The President General urges the universal display of the American Flag on June 14, 1915, in observance of the 138th anniversary of the adoption of the "Stars and Stripes" by the Continental Congress in 1777.

OFFICIAL NOTICES.

Twenty-sixth Annual Congress.—The opening session of the Congress was held at Portland, Oregon, on the third Monday of May (May 17), as required by the constitution. There were present: Lieut. Col. M. W. Wood, U. S. A., Vice-President General, who presided; Mr. Wallace McCamant, President of the Oregon Society and Trustee of the National Society, and Mr. D. W. Wakefield, Col. H. C. Cabell, Maj. V. M. C. Silva, and Rev. H. L. Bates, delegates of the Oregon.

Society. Mr. McCamant was duly elected Secretary pro tem. On motion by Mr. McCamant, seconded by Mr. Wakefield, it was voted to adjourn until 10 a. m., July 19, 1915, to meet in the Masonic Building at Portland, Oregon. The regular business sessions of the Congress will accordingly be held at Portland on Monday and Tuesday, July 19 and 20, and on the 21st there will be a trip on the Columbia River. On Friday and Saturday, July 23 and 24, the members of the Congress will be the guests of the California Society in San Francisco.

The Oregon Society is anxious that there shall be a large attendance at the Congress; all members of the Society, whether accredited delegates or not, are cordially invited to be present and to bring their ladies with them.

On Sunday night, July 18, a patriotic service will be held in one of the Portland churches.

The business sessions will open on Monday morning, July 19. Governor Withycombe will deliver an address of welcome to the visiting compatriots. A luncheon will be given at noon and the day will be devoted to business.

An advisory committee of ladies will arrange entertainment, including a luncheon, for visiting ladies on the 19th.

On the evening of the 19th there will be a reception to the officers of the National Society and a garden party at Rockholm, the country place of Dr. and Mrs. A. E. Rockey, at Rivera.

Business sessions will be concluded Tuesday morning, July 20, and in the early afternoon there will be a trolley trip to Council Crest. The annual banquet will be given on Tuesday night at the Hotel Portland.

A trip up the Columbia River has been arranged for Wednesday morning, July 21. It is expected that the trip up will be made by auto over the Columbia River highway and the return will be by river steamer. This will be the last feature of entertainment so far arranged.

Headquarters will be at Hotel Portland and the business sessions of the Congress will be at the Masonic Building, two short blocks distant. Other hotels in the order of their desirability are: The Benson, Multnomah, Imperial, Oregon, Seward, and Cornelius.

The Arlington, University, and Multnomah clubs have arranged to issue cards to all delegates while in the city, and the last two will entertain women visitors as well. An Advisory Committee to provide for the comfort of visiting women, named by the Society, is: Mrs. H. C. Cabell, Mrs. A. E. Rockey, Mrs. W. D. Wheelright, Mrs. William C. Alvord, and Mrs. Wallace McCamant.

The California Society is planning to meet members of the Congress on their arrival at San Francisco, on Friday morning, July 23, and to spend the day in viewing the Exposition. In the evening there will be a banquet. The plans for Saturday have not been fully arranged, but will probably include patriotic exercises at the Exposition and other functions.

Acting on the recommendation of the Executive Committee, that delegates en route to Portland accept courtesies extended by the Utah and Washington State Societies by spending one day at Salt Lake City and one day at Seattle, the Committee on Arrangements announces approximately the following official schedule:

The Passenger Associations have granted exceptionally low roundtrip rates during this season, with a very wide choice of routes going and returning, and including the San Francisco and San Diego expositions. The Empire State Society is arranging for a special 30-day tour, the details of which may be learned from Mr. T. D. Huntting, 220 Broadway, New York City. Some other private parties of members and friends are also being made up for the trip.

The National Committee on Arrangements for the Congress is as follows: Elmer M. Wentworth, chairman, Des Moines, Iowa; Wallace McCamant, vice-chairman, 926 Northwestern Bank Building, Portland, Oregon; Gen. Thomas M. Anderson, U. S. A. (retired), Portland, Oregon, and Col. Origen S. Storrs, Denver, Colorado.

Vice-Chairman McCamant, in behalf of the Oregon and Washington Societies, urges that delegates to the Portland Congress take advantage of their presence on the Pacific coast to see the interesting country in the neighborhood of Portland, where the Congress is to meet. SIGNERS OF THE DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE.

The Memorial Committee, composed of one member from each of the original thirteen colonies, Prof. William C. Armstrong of New Jersey, chairman, will report to the Portland Congress on the progress made during the year toward accurately locating the graves of the fifty-six Signers of the Declaration of Independence and upon a plan for publishing a memorial volume "to include a biography of each Signer, with details as to his place of burial, to be as fully illustrated as practicable." At a meeting of the National Executive Committee, on November 20, a resolution was adopted favoring the publication of such a memorial volume under the joint auspices of the Society of Descendants of the Signers and the Society of the Sons of the American Revolution. A joint committee of three members of each Society was appointed and has made considerable progress in the preparation of the manuscript and illustrations. The committee solicits correspondence with those who may know of original sources of information bearing on the lives of the Signers, and particularly concerning the burial place of Carter Braxton or of Francis Lightfoot Lee. Letters may be addressed to the Secretary General or to the chairman of the committee, Prof. William C. Armstrong, 345 Rahway avenue, Elizabeth, N. J.

In Continental Congress on June 7, 1776, Richard Henry Lee of Virginia introduced the following resolution:

Resolved, That these United Colonies are, and of right ought to be, free and independent States; that they are absolved from all allegiance to the British Crown, and that all political connection between them and the State of Great Britain is, and ought to be, totally dissolved.

That it is expedient forthwith to take the most effectual measures for forming foreign Alliances.

That a plan of confederation be prepared and transmitted to the respective Colonies for their approbation.

On June 10 it was voted to postpone consideration of the first resolution for three weeks, with a proviso that a committee be appointed "to prepare a declaration to the effect of the said first resolution."

On June II Jefferson, Adams, Franklin, Sherman, and R. R. Livingston were appointed to prepare the Declaration to serve as a preamble to the independence resolution.

