Volume XVI

OCTOBER, 1921

Number 2

The OFFICIAL BULLETIN records action by the General Officers, the Board of Trustees, the Executive and other National Committees, lists of members deceased and of new members, and important doings of State Societies. In order that the OFFICIAL BULLETIN may be up to date, and to insure the preservation in the National Society archives of a complete history of the doings of the entire organization, State Societies and local Chapters are requested to communicate promptly to the Secretary General written or printed accounts of all meetings or celebrations, to forward copies of all notices, circulars, and other printed matter issued by them, and to notify him at once of dates of death of members.

ACTIVITIES DURING THE SUMMER

Although the summer season is usually a dull one for organizations like ours, the interest of the Sons of the American Revolution has not flagged and in many quarters it has been as strong as at other times of the year. The preparation for Constitution Day, which is now celebrated in so many thousands of places all over the country, and a few other local causes, may have had some effect on this, but the real underlying reason seems to be that this Society is a live one, and that its influence is being felt wherever there is a Chapter that is awake, and also that a splendid lot of men all over the United States are taking deep and active interest in the patriotic work of the Society.

It may interest the members to learn that several of our officers have taken long trips this summer, and though not always primarily in the interests of the Society, yet the officer in every case kept in mind the S. A. R. and made it his business and pleasure to visit Societies and Chapters in the cities where he stopped.

President General McCamant made a trip in September, in the interests of the Society and in celebration of Constitution Day, to Boise, Denver, and Salt Lake City. There was a special meeting of the Utah State Society in honor of this event, and it is hoped a good account of this meeting and the activities of this progressive Society may be published in the December BULLETIN. The President General made a short trip in his own territory earlier in the season to promote the interests of our work.

Director General Adams, of New Jersey, made a trip to the coast in June and met many of the compatriots. He visited President General McCamant in Portland and reported a most delightful time. On his return he was entertained in Salt Lake City and confirms the reports that this Society is most active and up and doing.

The Secretary General visited Chicago early in July and on his way stopped for a few hours with Secretary Van Sycle, of the Michigan Society, who is one of the active workers of our organization. In Chicago the Secretary General met the Board of Managers of the Illinois Society at a luncheon and was delightfully entertained by Secretary Louis Bowman, of that Society.

The President General appointed the Secretary General, who had planned a trip to Plymouth for the Mayflower Congress in September, to represent the National Society, S. A. R., at this meeting and extend our greetings to this Society. This the Secretary did, and when the few inspiring words, as sent by the President General, were spoken at the meeting at Plymouth, September 6th, they were received with enthusiasm by the delegates.

Several of the articles or reports published in this BULLETIN, it would seem, should have special mention. The report of Past President General Thruston, chairman of the Memorial Committee, is one of these and should be read by every compatriot. It is not only adding history to our Society, but is making complete and authentic the history of our country. The amount of time and labor spent on this research work is untold, and it is fortunate that we have a man of Mr. Thruston's aptitude for this work to carry it on. Few others could achieve such results. It is hoped, too, that the articles in this number on the American's Creed and Publicity will be read, digested, and acted upon, and then let every State Society, Chapter, and compatriot strive to make this coming year the greatest in the history of the organization.

On Tuesday, June 21, the Old World Manor House of Sulgrave, the ancestral home of George Washington, which has been restored and furnished as a memorial for peace for more than a century between Great Britain and America, was dedicated. The celebration was marked by many interesting ceremonies. During the ceremony there was presented a deed, dated 1599, signed by Robert Washington, son of Lawrence Washington, builder of the Manor House, who bought the land in 1539 from Henry VIII. Attached to the deed is the seal, in perfect state of preservation, showing the Washington Arms. There was also unveiled, in the great dining hall, an original Gilbert Stuart portrait of Washington. There was an impressive church service, participated in by representatives of the English and American governments, and after the service a meeting took place on the terrace, and one of the features of the program was the presentation of a beautiful American Flag, the gift of the Sons of the American Revolution. The presentation was made by Mr. Andrew B. Humphrey, representing the American Tercentenary Committee, who will be recalled by the delegates to the Hartford Congress in 1920 as addressing the Convention, most interestingly outlining the plans for the Tercentenary Celebration.

On the Fourth of July Americans in Paris honored the memory of two Frenchmen who represent the close ties between France and America cemented on the battlefields of liberty—Lafayette and the Unknown soldier. At Lafayette's grave our Society was represented by Colonel Thurston Preston, for many years a member of the Sons of the American Revolution, who, at the request of Mr. Cleveland Coxe, Empire State Society of the Sons of the American Revolution, placed a wreath on the tomb in the Picpus Cemetery. Colonel Preston was accompanied by Mrs. Preston, a member of the Daughters of the American Revolution. The Colonel said, in part:

"When General Pershing, speaking at this tomb, said, 'Lafayette, we are here,' he could not have foreseen the numbers of American boys who would remain in France—consecrating the soil with their blood. Yes, Lafayette, we are here still, here in the hearts of France, here side by side with your dead, as we fought side by side for the cause of Liberty and Humanity."

The celebration of the Pilgrim Tercentenary at Plymouth has been a great success. Unfortunately, no adequate provision has been made for the financial burden of the celebration. For the purpose of meeting the legitimate expense connected with the celebration, the Federal Government has issued 300,000 Pilgrim half dollars. The coins are beautiful in design, being the work of Cyrus E. Dallin, the famous sculptor. The Treasury Department officials express the belief that they are the most beautiful coins ever issued by the Government. These coins can be secured from William Carroll Hill, Secretary, Pilgrim Tercentenary Commission, 73 Tremont Street, Boston, or from the National Shawmut Bank of Boston, at one dollar each. They are an appropriate souvenir for distribution at dinners and other functions of our Society. It is hoped that Chapters and State Societies will purchase them in quantities of from 50 to 500, and thus assist in carrying the financial burden incident to this interesting historical celebration.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

All officers, both National and State, are requested to sign the certificates of membership in india ink. Many of the older certificates are fading for lack of proper ink.

The copies of the Constitution and By-Laws ordered printed by the Executive Committee are now ready for distribution and will be sent upon application to the Secretary General.

The Secretary General desires to announce that he is prepared to fill orders from State officers for War Service Medals. Applications for these should come through State officers and not from individuals.

The chairman of the Committee on Observance of Constitution Day, Mr. Louis Annin Ames, desires to announce that a complete report of the recognition of this day will be printed in the December BULLETIN. State Presidents or Secretaries not yet having sent in reports are urged to do so at once, that these may all be incorporated in the general report.

The members of the Society will hear with the greatest regret the news that Mr. Teunis D. Hunting, the faithful and efficient Registrar of the Empire State Society, was most seriously injured by a motorcycle while taking his vacation in Maine this summer. Mr. Hunting lies in a hospital in Portland with a badly fractured leg and it will be some time before he will be back to his duties at 220 Broadway, New York. He has the wishes of his legion of friends in the Sons of the American Revolution that his recovery will be speedy and complete.

The attention of the organization is again called to The American's Creed. This concise and eloquent statement of American principles should be in use in our schools all over the land. Copies of the Creed, tastefully printed, are available for distribution at the price of $4.00 per hundred and $30.00 per thousand. The Book of The American's Creed has been tastefully printed and can be furnished at 35 cents per volume, if ordered in lots of three or more. The book amplifies the teaching of the Creed and explains the circumstances under which it was adopted. Compatriots are requested to co-operate in placing the book in the hands of teachers and the Creed in the hands of students in our schools. Any child who has learned to recite this Creed from day to day as a part of his school curriculum will in all probability be and remain a good American to the end of his life. Full information on the subject can be secured from Compatriot Matthew Page Andrews, at 849 Park Avenue, Baltimore, Md.

The chairman of the Tercentenary Committee, Mr. Charles F. Read, Old State House, Boston, Mass., makes the following appeal in behalf of the Warren Memorial Fund at Plymouth, Mass.:

Contributions for the Warren Memorial Fund, for the memorial to General

James Warren at Plymouth, Mass., should be made promptly, in order that the memorial can be completed in time for the dedication, in May, 1922, when the President General is expected to be present. The State Societies are urged to send in their proportionate shares, as indicated in the request sent out early in June, at as early a date as possible.

Memorials are being placed in Plymouth, Mass., by the Red Men, Colonial Dames, Mayflower Descendants, New England Women of Pennsylvania, the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Boston, the Daughters of the Revolution, Daughters of the American Revolution, the Sons of the Revolution, the Sons of the American Revolution of Massachusetts, the Town of Plymouth, and others. Our National Society is pledged to the completion of this memorial, and surely the State Societies will see that we do not fail in this project.

OPINION OF CHANCELLOR GENERAL EUGENE C. BONNIWELL

Following the Congress of the National Society of the Sons of the American Revolution, held at Buffalo, May 16 and 17, 1921, Mr. John H. Burroughs, Treasurer General of the Society, formally required of the Chancellor General an opinion as to the legality and validity of the amendment adopted at said convention, increasing the dues of the members of the Society.

An examination of the minutes of the proceedings as of the date of May 17, 1921, discloses that the Committee on Resolutions reported an amendment to the Constitution providing for an initiation fee of five ($5.00) dollars upon each member duly elected. Due notice of this amendment, under the Constitution and By-Laws of the Society, had been given, as required by law. Upon a question upon the adoption or rejection of the amendment, the proposed amendment was amended by substituting for the initiation fee annual dues. This amendment to the proposed amendment was duly adopted and thereafter declared carried by the chairman.

