at which time eighty-four members of the Society were present. The meeting was followed by a buffet luncheon. The principal address was by Mr. W. O. Atwood, City Surveyor of Baltimore. He took for his subject the moral character of General Washington, and the effect he had upon the early civil life of this country. Col. W. F. Vernon spoke on the military character and genius of General Washington. A. S. Goldsborough, Secretary to the Mayor of Baltimore, dwelt on the character of George Washington as an example of good citizenship. The speakers were all members of the Maryland Society, and their addresses were received with the greatest interest. Historian Bibbins announced that the monument recently erected by the Society at Old Wye to the memory of William Paca, Signer of the Declaration of Independence and first Governor of Maryland, was ready to be unveiled, and that he had arranged to charter a steamer to go to Old Wye on May 13, 1911, if the weather was fine. In the event that the weather proved unpropitious, the journey would be made on May 20.

✓ THE MASSACHUSETTS SOCIETY observed Washington's Birthday by dedicating a tablet to the memory of General Henry Knox, Volunteer at Bunker Hill, Colonel of Artillery, 1775, Brigadier General, 1776, Major General, 1781, Commander-in-Chief of the Army, 1783. He brought across the country on sleds for use at the Siege of Boston, 1776, the artillery captured at Ticonderoga. The tablet was erected on the Hotel Essex, opposite the South Station, Boston, near the site of the birthplace of General Knox. President Nathan Warren, of the Massachusetts Society, placed the tablet in the custody of the owner of the property and it was accepted as a patriotic trust. Gen. Philip Reade, U. S. A., delivered an address on the life of General Knox.

About 200 members of the Society assembled at 11 o'clock at the Hotel Vendome for a patriotic meeting. Addresses were made by President Warren on "Washington, who Advocated with Honor," and by General Reade on "Massachusetts Officers with Washington at Valley Forge." General Reade, as chairman of the State Commission to supervise the erection and dedication of the monument at Valley Forge in memory of Massachusetts soldiers, announced that the work would be completed about June 19. Dr. George B. Stevens read a paper on the unavailing and disastrous "Penobscot Expedition" of the Americans against the English forces near Castine, Me.

Old Suffolk Chapter of Chelsea held its 116th meeting on December 20, 1910, when Secretary Walter Kendall Watkins read a paper on "Prison Lane through Queen Street to Court Street." The annual "Smoke Talk" was held at Boston City Club on January 28, 1911.

THE MICHIGAN SOCIETY held its historical meeting at Detroit on January 27, when Mr. T. Glenn Phillips presented a paper on "Civic Beautification," in which he discussed what it meant, its purposes and results, and told of work accomplished in Germany and other countries. The birthday of George Washington was observed by the annual banquet of the Society in the Hotel Pontchartrain. For the first time in the history of the Society women were present at the annual banquet.

Compatriot Charles Moore was toastmaster. William Allen Marble, President General of the National Society, was first introduced. His subject was "The Evolution of the Flag."

Augustus E. Willson, Governor of Kentucky, spoke on "The South, Active Partner in Our Glorious Recollections and in Our Patriotic Hopes." Governor Willson said:

"For a long time I have been laboring in Kentucky with a great deal of patience for an Irishman, not a little prayer, to make my neighbors feel a broader toleration and less prejudice. I want them to feel that what concerns the South concerns the country, as you men of the North feel; that the racial problem of the South is your problem.

"Why I do not know, but I have always held up Michigan as a standard of that tolerance. I have said, 'When you vote one year for free silver and the next year for a gold standard, do you know what a Michigan man thinks? He thinks you don't think."

"The trouble with us of Kentucky, if there is any trouble, is that we are too American, too obstinately, hard-headedly, persistently American. Now, I think there is no people on the earth equal to Americans, but perhaps Kentucky would be better for a continental mixture. As it is, only one in 40 of our State is of foreign birth.

"Now, we want to be neighbors with you. There has not been a Southerner even on the tag end of a presidential ticket in many years. We are not looking for office, but we are seeking what is the right of every man—recognition of his own kind.