On June 28 the Jefferson Committee submitted a draft of the Declaration, which was laid on the table for later consideration.

On July 1 Congress voted to resolve itself into a Committee of the Whole to consider "the resolution respecting independency," and to refer the Declaration to said committee. The resolution as agreed to by the Committee of the Whole was reported to the Congress, and "the determination thereof was postponed, at the request of a colony, till tomorrow."

On July 2 the resolution was adopted by the Congress. The Declaration was on that day considered in Committee of the Whole, and was again taken up on July 3.

On July 4 the Declaration, which included the first paragraph of the resolution, was agreed to by the Committee of the Whole, reported to the Congress, and adopted. The Congress at once Ordered, That the declaration be authenticated and printed.

That the committee appointed to prepare the declaration superintend and correct the press.

That copies of the declaration be sent to the several assemblies, conventions and committees, or councils of safety, and to the several commanding officers of the continental troops; that it be proclaimed in each of the United States, and at the head of the army.

In accordance with the above order, the Declaration was issued as a printed broadside on July 5 with the heading: "In Congress, July 4, 1776. A Declaration by the Representatives of the United States of America in General Congress assembled." It bore the name in print of John Hancock, President, and was attested by Secretary Charles Thomson. It was proclaimed at public meetings in Philadelphia and Trenton on July 8 and on subsequent dates throughout the colonies.

On July 19 the Congress

Resolved, That the Declaration passed on the 4th * * * be fairly engrossed on parchment, with the title and stile of "The Unanimous Declaration of the thirteen United States of America," and that the same, when engrossed, be signed by every member of Congress.

It could not have been headed "Unanimous" on July 4, for the New York delegates had not then been authorized to agree to it, and it was not until July 15 that it was announced in the Continental Congress that the Assembly of New York had approved the Declaration, and thus made it unanimous.

On August 2 "the Declaration of Independence, being engrossed and compared at the table, was signed by the members." Those who were not present on August 2 affixed their signatures at later dates; all but one had signed before January 18, 1777.

It has been ascertained that of the fifty-six Signers more than one-fourth were not present on July 4, and seven of them—Thornton, Williams, Rush, Clymer, Smith, Taylor, and Ross—were not members on that date. On the other hand, seven members of that date—George Clinton, John Alsop, R. R. Livingston, Henry Wisner, Thomas Willing, Charles Humphreys, and John Rogers—had not the privilege of becoming "Signers," for the membership of all but one had ceased prior to August 2.

The original parchment, now very much faded, is carefully preserved in an air-tight, light-proof case in the library of the State Department at Washington, a facsimile serving for public exhibition.

The first official issue of the Declaration bearing the names of the Signers was printed as a broadside in Baltimore under resolution of January 18, 1777, ordering that copies be sent to each of the United States, with the request "to have the same put upon record." The illustration of this broadside, shown in the present BULLETIN, is reproduced from one of the four copies now known to exist. It is authenticated by John Hancock as President and attested by Secretary Thomson. It is interesting to note that the name of Thomas McKean does not appear thereon. The date of his signing is uncertain, some authorities placing it as late as 1781.

There are at present about seventy-five members of the Sons of the American Revolution who are descendants of thirty-one of the Signers. There are also descendants of two of the seven members of the Continental Congress who voted for the Declaration on July 4, but who had not the privilege of signing the engrossed copy on August 2 or thereafter.

The National Society has facsimile copies of the Declaration as engrossed and signed, which may be secured at 50 cents each through the Secretary General. The size of the text of these copies is 18 by 22 inches, on sheets 22 by 28 inches, a slight reduction from the original text, which is 24 by 30 inches (see illustration herein). Photogravure copies of Trumbull's painting of the "Declaration of Independence" (showing portraits of forty-four of the fifty-six Signers), size of photogravure itself 17½ by 27½ inches, may be obtained from the engravers, A. W. Elson & Co., 146 Oliver street, Boston, who also will furnish facsimiles of the text, framed or unframed. At the Louisville Congress Compatriot E. M. Wentworth said: "We believe that the best way to inspire a patriotic spirit in the youth of our land is to place in our school-houses reproductions of such historic documents and pictures,"

NATURALIZATION OF ALIENS.

The Committee on Education of Aliens has continued the promotion of the plans outlined in the March Official, Bulletin for the education of aliens in their preparation for citizenship and in making the occasion of their final naturalization an impressive and dignified function. The committee co-operated with the Bureau of Naturalization of the Department of Labor by supplying 1,000 copies of the National Society leaflet No. 3, "The Constitution of the United States," for use in connection with the meeting in Philadelphia on May 10 under the auspices of the municipal government. At this meeting an audience of 16,000 persons was assembled, including 4,000 recently naturalized citizens, who were addressed by the President of the United States, the Secretary of Labor, Judge Joseph Buffington, Mayor Blankenburg, and others on the importance of the duties assumed through naturalization. In the course of his address the President said:

I certainly would not be one even to suggest that a man cease to love the home of his birth and the nation of his origin. These things are very sacred and ought not to be put out of our hearts; but it is one thing to love the place where you were born and it is another thing to dedicate yourself to the place to which you go.

You cannot dedicate yourselves to America unless you become in every respect and with every purpose of your will thorough Americans. You cannot become thorough Americans if you think of yourselves in groups. America does not consist of groups. A man who thinks of himself as belonging to a particular national group in America has not yet become an American. And the man who goes among you to trade upon your nationality is no worthy son to live under the Stars and

For my urgent advice to you would be not only always to think first of America, but always also to think first of humanity. And you do not love humanity if you seek to divide humanity into jealous camps. Humanity can be welded together only by love, by sympathy, by justice, and not by jealousy and hatred.

ADDITIONS TO MEMBERSHIP.