Your Chancellor General is of the opinion that an amendment to a constitution must stand or fall upon the original motion. There is no question of parliamentary law herein contained. The constitution is the written charter of rights and privileges of an organization. It is provided that it may be altered or amended by giving due notice in writing of the proposed alteration or amendment. This notice in relation to the original amendment was duly given. The membership of the national organization were able to determine whether they approved or opposed. Those who approved could justly ignore any further activity in the matter, because they did approve, and those who did oppose had the opportunity to present their objections. But the amendment as amended, while it related to the subject of dues, was a complete antithesis of the original amendment; it substituted annual dues for an initiation fee and affects the work of the State Societies in a very marked degree.

Your Chancellor General is of the opinion that the amendment as proposed, and of which notice was duly given, was the only business properly before the meeting at that time, and that it should have been either accepted or rejected. A constitutional amendment could not be amended, in the judgment of your law officer. It might be further pointed out that all amendments to the Constitution require a two-thirds vote. It is true that the amendment to the amendment did receive a two-thirds vote, 60 to 30. There is naught that appears of record that the amendment upon final passage received a majority vote. It does not appear that the necessary two-thirds vote was cast on final passage. This, in the opinion of the Chancellor General, is fatal to its validity, even if the other objection did not exist.

Under all circumstances, I am of the opinion that the amendment as adopted is null and void.

EUGENE C. BONNIWELL,
Chancellor General.

PUBLICITY

For many years it has been felt that our Society has not been given the proper amount of publicity. For the kind of work we are doing, for the amount of time and labor that is expended, and, lastly, because of the kind and caliber of the men who are doing this work in every part of the United States, the amount of space devoted to the interests of the Sons of the American Revolution in our public press is comparatively small.

Of course, in many of the larger communities and in some of the smaller ones, the Society has been given its fair share of notice, but it is well known that many of the functions and meetings get but scant mention compared to the value of the news. Where lies the cause of this and can it be remedied? The fault is no doubt largely due to the members or officers of the local Society, and though it is done unwittingly, it can be easily corrected.

In the very excellent report of Mr. Frank L. Stetson, of Chicago, Chairman of the National Committee on Publicity, is given a most interesting example. He says: "I had the pleasure of attending a meeting of one of the State societies and found that a good deal of newspaper publicity had been given before the meeting. There had not been any provision made to have representatives of the press attend, and, drawing one of the members aside, I spoke to him about it. A telephone call or two and inside of fifteen minutes we had four reporters there with the result that the next morning's papers had exceedingly fine articles on the first page!" This example is so good that it is hardly necessary to say more, but one or two practical suggestions may be given that will help our societies or chapters in this regard.

Today many organizations, business houses, and even individuals have a publicity man to get what they desire before the public. In some cases this may be necessary with the Sons of the American Revolution, but by practical experience it has been found that a goodly amount of space can be obtained by systematic effort, with a committee or a member who will take this work upon himself. The newspapers are being pressed on all sides by many interests for publicity and in most cases they respond to the best of their ability, but they cannot publish reports of or send representatives to all the meetings and events that take place, and it has been found by long experience that if some one who is interested will write a good report for publication and send it in in time, in nine cases out of ten it will be published in full and in a prominent place, because the meetings of the S. A. R. are always of public interest and so recognized by the press of the country.

Why cannot every State Society and every Chapter have a small committee, the smaller the better, who will do this work and take the responsibility of carrying on this publicity? With such a committee in every Society and Chapter working consistently every time a meeting was held, the amount of publicity that the Sons of the American Revolution would get in a year would be tremendous and the results and benefits to the organization would be untold. Past President General Jenks said once at a dinner that, within two days after publishing his photograph in the papers when he was elected President General, greatly to his astonishment four men stopped him in the street and said they wanted to join the Society.

Another suggestion: Every member should constitute himself a publicity agent. There is not a member who has not been asked what the little buff, white, and blue button means. This is your opportunity and if the man asking the question is eligible and desirable it is up to the member to see that a new member is secured. It simply means a proper follow-up, for most men want to join our Society, but many need a little help. Societies, Chapters, and Compatriots, why not try these simple suggestions this year and see how it works out?

Every member should keep in mind the qualifications for membership, which we quote below:

ARTICLE III.—MEMBERSHIP.

SECTION 1. Any man shall be eligible to membership in the Society who, being of the age of twenty-one years or over and a citizen of good repute in the community, is the lineal descendant of an ancestor who was at all times unflinching in his loyalty to and rendered active service in the cause of American Independence, either as an officer, soldier, seaman, marine, militiaman, or minute man in the armed forces of the Continental Congress, or of any one of the several Colonies or States, or as a Signer of the Declaration of Independence, or as a member of a Committee of Safety or Correspondence, or as a member of any Continental, Provincial, or Colonial Congress or Legislature, or as a recognized patriot who performed actual service by overt acts of resistance to the authority of Great Britain.

Provided, however, that any male person above the age of eighteen years and under the age of twenty-one years, whose qualifications in regard to ancestry and personal character are as above prescribed, shall be eligible to a qualified membership to be known and designated as junior membership, said junior membership to permit to each junior member all privileges granted to full membership except those of holding office, of voting, of holding any interest in the property or funds of the Society, or of any Chapter thereof, or of receiving a certificate of membership except as hereinafter provided, or of wearing any insignia of the Society other than the rosette; a special certificate may be issued to such junior member in such form as may be prescribed by the Board of Trustees, providing such junior member shall not be in arrears for dues; on attaining the age of twenty-one years he shall automatically be vested with full membership in the Society.

THE AMERICAN'S CREED FELLOWSHIP

Although the American's Creed belongs to the American people, it must ever be a supreme satisfaction to the Sons of the American Revolution to know that the Creed is essentially an S. A. R. production.

The originator of the Creed idea is a member of the S. A. R. brotherhood, the man who promoted the Creed contest and who managed the publicity is also a member, the man who secured the prize from the city of Baltimore became, two years later, the President General of the National Society, and, above all, the author of the Creed is likewise one of us. Furthermore, the Sons of the American Revolution was the first of the patriotic societies to endorse the Creed, at their convention at Rochester in 1918, and the first patriotic convention to endorse the new plan for its promulgation was that held at Buffalo in May, 1921.

Through the Committee on Resolutions, the Buffalo Convention endorsed the then unpublished proof of "The Book of the American's Creed." This attractive-looking little volume of some sixty-six pages, illustrated in symbolic fashion, has appeared in June, and it contains those expressions explanatory of the twelve phrases of the Creed used by those who have successfully expounded the fundamental principles of American constitutional government to native and foreign-born citizens.

To promote the distribution of this book, which is not on sale, The American's Creed Fellowship has been created. Life membership in The American's Creed Fellowship is covered by a subscription of $1.00, in return for which the applicant receives a Founder's Copy of "The Book of the American's Creed," the title page of which announces that it is issued under the auspices of patriotic societies of America.

The Committee on Publication of the book consists of the heads of national patriotic organizations, and the chairman of that committee is ex officio the President General of the Sons of the American Revolution, whoever he may be at the time of the issue of the edition. The first edition of this work was sent to press under the presidency of Compatriot James H. Preston, of Maryland, and the second edition will be sent to press under the presidency of Compatriot Wallace McCamant, of Oregon.

It is the purpose of the Fellowship to issue the book in subsequent editions sponsored in this way so long as the S. A. R. maintains leadership in the matter of promulgating the Creed and in the distribution of the book. The single requirement of The American's Creed Fellowship is that the applicant endorse The American's Creed as a summary of American political faith and promise that he or she will lend moral support to the use of the Creed throughout the Nation.

Every Son of the American Revolution is cordially invited to join The American's Creed Fellowship and secure a Founder's Copy. Any member of the Fellowship may thereafter obtain additional copies at a cost of publication, if ordered in lots of three or more. Although the book is scarcely off the press, many Sons are already Fellowship members. Compatriot William E. Summers, of Millburn, N. J., writes that he was fortunate enough to have got books in time to give to the public-school graduates of his community, and Compatriot

D. E. Felt, of Chicago, has seen to it that the Illinois Society was supplied with copies for general distribution.

President General McCamant has written of "The Book of the American's Creed," that "the message which it contains is thoroughly wholesome and adapted to present-day conditions."

Applicants for Fellowships should communicate with Compatriot Matthew Page Andrews, Chairman of The American's Creed Committee of the Maryland Society, S. A. R., 849 Park Avenue, Baltimore, Md.

ATTENTION, COMPATRIOTS!

During the last few years a great reform has been effected in the method of naturalizing foreigners. Courts all over the Union have awakened to the value of the privileges conferred when an applicant is admitted to American citizenship. Care is exercised to see that citizenship is granted only to those who have a proper loyalty to our institutions and sufficient intelligence to exercise the right of franchise properly.

The value of this reform is very greatly impaired by the fact that some of the States permit a foreigner to vote before he has received his citizenship papers. The Society took action on this matter at the Syracuse Congress in 1914, strongly recommending that the right of franchise should be limited in all the States to American citizens. This matter is called to the attention of compatriots to the end that steps may be taken to amend the statutes and constitutions which extend the franchise to foreigners who have not yet received their final papers. The Constitution of Oregon was amended in 1914 in accordance with the recommendations of the Syracuse Congress and in that State no one can vote unless he is an American citizen.

WALLACE MCCAMANT,
President General.

RESOLUTION PASSED BY EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE, AUGUST 9, 1921.

