OF THE

National Society of the Sons of the American Revolution

Organized April 30, 1889
Incorporated by Act of Congress, June 9, 1906

President General
W. I. LINCOLN ADAMS
Montclair, New Jersey

Published at Washington, D. C., in June, October, December, and March.
Entered as second-class matter, May 7, 1908, at the post-office at Washington, D. C., under the act of July 16, 1894.

Volume XVII

MARCH, 1923

The OFFICIAL BULLETIN records action by the General Officers, the Board of Trustees, the Executive and other National Committees, lists of members deceased and of new members, and important doings of State Societies. In order that the OFFICIAL BULLETIN may be up to date, and to insure the preservation in the National Society archives of a complete history of the doings of the entire organization, State Societies and local Chapters are requested to communicate promptly to the Secretary General written or printed accounts of all meetings or celebrations, to forward copies of all notices, circulars, and other printed matter issued by them, and to notify him at once of dates of death of members.

PURPOSES AND OBJECTS OF THE S. A. R.

(EXTRACTS FROM CONSTITUTION)

The purposes and objects of this Society are declared to be patriotic, historical, and educational, and shall include those intended or designed to perpetuate the memory of the men who, by their services or sacrifices during the war of the American Revolution, achieved the independence of the American people; to unite and promote fellowship among their descendants; to inspire them and the community at large with a more profound reverence for the principles of the government founded by our forefathers; to encourage historical research in relation to the American Revolution; to acquire and preserve the records of the individual services of the patriots of the war, as well as documents, relics, and landmarks; to mark the scenes of the Revolution by appropriate memorials; to celebrate the anniversaries of the prominent events of the war and of the Revolutionary period; to foster true patriotism; to maintain and extend the institutions of American freedom, and to carry out the purposes expressed in the preamble of the Constitution of our country and the injunctions of Washington in his farewell address to the American people.

Qualifications for Membership

Any man shall be eligible to membership in the Society who, being of the age of twenty-one years or over and a citizen of good repute in the community, is the lineal descendant of an ancestor who was at all times unfailing in his loyalty to, and rendered active service in, the cause of American Independence, either as an officer, soldier, seaman, marine, militiaman or minute man, in the armed forces of the Continental Congress or of any one of the several Colonies or States, or as a Signer of the Declaration of Independence, or as a member of a Committee of Safety or Correspondence, or as a member of any Continental, Provincial, or Colonial Congress or Legislature, or as a recognized patriot who performed actual service by overt acts of resistance to the authority of Great Britain.

Provided, however, that any male person, above the age of 18 years and under the age of 21 years, whose qualifications in regard to ancestry and personal character are as above prescribed, shall be eligible to a qualified membership to be known and designated as junior membership.

Application for membership is made on standard blanks furnished by the State Societies. These blanks call for the place and date of birth and of death of the Revolutionary ancestor and the year of birth, of marriage, and of death of ancestors in intervening generations. Membership is based on one original claim; additional claims are filed on supplemental papers. The applications and supplementals are made in duplicate.

ON TO NASHVILLE

There is no doubt that the most important matter that is before the members of this Society at this time is the next Congress of the National Society, Sons of the American Revolution, to be held from Sunday, May 20, 1923, through Tuesday, May 22.

That this Congress will be not only one of the most interesting from the standpoint of the work to be accomplished by the Congress itself, but the fact that it is the first that has been held so far in the southland and in the attractive city of Nashville, should make it wonderfully attractive to our members, not only from the South itself, but from the East, West, North, and Middle West especially.

Then again the mere outline of the program that is printed in this issue of the BULLETIN is but a slight evidence of what those hospitable compatriots from the Tennessee Society, and Nashville especially, are planning to do to entertain the delegates. It is not necessary to have to read between the lines of the enthusiastic letters from Compatriot Millsbaugh, who is the moving spirit of this Society, to understand that the welcome and entertainment to be given to the visiting compatriots will be probably as enthusiastic as ever given to a National Congress. It is impossible to tell here of the numerous plans and preparations that the committees have awaiting the delegates, but the members from the other States are urged now to plan to go to this Congress and see for themselves what is in store for them.

Application is now pending for a special rate of a fare and one-half to Nashville, and if granted notice will be given to the State secretaries. However, this special fare is predicated upon the attendance of not less than two hundred and fifty persons from outside places, and it is up to the members to make this good. If you are a delegate and will attend the Congress, get in touch with your State Secretary and he will give you the details of this special fare proposition if it is granted.

A further project is on foot to have a special train or special cars from the East and North. This would take in delegates from all of the New England States, New York, New Jersey, possibly part of Pennsylvania, Maryland, and Delaware. If this plan is found to be possible and enough members signify their intention of going on this train or cars, due notice will be given to the several State officials and announcement made to the delegates in that manner. It would greatly assist the National officers if the delegates will notify either their State secretaries or the Secretary General at an early date if they will be able to attend the Congress in Nashville.

Let us make this a great event in the history of the Society. Nashville deserves it, for this Society has had a wonderful year. It has gone ahead by leaps and bounds. The compatriots in that city have shown what can be done by real push, energy, and true patriotism, and they deserve the support of their sister societies in every part of the country.

The program of the Congress follows, and compatriots who desire further information will get enthusiastic answers from compatriot Fred W. Millspaugh, Nashville, Tenn. No other address is needed; for if he is not the best-known man in Nashville now, he will be after this Congress meets there.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

President General Adams has appointed Mr. Carl M. Vail, of the New Jersey Society, as chairman of the Special Committee to Arrange for the Celebration of the 150th Anniversary of Historical Events of the American Revolution. This committee was appointed in fulfillment of a resolution adopted at the Springfield Congress. Other appointments on this committee are Judge Adrian Lyon, of New Jersey; Albert L. Wyman, of New Jersey; David L. Pierson, of New Jersey; Edward Hagaman Hall, of New York; Dr. Charles H. Bangs, of Massachusetts; Walter K. Watkins, Historian of the Massachusetts Society, and the Historians of the State societies in those States where Revolutionary events occurred. Additions to this committee will be made from time to time.

For the information of State Society officers, the new certificate issued by the National Society to each new member and which has been in effect since October first, is sent directly from the office of the Secretary General to the new compatriot. This is a small certificate, 11 x 9 inches, and bears the signature of the President General and the Secretary General, the National number, and the seal of the Society. This does not preclude the purchase by the compatriot of the former certificate, which will be issued as usual upon application to the Registrar General.