From March 1 to May 15, 1915, the Registrar General enrolled a total of 289 new members in 37 State Societies, as follows: Arizona, 1; Arkansas, 2; California, 10; Colorado, 2; Connecticut, 14; District of Columbia, 7; Florida, 1; Hawaii, 3; Illinois, 23; Indiana, 2; Iowa, 14; Kansas, 2; Kentucky, 3; Louisiana, 2; Maine, 2; Massachusetts, 30; Michigan, 13; Missouri, 4; Montana, 1; Nebraska, 3; New Hampshire, 2; New Jersey, 55; New Mexico, 1; New York (Empire State), 26; North Carolina, 1; North Dakota, 2; Ohio, 9; Oregon, 4; Pennsylvania, 9; Philippines, 1; Rhode Island, 5; South Dakota, 7; Tennessee, 1; Texas, 1; Utah, 2; Vermont, 4; Washington, 18.

CO-OPERATION IN NATIONAL MOVEMENTS.

The National Society is called upon to participate in many national movements, but in most cases it is impracticable or inexpedient to do so without prior action by the Executive Committee or Annual Congress. Upon the invitation of the chairman of the General Committee of the World Court Congress held at Cleveland, Ohio, May 12 to 14, 1915, to consider the establishment of an International Court of Justice for the settlement of international disputes, President General Thruston designated Compatriots William Howard Taft of the Connecticut Society and Edwin Warfield of the Maryland Society as delegates to represent the National Society of the Sons of the American Revolution.

The American Academy of Political and Social Sciences met at Philadelphia April 30 and May I to discuss "The distinctive American problems that have arisen because of the European conflict," on which occasion Compatriots Moses Veale, George E. Mapes, and Vice-President General Herman W. Fernberger of the Philadelphia Chapter were designated by the President General to represent the National Society of the Sons of the American Revolution.

DOINGS OF STATE SOCIETIES.

The Arkansas Society celebrated Washington's Birthday by holding a banquet at the Hotel Marion, in Little Rock, at which the officers of the three Chapters of the Daughters of the American Revolution in Little Rock were guests of the Society. There was a full attendance of the members and of the Daughters and friends. The following toasts were responded to: "The Cities of the American Revolution," Hon. Charles E. Taylor, Mayor of Little Rock; "The Character of Washington," by Gen. Jonathan Kellogg; "The Daughters of the American Revolution," by Mrs. S. S. Wassell, State Regent of the Daughters of the American Revolution; "Our French Allies," by Gen. B. W. Green; "The Minute Man of '76," by Rev. John Van Lear, and "Arkansas and the American Revolution," by Mr. Fay Hempstead, Toastmaster and Secretary of the Society. A feature of the banquet was the receipt from President General Thruston of a hatchet of Colonial pattern made from the wood of a wild cherry tree cut from the estate at Wakefield, the birthplace of Washington. Mr. George Russ Brown, National Trustee for the Society, represented President Thruston in the presentation, the gift being received by Mr. Frank W. Rawles, President of the Society.

At a business meeting held earlier in the day seven new members were elected and other applications are being prepared.

The California Society held its annual meeting at the Clift Hotel, San Francisco, on April 19 and elected the following officers: President, Charles H. Blinn, U. S. Customs-house; Senior Vice-President, Rawlins Cadwallader, M. D.; Junior Vice-President, Ernest J. Mott, LL. B.; Secretary-Registrar, Thomas A. Perkins, M. A., Mills Building; Treasurer, Col. J. C. Currier, 333 Kearney street; Historian, Edmund D. Shortlidge—all of San Francisco.

The Society has headquarters in the Southern Pacific Building, near the Fillmore-street entrance, at the Panama-Pacific Exposition, where all visiting members of the National Society are requested to call and register. The Daughters of the American Revolution have headquarters in the Grand Canyon Building, where all visiting members of the Sons and Daughters will be welcomed.

The California Society is the oldest of the various State Societies making up the Sons of the American Revolution, and had its foundation through Dr. James Lafayette Cogswell, born in Wellington, Conn., November 23, 1830, who went to California in 1849, arriving in San Francisco September 15 of that year. He has been a resident of California ever since then and now lives at Los Gatos. He invited Peter W. Randle, Richard R. Randle, Ira C. Root, Emory L. Willard, and a few others to meet at his office, 230 Kearney street, San Francisco, on the evening of October 22, 1875, to organize a Society of Sons of Revolutionary Sires. A temporary organization, called "The National Society of Sons of Revolutionary Sires," was organized on that date, with Dr. James Lafayette Cogswell, President, and Peter W. Randle, Vice-President. All of those who attended the first meeting are dead except Dr. Cogswell. The name originally chosen for the Society was later changed to that of Society of Sons of the American Revolution.

Through the earnest work of Secretary Perkins and associates, the California Society has increased to a present active membership of 414, and has brought together a large reference library pertaining to the period of the Revolutionary War, besides aiding actively in the development of the department of historical works in the San Francisco public library.

The Colorado Society has approved the purpose of resolutions adopted by the Colorado Springs Chapter, urging all patriotic societies, civic bodies, and individuals to unite in an effort to bring about peace between the warring nations of Europe.

THE DENVER CHAPTER, at its March meeting, listened to an address on General Grant by Gen. John Chase, and on April 20 an address on "Gen. Robert E. Lee" was given by Compatriot W. W. Kirby.

The Colorado Springs Chapter, at its annual meeting, on April 19, elected as President O. E. Collins; Vice-Presidents, E. B. Beeson and J. F. Humphrey; Secretary-Registrar, Dr. Francis B. Rothrock; Treasurer, J. H. Gowdy; Chaplain, W. W. Arnold; Historian, C. W. Sells.

The Connecticut Society Board of Managers met in the Yale Room of the Hotel Taft, New Haven, on March 20, and elected a number of new members, including Prof. William Howard Taft and his brother, Horace Dutton Taft of Watertown, whose ancestor, Sergeant Aaron Taft of Uxbridge, Mass., served in Captain Chapin's Company of Massachusetts Minute Men in 1775.

It was reported that $609 had been received in contributions, most of them for Belgian relief. At a former meeting of the board it was voted to omit the annual Washington's Birthday banquet and to use the money which the members would have paid for tickets for charitable purposes either designated by the giver or for relief in Belgium.