The following preamble and resolution have been adopted by the Executive Committee:

Whereas the present salaries of the Registrar General's and Secretary General's offices are not sufficient to cover all expenses for clerical help; therefore be it

Resolved, That the salary of the Registrar General of the National Society, Sons of the American Revolution, be $1,200.00 per annum, payable in monthly installments of $100.00 per month, and the salary of the Secretary General of the National Society, Sons of the American Revolution, be $1,800.00 per annum, payable in equal monthly amounts of $150.00; said salaries to date from May 16, 1921, and with the definite understanding that the above-mentioned salaries shall include all expenses for clerical services rendered in connection with these two offices, and there shall be no additional charge submitted by the Registrar General or Secretary General for any expenses save for stationery, printing, engraving and engrossing of certificates, postage, and telegraph charges. Out of the salaries voted to the respective offices shall be paid all expenses for clerical help.

REPORT MEMORIAL COMMITTEE TO NATIONAL CONGRESS, S. A. R. Buffalo, N. Y., May, 1921

MR. PRESIDENT GENERAL AND COMPATRIOTS:

It is my pleasure to report progress, not as great in volume nor so rapid as I should like to, but what we are doing is being done as carefully and as surely as the circumstances will admit, all expenses being borne by those who are doing it; and in this connection I wish to state that the co-operation, not only of our own members, but also of those of both sexes, whether members of other organizations or not, has been beautiful and most gratifying.

We tried to get certified copies of the wills of all the Signers. Of the 56, we now have 38 of them; of six of those who died intestate, we have obtained information from the reports of their executors or administrators. We have not succeeded in obtaining any information regarding the wills or estates of twelve of the Signers. Any assistance that you, your friends or acquaintances, might render us in this matter will be most gratefully received. Those of whose wills or estates we are lacking in information are the following:

- | | |
|-------------------------------|----------------------------------|
| 1. Elbridge Gerry, of Mass. | 7. Carter Braxton, of Va. |
| 2. James Wilson, of Pa. | 8. William Hooper, of N. C. |
| 3. George Clymer, of Pa. | 9. Thomas Heyward, Jr., of S. C. |
| 4. Samuel Chase, of Md. | 10. Thomas Lynch, Jr., of S. C. |
| 5. George Wythe, of Va. | 11. Lyman Hall, of Ga. |
| 6. Thomas Nelson, Jr., of Va. | 12. George Walton, of Ga. |

We also have tried to locate the burial places of the Signers and obtain copies of the epitaphs on their tombstones and such monuments as are in reasonably close proximity to their remains. Of course, it would be impracticable to attempt to obtain such data regarding the many monuments, tablets, &c., erected to such men as Franklin and Jefferson, for they are almost ubiquitous, so far as our country is concerned.

Of the 56 we have obtained copies of the epitaphs of 43. Most of these have been published and we have compared some of our copies with the originals. I am sorry to say that we have found a very large percentage of errors, some of them material, but as a rule they are merely such trifles as capitalization, punctuation, or alignment.

Of the 56 Signers,

There was lost at sea..... 1

Again we ask the assistance of those who can aid us with citations to or copies from contemporary newspapers, periodicals, letters or diaries, or even traditional information coming from one who had contemporary information.

The British made especial efforts to capture men of prominence who had espoused the cause of the Colonists in that great conflict, and when they succeeded they persecuted the unhappy prisoner almost unmercifully. Five of our Signers were thus captured and treated—Stockton, of New Jersey; Heywood, of North Carolina; Middleton and Rutledge, of South Carolina, and Walton, of Georgia. Mrs. Francis Lewis, of New York, was also captured and mistreated because she was the wife of a Signer, and two of the sons of Abraham Clark, of New Jersey, were captured and similarly treated because their father was a Signer.

In Philadelphia, Pa., Christ Church is located on Second Street between Arch and Market. In the churchyard are many graves, including those of Robert Morris, 1733-1806, and James Wilson, 1742-1798. The "Burial Ground," some three blocks away, on the corner of 5th and Arch Streets, is crowded with graves, including those of Benjamin Franklin, 1706-1790, and Benjamin Rush, 1745-1813. In each of the four above-mentioned cases the remains of Signers lie grouped along with other members of their families.

Three other Signers, Francis Hopkinson, of New Jersey, 1737-1791; George Ross, of Pennsylvania, 1730-1778, and Joseph Hewes, of North Carolina, born in New Jersey in 1730, died in Philadelphia in 1779, were also buried here, but the church records merely give their names and dates of interment. Search is being made for the grave of Francis Hopkinson with a good prospect of definitely locating it.

The grave of John Morton still lies in the cemetery of old St. Paul's Church in Chester, Pa., in what is today very unfortunate surroundings. People of the vicinity desire that they remain undisturbed. Of the members of the family who have been consulted, I am told all have consented to the removal but one influential descendant, who still withholds his consent.

Delaware

Cæsar Rodney, born October 7, 1728; died June 29, 1784. I give the date of his birth because some authorities erroneously give it as 1730. Rodney's house was some four miles southeast of Dover and on his plantation. He was buried there, in his old family burial ground, the site now being occupied by a small clump of trees probably 50 yards in diameter.

In about 1850 an old man named Nicholas Lockerman, who had been present at the burial of Rodney, took a group of men to the place and pointed out the location of the grave, and later one of them (Judge Comegys) is said to have raised a mound over it and placed there a fragment of limestone. In 1884 an association was formed for removing the remains to Dover. Accordingly, Judge Comegys showed them the location. In making the excavation only a few rusty nails were found. Apparently the body, bones and all else, had entirely disintegrated; so the committee removed about 1½ bushels of earth from the spot where they thought the body had lain, and this was placed beneath the handsome granite monument in the burial ground surrounding Christ Church, in Dover, on which is inscribed "Cæsar Rodney."

The late Mr. Ezekiel Cowgill, who subsequently owned the plantation, was also present in 1850 when Nicholas Lockerman showed the location of the Rodney grave. His daughter told me, basing her information on that obtained from her father, that Rodney's grave was lined with brick, that the committee was not taken to the true location, and therefore that Rodney's remains still lie in his old family burial ground.

I have no reason to doubt the sincerity of the statements made to me by those on each side in this controversy.

Virginia

Chancellor Wythe, 1726-1806, was buried in St. John's Churchyard, in Richmond, Va. While the grave is unmarked, its location is known to be in one of two adjoining locations and can probably be determined without any great difficulty. I am glad to be able to report that a concerted effort is being made on the part of some four organizations, of which our Virginia Society is one, to definitely determine its location and erect there a handsome monument to his memory.

In Virginia all the early settlements were made in the tidewater section, and not until after the American Revolution was there any considerable movement to the west of it. It extended from the Atlantic Ocean as far inland as the city of Richmond, a distance of about 100 miles. Within it is the Chesapeake Bay and its many broad arms, each bearing the name of some river. These were broad estuaries, amply deep for the small vessels of that day. Almost none of the land reached a height of 200 feet above tide, the high portions making almost plateaus, with level, flat, lowlands next the streams, occasionally two or more miles in width. It was here that the early planters settled and made their homes, warehouses, stores, and wharves, to and from which their ships, often, if not generally, privately owned, sailed. The first and second generations of our early Virginia families lived in houses so situated, and generally built of logs or frame, preferably the former, because they were more impregnable against Indian weapons, though some of those early homes were of brick. They were often from families of high social standing in England and men of large affairs, who through thrift, energy, and other good qualities rapidly acquired wealth and prominence and became possessed of immense holdings of lands.

Such was the origin of the Lee and Tayloe families in Virginia.

The first of the Lees named Richard settled in Essex County about 1641 and died there in or before 1666. His son Richard (1647-1714), graduate of Oxford, councilor, &c., moved north, into what is now Westmoreland County, and settled on that broad, level, low plain south of the Potomac and east of Machadoc Bay, but his home stood half or three-quarters of a mile from his wharf. It was probably called Stratford, but of that we are not certain. The house was probably of log or frame, as neither stone nor brick is there to mark the site of either foundation or chimney. Here he had his slaves' quarters and his garden, and within the latter his family burial ground. It was a small plot of only about 20 or 21 feet square, surrounded by a brick wall, of which but little more than the foundations are left. Within that there is now but one slab, with inscriptions in both Latin and English to him and his wife, Lettice, daughter of Henry Corbin.

Each of his six children inherited large tracts of land, but the eldest, Richard, the law of primogeniture being then in force, received the larger portion, including the home place, but resided in London, England, though he still retained title to and possession of his father's Virginia home. During his ownership the house caught fire and burned to the ground. It was never rebuilt, not a vestige of it is there today, and its only marker is what remains of the old family burial ground. It soon became known as "The Old Burnt House"; today it is often called "The Old Burnt Field," with the nearest house three-fourths of a mile away, built on much higher ground, by a subsequent generation, and called Mount Pleasant.

A younger brother to Richard Lee (3d), of London, named Thomas (1690-1750), settled some miles to the west, where he built a very handsome residence of brick, said to have been presented to him by Queen Caroline, and which he called "Stratford Hall," today generally known as "Stratford" and celebrated as the birthplace of the great Confederate General, Robert E. Lee.

Here were born three of our Revolutionary patriots, two of whom were signers, namely, Richard Henry Lee, 1732-1794; Francis Lightfoot Lee, 1734-1797, and Dr. Arthur Lee, 1740-1792.

Richard Henry Lee was twice married. He built himself a home to the west of the mouth of Nomini Bay, on high ground, from which he had a wonderfully beautiful view, and named his plantation "Chantilly." The house is long since gone and its site would never be found without a guide who knows its location, for today there is only a slight depression marking the partially filled in cellar and a few of the brick with which it was lined. Seventy-five yards west of it, and evidently within the old garden, is a black walnut tree marking the site of the burial ground where some of the family were interred. It is now a part of a plowed field, with nothing visible to indicate a grave. There was on his plantation a separate burial ground for his slaves.