The Secretary General respectfully requests all State Secretaries and others sending in material for publication in the BULLETIN to kindly get all copy to the office of the Secretary General on or before the 15th of the month of publication, namely, October, December, March, and June.

ANNOUNCEMENT OF PROPOSED AMENDMENT TO CONSTITUTION

Compatriots are advised that at the 33d Annual Congress of the National Society, Sons of the American Revolution, held in the city of Springfield, Mass., May 15, 1922, the following amendment to the Constitution of the National Society was proposed and will be presented as an amendment for consideration to the annual Congress to be held in the city of Nashville, Tenn., on May 21, 1923.

That Article VI of the Constitution of the National Society be amended to read as follows:

"Each State Society shall pay annually to the Treasurer General to defray the expense of the National Society one dollar for each member thereof, unless intermitted by the National Congress.

"Such dues shall be paid on or before the first day of April for the ensuing year in order to secure representation in the Congress of the National Society."

(Italics indicate amendments added or changed.)

This notice has been sent to officers and State Societies in accordance with the requirements of our Constitution.

ADVERTISING—A NEW VENTURE FOR THE BULLETIN

The compatriots will notice that in this issue of the BULLETIN there appear a few advertisements that should appeal to our members. At the meeting of the Executive Committee held in New York in October, a committee, consisting of the President General, the Secretary General, and Past President General Ames, was appointed with power to solicit and publish in a future BULLETIN a few desirable advertisements. It was felt that some of the space of the BULLETIN could be used to advantage in this way, and thus help to very materially reduce the cost of its publication. The few that are published in this issue, it is hoped, are but a start in this direction, and it is thought that with the assistance of our compatriots in all parts of the country this venture will substantially reduce the cost of publication, if not pay for it in full, in due time. The circulation of our BULLETIN, as is well known, is of the highest order, and though approximately but 20,000 now, will no doubt grow to much higher figures in the near future.

With the help of the members, this venture in desirable advertising can be made a great success and get the results desired. If the compatriots throughout the many States and Chapters will do a little missionary work among National advertisers in the community in which they live by not only telling of this chance to get to high-class readers, but, if possible, secure a page or part of a page of good advertising, this plan will be a great success. There is no desire to make money out of this idea, but merely to reduce the cost of our publication. Kindly communicate with the Editor of the BULLETIN if you wish further information.

"A CLARION CALL"

Compatriot Louis Wilkins Culbreath, of Stanton, Tenn., writing to Vice-President F. W. Millspaugh, of the Tennessee Society, has this to say of the President General's article in the December BULLETIN, on "The Responsibility of the Well Born":

"I cannot close without referring to the article in the BULLETIN by our President General, on 'The Responsibility of the Well Born.' In these trying times of unrest, of 'isms and 'cisms, of propaganda for this and that, a spasm of uncertainty and the wild rush of madmen and peoples for place and power, such preachments as his fall upon our troubled souls as the dew of Hermon that ran down upon Aaron's beard, even to the hem of his garment. His is a clarion call to patriotic duty, clean cut, clear, and unmistakable. He said more in thirty lines than I have gleaned from volumes. I wish I could place this one article in the hands of every boy and girl, man and woman, under the American Flag today."

"Though a member of less than three months' standing," writes Mr. Millspaugh, "Dr. Culbreath has already recruited four members in his little town and is going to enlist others soon. There is no man in his county who stands higher or is more beloved than this country doctor."

WASHINGTON, THE STATESMAN

The President General sent the following letter to the Secretaries of all of our State Societies, to be read by them to the members of their respective organizations at some meeting during the month of February:

OFFICE OF PRESIDENT GENERAL,
MONTCLAIR, N. J., February 2, 1923.

COMPATRIOTS:

Last year, at this patriotic season, we considered George Washington as the gentleman, in accordance with the request of our honored President General at that time.

This year may I suggest that compatriots will think of him principally as the far-seeing and constructive statesman; for it is in the contemplation of that important side of this many-sided man that we may find, perhaps, the greatest aid in solving the perplexing problems which confront us at this time.

Let us read and reread the state papers and public addresses of President Washington, particularly the immortal Farewell Address, the prophetic wisdom and sound political judgment of which was never more needed than now.

Commending to all compatriots, then, the thoughtful consideration of Washington, the statesman, at this time, I am, with every good wish for one and all,

Faithfully and fraternally yours,

WASHINGTON I. L. ADAMS,
President General.

EXTRACT OF LETTER FROM PRESIDENT HARDING TO PRESIDENT GENERAL ADAMS

"I have been particularly proud of my membership in this Society, and of the fact that I am eligible to such membership. I look upon it as one of the worthy and uniformly well-directed engineerings of patriotism that have sought to crystallize into national sentiments and public policies the best thought and purpose of the American Nation; therefore I have pleasure in wishing the success of the forthcoming Congress and the continuance of the Society's splendid service.

"Most sincerely yours,
(Signed)

WARREN G. HARDING.

The White House, Washington, D. C., February 1, 1923."

LETTER FROM ONE OF OUR REAL SONS

Major WASHINGTON I. L. ADAMS,

President General of National Society, S. A. R., Montclair, New Jersey:

DEAR MR. ADAMS:

I wish to express my most sincere thanks to the National Society of the Sons of the American Revolution for the distinguished honor they bestowed upon me in electing me a member of the National Society. I accept with deepest gratitude, as my 102d birthday present, the beautifully engraved certificate of membership.

Sincerely yours,

GEORGE A. GORDON.

EUREKA, KANSAS, January 29, 1923.

OFFICIAL INSIGNIA AND WAR SERVICE BARS

Illustration is again given of our Official Insignia, and the War Service Bars to be worn upon its ribbon. The former is obtained by application for permit to purchase from the officers of the State Societies or the Registrar General. The latter should be applied for directly to the Secretary General. In applying for the latter, copies of discharge papers or commissions should accompany applications.

PRESIDENT GENERAL HONORED BY D. A. R.

The President General has accepted the invitation of the President General of the National Society, Daughters of the American Revolution, to make the opening address at their annual Congress, in Continental Hall, on the 16th of April.

THE PRESIDENT GENERAL'S OFFICIAL TRIP

The President General left New York on his official transcontinental trip on the afternoon of January 5, and made his first stop in Chicago, where he was entertained by the Illinois Society.