Judge Earnest C. Simpson of New Haven reported on the matter of the prizes offered in the schools in the State for the best essay on Revolutionary subjects. Over 40 bronze medals and money prizes have been given in 50 grammar schools and 17 silver silver medals and prizes in high schools. A gold medal will be awarded to the best essay from among these 57, and this essay will be read at the annual meeting in June.

Seven new grave markers were ordered placed to mark the graves of Revolutionary soldiers in Middle Haddam.

The Delaware Society held its annual meeting and dinner at the Wilmington Club on Saturday evening, April 17, when the following officers were elected: President, Col. George A. Elliott, Equitable Bldg., Wilmington; Vice-Presidents, Thomas F. Bayard, Wilmington, James H. Hughes, Dover, Edwin C. Marshall, Lewes; Secretary-Treasurer, Harry J. Guthrie, 612 Harrison street, Wilmington; Registrar-Historian, Dr. George W. Marshall, Milford; Chaplain, Rev. William Henry Laird, Wilmington. The reports of the various officers and committees showed commendable activity during the year. The Society was honored with a visit from President General Thruston, who was enthusiastically received by the members. At the conclusion of the business session the members retired to the spacious dining-room of the club, where they entertained the President General, R. C. Ballard Thruston, and the Governor of Delaware, Hon. Charles R. Miller. Colonel Elliott presided at the dinner.

The principal speakers of the evening were President General Thruston, who spoke concerning the work of the National Society; Governor Miller, who delighted the members by his ready wit and words of wisdom, and by Prof. Christian Sanderson, who occupies the old Washington headquarters at Chadd's Ford, Pa., and who entertained with many historical anecdotes. Mr. Frank H. Mason, a local vocalist, rendered several musical numbers.

The District of Columbia Society, at its meeting on March 24, strongly indorsed the proposal of the Commissioner of Pensions to publish in volume form for their historical and genealogical value the 78,284 admitted claims for pension by reason of service in the Revolutionary war.

The Commissioner has called the matter of publication of the records to the attention of the Secretary of the Interior, recommending that permission be granted for the printing of 1,000 sets of two volumes each, to be sold at $2 per volume. All the data could be embraced in two such volumes.

The resolutions which follow were introduced by Henry P. Holden:

Whereas the Commissioner of Pensions has written to the honorable Secretary of the Interior, notifying him that there are on file in the Pension Bureau 78,284 admitted claims pensioned by reason of service in the War of the Revolution, stating that said files contain valuable historical and genealogical data, and that they are constantly consulted for such purpose by those whose ancestors rendered service in the Revolution, and others, and asking permission to cause the same to be published, estimating that the most important data could be contained in two volumes of 1,000 pages each, and published at a cost of $2 per volume, and asking the Secretary for permission to publish 1,000 sets of two volumes which might be disposed of at cost; therefore be it Resolved by the District of Columbia Society of the Sons of the American Revolution, That we most heartily indorse the project, and we request of the honorable Secretary of the Interior that he give his consent to such publication, and that we extend the thanks of the Society to the Secretary, and also to the Commissioner of Pensions.

Be it further resolved, That the delegates of this Society at the coming National Congress be instructed to offer and urge a resolution of similar import with a view to its adoption.

Rear Admiral C. M. Chester, U. S. N., retired, President of the Society, read a carefully prepared address on the importance of increasing the war forces of the United States. He cited incidents in the history of this country when military force was the only power that averted war. He considered that "disarmament propaganda is not only dangerous for the future, but for the present, in that it has a pernicious effect on the manhood of the country. It is destroying the spirit of Spartan motherhood that made the women of the nation send their sons out to do or to die for their country."

The twenty-fifth anniversary of the organization of the Society was observed on the evening of April 21, when the principal guest of the occasion was President General R. C. Ballard Thruston, who was visiting Washington also to address the Daughters of the American Revolution at the opening of their Continental Congress.

Mr. Thruston addressed the District Society on the origin and history of the American flag, calling particular attention to the various flags or standards carried by the army and the navy since the period of the Revolution. The "Stars and Stripes" was adopted June 14, 1777, and the navy commenced immediately to use it; but as the British army and navy had each used distinctive flags for many years, it was thought that Americans should do likewise. The "Stars and Stripes" was no doubt used by the land forces as a garrison flag over forts and encampments; but, except in isolated cases, it was not carried by the army.

During the Revolution the army carried flags of personal designs made by the ladies where the regiments or companies were organized and represented their individual sentiments. After the war each regiment had its standard colors, bearing the number of the regiment; but, according to the War Department regulations, no branch of the army was given the right to carry the "Stars and Stripes" until 1834, and it was many years later before all branches of the army carried the American flag as their standard.

President General Thruston described in detail the variations in the arrangement of the stars from time to time down to October 29, 1912, when President Taft issued an executive order defining minutely the proportions and other details of our flag. Considerable confusion in fixing the age of early flags has arisen from the custom in the navy of placing on their small boat flags only 13 stars instead of the full complement.

The Empire State Society, on April 20, elected the following officers: President, Louis Annin Ames, 99 Fulton street, New York City; First Vice-President, Norman P. Heffley, 243 Ryerson street, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Second Vice-President, Martin S. Allen, 81 North Moore street, New York City; Third Vice-President, Frank St. J. Sidway, Buffalo, N. Y.; Secretary, Jesse H. Clute, 220 Broadway, New York City; Treasurer, James De La Montanye, 220 Broadway, New York City; Registrar, Teunis D. Huntting, 220 Broadway, New York City; Historian, Josiah C. Pumpelly, A. M., LL. B., 255 West 108th street, New York City; Chaplain, Rev. Frank O. Hall, D. D., 4 West 76th street, New York City.

Washington's Birthday was duly celebrated in Paris, France, the Empire State Society being represented by Compatriot Hon. Hanson C. Coxe, who placed a handsome wreath of flowers on the statue of Washington in the Place d'Iéna. Owing to police regulations, no speeches were permitted in the open street. Across the wreath was the Society ribbon, in blue, buff, and white, with the inscription: "Presented by the Empire State Society of the Sons of the American Revolution."