"If I did not know to what city I had bought a ticket I might easily believe that this was a gathering of Kentuckians, and I am paying you the highest compliment which lies in my power in saying so.

"We want to be friends and neighbors, and if you meet us half-way you will find us more than ready to come the other half.

"Let me close with the toast of Kentucky: 'Not the first, nor the last; not the largest nor the least; not the richest nor the poorest, but the best place for men and women, for flocks and herds, for fields and skies, this side of heaven that the good Lord ever made.'"

The next speaker was Joseph Farrand Tuttle, Jr., founder and first president of the Colorado State Society, S. A. R. His subject was "The American Idea."

THE MINNESOTA SOCIETY, at its annual meeting on January 11, elected the following officers: President, Edward P. Sanborn, St. Paul; Vice-Presidents, Saxe G. L. Roberts of Pine City, Ambrose D. Countryman of Appleton, Stillman H. Bingham of Duluth, and Gen. Lewis A. Grant of Minneapolis; Secretary, Charles H. Bronson, 48 East Fourth St., St. Paul; Treasurer, Edward S. Stringer, 471 Ashland Ave., St. Paul; Registrar, Charles Stees, 165 East Seventh St., St. Paul; Historian, Henry A. Castle, St. Paul; Chaplain, Rev. M. D. Edwards, D. D., St. Paul.

THE MONTANA SOCIETY held its seventeenth annual business meeting and banquet at the Lambs' Club, Helena, February 22. The officers elected were:

President, Henry C. Arnold; Vice-President, A. K. Prescott; Secretary, Leslie Sulgrove; Treasurer, C. J. Brackett; Registrar, Cornelius Hedges; Chaplain, Orin T. Walker; Librarian, W. R. Burroughs.

At the conclusion of the business meeting the compatriots adjourned to the banquet-room. Compatriot Arnold presided as toastmaster. President Morley, of the Lambs' Club, gave all the compatriots a hearty welcome, and commented upon the high aims and patriotic motives which animated the founders of the Republic and their descendants and representatives who met here at this time.

Compatriot Howey deplored the seeming lack of enthusiasm for the flag and the absence in the school books of references to the deeds of our ancestors and the general failure to cultivate the loyalty to the flag which constitutes its main defense.

Compatriot Crane said that while he didn't believe people were getting too pessimistic, he did think that if there was one thing that should be forever kept alive it was the desire for the old-time celebration of the national holiday, and he hoped that this struggle to eliminate everything that made the Fourth of July attractive to the small boy, who was the coming man, was out of line in developing the correct spirit, and for his part he was in favor decidedly of what possibly might be determined an "insane" Fourth.

Compatriot Shoemaker spoke of the various good works the Society had accomplished, referring particularly to the presence of the National Flag on all public school grounds, and also the protection of the Flag from advertising.

✓ THE NEW JERSEY SOCIETY held its annual business meeting in Newark, on January 3, 1911, when the following officers were elected: President, Edward Sanford Atwater, Elizabeth; First Vice-President, George Rowland Howe, Newark; Second Vice-President, Thomas Wright Williams, East Orange; Secretary, John Randel Weeks, 192 Market Street, Newark; Treasurer, Oscar Halstead Condit, East Orange; Registrar, John Jackson Hubbell, Newark; Historian, Prof. W. C. Armstrong, New Brunswick; Chaplain, Rev. John Hobart Egbert, Irvington.

The Secretary's report showed an enrollment of 92 new members during the year, and a total membership of 575. The Society made an appropriation of $600 toward a monument in memory of Rev. Alexander McWhorter, Patriot Preacher at Newark during the Revolution.

President Atwater reviewed the work of the New Jersey Society during the year, particularly the growth in membership. He urged that suitable monuments be erected at the graves of two of the Signers of the Declaration in New Jersey, Richard Stockton and Francis Hopkinson, the graves of other New Jersey Signers being already marked.