From the recorded will of Richard Henry Lee I quote:

"First: I desire to be decently privately and frugally buried in the family burying ground at the burnt House as it is called and as neare to my late every deare wife as 'tis possible to place mine without disturbing her remains and upon her left, so that my present dear Mrs. Lee may be laid, when she dyes on my right; and so my body be placed between those of my dear wives;"

There is residing in this section the Rev. Dr. G. W. Beale, a fellow-member of mine in the Virginia Society of the Cincinnati, a man of culture and refinement, who possesses the confidence and commands the respect of the entire community. He has done a vast amount of most valuable genealogical and historical research work, including, of course, that of the Lee family. Some fifteen or twenty years ago he did some magnificent work for me, and, though now very feeble and infirm, he knew of my coming and was kind enough to give me free access to his notes and data. One of his daughters spent several days in acting as my guide and otherwise aiding me in my research work. Dr. Beale told me that Richard Henry Lee was buried at the "Old Burnt Field," as directed in his will. Among his notes was a copy of a letter written in 1851 by a Mrs. Colville Griffith, describing the burial of her grandfather's cousin, Richard Henry Lee, which she had herself witnessed some 57 years before. Dr. Beale called upon and obtained from her her personal recollections, but his physical condition was such that it would not do to hold his attention too long, so I spoke to him of his interview with Mrs. Griffith and said: "The burial ground at the Old Burnt House, as surrounded by the brick wall, was only about 20 feet square and was so filled up with the remains of the early Lees that Richard Henry Lee had to be buried on the outside." He nodded his head in assent and replied, "Yes." I then said: "There are four sides to that burial ground. On which side did she say he was buried—the north, the east, the south, or the west?" To which he replied, "Didn't say; all she said was, He was buried just without the burial ground."

If a stake were driven in the center of that old inclosure and a circle drawn with a radius of 20 feet, it would certainly include the grave of Richard Henry Lee. The ground without has been plowed close up to the brick walls, a foot or more of the surface soil has been washed away, and with proper trenching the graves could be located, but whether or not the identity of the remains could be established I am not prepared to say.

The Tayloe family, into which Francis Lightfoot Lee married, is another with a very similar history. William, the first of the family in America, settled in York County in the first half of the 17th century. His namesake nephew and heir settled on the lowlands, on the north side of the Rappahannock, in what is now Richmond County. I am not certain whether the name of Mount Airy was then applied to this plantation or to adjacent lands which he subsequently patented, but here he built and equipped his home, as was customary in those days, including the family burial ground, which in this case contained then, or at a later date, one or more vaults.

It was his grandson, John Tayloe II, 1721-1779, who in 1747 built the present Mount Airy—a beautiful stone palace, on high ground, some two miles east of "The Old House," as it is called by the Tayloes of today. It was one of his daughters, born in 1752, who married Francis Lightfoot Lee in 1769 and to whom Colonel John Tayloe (II) made a deed of gift in 1778 of 1,000 acres of land, including the still pretty and interesting old stone house called "Menoken," where they lived and died.

Another daughter, Eleanor Tayloe (born in 1756), married, in 1772, the Hon. Ralph Wormeley of Rosegill, the fifth of that name and estate.

Singular as it may seem, they continued to bury their dead in the burying ground at "The Old House" for about a century after building the new. It was there that the remains of the Francis Lightfoot Lee and his wife and Ralph Wormeley and his wife were placed in one of the vaults.

When, owing to the ravages of time, the crown of this vault caved in, the then proprietor of Mount Airy, Colonel Wm. Henry Tayloe (1799-1871), the grandson of Colonel John Tayloe II, concluded it best to establish a new family burial ground on high ground, about 400 yards from his new house and from which there is a grand and extensive view. In furthering this plan, he removed the graves from the old burial ground to the new, bringing with each its own inscribed slab, but when it came to the vault he was not able to identify and separate the remains of the two Tayloe sisters and their husbands, so he placed the remains of all four in one grave in the new burial ground and planted an arbor-vitæ at the head of the grave.

I therefore feel that, through and with the kind assistance of the Tayloe and Beale families, I have succeeded in locating definitely and accurately the resting place of the remains of Francis Lightfoot Lee and a very close approximation to those of his elder brother, Richard Henry Lee.

Had earlier investigators gone on the ground as I did, there is no reason why this information should not have been made public years ago.

Chairman.

REPORT OF NATIONAL COMMITTEE ON INCREASED MEMBERSHIP

To the Thirty-second Annual Congress of the National Society of the Sons of the American Revolution:

The numerical growth of the Society during the past year has, on the whole, been gratifying. Despite the lamentable fact that the high inspirations of a war in progress have seemingly subsided in the drab period of materialism which has followed its cessation, interest in patriotism has not wholly died out. Reports from many of the State Societies indicate an alertness to the fact that the safety of our institutions rests on the maintenance of our national ideals.

It is the peculiar function of the Sons of the American Revolution to keep the fires of American idealism alight. In some States the increase in membership is most significant, in each case demonstrating the value of one or two thoroughly enthused compatriots striving untiringly to awaken in the hearts of American citizens a right understanding and appreciation of America's history and principles.

Efforts to increase the membership of our Society are not solely in the interests of the Society. The higher purpose is the strengthening of the morale of the American nation by emphasizing the enduring value of our peculiar national institutions at this time of wide-extended dismemberment of nations.

CHANCELLOR L. JENKS,
Chairman.

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON MILITARY AND NAVAL WAR RECORDS

To the Congress:

Your Committee on Military and Naval War Records has the honor to report that the Revolutionary War Records, so long kept in Room 512, State, War, and Navy Building, in Washington, have been moved to the building known as the Munitions Building, on B Street, and are still under the custody of the Adjutant General's Office.

It may be that they are of as easy access. The Adjutant General's Office has always been courteous in making searches for us. The Navy Records, also Revolutionary, are still in the Navy Library, in the State, War, and Navy Building. The older records, covering mostly the Colonial period, may be found in the Library of Congress, much scattered, we may say desultory.

Moving of records is usually attended with loss as well as disarrangement of papers.

From the Chief of War Records of the Navy we are informed that many Navy records, which encumbered the corridors of the basement of the Treasury Department, about the year 1855 were destroyed under the belief that they had already served their purpose.

In looking up the records of the naval officers of the original (the Colonial) Navy, your committee has felt some embarrassment in being unable to locate even the final resting place of a number of them. For example, there were three brothers Nicholson, who commanded ships in the War of the Revolution, and we have been able to locate the grave of but one of them, Samuel, who is buried in old Trinity Churchyard, New York City, his grave being marked by a slab; but we cannot locate the graves of his brothers. They were natives of the State of Maryland.

The grave of Captain Thomas Thompson, who commanded the Raleigh, is in the North Cemetery, near the city of Portsmouth, N. H., and is not marked. The Grand Army decorates this grave on each Decoration Day. Near the grave of Captain Thompson is that of a Signer, William Whipple, marked by a small slab. Another case is that of Captain Abram Whipple, at Marietta, Ohio, which is unmarked.

The Maryland Society, S. A. R., has set us an example by placing a handsome memorial at the grave of General Smallwood, in Charles County, Maryland, and at the grave of General Mordecai Gist, in old St. Michael's Churchyard, in Charleston, S. C.

While these unmarked graves may not be literally "Military and Naval Records," they surely invite attention to the need of memorials to record the resting place of the men to whom we owe so much.

On the 30th of October, 1920, the District of Columbia Society assembled at the statue of Captain John Paul Jones, in Washington, to dedicate a bronze tablet on which are inscribed the words of the immortal Jones in giving his testimony to the (original) Continental Marine Committee as to the regulations of the Navy and the essential qualifications of an officer.

The Secretary of the Navy ordered the attendance of the Marine Band and a small vessel carrying a light battery to come as near the scene as possible and to fire the salute. The ceremonies were conducted by Rear Admiral Chester, chairman of the committee, who gave a historic address, much of the history of the original Navy, of which Captain John Paul Jones was a central figure or the father.

A classic address was given by the Assistant Secretary of the Navy, the Hon. Gordon Woodbury, and an equally splendid oration by our President General, Mr. James H. Preston.

Not the least of the interesting features was the unveiling of the tablet by the daughter of Rear Admiral John Crittenden Watson, of the Kentucky Society.

The words on the tablet are those which have been impressed on every plebe midshipman on entering the Naval Academy, as well as on every officer entering the service from civil life:

"It is by no means enough that an officer of Navy should be a capable mariner; he should be that, of course, but also a great deal more. He should be, as well, a gentleman of liberal education, refined manner, punctilious courtesy, and the finest sense of personal honor. He should not only be able to express himself clearly and with force in his own language, both with pen and tongue, but should be versed in French and Spanish. He should be the soul of tact, patience, justice, firmness and charity. No meritorious act of a subordinate should escape his attention nor be left to pass without its reward, if even the reward be one word of approval.

"Conversely, he should not be blind to a single fault in any subordinate, though, at the same time, he should be quick and unfailing to distinguish error from malice, thoughtlessness from incompetence, and well-meant shortcoming from heedless or stupid blunder.

"As he should be universal and impartial in his rewards and approval of merit, so should he be judicial and unbending in his punishment or reproof of misconduct."

The thought of placing this enduring tablet on the monument originated with Rear Admiral Watson, at whose request Rear Admiral Chester brought it to the attention of the District of Columbia Society.

The committee appointed by the President of the District of Columbia Society to carry out this scheme was composed of Rear Admirals Chester, Watson, Jewell, and Baird.