He attended a luncheon of the officers and members of the Board of Managers at the Union League Club, in that city, on the afternoon of January 6. State President James Edgar Brown presided, and Vice-President General Louis A. Bowman, who is also Secretary of the Illinois Society, recorded. About twenty representative members of the Society were present, and to them the President General spoke informally in regard to the various activities of the National Organization.

In the evening the regular meeting of the entire Society was held at the Great Western Hotel, about 100 being present. The President General made the principal address of the occasion, taking for his subject "History and Patriotism" and speaking principally about the value of the proper study of history as a means of cultivating true patriotism.

His next stop was at Salt Lake City, where he was met at the station, on the afternoon of January 9, by a large delegation of the Utah Society, including Vice-President General George Albert Smith; State President John Q. Cannon, Compatriots D. S. Spencer, Samuel P. Dobbs, and other representative members of the Utah Society. That evening an informal dinner was given for the President General at the Hotel Utah by the officers of the Utah Society and an informal conference followed.

A luncheon was held in the Alta Club the next day, at which the officers and the members of the Board of Managers were present, about 20 in number. Compatriot Russell L. Tracey was host. Governor Mabey, of Utah, who is a compatriot, spoke informally, as did also the President General. He visited the United States Army Post at Fort Douglas, Salt Lake City, and addressed the assembled officers there, in an informal manner, as one brother officer to others.

Later in the afternoon he was invited to address the Utah Legislature, which had met in joint session, and his remarks there met with cordial approval. Many Senators and representatives of the Utah Legislature are members of our organization.

In the evening the banquet of the Utah Society was held at the beautiful Hotel Utah, which was largely attended by both ladies and compatriots. The meeting was addressed by Governor Mabey and the Mayor of Salt Lake City, as well as by the President General, who made the principal address.

Referring to the visit of the President General in Utah, The Deseret News, which is the oldest paper of the State, has this to say of the President General, at the conclusion of an editorial in its issue of January 10, entitled

"A DISTINGUISHED VISITOR"

"Utah is pleased and proud to welcome Major Adams and to extend to him the hand of friendship and hospitality. He will find among his compatriots here a burning patriotism akin to his own, and in the hearts of the people in general he will discern a love of country, a pride in its accomplishments, and an abiding faith in its high destiny."

From Salt Lake City the President General was accompanied by George Albert Smith, Vice-President General for the Mountain Region and the Pacific Coast.

Their first stop was in Portland, Oregon, which they reached Friday morning, January 12. They were entertained the same day at luncheon at the Arlington Club by former President General Wallace McCamant, at which a number of the officers and members of the Board of Managers were present. The general officers attended a dinner in the same club that night, at which there was a fine group of Portland's leading citizens and members of our organization.

The luncheon on the following day was given by the Board of Managers of the Oregon Society and the officers of that State organization. Both the President General and Vice-President General Smith made informal addresses at this luncheon in regard to the active work of the Society.

A dinner and reception at the University Club, under the auspices of the Oregon Society, was held the same evening, with about one hundred present. The President of the State Society, B. B. Beekman, presided. Director General Wallace McCamant introduced the President General, and he was followed by Vice-President General Smith. Justice McBride, Chief Justice of the State of Oregon, and representatives of the G. A. R., the American Legion, as well as officers of the United States Army and Navy, were in attendance.

The President General spoke of the importance of censoring the teaching and teachers of American history, as well as the text-books, and he concluded his address with the Pledge to the Flag of the New Jersey State Society, as follows:

"Flag of our great Republic, hallowed by noblest deeds and loving sacrifice, guardian of our homes, an inspiration in every battle for the right, whose stars and stripes stand for Beauty, Purity, Truth, Patriotism, and the Union, and for thy defense, the protection of our country, and the conservation of the liberty of the American people, we pledge our hearts, our lives, and our sacred honor."

WE SALUTE THEE,

Major Adams was greatly impressed while in Portland, Oregon, with the patriotic attitude of the Portland Chapter in appointing Compatriot Pratt, formerly of Meriden, Conn., as lecturer on American history and American ideals. Mr. Pratt goes about among the schools each day and, taking some historical personage or incident in American history, speaks on patriotism before the children.

Their next stop was at San Francisco, where the general officers were entertained by the California Society. A dinner and reception were held, under the auspices of the Sons and Daughters of the American Revolution, at the Commercial Club of that city on the evening of January 16. On Thursday, the eighteenth, the officers and members of the Board of Managers entertained the general officers informally at luncheon in the Commercial Club, and a profitable conference in regard to the interests of the organization was held at that time.

The general officers were then conducted to "Telegraph Hill," where they both spoke over the radio. The President General's address was entitled "A Message of Patriotism," and he has heard approvingly of it from all over the country. Among other things, he said:

"I consider every man a true American who has the American spirit, whether he was born in this country or in a foreign land. . . .

"It is true our race is becoming less, both proportionately and in numbers, which is certainly a grave condition; but we must make up for our losses in numbers by the strength and force of our character; what we lose in quantity we must gain in the quality of our citizenship. . . .

"We who were born in favored circumstances, and who have advantages that are denied to many, should set an example to all in patriotic service and public-spirited, unselfish devotion to the country."

At Los Angeles the general officers were entertained at luncheon on Friday, January 19, by officers and representatives of the Sons of the Revolution and members of the Society of Colonial Wars. President General Adams, who is also Governor of the New Jersey Society of Colonial Wars, brought the greetings of that Society to the California organization. He found in this city that a very cordial feeling existed between the Sons of the Revolution and Sons of the American Revolution, a sentiment which he did everything in his power to strengthen. The next day the President General made the address at the Saturday noonday meeting of the City Club, on "Practical Patriotism," which was well received and was followed by an interesting and animated discussion, during which questions were freely asked and frankly answered.

Later, the same day, he visited the Harvard Military School and the Page Military School, for younger boys, near Hollywood. At the latter school Major Page held battalion drill and review in honor of Major Adams.

Vice-President Smith returned to Utah from Los Angeles, while the President General proceeded to New Orleans. He arrived in the Crescent City on the evening of Tuesday, January 23, and was met there by Colonel C. Robert Churchill, President of the Louisiana State Society, and a delegation of the members and officers of that active organization.

The next day he was entertained at luncheon by the officers of the Louisiana Society in one of the historic old French restaurants in that interesting city. The dinner and annual meeting of the Louisiana State Society was held the same evening, in the Sazerac restaurant, and was an enthusiastic success from every point of view. There were about 75 present. Addresses were made by Compatriot Edwin T. Merrick, a former President of the Louisiana Society; Compatriot J. Edward Kirby, former President of the Iowa Society; Hon. Thomas W. Robertson, Speaker of the House of Representatives of Louisiana, and by the President General, who made the principal address of the evening.