The Newburgh Chapter held its twelfth annual meeting on April 26 and elected the following officers: President, Samuel L. Stewart; Vice-Presidents, Dr. W. M. Stanbrough and Charles F. Burnett; Secretary, A. E. Layman; Treasurer, F. E. Forsyth; Registrar, Rev. Albert S. Stewart; Historian, James W. Barnes; Chaplain, Rev. M. Seymour Purdy.

The June meeting of the Empire State Society will be held at Newburgh, following the custom of holding the spring meeting in various parts of the State as guests of Local Chapters.

The Florida Society.—President General Thruston met with a number of members of the Florida Society at the San Carlos Hotel, Pensacola, on the evening of March 17, when he addressed them on the patriotic work of the National Society, calling particular attention to the efforts being made to secure the construction of an archives building in Washington for the preservation of the priceless historical records now scattered through many government buildings and out-of-the-way places, where they are inaccessible and in danger of destruction. Mr. Alexander Clement Blount of Pensacola has been elected as Secretary, and an effort is being made to arouse greater interest in the Society throughout the State.

The Hawaiian Society has issued a Bulletin of Progress, setting forth the activities and purposes of the organization. Delegates have been appointed to attend the Portland Congress. A contribution has been made to the "The La Fayette Box" fund in accordance with an appeal from the Massachusetts Society. Co-operation is had with the Daughters of the American Revolution in promoting patriotic work in the Hawaiian Islands.

The Illinois Society held its quarterly meeting at the Auditorium Hotel, Chicago, on March 26, when an address was delivered by Compatriot Hon. Hugh S. Magill, Jr., Superintendent of Schools of Springfield, Ill., on "Does Illinois Need a New Constitution? If so, Why?"

The 140th anniversary of the Battle of Lexington was observed on April 19 by a reception and dinner at the Auditorium Hotel, with lady guests. The celebration was under the direction of the Patriotic Advancement Committee, Mr. James Edgar Brown, chairman. President Chancellor L. Jenks presided as toastmaster. The program included: Invocation by Dr. John Timothy Stone, Chaplain; address by Edmund J. James, President University of Illinois; address on "Our Debt to the American Revolution," by Rev. Preston Bradley; address on "The Human Race—Can it be Civilized or Will it Remain Savage?" by Judge Frank P. Sadler.

Resolutions having been adopted by the Illinois Society suggesting the observance of the semi-centennial anniversary of the death of President Abraham Lincoln, the Governor of Illinois issued a proclamation calling upon citizens of the State to pay tribute to the memory of that great American on April 15. Public attention was called to this fitting observance, resulting in the issuance of an executive order by the President of the United States closing all offices of the government throughout the country on that day and the display of the flag at half mast on all Federal buildings, forts, and vessels of the navy as a mark of respect to Abraham Lincoln.

The Springfield Chapter, in co-operation with other patriotic organizations, held Lincoln memorial exercises, which included the reading of Governor Dunne's proclamation by Compatriot Hon. Hugh S. Magill, Jr., and an address by Col. Charles F. Mills, President of the Chapter.

The Chapter arranged a special program of exercises attending the decoration, on Saturday, May 29, of the graves of twenty-five soldiers of the Revolution buried in Sangamon County. The program at each locality includes a statement of the objects of the Sons of the American Revolution, reading of the record of the soldier whose grave is decorated, patriotic song by school children, and placing of the flag and flowers on the grave.

The Iowa Society, at its annual meeting on March 16, elected the following officers: President, Hon. Frederick W. Craig, Des Moines; First Vice-President, William E. Holmes, Sioux City; Second Vice-President, Dr. Edward Dorr, Des Moines; Treasurer, William E. Barrett, Des Moines; Secretary, Elbridge D. Hadley, Des Moines; Registrar, William G. Hamlin, Des Moines; Historian, Rev. J. Edward Kirbye, Des Moines; Chaplain, Rev. A. M. Haggard, Des Moines.

The Kentucky Society observed the 140th anniversary of the Battle of Lexington with a meeting and banquet at the Tavern Club, Louisville. A letter was read from President General R. C. Ballard Thruston, in which he urged the Louisville organization to do all in its power to solicit Federal judges to make the naturalization ceremonies, in which foreigners are admitted to American citizenship, more impressive and to lay special emphasis on the responsibilities of an American citizen, its advantages, what it means, and what is expected of a good citizen and voter. Mr. Thruston also urges that judges be induced to give much of their time in assisting to improve, promote, and uplift the condition of the new American and at all times to show a willingness to co-operate in the betterment work.

Following the reading of the letter, President Hundley said that he desired to impress upon those present that Americans must arouse themselves in the treatment and education of the hordes of immigrants entering this country each year. President Hundley appointed a committee of five to carry out the suggestions made by Mr. Thruston. The committee appointed is composed of Col. John C. Strother, chairman; Overton Harris, George Burton, Marshall Bullitt, and George L. Danforth.

A discussion of the immigration problem was participated in by Prof. R. P. Halleck and Congressman Swager Sherley. Miss Ingram spoke on "Making Americans Out of Foreigners," and Mrs. Tucker told of her experiences at Ellis Island among the immigrants and the work that is being done in Louisville to educate them.

The Louisiana Society held its annual banquet at the Grunewald Hotel, New Orleans, on the evening of April 13, the anniversary of Jefferson's birthday. President Neal M. Leach presided as toastmaster.

The Maryland Society celebrated Washington's Birthday by a general meeting at the Hotel Belvedere, Baltimore, on the evening of February 22. It was the best meeting in point of attendance and one of the most interesting that the Society has ever held. There were 136 members and guests present and good-fellowship was never more strongly displayed. Gen. Lawrason Riggs, the President of the Society, presided, and after one or two items of business had been transacted Compatriot Layton F. Smith read a paper entitled "Extracts from the Autobiographical Sketch of the Life of Gen. John Burroughs of Lycoming County, Pa." The paper largely concerned the personal side of General Washington, as General Burroughs was connected with the entourage of General Washington during the war.