Your committee begs leave to place on record some figures on the First Census, from which personages were drawn the first military and naval characters. These figures were given us by Compatriot Albert Johnson, M. C., chairman of the Committee on Immigration and Nationalization, House of Representatives. Compatriot Johnson is a member of the (State of) Washington Society, S. A. R.:

"According to the First Census, the free population of the United States in 1790, just after the Constitution went into effect, was 3,250,000. Of these 2,345,844 were of British origin. There were 188,589 Scotch people and 44,273 Irish. The Dutch, most of whom lived in New York, numbered 58,633. There were 156,457 Germans, 13,384 French, 1,243 Hebrews, and 3,835 of other nationalities."

These figures, from such eminent authority, cannot be disputed. The "Irish" referred to were the Ulster Irish, Presbyterians almost exclusively, and the French were mostly the Huguenots, of whom General Francis Marion is an example. These statistics, which seem to us to be of priceless value, may, we hope, not be considered out of place.

G. W. BAIRD, Chairman.

REPORT OF NATIONAL PATRIOTIC COMMITTEE, S. A. R.

The National Patriotic Committee of the Sons of the American Revolution has the honor of submitting to the National Congress its annual report concerning the work of this committee, its aims and its recommendations.

The members of this committee, like all true Americans, are deeply interested in the development of American ideals and are using their utmost power toward their advancement.

They are especially concerned in seeing that the schools of this country secure and retain the best teachers obtainable—men and women of high character and ideals, who are well trained in their profession, teachers who are patriotic Americans, and who will train their pupils to love and cherish American ideals and institutions, that make our country the hope of the world.

These patriotic, trained teachers must be paid a salary befitting their great value to the community and the nation, so that they may be of the greatest service in their great work of training American citizens. Their value has never been realized as now, when they form the greatest bulwark against Bolshevism and anarchy.

Patriotic education is the keynote of the salvation of our country, and it must be well taught in the schools and universities.

In addition to this, the Board of Education in the large cities are doing splendid work in establishing evening schools for adults; classes in factories for adult foreigners; classes for women in schools, field-houses, and other places—in fact, classes of all kinds for native and foreign born, so as to make them patriotic and intelligent Americans.

Chicago, like the other cities, is doing an immense amount of work in all of these patriotic lines. It has distributed many thousands of the American's Creed among its many schools, and this magnificent Creed, born in the famed city of Baltimore, is now a household word in all of the schools of Chicago and in nearly all of its homes, where it has been of the greatest value in teaching the ideals of American government to our foreign born.

The work of the public schools is now becoming more of a public welfare character. Academic work, especially the "three R's," is no longer the sole aim of school work. It is now but one phase of school activity, as so many problems of social and industrial life are now thrust upon the schools. We have now community centers, playgrounds, domestic science, vocational training, etc., under our school system, so as to better develop and train American citizens.

All this takes money, much money. It also becomes a national problem, as well as a State or community problem, and the Government should lend its help. It is doing so and is giving aid to the States in patriotic, agricultural, and vocational lines. This is admirable; but the various acts are not connected, so that their efficiency is impaired through lack of system.

As a result, thinking people from all over the country, who realize the need of an efficient educational system for the good of the whole country, felt strongly that as good people form the soul of a nation, a department of education should be formed by the Government, through which education in all its phases should be studied, and aid, both educational and financial, should be extended to the various States.

For this purpose the Smith-Towner Bill was presented to Congress, asking for the founding of a Department of Education, with a Secretary of Education at its head. This bill grants great aid to the States, especially in patriotic, agricultural, and vocational lines. Some opposition was offered, through fear that the Government would dominate the teaching in the various States; but a careful revision of the Smith-Towner Bill has been made, so as to eliminate all possible danger of the Government interfering with the States in their control of their own school systems.

The revised Smith-Towner Bill, or Sterling-Towner Bill, which puts all of the educational bills of the Government under the control of the Department of Education, would administer aid with much greater efficiency and economy and deserves the support of every patriotic American.

I would recommend that this bill receive the endorsement and support of the National Society, Sons of the American Revolution, in Congress here assembled.

GEORGE A. BRENNAN,
Chairman Patriotic Committee.

REPORT OF THE CHANCELLOR GENERAL AT THE MAY CONGRESS

Mr. President General and Compatriots:

Your Chancellor General reports the following matters coming before him for consideration:

The President General submitted a question which arose between the members of the Illinois Society and the Registrar General as to the date to be placed upon certificates to be issued by the National Society, the contention of the Illinois Society being that the date to be placed upon the certificates should be the date upon which the compatriot was elected by the State Society, the Registrar General urging that the date should be that upon which the papers were finally passed upon by the Registrar General.

After careful examination of the Constitution of the National Society and that of the State Society, the opinion was rendered that the contention of the Illinois Society should be upheld.

At the request of the Executive Committee, examination was made of the Constitution with reference to the proposed separation of the Connecticut Society from the National Society, and resolutions and notices prepared by the Connecticut Society were submitted to the Chancellor General for an opinion as to the validity of action proposed to be taken at a meeting called for February 22, 1921. The opinion rendered was that under the notice presented the proposed withdrawal of the Connecticut Society could not be accomplished at such meeting, and it is the understanding of this office that further action by the Connecticut Society was deferred until after the present session of the Congress.

At the request of the Executive Committee, several proposed amendments to the Constitution were submitted to the Chancellor General for drafting, were duly submitted to the several State Societies, and will be considered by the present Congress.

At the request of the Registrar of the New York State Society, an opinion was rendered as to the legality of local Chapters admitting to membership members of State Societies from other States.

Your Chancellor General has also had considerable correspondence with the Executive Officers of the National Society with reference to various matters upon which no opinion was formally prepared.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

HARVEY F. REMINGTON,
Chancellor General.

BUFFALO, May 16, 1921.

EVENTS OF STATE SOCIETIES

The Arizona Society.—For the purpose of encouraging the spirit of Americanism among the youth of the State, the Arizona Society of the Sons of the American Revolution has instituted a prize oratorical contest open to the members of senior and junior high schools of Arizona. The orations will be on subjects of vital topics of the day—"America's Power to Keep the Peace of the World," "America's Trust to the Western Hemisphere," and "America's Duty to Its Immigrants."

In announcing the contest, Harold Baxter, Secretary of the Society, said that the plan is similar to that carried on a few years ago and interrupted by the war. It will be conducted as a part of the Americanization work, and copies of the rules of the contest have been forwarded the principals of every high school in the State urging their co-operation.

Elsie Toles, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, approves the plan, the details of which were announced by Mr. Baxter as follows:

In each high school, where there are two or more contestants, a local contest shall be held under the local school authority; the winner of each local contest shall be invited to come to Phoenix for a public State contest, to be held on Tuesday, February 21, 1922. The prizes at this State contest will be $20 and $10 in gold, respectively, each prize to be accompanied by an appropriate medal. All contestants who take part in this State contest will be invited, as special guests, to attend the annual dinner of the Arizona Society, S. A. R., to be held in Phoenix, Wednesday evening, February 22, 1922, and will be entertained while in Phoenix, but car fares must be paid by the schools or cities sending contestants to Phoenix.

The successful contestant in each local contest shall mail, not later than January 14, 1922, to the Secretary of the Arizona Society, S. A. R., one copy of his oration, so that plans may be made for the State contest before the State contest takes place.

The California Society, Sons of the American Revolution, appointed a committee to take action in respect to the memory of Compatriot James L. Cogswell. Said committee reported as follows:

James Lafayette Cogswell was born in the State of Connecticut, November 23, 1830. He died in Alameda County, California, April 13, 1921, at the age of ninety years. Dr. Cogswell, who was of sturdy Revolutionary stock, came to California among the pioneers, coming to this State in 1849. He was a resident for many years of San Francisco. In October, 1875, he issued and had published a call to local eligibles, with a view to forming a Society of Sons of Revolutionary Sires. As an outcome of this, there met at Dr. Cogswell's office in San Francisco, on October 22, 1875, eight men, who organized a temporary society of this nature and arranged to participate in the exercises and march in the parade in San Francisco on July 4, 1876, in celebration of the 100th anniversary of the Signing of the Declaration of Independence. Dr. Cogswell was elected the first president of this society here. The idea was soon taken up in several Eastern States and other societies formed, the result of which was the organization in 1889 of the National Society of the Sons of the American Revolution through delegates from a number of States who met in New York City. The meeting called by Dr. Cogswell in San Francisco has, therefore, the honor of being the beginning of the organization which ultimately became the Sons of the American Revolution.

In respect to the memory of the late James Lafayette Cogswell, we present and move the adoption of the following:

WHEREAS the Supreme Ruler of the Universe called from this earth on April 13, 1921, Compatriot James Lafayette Cogswell, and there is thus taken from our midst our fellow-member, through whose inspiration the Society of the Sons of the American Revolution was founded; therefore be it

Resolved, That the California Society of the Sons of the American Revolution, through its Board of Managers, expresses its regret and respect to the memory of this distinguished compatriot, whose happy thought of so many years ago resulted in the association which we now have and of which we are so proud; and

Resolved, That this Society is a work of which he could well have been proud during his lifetime and constitutes a monument to his memory; and

Resolved, That we extend to the family of the late James Lafayette Cogswell our sympathy and respect, and that the two surviving daughters each be furnished with a copy of these expressions; and further

Resolved, That this action of the Board of Managers of the California Society of the Sons of the American Revolution be made a part of the permanent records of this organization and be bulletined to the members; and further

Resolved, That a copy of this report be forwarded to the office of the National Society of the Sons of the American Revolution, and that we request that our National Society also include these expressions in its permanent records in respect to the memory of our late and honored compatriot and founder.