An interesting feature of this meeting was the automatic roll-call of the members. Each member in turn arose, gave his name, profession or business, and address, and then stated his ancestor or ancestors, through whom he qualified for membership. The following day a group of the officers of the Louisiana Society took the President General for a trip on the river, which was greatly enjoyed by all who participated.

The President General was joined on his trip from New Orleans to Louisville by Compatriot F. W. Millsbaugh, Vice-President of the Tennessee Society, who attended the banquet and meeting of the Kentucky Society in Louisville, Friday, January 26, at the Pendennis Club, and spoke for the Tennessee Society in soliciting the co-operation of the Kentucky Society in making the forthcoming Congress at Nashville the success it should be. Mr. Helm Bruce, of Louisville, spoke on the subject "Why We Are" in a most eloquent manner.

The President General made an address in which he described the vast patriotic activities of our organization, and was followed by the Governor of Kentucky, Edwin P. Morrow, who is a member of the Kentucky Society. Dr. Curran Pope, Vice-President of the Society, was toastmaster in the place of President J. Swigert Taylor, who had recently met with a bereavement in his family. Colors were presented in due form and saluted and the installation of new members followed in the following form:

INSTALLATION OF NEW MEMBERS

PRESIDENT: "The following gentlemen have been elected members since the last installation." (Reads their names.) "They will now come forward."

The president then said: "Gentlemen, the interests, objects, and principles of this Society are consecrated to our united care. We are pledged to protect the institutions of our sovereign nation; to guard the flag; to foster true 100 per cent Americanism; to resist to the utmost of our strength every act or sentiment unfriendly to our country. Does each one of you so pledge yourself?"

In unison, each says: "I do. As my ancestors offered their lives and fortunes that this sovereign nation of United States might be born and prosper, I, in their names, pledge myself to defend it against enemies; to protect its flag from danger and calumny; to stand at all times watchful of its safety; to be quick to attack every sentiment or alien propaganda that threatens it; to foster love of country and true 100 per cent Americanism. I serve but one God, one flag, one country."

PRESIDENT (to older members): "Your properly constituted authorities have, after due care, recommended and elected these gentlemen, and they are now formally accepted as members of this Society."

OLDER MEMBERS: "Compatriots, we give you hearty welcome."

The custodian of the colors then returned with the flag. After he had done this, the older members sang the first verse of "America," during which the newly installed compatriots returned to their seats.

The menu contained the following references to the name of the President General:

WASHINGTON

"The very idea of the power and right of the people to establish government presupposes the duty of every individual to obey the established government."—George Washington.

IRVING

"The flag which he had contributed to ennoble, and had died to defend is a picture that will remain treasured up in the dearest recollection of every American."—Irving's Sketch of Lawrence.

LINCOLN

"Continue to execute all the express provisions of the National Constitution and the Union will endure forever."—Lincoln.

ADAMS

"Think of your forefathers! Think of your posterity!"—John Quincy Adams.

The next day Major Adams was entertained at luncheon by former President General R. C. Ballard Thruston and Director General Marvin H. Lewis, at the Pendennis Club. He delivered his "Message of Patriotism" over the Louisville Courier Journal radio (WHAŠ) at 8 o'clock the same evening, and later spoke from the stage of Macauley's Theater at the conclusion of the premier performance of the "Man Without a Country," which was given in that historic theater by the American Legion. In this address, which of necessity was a brief one, Major Adams explained to the large audience, which packed the theater from orchestra to gallery, that "the Sons of the American Revolution are not ancestor worshippers or idealers of the past; they do not think for one moment that they acquire any personal merit by virtue of descent from a long line of patriotic American ancestry; but they do believe that they inherit from their heroic forefathers a solemn obligation, in these present critical times, to acquit themselves like the men of 'seventy-six'." He concluded his impressive address by saying: "How different would have been the sad ending of Philip Nolan, hero of the moving picture of 'The Man Without a Country,' if, instead of cursing his country as he did in his youth, he had said, with Daniel Webster:

"I shall know but one country. The ends I seek shall be my country's, my God's, and Truth. I was born an American, I have lived an American, I shall die an American; and the duties incumbent upon me in that capacity I shall continue to discharge to the end of my career."

The next day the President General proceeded to Washington, D. C., where he was entertained by the District of Columbia Society. A reception was held under the auspices of this Society in his honor, to which the Daughters were also invited. After the reception, at which Mrs. Adams assisted the President General in receiving the members and guests, a meeting was held in a connecting hall, attended by several hundred people.

Selden Marvin Ely, President of the Society, introduced Major Adams as a man, "patriotic as the Constitution, as American as the Flag." The President General then spoke on "The Responsibility of the Well Born," and was followed by Mrs. George Maynard Minor, President General of the Daughters of the American Revolution, and others. A substantial supper was then served, followed by dancing.

While in Washington the President General called upon Mrs. Minor, by appointment, at her executive offices in Continental Memorial Hall. He was also at the offices of our National Headquarters every day during his stay at Washington, signing certificates and transacting other official business with Registrar General Culver and Mrs. Clark.

Mr. Samuel Herrick, a former President of the District of Columbia Society, entertained the President General with the officers and Board of Managers, at a luncheon Wednesday, January 31. He was also entertained by Vice-President General Larner and his daughter and son-in-law, Mrs. and Captain Gore.

The President General was unable to see the President in person while in Washington, on account of the President's illness at the time; so Major Adams wrote him the following letter, to which he received the appended reply:

WASHINGTON, D. C., January 30, 1923.

HON. WARREN G. HARDING,
President of the United States, Washington, D. C.

MY DEAR MR. PRESIDENT AND COMPATRIOT:

I am sincerely sorry to learn from your secretary that your recent illness is the reason which prevents me from paying my respects to you in person while I am in Washington.

I am completing an official trip of the country, and had the honor of writing you the other day from New Orleans about the effect of an address of mine before the City Club in Los Angeles, which was a most hearty endorsement of your bonus veto.

In behalf of the National Society of the Sons of the American Revolution, of which you are our most honored member, may I, its President General, now extend to you in this way what I desired to do in person, a most cordial invitation to attend our next National Congress, which will be held in Nashville, Tennessee, from May twentieth to the twenty-third.