President General Marble addressed the Society, calling attention to the need of present active patriotic work:

"While we cherish as a sacred memory the deeds of our Revolutionary ancestors, remembering that ancestry and what they accomplished, let us not forget that we are living in the present, and that what we do and not what they did is the thing that counts, so far as we are concerned. Remembering this, let us live up to our opportunities, fully realizing that new occasions bring new duties, and that we have problems to solve equal, if not greater, than those our fathers solved. This is an age of commercialism such as the world has never before seen. But what are we, the Sons of the American Revolution, doing? Are we known as a factor in the body politic to be standing for the right at all times and under all conditions, and for that spirit of broader patriotism which stands for the moral and social uplift of mankind and finally for universal peace?"

The annual banquet of the New Jersey Society was held at Newark, on February 25, when patriotic addresses were delivered by Rev. B. Canfield Jones, D. D., of Paterson, and others. One hundred and fifty members and guests were present. President Atwater presided, and in his opening address reviewed the work and present condition of the Sons of the American Revolution. "The National Society was started," said Judge Atwater, "by the New Jersey compatriots, twenty-two years ago. If a heroic ancestry alone was the cause for the existence, it would not be a very powerful reason. The Society has done much for inculcating patriotic lessons, and it has enthusiasm to do even greater work."

Rev. Dr. Canfield Jones' address was on "Washington and Lincoln as Guides for Today." "Lincoln, coming from poverty to be the apostle of liberty, was perhaps the greatest figure in American history. * * * Washington, unlike Napoleon, Charlemagne and Bonaparte, was a great general because he was as great in peace as he was in war. The others were for conquest; they reveled in bloodshed, but Washington fought for a principle for humanity; they were consumed with the lust of conquest, the promptings of their ambitious spirits, regardless of the suffering, ruin, and untold misery that followed, while Washington, when through the war at Yorktown, sheathed his sword and returned to his home, satisfied that liberty had been secured for the people."

Rev. Dr. William Force Whitaker, of Elizabeth, took for his subject "Washington's Worth." In concluding his address he called attention to the treatment of the vast number of immigrants who are crowding into this land of freedom. In their ignorance these immigrants are a source of danger to us. Demagogues lead them to demand their rights, but fail to remind them that they also have duties. The remedy lies in education, and the speaker made an earnest plea to support the public schools, and to employ additional educational means to enlighten these immigrants. He made a personal appeal to the Sons of the American Revolution, saying that it was their especial duty and privilege to further this educational campaign.

The Orange Chapter of New Jersey met on February 2 and listened to addresses by Rev. Dr. William M. Lawrence on "The Life and Work of John Paul Jones"; Rev. Dr. George Lawrence Spining, on the general theme of patriotism, and words of greeting by President Atwater, of the State Society. Announcement was made that a movement would be started soon for placing a memorial at the Old Burying Ground, in Orange, to the memory of the Revolutionary parson of Orange, the Rev. Jedidiah Chapman, who was the pastor of the old Meeting House Society.

The Montclair Chapter of New Jersey held its first annual meeting on January 10 at the Montclair Club Hall. George C. Sterling, President of the Chapter, presided. Rev. Dr. Hugh Black, of Upper Montclair, delivered an address in which he advocated by the Sons of the American Revolution a propaganda that would remove the impression among the alien population of this country that citizenship consists of nothing more than the legal right to vote. "Citizenship," said Dr. Black, "means turning our rights into duties." Rev. Harry Emerson Fosdick, Chaplain of the Chapter, referred to practical work now being undertaken by the Society by holding meetings at a local school, at which lectures will be given with the object of educating our foreign population in the duties of citizenship and character of American institutions. These lectures will be illustrated, and at least half of them will be given in the Italian language.

President Sterling spoke of the object of the organization and what it stands for. He said the membership had increased from 103 a year ago to 160 at the present time.