HOWARD C. ROWLEY,
Chairman of Committee.

Respectfully submitted,

H. C. ROWLEY, Chairman,

T. A. PERKINS,
Committee.

The Colorado Society has been making earnest efforts toward the observance of time-honored and historic days and has endeavored particularly to bring to the notice of the authorities a proper recognition of Constitution Day, appealing to churches and schools to institute appropriate exercises on this occasion. The New President of this Society, the Hon. Victor E. Keyes, Attorney General of the State of Colorado, has issued a general letter to the members of his Society, conveying greetings and some of his hopes and aspirations for his Society in devotion to principle, lofty patriotism, and loyalty and pledging his personal influence and support in new consecration to American ideals and American institutions.

The District of Columbia Society celebrated Independence Day with a very fine program, the exercises being held in the large Bureau of Pensions, in the city of Washington. The occasion was full of enthusiasm and the address by Congressman Fred S. Purnell, of Indiana, was most inspiring and appropriate. Beautiful musical numbers and ceremonial reception and salutation of the Flag marked the ceremonies. On September 6 the Society celebrated the 164th anniversary of the birth of Lafayette by a trip to Mt. Vernon by boat, and on September 21 Field Day was celebrated.

District of Columbia members of the Sons of the American Revolution and many of their friends met Wednesday, September 21, at Oak Hill Cemetery, to assist in commemorating the placing of gravestone markers on the graves of Lieut. Miah Forrest and Rev. (Capt.) Stephen B. Balch, soldiers of the Revolutionary War. The invocation was pronounced by Rev. James M. Nourse and President Selden Ely introduced the speaker of the day, William A. Gordon, of Georgetown, who spoke eloquently of the bravery and patriotism of Lieutenant Forrest, and at the grave of Dr. Balch the Rev. James T. Marshall delivered an address of a similar character on this celebrated Georgetown divine.

Empire State Society was active in the ceremonies attending the restoration and erection of a replica of the old Liberty Pole on its former site, in City Hall Park, and its presentation to the City of New York at the annual Flag Day celebration, New York City Hall, Flag Day, June 14, 1921. The Mayor of the City of New York presided.

On Flag Day the S. A. R. sent to England a handsome silk flag of the United States, which was presented to Sulgrave Manor, the ancestral home of the Washingtons. The flag was presented at the Manor House, on June 21, by Compatriot Charles Dumont, of Foxley Lane, Surrey, England, on behalf of the S. A. R., and was accepted by Ambassador Harvey, Honorary President of the Sulgrave Institution.

All schools in Schenectady prepared and executed interesting programs in connection with Flag Day, June 14.

On Independence Day Compatriots of the Empire State Society assembled in front of the barge office, at the Battery, July 4th, and marched with United States troops and the Federation des Veterans Francais de la Grande Guerre to St. Paul's Churchyard, where exercises of international significance were held under the auspices of the New York Chapter, S. A. R., at the tomb of General Bechet (Sieur de Rochefontaine). General Bechet, who was born at Ay, in the Department of the Marne, France, served under Rochambeau in the War for American Independence and later in the United States Army. The Council General of the Department of the Marne and the Municipal Council of the town of Ay joined in sending a bronze palm to be placed on the tomb. The New York Chapter has voted to place a floral wreath on the tomb annually, General Bechet being the most distinguished French officer who both participated in the actual fighting for American Independence and was buried in American soil.

At Mount Vernon, N. Y., the Independence Day celebration was participated in by members of the Empire State Society, S. A. R.

NEW YORK CHAPTER, at a meeting, decided that this Chapter would, by voluntary subscriptions, furnish a room in the new house of the Army and Navy Club of America, Central Park South, as a memorial to those members who made the supreme sacrifice during the World War.

"Uncle Sam Night," arranged by Mrs. Charles R. Scarborough, chairman of the Women's Auxiliary of the New York Port Society, in co-operation with the Sons of the American Revolution, Thursday evening, July 7, at New York Port Society's Building, New York, was a stirring success. The honorary committee was composed of Colonel Louis Annin Ames, Past President-General, Sons of the American Revolution; Brigadier-General Bridgman, President of New York Chapter, S. A. R.; Major Charles A. Dubois, Board of Managers, S. A. R.; Captain Reginald Fay, Board of Managers, S. A. R.; Hon. Felix Cordova Da Vila, Porto Rico Resident Commissioner, Washington, D. C.; Hon. Jaime C. De Veyra, Philippine Islands Resident Commissioner, Washington, D. C.; Frederick

H. Sieberth, Hawaiian Territory Commissioner, New York City, and M. J. De La Roma. A welcome was extended to all seafaring men and their friends by Colonel Louis Annin Ames in the address of welcome.

Constitution Day, the 134th anniversary of the adoption of the Constitution of the United States in Convention, September 17, 1787, was celebrated under the auspices of the New York Chapter, at the site of old Federal Hall, now occupied by the Subtreasury Building, at the corner of Wall and Nassau streets, on Saturday, September 17, 1921, at 12 o'clock noon. Compatriots and their friends assembled at St. Paul's Church at 11:30 a. m. and marched, with a band and detail from the United States Navy and invited delegations from other patriotic societies, to the Subtreasury. A stirring program was gone through with before crowds occupying Broad and Wall streets. The addresses were as follows: Brigadier-General Oliver B. Bridgman, N. G. N. Y. R. L., President of the New York Chapter, S. A. R., presiding. Music by the New York City Police Glee Club. Invocation by Rev. Joseph Fort Newton, D. D., Chaplain of the New York Chapter, S. A. R., and minister of the Church of the Divine Paternity. Address by Brigadier-General Louis W. Stotesbury. Music by the New York City Police Glee Club. Address by Colonel Francis R. Stoddard, Jr. "America" was sung by the audience, led by the Police Glee Club and accompanied by the 22d Regiment Infantry, U. S. A., Band.

The observance of Constitution Day was begun by the Sons of the American Revolution in 1919. Last year there were over 42,000 celebrations of the day throughout the country. Colonel Louis Annin Ames, chairman of the National Committee of the Sons of the American Revolution for the observance of the anniversary this year, reported that about 75,000 celebrations were organized for the anniversary.

The Illinois Society conducted impressive exercises in Chicago on the 17th, of which the special feature was a fine address upon the Constitution by Judge C. S. Cutting, an eminent jurist and member of the present Illinois Constitutional Convention.

The Indiana Society.—It is definitely known that more than 1,000 soldiers of the War of the Revolution are buried on Indiana soil, and it has been estimated that the number would run as high as 1,500 if a complete survey of the subject could be made.

The graves of these patriots are in every county. Off from the main highways of travel, in remote, isolated places, are old, abandoned, bramble-grown cemeteries within whose sacred precincts sleep in peace patriots who fought and endured in order that Independence might be established and that this glorious country might have birth. And they sleep, many of them, in graves that are rapidly becoming obliterated. Time and the ravages of the elements are effacing inscriptions from crude and ancient headstones; moss, leaf-mold, and sediment are burying from sight the very outlines of the graves themselves, and any intended work of reclamation and preservation should not longer be delayed.

The Indiana Society of the Sons of the American Revolution has now made definite arrangement for activity along this line by appointing Cornelius F. Posson, of Brazil, as chairman of a committee to take this task in hand. The task is of large proportions, and Compatriot Posson will need all of the assistance, from all quarters, that he can possibly obtain. Through the medium of the BULLETIN, the Indiana Society is today making personal appeal to every member of our Society to aid in the work of locating graves of Revolutionary soldiers. Let a survey be made by making inquiry of older citizens, by reference to historical and biographical atlases of your county published in earlier years, and by visits to the older cemeteries and family burying grounds of which you may learn by inquiry. Communicate your findings to Compatriot Posson, who is compiling a record in systematic form, which will enable us to take intelligent and definite action later.

This worthy cause should appeal to every man in whose veins flows the patriotic blood of Revolutionary ancestry. It is a field of endeavor for every Son in every corner of the State and Nation.

In an isolated rural cemetery up in Bartholomew County, Indiana, a compatriot some time ago scraped the moss from an ancient tombstone and uncovered the inscription, which gave the name and the military record of a Revolutionary soldier there buried, followed by these words: "He sleeps in peace in the land he fought to defend." So sleep many today in Indiana soil, many in graves that are entirely unmarked, some almost obliterated.

Compatriots, let us search them out while yet we may. Can we, who pride ourselves in our noble ancestry, engage in a more noble undertaking?

Through co-operation of the officers of the Indiana and Virginia Societies, the war service decoration was conferred on Lieut. Paul O. Meredith, a member of the Indiana Society, now a resident of Norfolk, Virginia. The ceremony, arranged by Hon. Frederick E. Emerson, Second Vice-President of the Virginia Society, was witnessed by 150 members of the United States Shipping Board staff.

When Lieut. Charles Timothy Jewett, of Terre Haute, Ind., Trustee of the National Society, was advised that it would not be convenient for Compatriot Meredith to return to Indiana to receive the decoration, he asked the officers of the Virginia Society to act for Indiana. The decoration was forwarded to Vice-President Emerson, who arranged the presentation. Mr. Meredith's associates of the Shipping Board staff were called together at noon, October 6, by Mr. Emerson. There was a short patriotic address by Judge Ackiss.