If it were possible for you to be present, for only one day, during our Congress, I can promise you a delightful and most interesting time amongst fellow-Americans, who are almost kinsfolk of yours.

And would not an old-fashioned American speech from you, our honored President and compatriot, on such an occasion as this, appeal to the imagination and the patriotism of our fellow-Americans, and indeed to all the world, at this crisis in the history of the world, which would be most timely and impressive.

I earnestly pray you keep the date in mind and, if possible, accept our most sincere and fraternal invitation.

With all respect and solicitude for the early and complete return of your health and strength,

I am, faithfully yours,

(Signed)

WASHINGTON I. L. ADAMS,
President General.

THE WHITE HOUSE, WASHINGTON, February 1, 1923.
MY DEAR MR. ADAMS:

Please be assured of my sincere regrets that it was impossible for me to receive you in person when you were in Washington, owing to my indisposition. I have now received, through your very kind letter, the invitation which you had intended to present in person, asking me to attend the National Congress of the Society at Nashville in the late days of May. I want you, and the members of the Society, to know how much I appreciate the invitation and how greatly I regret that, owing to other arrangements which entirely dispose of my time at that period, acceptance is impossible. I have been particularly proud of my membership in this Society and of the fact that I am eligible to such membership. I look upon it as one of the worthy and uniformly well directed engineerings of patriotism that have sought to crystallize into national sentiments and public policies the best thought and purpose of the American Nation; therefore I have pleasure in wishing the success of the forthcoming Congress and the continuance of the Society's splendid service.

Most sincerely yours,

(Signed)

WARREN G. HARDING.

The President General was everywhere received with the utmost courtesy and (as he writes) "with distinguished attention far beyond any personal merit." The public press was uniformly friendly and very generous in the amount of space which they accorded to the reports of the meetings which Major Adams addressed and to the reports of his speeches.

The principal themes of his addresses, as reported in the press, were the necessity for all true Americans to stand together in these critical times in defense of the fundamental principles of our Republic, and by example, by education and patriotic propaganda, endeavor to offset the evil influences of those who are antagonistic to our ideals and standards of government. He repeatedly pointed out that "all are true Americans who have the American spirit, whether descendants from a long line of American ancestry or foreign born, and he called upon all "to defend our country from its foes, whether from without or within."

This notable official journey of our President General, which occupied just a month in duration, and during which he covered nearly 10,000 miles, visited 26 States, and made 25 formal addresses, besides the informal talks which he gave at luncheons and at conferences, may be recorded as a successful trip in every way. He not only advanced the highest interests of our National Organization, as well as the various local Societies which he visited, but, what is of far greater importance, he extended and promoted the great cause of American patriotism.

OTHER OFFICIAL VISITS OF THE PRESIDENT GENERAL

Since his return from the official transcontinental trip which the President General completed in February, he has made a number of official visits in the East.

Thursday evening, February 20, he was the guest of honor of the New Jersey Society in Newark, where he delivered an address on the outstanding features of his coast-to-coast official trip.

The following night he spoke in similar vein before the New York Chapter at the Army and Navy Club in New York City. On this occasion former Ambassador Wilson to Mexico made the address on Washington, and Col. C. Robert Churchill, of the Louisiana Society, brought the greetings of that active organization.

On the 22d the President General spoke in two States: First, after the luncheon of the Connecticut Society in the Hotel Taft, New Haven, and the same evening before the George Washington Chapter, in Springfield, Mass. State President Dr. Charles H. Bangs spoke on "The Enduring Washington" on this occasion.

All of these meetings were well attended with enthusiastic compatriots, who gave our President General a most cordial welcome home after his long official trip.

The New Jersey compatriots gave a reception on the evening of March 16 at the home of former Vice-President General T. W. Williams, in Orange.

DECEASED COMPATRIOTS

It would not seem proper if something was not said at this time about the three beloved and honored compatriots who have passed away within the last few months. Many others have died during this year, but it seems fitting that some special mention should be made of these three men, who a few years ago were the leaders in the achievements, ideals, and progress of the Society. Albert M. Henry, of Detroit, Mich.; Commander John H. Moore, of Washington, D. C., and Hon. Morris B. Beardsley, of Bridgeport, Conn., were compatriots who were typical of the best that this organization stands for and who left their impress on its pages of history so that it can never be erased. All of these gentlemen were singularly alike—genial, kindly, progressive, and able. They at all times had the best interests of the Society at heart and gave of their time and abilities without stint and with a patriotic fervor and enthusiasm that accomplished results that will never be forgotten.

Judge Beardsley was elected President General in 1909 and served for one year. He had been Vice-President General before that and was on many committees of importance, including the Executive Committee. His interest never flagged, and it is known that he attended every Congress up to and including the one at Springfield, in 1922. He was always accompanied by his devoted wife, and the older members who have enjoyed their friendship and looked for their presence will miss them with a sorrow that cannot be expressed in words, Commander John H. Moore, although he would never accept the office of President General, had been at one time one of our most influential and devoted members. As he expressed it on several occasions when urged to take the highest office of this organization, "I would rather help run it than have to run it." He was Vice-President General in 1911, elected at Louisville, Ky. But his great work was as the chairman of the Committee on Alien Education. It was through his persistent and untiring efforts that the three pamphlets were issued for distribution to the foreigner on our shores. The pamphlet so clearly written by Judge Stockbridge, of Maryland, was published in more than a dozen languages. The little booklet on naturalization and the handy copy of the United States Constitution were published in English. All three of these were at one time printed and distributed at the expense of the Government, under the direction of our Society and through the personal efforts of Commander Moore. Thousands of these were sent to schools, patriotic societies, and welfare workers throughout the country, and that a deep impression was made wherever received was shown by the constant demand for additional copies. Truly it may be said that Commander Moore was one of the pioneers in the so-called Americanization work in this country.

Albert M. Henry, of Detroit, had long been deeply interested in the work of the Sons of the American Revolution. His genial and kindly spirit endeared him to many of the compatriots who worked with him for many years for the good of the Society. Whenever it was possible he was in attendance at the yearly meetings of the Congress and it was only when failing health prevented that he was absent. He, too, will be missed from the ranks of the splendid men who have helped make the National Society what it is today.

CONCLUSION OF THE ARBUCKLE INCIDENT

Too late for the last number of the OFFICIAL BULLETIN came word of the conclusion of the Arbuckle incident.