The following officers were elected: President, George Curtis Sterling; First Vice-President, Washington Irving Lincoln Adams; Second Vice-President, John Brewer Wight; Secretary, Arthur Howard Churchill; Treasurer, Julius Baker Crowell; Historian, Thomas Irving Crowell; Chaplain, Harry Emerson Fosdick.

✓ THE NEW MEXICO SOCIETY held its annual meeting at the Alvarado Hotel, Albuquerque, February 22. The meeting was preceded by a luncheon and was attended by twenty-six members and eligibles. The principal business transacted was the election of officers for the ensuing year and a discussion of means for increasing the membership of the Society and its activities.

In view of the patriotic and non-partisan interest of the Society in the long fight of New Mexico for its position among the States, a telegram was framed, approved, and forwarded to the Chairman of the House Committee on Territories, giving it as the opinion of the Society that the Constitution of the new State was fairly approved by the people at the recent election.

The officers elected were as follows: President, George S. Klock, of Albuquerque; Vice-Presidents, Pitt Ross, Harold H. Hurd, and Dr. T. P. Martin; Secretary, Allen S. Peck, of Albuquerque; Registrar, Hon. Frank W. Clancy, of Albuquerque; Treasurer, Orville A. Matson, of Albuquerque; Historian, R. W. D. Bryan; Chaplain, C. C. Bateman, U. S. Army, Fort Bayard.

In taking the chair President Klock made an earnest speech, dwelling on the opportunities now open in New Mexico, the coming State, to such a patriotic society. "This is not a dress parade nor partisan organization," said Mr. Klock. "It is a power for the promotion of good citizenship and patriotism, and I want the hearty and steady support of every member in the work that lies before this organization."

On the evening of February 22 the Society attended in a body a ball given for the benefit of the recently organized Boy Scouts of Albuquerque, and occupied places on the stage while a flag was presented to the boys, Dr. Elder making the presentation speech. Portions of Washington's Farewell Address were then read by another compatriot, Raymond Stamm.

✓ THE NORTH CAROLINA SOCIETY organized at Washington, N. C., in the afternoon of February 22, 1911. There were present Dr. J. C. Rodman, L. D. Bonner, R. T. Bonner, F. H. von Eberstein, Lyndon Y. Shaw, Frank C. Kugler, W. B. Harding, Dr. John G. Blount, Jr., John A. Weddell, Sr., E. W. Myers, R. L. M. Bonner, B. T. Bonner, Dr. H. M. Bonner, and Stephen C. Bragaw. Mr. Bragaw was made temporary Chairman and Mr. Shaw temporary Secretary. Mr. Bragaw explained the purposes of the meeting and the objects of the Society. A constitution and by-laws were read and adopted and the following officers were elected: President, Hon. Stephen C. Bragaw, Washington; Vice-President, Mr. John A. Weddell, Tarboro; Secretary-Registrar, Mr. R. T. Bonner, Aurora; Treasurer, Dr. John C. Rodman, Washington; Historian, Mr. E. W. Myers, Greensboro; Chaplain, Dr. H. M. Bonner, New Bern.

The Board of Management consists of the officers ex officio and the following compatriots: Mr. F. H. von Eberstein, Chocowinity; Mr. F. C. Kugler, Washington; Dr. J. G. Blount, Washington; Mr. B. T. Bonner, Aurora; Mr. L. D. Bonner, Bonnerton. Nominated for Trustee, R. L. M. Bonner. Delegates to Louisville Congress: Hon. S. C. Bragaw and F. C. Kugler.

The Society starts with thirty members, brought together through energetic work by Commander John H. Moore, U. S. N., chairman of the Organization Committee, South, and Mr. R. T. Bonner, of Aurora, N. C.

THE NORTH DAKOTA SOCIETY was organized at the Gardner Hotel, Fargo, North Dakota, on Saturday evening, February 4, under the personal direction of Dr. Clarkson N. Guyer, chairman of Committee on Organization in North and West, Mr. Frank M. Keezer, Secretary of the committee, and Mr. Joseph F. Tuttle, Jr., all of Denver, Colo.