The Iowa Society.—The quarterly number of the Old Continental, published by the Iowa State Society, brings interesting notices of the activities of that progressive and live organization. It gives a fine detailed report of the annual meeting held April 19, 1921; also the President's address, giving several practical suggestions and urging the members to make "this our Iowa Society of the Sons of the American Revolution a live and useful promoter of true patriotism in the communities of our State." Detailed reports of the several officers are reported in full and show a most excellent condition. This excellent number of the Continental shows some splendid work that is being done in the schools and colleges, and gives the medal winners in the contests for colleges and high schools in the State of Iowa that is being carried on by the State Society. A remarkably interesting circumstance in the winning of the medals in the college class was that they were won by William H. Volger and Henry Volger, who are twins and in the same class in college.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, Walter E. Coffin, Des Moines; First Vice-President, F. D. Harsh, Des Moines; Second Vice-President, Roger Leavitt, Cedar Falls; Treasurer, William W. Bartlett; Secretary, Captain Eldridge Drew Hadley; Registrar, H. H. Griffiths; Historian, Arthur H. Davidson; Chaplain, William B. Sanford, D. D., all of Des Moines; Additional Managers, H. W. Grout, Waterloo; Francis L. Meredith, Des Moines; J. R. Anderson, Cedar Rapids; Rev. E. M. Vittum, Muscatine; Executive Committee, President, W. E. Coffin, F. D. Harsh, H. H. Griffiths; Trustee of National Society, Elmer Marston Wentworth.

The Kansas Society.—On Friday evening, September 16, the Kansas Society, together with the Daughters of the American Revolution, took part in an interesting and unique affair. Thirty-four foreigners were given their citizenship papers and an interesting program was carried out. Short addresses were made, patriotic music and recitations concluded the program, and light refreshments were served. The new citizens were very much pleased and seemed deeply interested. However, some of the active members of the Society were much affected by some regrettable facts that developed at this meeting. The lack of knowledge of well-known facts on the part of some of the applicants was startling. One had never heard of George Washington and another of Lincoln. Another has lived in Kansas for over forty years and had never taken out anything but first papers and had voted at every election. The Kansas Society expects to bring this matter before the National and State Societies and will urge that the naturalization laws be made more rigid in regard to these matters.

The Kentucky Society.—From Louisville we have word of a mass meeting at one of the large churches on the evening of the 17th, with an address by the Chaplain of the Kentucky Society, Dr. E. L. Powell, attended by over eight hundred people. The occasion was generally recognized throughout the public schools in Louisville and the State at large.

The Maine Society mourns the recent death of its President, Hon. James O. Bradbury, of Saco, who assumed the office only in February last, and who had greatly appreciated the honor bestowed upon him. Compatriot Bradbury was also the Trustee of the National Society for Maine. The Board of Managers elected, on June 9, last, William B. Berry, of Gardiner, to fill out the unexpired term of Mr. Bradbury, and adopted appropriate resolutions upon his death. Compatriot Berry is a direct descendant of Lieutenant Samuel Berry, whose brother, Lieutenant Nathaniel Berry, was the last surviving member of George Washington's Life Guards. A boulder with bronze tablet of inscription suitably commemorates this hero in Gardiner.

On Saturday, September 10, at Auburn, Me., there was unveiled a beautiful tablet to the memory of 357 men who served in the Continental Army during the Revolutionary War. The exercises were conducted by the Mary Dillingham Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, and was a most impressive and interesting ceremony. The address of welcome was made by Miss Margaret Wilson, representing the Mary Dillingham Chapter, and was responded to by Miss Maud Myrick, the State Regent of Maine. Judge George C. Wing, President of the Auburn Chapter, Sons of the American Revolution, was the principal speaker and made an eloquent and patriotic address. The event was one of the most significant and memorable in the history of Auburn.

The Massachusetts Society.—The first joint meeting ever held of the Sons and Daughters of the American Revolution of Berkshire County took place at the Red Lion Inn in Stockbridge, June 17, 1921, and was a most enjoyable affair. Representatives of the two organizations were present, about 60 in number, from Williamstown on the north to Stockbridge on the south, representing Berkshire County Chapter, Sons of the American Revolution, of this city; Fort Massachusetts Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution of North Adams, and the Ausotunnoog Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, of Lee and Stockbridge.

The affair was a dinner and outing in connection with the annual meeting of the Sons and celebration of Bunker Hill Day. The dinner was held at 7 o'clock and the speakers included Joseph E. Peirson and William L. Root, of this city, representing Berkshire County Chapter; Miss Seymour, of Stockbridge, representing Ausotunnoog Chapter; Mrs. C. O. Rundell, representing Fort Massachusetts Chapter; Mrs. James R. Savery, representing Peace Party Chapter, and Henry F. Punderson, from George Washington Chapter, Sons of the American Revolution, of Springfield.

Mrs. Savery made a very strong appeal to the members for support for work in the abandoned cemeteries in the smaller hill towns, where graves of Revolutionary War soldiers are in a ruinous condition. Mr. Root stated that it was the purpose of the Berkshire County Chapter to maintain all Revolutionary War markers in the country now existing, in a good condition, and to extend the work and mark all graves of Revolutionary War soldiers so far as possible.

At the business meeting of the Sons, which preceded the dinner, 10 new members were admitted to the Chapter, which now numbers 70.

The past year, it was reported, has been the most successful and prosperous in the history of the Chapter. The following officers were elected:

President, A. J. Witherell, of North Adams; Secretary, William L. Root; Treasurer, Elliot A. Clarke.

In celebration of Flag Day, June 14, the Massachusetts Society, Sons of the American Revolution, met at dinner in the American House, Boston, at 6.30 o'clock P. M., and all members and their ladies were invited to attend.

The speaker was Mr. Melville C. Freeman, of West Roxbury. Past President Vernon A. Field gave a talk on the Evolution of the United States Flag.

Among the invited guests were Major-General David C. Shanks, Major-General Samuel S. Sumner, Brigadier-General William H. Bisbee, and Capt. William B. Clarke.

The annual field day of the Massachusetts Society, Sons of the American Revolution, October 12, 1921, in Lexington, proved a big success. At the luncheon in Masonic Temple, shortly after noon, George Hale Nutting, who presided, read a letter from President Harding expressing his regret at being unable to be the guest of honor.

On the arrival of the visitors at the Munroe Tavern they were received by Edwin B. Worthen, president of the Lexington Historical Society, and by Major Alfred Pierce, of the Lexington Minute Men.

After viewing the tavern they marched to the Lexington Town Hall, escorted by the Minute Men, and "The Spirit of '76." The historical tablets were observed along the way. At the Town Hall the painting of the "Dawn of Liberty," by Sandham, was viewed, and Dr. Fred S. Piper, former president of the Historical Society, gave a short address.

From the Town Hall the visitors went to the battle-green, where, with guides and lecturers, the green, the old cemetery, the Hancock-Clarke, and the Buckman Tavern were visited. Dr. J. Odin Tilton, chairman of the Lexington Park Commissioners, delivered a short address at the Buckman Tavern. After luncheon more sightseeing was enjoyed.

The Michigan Society.—The Board of Governors of the Detroit Chapter, recently elected, held their first meeting in July and outlined a program for the coming year and announced appointments of chairmen of committees. Members attending were the guests of the newly elected President, Carl F. Clarke, at dinner preceding the meeting.

The Chapter took active part in ceremonies in connection with the naturalization of new citizens in June, and Dr. Morgan, Chaplain of the Chapter, presented, on behalf of the Society, to each newly made citizen a silk American Flag. There were 450 fully naturalized new citizens, including many women, and representing about 40 nationalities.

The death, on October 11, of Compatriot George William Bates, Historian General of the National Society from 1901 to 1906 and Vice-President General in 1908, has caused deepest regret among his friends in the Organization and community.

WASHTENAW CHAPTER, of Ann Arbor, observed Independence Day patriotically and pleasantly at the home of its President, Wilbert B. Hinsdale. A patriotic address by Compatriot Junius E. Beal, Regent of the University of Michigan, gave inspiration to the occasion. The Chapter, through its President, has requested the Superintendent of Schools of Ann Arbor to give recognition to Constitution Day by appropriate exercises on September 17th.

The New Hampshire Society, Sons of the American Revolution, in accordance with the request of the National Society and the custom of State Societies throughout the country, formally celebrated the 134th Anniversary of "Constitution Day," on which the Constitution of the United States was finally adopted and signed, at a meeting in the Hall of Representatives, at the State House, in Concord, on Saturday, September 17, 1921, at 11 o'clock a. m., Rumford Chapter, D. A. R., of Concord, co-operating and His Excellency Albert O. Brown, Governor of New Hampshire, presiding. There was an excellent program, with introductory remarks by the President, and an address by Hon. Sherman E. Burroughs, of Manchester, Representative in Congress from the First New Hampshire District, and music.

The New Jersey Society continued its membership campaign through the summer with gratifying results, candidates or inquiries being received daily. The Society will be compelled to move its headquarters in the near future on account of changes in the Lackawanna Railroad tracks, near which the office is located, at 44 Harrison Street, East Orange.

Independence Day was observed by nearly all the Chapters. Orange Chapter held exercises at Orange Park, Compatriot John Leonard Merrill being the speaker, and in the evening he again addressed an audience of several thousand persons at the Watsessing Park, East Orange.

David L. Pierson, Secretary of the State Society, was the speaker at the exercises held in Millburn, on the ground where the Battle of Springfield was fought, June 23, 1780.

MONTCLAIR CHAPTER arranged its program for the forenoon of the day and it was carried out in conjunction with the City Commission. Compatriot Elvord G. Chamberlin, President of the Chapter, was chairman of the meeting. Passaic Valley Chapter took part in the parade in Summit in the morning and Paramus Chapter participated in the public celebration in Ridgewood.