It was announced from Mr. Will H. Hays' office on January 31 that the films in which Roscoe Arbuckle appeared would not be released, nor would he act again.

The President General represents the Sons of the American Revolution on Mr. Hays' Committee on Public Relations, which was active in bringing this situation to its satisfactory conclusion.

We are glad to know of the interest which the Sons of the American Revolution are taking in motion pictures. Such a wide and important influence is exercised by motion pictures in the nation that it becomes one of our civic duties to help them into their greatest usefulness.

The Executive Secretary of the Committee on Public Relations has had hundreds of fine letters from our members containing sympathetic and constructive suggestions. These are all passed on to the industry and are having their beneficial influence on new productions.

While we do not waive our right and duty to criticize severely any evil practice we may notice, let us encourage the fine examples of better pictures and better practices, to the end that this potent force may become a powerful instrument for constructive entertainment, instruction, and patriotism.

PAST PRESIDENT GENERAL MORRIS B. BEARDSLEY

On Friday, March 2, 1923, in the city of Bridgeport, Conn., there fell asleep the beloved compatriot of the Sons of the American Revolution, Past President General Morris B. Beardsley.

Morris Beach Beardsley, son of Samuel G. and Mary (Beach) Beardsley, was born August 13, 1849, at Trumbull, Conn.; was prepared for college at Stratford, Conn., and graduated from Yale in the class of 1870. He studied law at the Columbia Law School, New York, and in the office of William K. Seeley. On June 25, 1872, he was admitted to practice and formed a partnership with Mr. Seeley, under the name of Seeley & Beardsley. The partnership was dissolved January 1, 1874, when he was elected city clerk of Bridgeport, which office he held until he was elected judge of probate, January 1, 1877. He was continuously re-elected judge of probate until 1893, when he declined a renomination and was elected Representative in the General Assembly of Connecticut.

Politically, Judge Beardsley had been a Democrat of the old school. In 1894 he was a candidate of his party for Lieutenant Governor and in 1916 he headed the Democratic ticket as Governor. Judge Beardsley was a Mason, a member of Lafayette Consistory and a 32d degree Mason.

From 1893 to 1923 he practiced law in Bridgeport. He married Lucy J. Fayerweather June 5, 1873. He became a member of the Connecticut Society, Sons of the American Revolution, in 1896 and was its Vice-President in 1903-04. He was elected Vice-President General at the Congress in Independence Hall, Philadelphia, May 3, 1905, and during that year was chairman of the Educational Committee. On May 2, 1905, Judge Beardsley was made chairman of a special committee to secure a charter from the United States Congress—a work to which he devoted careful attention, resulting in the incorporation of the National Society of the Sons of the American Revolution, approved by President Roosevelt June 9, 1906. In 1906 he was chairman of a Committee on Revision of the Constitution and By-Laws, and at the Denver Congress, in June, 1907, submitted a new Constitution and By-Laws, in accordance with the terms of the National Charter, which were adopted. In 1907 and 1908 he served on the National Executive Committee. In 1909 he was elected President General.

He was a member and Past Governor of the Society of Colonial Wars, in the State of Connecticut. He was a member of the New England Society of New York City, of the Brooklawn, University and Contemporary Clubs, and a member of the Board of Park Commissioners of the Park City. At the time of his death he was the president of the People's Savings Bank of Bridgeport. He had been connected with the management of this institution for the past thirty-three years, as trustee, corporator, chairman of the Finance Committee, first vice-president, and then as president. He was for many years a member of the Bridgeport Library Board and for twenty years he was on the Board of Governors of the Burroughs Home.

Judge Beardsley was a descendant of one of the oldest families of Fairfield County. On the paternal side he was a descendant of William Beardsley, who settled in Stratford in 1639. Another direct ancestor was Samuel Gregory, and he and Samuel Beardsley were two of the original members of the First Church of Christ, now the United Congregational Church of Bridgeport, in which church his funeral services were held. The National Society, Sons of the American Revolution.

tion, was represented by President General W. I. Lincoln Adams and Past President General Louis Annin Ames, who acted as honorary pall-bearers.

Judge Beardsley is survived by his widow, Lucy J. Fayerweather Beardsley; one son, Major Samuel F. Beardsley, his law partner and member of the Connecticut Society, Sons of the American Revolution; two daughters, Mrs. Emile C. Canning and Miss Amelia L. Beardsley, all residents of Bridgeport.

Throughout his long and useful life Judge Beardsley gave evidence that he was a worthy scion of old New England stock of the Colonial and Revolutionary periods, which has made America great and contributed so much to the high ideals that a democracy must possess if it is to endure the test of time.

The National Society, Sons of the American Revolution, has appointed a committee, consisting of Past Presidents General Louis Annin Ames, Wm. A. Marble, and Cornelius A. Pugsley, to draft a memorial in memory of Judge Beardsley and present same to the National Congress of the Sons of the American Revolution, to be held in the city of Nashville, Tenn., May 21, 1923.

COMMANDER JOHN H. MOORE

Commander John H. Moore, U. S. Navy, retired, and a former Vice-President General of the National Society, Sons of the American Revolution, died in Washington, D. C., on Saturday, February 3, at the Naval Hospital.

Commander Moore was born in Buffalo, N. Y., February 18, 1849, the son of George A. Moore, one of the early settlers of that city. He was graduated from the Naval Academy, at Annapolis, in 1869 and was president of his class. He twice circulated the globe and assisted in laying the first cable to Honolulu. He retired from active service in 1889 and during the last thirty years he devoted himself to active business and patriotic work in Washington. However, he was detailed in Washington many times in active service, being assistant superintendent of the Naval Gun Factory at the outbreak of the Spanish-American War; he volunteered in 1917 for active service in the World War, and was placed on the active list in the Bureau of Ordnance, remaining until November, 1919.

Commander Moore was one of the founders of the Army and Navy Club and its president in 1903. He was also a member of the Naval Institute, Vice-President of West End National Bank, and later of the National Metropolitan Bank, and in 1904 was president of the Bankers' Association of Washington, D. C.

Compatriots of the Society will best remember him when he was active in its work, a few years ago. He was President of the District of Columbia Society of Washington and served on many of the National Society committees, the most important being the chairman and vice-chairman of the Committee on Aliens and Americanization. It was during the time that he was vice-chairman of this committee that he had full charge of the distribution of pamphlets that were prepared under the direction of former Secretary General Clark and which were translated into eleven different languages. It is known that more than one hundred thousand of these pamphlets were distributed while he had charge of this work. It was largely through his and Mr. Clark's influence that these pamphlets were printed and distributed gratis by the Government.