The Hon. John C. Rose, judge of the United States Court for the District of Maryland, then delivered an address on "Some By-products of the Revolution." The extensive historical knowledge of Judge Rose, combined with exhaustive study, brought out vividly some features of the Revolutionary War which are little thought of, but which have had tremendous results. He showed the effect of some of the by-products of the Revolution upon England's course in the present war.

It was announced by General Riggs that the Society was preparing to erect a memorial over the grave of Gen. Mordecai Gist, one of the most noted Marylanders in the Revolutionary War. This grave is located in the cemetery of St. Michael's Protestant Episcopal Church in Charleston, S. C., and the design of the memorial consists of a flat slab of grayish-pink granite 6 feet in length by 3 feet in width and I foot in height, upon which is laid a wreath of oak leaves bearing the insignia of the Sons of the American Revolution, with the name of General Gist and proper inscription cut into the stone below the wreath. It is expected that the memorial will be completed and ready for unveiling some time in the early fall of this year.

The annual meeting of the Maryland Society was held at the Hotel Belvedere on April 19. The President, Gen. Lawrason Riggs, presided and more than 100 members were present. Full reports were rendered by the various officers, showing the work of the Society during the past year. An address was delivered by Dr. John H. Latane of the Johns Hopkins University on "America's Interest in the European War." As Dr. Latane is an expert upon international law, he gave a most searching insight into the shifting changes of the rules for neutrality during the present war.

The following officers were elected: President, Lawrason Riggs; First Vice-President, T. Murray Maynadier; Second Vice-President, James H. Preston; Third Vice-President, George P. Neilson; Secretary, J. Frank Supplee, Jr.; Treasurer, Ira H. Houghton; Registrar, Edward F. Arthurs; Historian, James E. Hancock; Chaplain, Henry Branch. Hon. Henry Stockbridge was nominated for Trustee of the National Society.

The Massachusetts Society held its twenty-sixth annual business meeting at the Old South Meeting-house, Boston, on April 19. As the meeting was called to order by President Luther Atwood, the colors of the State and the Society were brought to the front of the auditorium, preceded by Capt. Harry L. Bagley of the Fusiliers, after which Rev. Lewis Wilder Hicks of Wellesley offered prayer.

In his annual address President Atwood said that the Society was in a prosperous and harmonious condition and there had been a marked gain in membership during the year. He reviewed some of his official acts during the year, including the observance of the 139th anniversary of General Washington's journey to take command of the army, which took place last July. Mr. Atwood said that he was often asked for what his Society stood, and he said that it taught men for one thing to have deeper veneration for the institutions which make the people of this country what they are today. "If there ever was a time for the expression of true statesmanship, that crisis is now," declared the President, "and in the readjustment let this Society be found in the front rank."

The report of the Secretary-Registrar, Herbert Wood Kimball, showed a present active membership of 1,638, of whom 71 are life members and 4 are actual sons of soldiers of the Revolution. Two of the life members are great-great-grandsons of General Lafayette. Treasurer Green reported the receipts of the year, $3,712; expenditures, $3,595, and the assets, including the permanent fund, $8,740.

Brig. Gen. Philip Reade, U. S. A., retired, of Lowell, the Historian of the organization, made a few remarks eulogistic of the deceased members and sounded taps and reveille. President Atwood then called upon Frank E. Woodward to read the resolutions drawn on the death of Mr. Guild, which were in part as follows:

The Massachusetts Society, Sons of the American Revolution, is called upon today to mourn the loss of one of its most distinguished members, the Hon. Curtis Guild. It is most fitting on this our anniversary we should call to mind and place upon our records the more important services he has rendered to this Society.

He was a man of rare gifts and used them freely in the service of his country. He distinguished himself in many fields of public service, but in none of them did he give more generously of his time and talents, nor in any were his sympathies more fully enlisted, than in the principles and ideals for which our Society stands. He was a wellrounded man, with great breadth of vision and wide sympathies and blest with a great capacity for work and service.

His last act of statesmanship was his participation in the important movement to enlighten our people concerning the necessity for better preparation for the national defense, a subject, had he lived, on which he was to speak to us today. Curtis Guild died in Boston April 6, 1915. He was admitted to membership January 1, 1897, by right of descent from General Cobb of Attleboro and also from Ezra Hodges of Taunton

The election of officers resulted as follows: President, Frank Ernest Woodward, Wellesley Hills; Vice-Presidents, Vernon Ashley Field, Wollaston; Charles French Read, Brookline, and Webster Bruce, Lynn; Secretary-Registrar, Herbert Wood Kimball, Waban; Treasurer, Dr. Charles Montraville Green, Boston; Historian, Brig. Gen. Philip Reade, U. S. A. (retired), Lowell; Chaplain, Rev. Lewis Wilder Hicks, Wellesley; managers for three years, Henry Fuller Punderson, Springfield; Alfred Foster Powers, Worcester; John West Churchill, Plymouth; George Prescott Tilton, Newburyport, and Everett Chamberlain Benton, Belmont.

At the conclusion of the business meeting the members, escorted by a detachment of the Fusiliers, under command of Captain Bagley, marched to the American House for the annual dinner. The guests were former Congressman Hon. Samuel W. McCall and Rev. Lee S. McCollester, D. D., of Tufts College, who took the place of Hon. Curtis Guild, who had accepted an invitation some time before his death. Mr. McCall, in the course of his address on Washington, said:

Frederick the Great sent a sword to George Washington which bore the inscription: "From the oldest general in the world to the greatest." Frederick could well say that. There has never been a greater general, on the whole, perhaps, than Washington.

He did even greater work, however, in bringing order out of chaos when he gathered the thirteen colonies into one union and nation. He presided at the convention at Philadelphia, and was not only the presiding officer but the presiding genius.

Even after the Constitution was adopted Washington did great work. There had never been such an institution in the world before. It was fortunate he had at his right hand a man who had been on his staff in the army. That man was the most transcendent political genius that ever lived—Alexander Hamilton. He was Washington's Secretary of the Treasury.

Those who enjoy perfumed spices do not appreciate the burning suns under which they grew, and so it is sometimes the tendency to forget the struggles which brought about the beginnings of this country. Your Society is doing a good work in keeping alive the early history of this nation.