The following officers were elected: President, Hon. Burleigh F. Spalding, Judge of the Supreme Court of North Dakota (address, Bismarck or Fargo); First Vice-President, Charles M. Cooley, of Grand Forks; Second Vice-President, J. L. Bell, of Bismarck; Secretary and Registrar, H. C. Fish, of Bismarck; Treasurer, Gen. A. P. Peake, of Valley City; Chaplain, R. A. Beard, D.D., of Fargo. After the business meeting was concluded the new Society members and the visitors enjoyed a banquet, which was given in the hotel. There were several addresses made by the organizing officers as well as by nearly all the local members and a pleasant evening was spent.

Sunday evening at the First Congregational Church Mr. Tuttle delivered a lecture on John Paul Jones, the first American Admiral. Sunday morning in the First Presbyterian Church, at the opening of Sunday School, Doctor Guyer gave a talk on Sunday School work and patriotism.

THE NATHAN HALE CHAPTER of the Ohio Society held a banquet on February 22 at Youngstown. President Joseph G. Butler, Jr., presided as toastmaster and spoke on "The Ancestral Home of Washington." The other speakers were Hon. James M. Richardson on "France-America, the Historic Tie;" Hon. Myron A. Morris, and Capt. S. C. Rook on "Reminiscences of the Mexican War."

THE OREGON SOCIETY held its annual business meeting and banquet at the University Club, Portland, on February 22. Mr. D. W. Wakefield was chosen Vice-President; the other officers were re-elected. President Wallace McCamant paid a tribute to the memory of George Washington, but he did not excuse Washington's faults. He said Washington had more than character; he had statesmanship. Except for this, said Mr. McCamant, "the Father of His Country" would not have been able to cope with the situation at Valley Forge or with the other difficult situations during and after the Revolutionary War.

Washington foresaw, he said, the effect of sectionalism and warned his countrymen against it.

In introducing John F. Carroll, of The Evening Telegram, William D. Wheelwright, the toastmaster, said he was sorry that Mr. McCamant did not say anything about the newspapers of Washington's time, as they had assailed the reputation of all great men from Washington's time to the present. "Belles and Beaux of Washington's Time" was F. W. Whitfield's subject. The members assembled drank to the health of C. W. Bryant, who said he had conversed with at least eight soldiers who fought in the Revolution. His grandfather served three years under Washington, he said.

The Oregon Society adopted a well-deserved tribute to the memory of Compatriot George H. Williams, who died April 10, 1910, aged 87 years and 11 days. Judge Williams joined the Oregon Society in 1893 and was its President from 1899 to 1905. His career as a jurist and statesman was a notable one. In 1853 he was appointed Chief Justice of Oregon Territory. From 1866 to 1872 he was a member of the United States Senate and was Attorney General in President Grant's Cabinet.

"His membership in the Sons of the American Revolution was an inspiration to us all. The compatriots who heard his address on 'Washington as a Moral Force' at our annual banquet in 1894 will never forget his eloquence and earnestness. From that time on he has been our old man eloquent and our guide, philosopher, and friend.

"He has been called the grand old man of Oregon. He was grand in his simplicity. He was the most natural and least self-assertive of men. He was religious without being puritanical. He was intellectual and scholarly without vanity and pedantry.

"On his 87th birthday the leading men of his State and city gave a great banquet in his honor. The after-dinner speeches were worthy of the occasion. His own speech, and his last, was a most remarkable effort for a man of his years. No words can describe its effectiveness. His closing words seemed to be delivered with prophetic inspiration.

"He said: 'Old age is not necessarily an unhappy period of life. Much, of course, depends upon the circumstances. Ill health and infirmity may come, but old age will come with good cheer to the man who can review his past life with pride and satisfaction, and say to himself: I have fought a good fight; I have finished my course; I have kept the faith, and when the summons comes for my departure I am prepared to go not like the quarry slave, scourged to his dungeon, but like one who wraps the drapery of his couch about him and lies down to pleasant dreams. The going out of such a life is like the going down of the sun into the mellow haze of an autumnal evening.' And so in ten days he wrapped the draperies of his couch about him and lay down to pleasant dreams, but when he awoke it was to the realities of another life. Lost to us, he went to meet his fellow-citizens on high."