Commander Moore served on the National Executive Committee and was also Vice-President General in 1911. He attended many of the Congresses of the National Society and his deep interest in its welfare, his devotion to its principles and objects, and his good counsel and advice, given when needed most, made him one of the outstanding figures in its growth and development for many years.

THE SCHOOL HISTORIES

This Society is interested in no subject more important than that of the one that relates to school histories that are being used in public schools. The fact that the State of Oregon has passed a bill which will no doubt prevent the use in public schools of histories which are not in accord with our best traditions; that a bill, which is even more explicit in its terms, has been introduced in the New York State Legislature and it is hoped will pass, and that a similar bill has been introduced in the State of Washington, at the request of the Seattle Chapter of the Sons of the American Revolution; the fact that many letters have been received from compatriots from all over the country commending the stand taken by Judge McCamant and his committee on patriotic education—all of these facts go to show the deep interest in this subject, and that it is one of the vital questions that is being met and solved by our Society. The bill that was passed in Oregon is as follows and it is to the credit of that State that as the pioneers of the early days led the way to the settlement of the great Northwest, so this State now leads the way for the preservation of our historic ideals:

A BILL for an act to define the principles to govern those who are charged with the selection of textbooks for use in the public schools.

Be it enacted by the people of the State of Oregon:

SECTION 1. It shall be the duty of every board, commission, committee, or officer charged with the selection of textbooks for use in the public schools to select and install textbooks on American history and civil government which adequately stress the services rendered by the men who achieved our national independence, who established our form of constitutional government, and who preserved our Federal Union. No textbook shall be used in our schools which speaks slightly of the founders of the Republic, or of the men who preserved the Union, or which belittles or undervalues their work.

The Seattle Chapter's committee, which made an exhaustive study of Muzzey's History in comparison with Gordy's, rendered a most illuminating report. It concludes that Muzzey's History should be discarded for the following reasons:

1. It is almost wholly lacking in incidents calculated to inspire patriotism in the children studying it.
2. It is not sufficiently accurate, nor so written as to give the student a proper understanding of the Revolutionary War, and the causes leading to it, and we believe the book as a whole is unsuitable.

The committee then gives a careful analysis of Muzzey's History and says, among other things:

"What is the object of teaching history in our schools? Is it to fill the mind of the pupil with dry-as-dust facts, soon to be forgotten, to substitute for national feeling a vapid internationalism leading to Bolshevism, or is it to teach our youth red-blooded patriotism, and should the time ever come when they should be called upon to make the great sacrifice, that they may say with Nathan Hale, 'I regret that I have only one life to give to my country'?"

Hero-worship is good for the young, for it stimulates the aspirations and gives to the people the highest standards of manhood. Therefore the character sketches of such men as Prescott, Stark, Putnam, Nathan Hale, Mad Anthony Wayne, Sumpter, Light Horse Harry Lee, Commander Barry, Molly Pitcher, and many others should be taught with all the glamour, color, eloquence, and dramatic effect upon the minds of our children at the age when they are most susceptible to such impressions."

A letter from Mr. Moulton Houk, former Vice-President General of Ohio, takes a similar view and is so excellent in its analysis that if we had space it would be printed in full; but there is one point that surely must appeal to our compatriots. In speaking of the statement made by the publishers of one of these objectionable stories that we do not want hero-worship, but we do want facts, Mr. Houk does not hesitate to take issue with this idea. He says: "To the contrary, we do want hero-worship and we do not want all the facts. Is it not better to remember Grant's heroism than that he had failings in other directions? And should the latter go into history?" Mr. Houk cites one or two other instances in the lives of our great heroes, and then goes on to say: "We do not want facts unless they are creditable; unless they will add to our glory in our Americanism, but we do want credit, and all credit only, given to our heroes. We easily pass over such works (these histories), but such works will form our children's ideas of our past and make either for patriot or internationalist; it must be one or the other."

A letter written by Captain A. H. Connor has been issued by Judge McCamant with comments. Captain Connor is President of the Idaho Society, Sons of the American Revolution, and Attorney General of that State. The letter is written to the editor of the Idaho Statesman and is a sharp criticism of the History of the American People by William Mason West. Captain Connor says:

"The author of this text-book quite evidently lacks the national viewpoint, is strongly inclined toward socialism, and has no pride in the achievements of the founders of the Republic. The whole Revolutionary period is sketchily treated. The Tories are stated to have represented respectability and refinement, leaving the inference that the fathers who fought for the liberties we now enjoy were neither respectable nor refined. The book refers to those who took part in the resistance to the Stamp Act and the Boston Tea Party as 'mobs.' No reference is made to Bunker Hill, and this author enlarges upon Washington's temper and his ability to swear. The great battles and achievements of the Revolutionary War are dismissed in a few lines."

This history, which is full of socialism and bias partisanship, is in use in the Boise high schools. Captain Connor says that "discussion of controversial subjects has no place in a history; it should not be found in a single school in the United States of America."

These few quotations from some of our red-blooded compatriots show, it seems, the general feeling that pervades our organization, though there comes a note of disapproval of this stand from one or two of our pedagogic members, who, though not altogether agreeing with what is said in these so-called histories, yet raise the question that these books should not be censured, as they are teaching the older student, who is capable of thinking for himself. Compatriot William H. Powers, of the South Dakota State College, takes this view, and makes as a constructive suggestion, this statement:

THE TREASURER GENERAL

"Should we not get further in our schools, for example, if our school boards choose teachers of history for their intelligence, their learning, and their character; then hold them responsible for results? Is it not better to fix trust where you expect results than to dilute it by passing it through a chain of peering investigators? If our association is committed to the business of censorship, do we not owe it to ourselves at least to see that our charges are not based on trivial instances and are not expressed in a manner inviting contempt?"

It would seem that Compatriot Powers misses the point completely. In the first place, the high-school students of today, ranging from fourteen to eighteen, are still at a most impressionable age, and at no time does a boy get his ideals of men and events stronger than at that time in his life. It would seem that to be compelled to study a history that practically eliminates all of the great characters and events of our great struggle for liberty, and is filled later with biased partisanship and socialistic teachings, is not the sort to make for high ideals and patriotism; and no teacher, however good his learning, intelligence, and character, could counteract the impressions that would emanate from such a book. It can hardly be said that what these books teach in many of their pages, as Judge McCamant and Colonel Connor have pointed out, can be called "trivial instances." They go to the very heart of our national life, to the foundation of our Republic, based on its splendid traditions and the character of its great founders and builders; and when they teach partisanship and socialism and hatred toward class, they strike at the very roots of our Constitution.