Dr. Lee S. McCollester, dean of the Tufts College Theological School, paid a high tribute to ex-Governor Guild as "a man of high ideals and warm sympathies, who won the hearts of all men." He described how Patrick Henry, in Virginia, was leading a company of patriots in Williamsburg, Va., to the capture of British stores at the same time Paul Revere and others here were battling with British troops in the neighborhood of Boston, April 19 and 20, 1775. "The life of Patrick Henry should become thoroughly familiar to all American school children," Dr. McCollester said, "for he was not only a great lawyer and statesman but a great patriot. On more than one occasion Patrick Henry said: 'I am not a Virginian, but I am an American.'"

OLD ESSEX CHAPTER of Lynn, the largest Local Chapter in the United States, held its twentieth annual meeting at Associates Camp, in Swampscot. Among those present were the President of the Chapter, Horace Hale Atherton, Jr.; President Charles Jeptha Hill Woodbury of the Lynn Historical Society; Luther Atwood, Secretary of the Chapter and President of the State Society, and Dr. James Barnes of New Orleans, La., the principal speaker at the evening's exercises.

Secretary Atwood's report gave a résumé of the year's work and showed the Chapter to be in a flourishing condition, as did the statement of the Treasurer, Webster Bruce. The Historian, Dr. Charles Howard Bangs, read the necrology of the year.

The following officers were elected. President, Arthur Wellington Pinkham; Vice-Presidents, Henry Fuller Tapley, Dr. Charles Jeptha Hill Woodbury; Secretary, Luther Atwood; Treasurer, Webster Bruce; Historian, Dr. Charles Howard Bangs; Chaplain, Rev. Frederic William Perkins, D. D.

Dr. Barnes, a native Bohemian, was then introduced and he entertained his hearers with a wonderful story of his country, now in the throes of the great European conflict. His narrative was much appreciated. Other speakers were President Atherton and Brigadier General Philip Reade, United States Army, retired, an honorary member of Old Essex Chapter.

THE OLD MIDDLESEX CHAPTER of Lowell held its annual banquet in April. The Chapter President, George W. Putnam, presided and records were read by Ralph H. Shaw.

Dr. Clarence B. Livingston made a report of the work done by the Committee on Alien Residents, showing what has been accomplished to aid and instruct those from foreign lands who desire to become American citizens, notably the School for Citizenship which recently was opened in Lowell, and in which the committee from the Chapter is co-operating with the Y. M. C. A. and others.

The principal address of the evening was by Rev. L. L. Green of Chelmsford, who spoke on "Patriotism." He talked chiefly of American patriotism, because he believed it typified all other patriotism. Rev. Panos Ginieres, pastor of the Greek Protestant Mission in Lowell, spoke on "Greece at the Time of the American Revolution," and added some personal experiences during the Balkan war. He believed that it was the American Revolution that first waked the Greeks to rise against the oppressor. Dr. Moses Greeley Parker spoke briefly on the meeting of the State Society in Boston on Patriots' Day. The Chapter has adopted a petition to be presented to the Portland Congress of the National Society advocating the establishment by the government of a national holiday on April 19, to be known as "Patriots' Day."

The Boston Chapter held its annual meeting at Young's Hotel on the evening of May 15. "The Career of John Paul Jones" was the subject of discussion. The retiring President, Dr. Waldo Elias Boardman, presided. The Vice-President, Edwin B. Gallagher, read the paper of the evening regarding the naval hero. The following officers were elected: President, Edwin Blakeley Gallagher; Vice-President, Capt. Charles Brooks Appleton; Secretary, Charles Clement Littlefield; Treasurer, John Winn; Historian, Marshall Putnam Thompson.

The Michigan Society held its annual banquet at the Detroit Club on April 16. President Albert M. Henry, a member of the National Executive Committee, presided as toastmaster. The invocation was by Rev. Joseph A. Vance, D. D., Chaplain. Greetings were received from the Detroit Chapter, President Frederick B. Smith; Kent Chapter, President William Judson; Washtenaw Chapter, President Warren W. Florer; Isabella Chapter, President Walter F. Newberry, and Kalamazoo Chapter, President Edward C. Parsons. Toasts were responded to on "Our Country," by Compatriot Senator William Alden Smith; "Sons of Your Fathers," by Senator Charles Elroy Townsend, and "Our Flag Afloat," by Compatriot Congressman George Alvin Loud.

THE DETROIT CHAPTER held its regular monthly meeting at the residence of its Vice-President, Judge Harry A. Lockwood, on Friday evening, March 19. The principal speaker was Compatriot Ira M. Jayne, Superintendent of the newly appointed Municipal Recreation Commission, who discussed the topic "Recreation, and its Proper Supervision, as a Necessary Factor in the Making of Good Citizens." Frederick B. Smith presided.

Secretary Raymond Van Syckle told of House Bill No. 326, which has been introduced at the present session of the Michigan Legislature, providing for the purchase of two copies, in bronze—one for the State Capitol at Lansing and the other for the University of Michigan—of the historic statue of George Washington, now standing in the rotunda of the State Capitol at Richmond, Va. This statue is an exact facsimile of the person of Washington, having been made from actual casts and measurements taken at Mt. Vernon by the sculptor Houdon.

Following the principal address a general discussion ensued, participated in by Albert M. Henry, Richard H. Fyfe, Charles L. Clark, Dr. Charles B. Leonard, George W. Bates.

Edward C. Parsons of Kalamazoo presented the greetings of the members of the Society in that city and reported the early organization of a Chapter there.

New Jersey Society .- The Board of Management met at the headquarters of the Society, 756 Broad street, Newark, on March 31, and discussed various patriotic activities for the current year, including the erection of a memorial to Dr. McWhorter and several tablets on historic sites in Morris County. The Presidents of the several Chapters. as members of the Board, reported on lines of work in contemplation throughout the State. The seven Chapters so far organized have proved of great advantage and others are in course of formation. Ten members of the State Society, in any locality, may form a Chapter and adopt a constitution and by-laws for the government thereof, consistent with the constitution and by-laws of the State Society. Each Chapter may fix the amount of its annual dues, which dues are entirely separate from the dues of the State Society. Bills for annual dues of both the State Society and the Chapter are rendered annually by the Chapter Treasurer, who remits to the State Treasurer the State dues thus collected. Members of the State Society who are not members of a Chapter receive bills direct from the State Treasurer.