THE RHODE ISLAND SOCIETY met in annual business session at noon on February 22 in the rooms of the Rhode Island Historical Society, Providence. President Frederic W. Easton presided. Charles Dean Kimball, former Governor of Rhode Island, was elected President of the Society for the ensuing year and Mr. Joseph Balch Vice-President. The other officers were re-elected.

The annual banquet was held at Talma Theater during the evening. Among the guests were the Varnum Continentals of East Greenwich, in blue and white uniforms as worn by the Rhode Island Line in the Revolution. The order of exercises was as follows: Invocation, Rev. Samuel Heber Webb, Chaplain; toast, "To the Memory of the Patriots of the American Revolution;" introductory address, Hon. Frederic Willard Easton, President of the Society; toast, "The State of Rhode Island," Hon. Zenas W. Bliss, Lieutenant Governor; toast, "The City of Providence," Hon. Henry Fletcher, Mayor; historical address, "The Perfidy of Lee," Col. Robert Perkins Brown, Historian of the Society; address, Rev. William H. P. Faunce, President of Brown University; poem, John Prescott Farnsworth, Esq., Poet of the Society; address, Hon. Le Baron Bradford Colt, Judge of the United States Circuit Court; address, John R. Rathom, Esq., Providence Journal; address, "Our Own Dear Land," Prof. Wilfred Harold Munro. President Easton in his introductory address said the prime object of patriotic societies like the Sons of the American Revolution should be the elevation of the ideals of the members, and he declared that it was right to expect from the members a higher standard of life.

The necessity for public awakening to personal interest in political affairs was urged by Lieutenant Governor Bliss, and President Faunce of Brown spoke of the need that confronts the people of America for something that shall summon all the power of the individual to the accomplishment of his purpose, as was the case in the time of the Revolution and which actuated the soldiers of the American Army, bringing the struggle to a successful result. In this President Faunce pointed out the road to the conquest of nature, or the conquest of social evils, as calling forth the utmost powers. He also spoke of heroism, and defined a hero as one who does some task from which he shrinks in every fiber of his being, yet who goes ahead and does the task set before him conscientiously.

The battlefield of the future was declared by Mayor Fletcher to be The Hague Tribunal, and the Mayor said further that today patriotism and the principles of peace stood higher on the plane of civilization than ever before in the history of the world. Judge Colt declared that the Constitution of the United States held the 46 States of the Union and their people together today as compactly as in the day of its adoption, 122 years ago, and he further declared that the equilibrium of the Government had not been destroyed. He called attention to the fact that there had been but 15 amendments to the Constitution, 10 being practically a part of the original Constitution.

The historical address was by Col. Robert P. Brown upon "The Perfidy of Lee." John P. Farnsworth, the poet of the Society, read the annual poem, and the other speakers were John R. Rathom and Prof. Wilfred H. Munro of Brown, the latter explaining how he came to write the new patriotic song, "Our Own Dear Land," which was sung at the dinner.

In the afternoon of Washington's Birthday a patriotic meeting was held at Brown University, which was attended by the Sons of the American Revolution. Addresses were made by Governor Pothier, President Faunce, and Rev. Mr. Sanderson.

The Kent County Chapter had the first public celebration of Rhode Island Independence Day, in East Greenwich, R. I., at the town hall on the evening of May 4, 1910, under the auspices of the Chapter. Gen. Nathanael Greene Chapter, D. A. R., "Kentish Guards," Reno Post, G. A. R., and the Varnum Continentals attended as guests of the Chapter. Citizens generally manifested much interest in the celebration and attended in numbers that taxed the capacity of the hall. Stirring historical addresses were delivered by Compatriot Hon. Charles Warren Lippitt and Rev. Dr. Daniel Goodwin.