Rev. Dr. Frank Austin Smith, member of the State Board of Managers, delivered an address at Elizabeth, on "The Constitution and its Application to Today's Needs." All told, the day was well remembered in New Jersey. The youngest chapter, West Fields, No. 11, co-operated with the officials of the city of Westfield in an old-fashioned Independence Day remembrance.

At the formal dedication of the Dante House, in Orange, a building devoted to the interests of the Italians of the community, on the anniversary of Constitution Day, September 17, Orange Chapter presented a large bunting flag to the Dante House in the afternoon, when a Liberty Pole was dedicated. An address was delivered by Mayor William A. Lord and David L. Pierson, Secretary of the State Society.

In Orange, Montclair, and other places church bells rang for three minutes at the noon hour and was very beneficial in starting inquiries as to the cause of the commotion.

The headquarters of the New Jersey Society will be removed to Newark at an early day, on account of the taking of the building where the Society is now located for railroad changes on the Lackawanna.

The Ohio Society.—The anniversary of Perry's victory on Lake Erie was duly celebrated by the Western Reserve Society, Sons of the American Revolution, the ceremonial being held at Perry's Monument, overlooking Lake Erie, at Gordon Park, Cleveland, Ohio. The local Chapters of the Daughters of the American Revolution and Daughters of 1812 co-operated in making the occasion a memorable one, there being about 300 representative citizens in attendance. Compatriot Francis W. Treadway, ex-Lieutenant Governor of Ohio, presided, and the address of the day was delivered by Compatriot Rev. George H. Johnson, professor of history at Case School of Applied Science. At the close of the ceremony wreaths were placed on the monument by representatives of the Western Reserve Society, Sons of the American Revolution, and of the Daughters of 1812.

A unique feature of the celebration was a colored guard of boy scouts bearing replicas of the flags used by Perry at this memorable battle, together with the Union Jack and Stars and Stripes used at that date, as well as the flags in use at the present time. These flags were loaned by Compatriot Charles R. Putnam, chairman of the Society's Flag Committee, from his collection of American and Colonial flags, which has become one of the most complete in the United States. Inspiring music was furnished by the full band of the American Steel and Wire Co. and by vocalists who rendered patriotic selections. The occasion furnished a memorable precedent in the patriotic activities of Cleveland, which will doubtless become an annual affair, since Admiral Perry, more truly than any other American hero, was responsible for the preservation of the Northwest Territory to the United States.

This Society also sponsored an active campaign for the general observance of Constitution Day in Cleveland on September 17, a report of which will be given later.

The Tennessee Society will hold its annual meeting October 7, the anniversary of the Battle of King's Mountain, in which the woodsmen of Tennessee bore so prominent a part, and on this occasion there will be exhibited a historic sword of great interest. Daniel Kennedy, ancestor of Rev. M. S. Kennedy, of Pulaski, Tennessee, a member of the Tennessee Society, received this sword from an unknown British officer at the surrender of the British authorities at King's Mountain. His son, John Kennedy, sold the sword on July 25, 1805, to Greenville Lodge, No. 3, F. and A. M. This sword has been used by the tiler of the lodge continuously since 1805, except during the war between the States, when it was carried by Nathan Dodd, a Past Master of the lodge. Daniel Kennedy and his son John were both members of Greenville Lodge and the Tennessee Society is now represented in the lodge by Compatriots R. C. and N. T. Howard, through whose good offices the Society is able to procure the sword for exhibition.

The program of the meeting on October 7 includes an address by the Rev. Dr. Kennedy, and the Society proposes to again surrender the sword to him, the living link between 1780 and 1921. Other Revolutionary relics to be on exhibition at this time include the sash of the British General Ferguson, worn at the time of his death on King's Mountain, and the sword presented by North Carolina to John Sevier in appreciation of his services in this battle. A poem by Mrs. Elizabeth Wilkes Romine, ex-poet laureate of the Tennessee Daughters of the American Revolution and of the United Daughters of the Confederacy, composed especially for the occasion, is also to be a feature of the program.

A monument to the memory of Brig.-Gen. Daniel Kennedy, Greene County's first county clerk, pioneer of Tennessee, soldier, patriot, and statesman, was unveiled Sunday by Capt. Leroy Taylor Chapter, D. A. R., and the American Legion of Greeneville. The unveiling occurred at a little church six miles from Greeneville, known as Mount Zion, and located on the old Kennedy farm, now owned by Judge Dana Harmon. General Kennedy is buried at that place. Mrs. R. C. Howard, Regent of the D. A. R. Chapter, and quite a number of his descendants living in and around Knoxville attended the celebration.

The descendants of Brig.-Gen. Daniel Kennedy have erected a handsome monument to his memory, and Capt. Leroy Taylor Chapter took charge of the unveiling ceremonies, with the co-operation of the American Legion. The monument is a large boulder of Tennessee rock and has a bronze tablet, with the following inscription:

To the Memory
Col. Daniel Kennedy
1750-1802
Soldier, Patriot, Statesman
Honored Citizen
Revolutionary Soldier
Pioneer of Tennessee
First Clerk of Court, Greene County
Served under four forms of Government
1783-1802
Supported State of Franklin
Made Peace with Indians
Trustee, Greenville and Washington Colleges
Erected by Descendants

Gen. Daniel Kennedy, who was born in Virginia, was a contemporary of Governor John Sevier. He was a very young man at the breaking out of war with the Indians in Kentucky in 1774, but volunteered in the company of Capt. Evans Shelby and took part in the fierce and bloody battles in which our forefathers of East Tennessee won such fadeless laurels. In 1776 he was at Fort Wautauga under Capt. James Robertson and Lieut. John Sevier. General Rutherford called for the Mountain Brigades in 1780, and Kennedy met Shelby and Sevier at the rendezvous at Sycamore Shoals and was made lieutenant in Colonel Sevier's regiment, which won such immortal glory in the battle. He was promoted to a captaincy for gallantry at King's Mountain and was in this battle.

When Colonel Sevier was made brigadier-general of the Wautauga troop, Captain Kennedy became colonel; so when Sevier became Governor of the State of Franklin (of which Greeneville was the capital), Colonel Kennedy was chosen brigadier-general of the troops of that State.

The Tennessee Society is making progress in increased membership and threatens to win one of the Traveling Banners this year.

Utah Society.—A gavel that is historic and a relic of real value was displayed by Judge Wallace McCamant, President General, who was the guest of honor and principal speaker at a banquet in the Hotel Utah, Salt Lake City, and who detailed its history to the members of the Utah Society of the Sons of the American Revolution, who entertained him.

The gavel is the official instrument of the National Society and was presented to it in May, 1920, as such. The head is made of wood from Faneuil Hall and the handle from the old State-house at Boston. In addition to this, the gavel has twenty-one inserts. One is a piece of Plymouth Rock, one is wood from the home of Paul Revere, one from the home of Asa Pollard, who was the first man killed in the Battle of Bunker Hill; one from the Old North Bridge at Concord, where the shot was fired which was "heard around the world"; one from the man-o'-war Somerset, which took part in the Battle of Bunker Hill, and one from the elm tree at Cambridge, Mass., under which Washington took command of the Army of the Revolution.

"The Sons of the American Revolution," Judge McCamant said, "is not just an organization that dwells in the past and hopes to have recognition for what the ancestors of its members did more than 100 years ago. We do a few things, and, as I see it, the fact that we are descended from those who fought in the Revolution only gives us added responsibility. The Society is strictly a patriotic organization. One of the more important things we have been instrumental in bringing about is the general observance of Constitution Day. The prime movers in this work were Elmer Marston Wentworth, of Des Moines, Iowa, and Louis Annin Ames, of New York City."

On his arrival in Salt Lake Judge McCamant was met at the depot by a committee of the local Society. At the banquet the toastmaster, General John Q. Cannon, was introduced by Vice-President Robert E. McCaughy. The Rt. Rev. Arthur W. Moulton, Episcopal Bishop of Utah, offered the invocation.

In his address Judge McCamant said:

"The Sons of the American Revolution is a patriotic Society. Descent from some one who assisted in establishing American independence is one of the qualifications for membership. We claim no privileges because of our ancestry, but we do think that we have a higher duty than that devolving on most men to serve our country and to protect the political heritage which has come down to us from the fathers.

"Our Society took the initiative in bringing about the nation-wide observance of Constitution Day. At present we are giving a good deal of attention to the matter of patriotic education. We are anxious that the story of our country's past shall be taught in the schools in such a way as to kindle in the students a love for flag and country. Every student in an American school should appreciate the franchises and privileges which are ours as the result of the wisdom and self-sacrifice of the men of the American Revolution. Many of the textbooks on American history in use in our schools are inadequate; some of them are vicious and untruthful.

"We are most anxious to improve conditions in our institutions of higher learning. Our young men and young women go to college at an impressionable age. If they come under the influence of professors who teach destructive political doctrine, they are apt to come out of college with a distorted point of view, which will impair the quality of their citizenship throughout their lives. No one should occupy a chair in the faculty of any American institution unless he is a believer in the principles of the Declaration of Independence and of the Federal Constitution."

The Washington Society.—Spokane Chapter held a meeting at noon on October 17, the members lunching at the Spokane City Club. Compatriot H. W. Canfield addressed the meeting.

Number 3

The OFFICIAL BULLETIN records action by the General Officers, the Board of Trustees, the Executive and other National Committees, lists of members deceased and of new members, and important doings of State Societies. In order that the OFFICIAL BULLETIN may be up to date, and to insure the preservation in the National Society archives of a complete history of the doings of the entire organization, State Societies and local Chapters are requested to communicate promptly to the Secretary General written or printed accounts of all meetings or celebrations, to forward copies of all notices, circulars; and other printed matter issued by them, and to notify him at once of dates of death of members.