The New Jersey Commandery of the Washington Guard of the Sons of the American Revolution is being perfected under the direction of Compatriot John Lenord Merrill. Any member of the New Jersey Society may become an Honorary Member of the Washington Guard by application to the Secretary of the Commandery. Such Honorary Membership is divided into the following classes: Sustaining Membership, $5 per annum; Contributing Membership, $2 per annum; Fellowship fee, $1 per annum. The Commandery is supported wholly by voluntary contributions, and it is hoped that many members will enroll and thus encourage what promises to be one of the most important, if not the most important, works of the Society.

Any son or grandson of a member, or a former member, of the Sons of the American Revolution, under the age of 21, or any boy under that age who is a son or grandson of a Daughter of the American Revolution or a Daughter of the Revolution, or who is otherwise eligible by right of descent, may become a member of the Guard by application to the Secretary of the Commandery.

Membership is divided into three classes: Senior Guardsmen, 15 to 21 years; Guardsmen, 10 to 14 years; Junior Guardsmen, 9 years and under. The higher positions in the Commandery and the Chapters will be held by Senior Guardsmen. Only Senior Guardsmen and Guardsmen will be entitled to vote. Junior Guardsmen, however, will be fully enrolled members.

Seven Senior Guardsmen and Guardsmen may organize a Chapter under the supervision and control of the Council of the State Commandery and subject to the regulations fixed by that body.

The Chapter officers will be an Honorary Commandant (a member of the New Jersey Society of the Sons of the American Revolution, to be elected by the Chapter), Commandant, Captain, First Lieutenant (to act as Secretary), Second Lieutenant (to act as Treasurer), and an Ensign (to be in charge of the Colors). Insignia and certificates of membership are being prepared, as also a ritual for the use of the Commandery and Chapters. It is planned that the State Commandery will participate in many of the activities of the State Society and the Chapters in many of the activities of the Chapters of the State Society of the Sons of the American Revolution. In addition to the above, each Chapter will be at liberty to plan its own meetings and celebrations.

THE ORANGE CHAPTER held a patriotic service at East Orange on Sunday, April 18, commemorating the fights at Lexington and Concord, when Historian General David L. Pierson, President of the Chapter, gave an address of welcome, and a sermon was preached by Chaplain General Rev. Dr. William Force Whitaker.

The North Carolina Society offers a gold medal to students of colleges and high schools in the State for the best essay on Fort Dobbs, erected in 1755. The essays must not exceed 3,000 words. The officers of the Society are continued for another year.

The North Dakota Society held its fourth annual business meeting and banquet at Grand Forks, May 13, 1915. Plans were discussed for a greater membership and practical work among our new citizens as they come to North Dakota. Judge Charles A. Pollock presided at the banquet. Benjamin Franklin was the subject of the evening. Dean George F. Wells spoke on "Franklin the Philosopher and Scientist"; "Franklin in Literature," Prof. Vernon P. Squires; "Franklin the Diplomat," Dr. W. N. Stearns, and "Franklin the Patriot," Judge B. F. Spalding. The members were enthusiastic and already they are planning two local Chapters for the near future. The attendance was good and the outlook for the coming year is excellent. The following officers were elected: President, Judge Charles A. Pollock, Fargo; Vice-Presidents, George F. Rich of Grand Forks and Charles E. Batcheller of Fingal; Secretary-Registrar, Herbert C. Fish, Bismarck; Treasurer, J. L. Bell, Bismarck; Chaplain, Wallace N. Stearns, Fargo; Historian, Vernon P. Squires, Grand Forks.

The Pennsylvania Society has published its annual report in a pamphlet of 24 pages, including minutes of the annual meeting with reports of the officers and of the Philadelphia and New Castle Chapters. It has also published a pamphlet of 40 pages containing papers read at the Society meetings during the year on Benjamin Rush, George Taylor, John Morton, George Clymer, and George Ross, five of the Pennsylvania Signers of the Declaration of Independence.

Rhode Island Society members participated in meetings throughout the State on May 4 in observance of the 130th Anniversary of Independence Day of Rhode Island. At a meeting of the Gaspee Chapter of the D. A. R., in Providence, Compatriot ex-Senator Addison P.

Munroe delivered an address in which he recounted the events of May 4, 1776, when the General Assembly of Rhode Island passed an act declaring its independence of Great Britain.

The Tennessee Society gave a banquet at the Commercial Club in Nashville on the evening of March 30 in honor of President General R. C. Ballard Thruston. President Leland Hume presided and introduced Mr. Thruston, who spoke of the work of the Sons of the American Revolution. He urged closer co-operation between the now existing eight societies of descendants of the American Revolution. One of the chief objects of the Society is to produce a complete history of the Declaration of Independence. Mr. Thruston gave a very interesting account of the famous instrument. He told of the efforts of the organization to impress upon our foreign-born population the oath of allegiance to the United States. He said that one million men were coming to this country from foreign shores each year until the war started. Of this million about one-half of the average remained, the others returning. Out of the 500,000 becoming naturalized, it was the duty of the S. A. R. to encourage them to hold in high respect their allegiance to our nation.

The National Society gives 50,000 leaflets annually to night schools throughout the United States, designed to encourage patriotism and instil in the hearts of the foreigners a love for our nation for which our forefathers fought so valiantly. A most interesting description of the pilgrimage of the National Society's committee over the route General Washington traversed from Philadelphia to Cambridge when he went to assume command of the army was related. Vice-President General W. K. Boardman then spoke of the probable entertaining of the National Congress in the city in 1916. Mr. Thruston outlined plans for the Tennessee Society.

The Wyoming Society, at its annual meeting on February 22, reelected all its officers for another year. In order to stimulate and create added interest in the Society, the Constitution has been amended to allow the formation of local Chapters.