REPORT OF COMMITTEE TO EXAMINE AND HARMONIZE CHARTER, CONSTITUTION, AND BY-LAWS

To the Compatriots of the National Society of the Sons of the American Revolution:

At the 33d Annual Congress of the National Society, held on May 15-16, 1922, at Springfield, Mass., it was moved and carried—

"That the incoming President General and the incoming Chancellor General be a committee charged with the duty to examine the Charter, Constitution, and By-Laws and make such recommendations as shall harmonize the three documents one with the other, they to report to the Society through the BULLETIN at the earliest possible date."

Your committee begs to report:

A careful and detailed scrutiny of the Charter, Constitution, and By-Laws has been made, not only by the two members of this committee, but the year books and proceedings have been examined for a period of ten years prior to this date in order to ascertain the questions and discussions which have arisen in connection with doubtful points in relation to either the Constitution or By-Laws. In order to bring the said Constitution and By-Laws the one with the other, the following changes are necessary and are hereby recommended to the National Society for action at the forthcoming convention:

CONSTITUTION

In place of Article VI as it exists in the printed Constitution, there shall be substituted the new amendment adopted May 16, 1922, at Springfield, Mass., as follows:

"ARTICLE VI—Initiation Fees and Dues

"SECTION 1. In addition to the initiation fee, if any, charged by a State Society, there shall be paid an initiation fee of five dollars for membership in the National Society, Sons of the American Revolution. Said fee shall be forwarded to the Registrar General with each application for membership and shall entitle the newly elected compatriot to receive an engraved certificate of membership.

"SEC. 2. Each State shall pay annually to the Treasurer General to defray the expense of the National Society fifty cents for each member thereof, unless intermitted by the National Congress.

"SEC. 3. Such dues shall be paid on or before the first day of April in each year for the ensuing year in order to secure representation in the Congress of the National Society."

You are further notified that under a resolution adopted by the Congress (see page 41 of the OFFICIAL BULLETIN, June, 1922) all initiation fees were waived on applications received prior to October 1, 1922.

BY-LAWS

Amend and correct By-Laws:

ARTICLE XII—State Societies

Strike out section 2 as printed in present By-Laws and substitute therefor:

"Transmit to the Registrar General duplicate applications of all accepted members, together with the initiation fee of five dollars for membership in the National Society, and promptly notify him of the resignation or death of all members thereof, the names of those dropped from the roll for non-payment of dues."

ARTICLE XIII—Board of Trustees

Strike out the word "five" in section 4, line 3, and insert the word "seven" to conform with section 3, Article V, of Constitution.

ARTICLE XV—Seal

Add to present section the following words:

"The seal of the Society shall be used upon all documents and large certificates, but a seal 2 inches in diameter may be used on the smaller certificates presented by the National Society."

ARTICLE XVII—Insignia

Clarify Article XVII, section 1, by striking out all of the remainder of section 1 following the words "on ceremonial occasions only" and substitute the following:

"and shall be carried on the left breast or at the collar by active or Past Officers General of the National Society (the President General shall wear the distinctive badge of his office) or the President, active or past, of a State Society and the active President of a local Chapter.

"The insignia of a National officer and a State President, active or past, may be jeweled by the insertion of the diamond in the space between the talons of the eagle and the upper arm of the chevalier's cross.

"The President General, during his term of office and while acting in that capacity on official and ceremonial occasions, shall wear the distinctive badge of his office. It may be carried at the left breast or suspended from the neck ribbon.

In full dress he shall wear a sash of the Society colors, three and one-half inches in width, extending from the right shoulder to the left hip. Past Presidents General and Vice-Presidents General, while in office, in full dress may wear a sash of the Society colors, three and one-half inches wide, extending from the right shoulder to the left hip."

ARTICLE XVIII—Official Standard

This flag consists of three equal vertical bars, blue, white, and buff, the blue bar at the hoist. Upon the center or white bar is the insignia of the Society and the name "The Society of the Sons of the American Revolution."

Article XVIII changed to Article XIX.

Article XIX changed to Article XX.

ARTICLE XXI—Amendments

"These By-Laws may be altered or amended by a vote of three-fourths of the members present at any meeting of the Board of Trustees, notice thereof having been given at a previous meeting."

A PROPOSED PLAN FOR THE DISTRIBUTION OF MEDALS TO PUPILS IN PUBLIC SCHOOLS

For many years, in different parts of the country, the State Societies and local Chapters of the Sons of the American Revolution have awarded medals for the best essays on subjects dealing with Revolutionary History. These medals have usually been awarded to high-school students, and the results have been most satisfactory, so far as this idea was carried out. However, it has seemed that the work of the Society could be extended and made more far-reaching and the plan which follows is one that is being worked out by the Secretary General with the advice and suggestions of Superintendent Ernest Hartwell, of the Buffalo public schools.

The underlying idea of this proposed plan is that it will reach the pupil at an age when character and citizenship is in the making, and that every boy that wins one of these medals will, it is hoped, become a loyal and patriotic citizen, following along the lines of his endeavor to achieve this honor.

There are two other most vital reasons why this method of distribution should appeal to our State Societies and local Chapters: First, it will mean a wider distribution of the medals, for grammar schools are far more numerous than high schools; and, second, it will reach more of the people who need this standard of citizenship. Where the high schools reach many of our foreign-born or children of foreign-born citizens, the grammar schools reach the mass of these citizens. It can easily be understood what the effect of winning these medals by the children of either native or foreign-born will have, not only upon the immediate family, but also the relatives and friends.

It is with this idea in mind that the plan which is here proposed will be carried out, and it is felt that if the Societies throughout the country will work along these lines, far-reaching results will be obtained in the work we are striving for in our organization.

It is hoped and expected that the cost of these medals will be insignificant compared with the results achieved. By ordering in large quantities, the National Society expects to be able to supply them to the State Societies and Chapters in bronze for approximately $1.50 each. This price has not been definitely fixed as yet, but will depend upon how large a response there is to this plan. The Buffalo Chapter has already given its order for enough to supply every grammar school in Buffalo something over sixty each year. Chapters in New Jersey have signified their intention to take a quantity of these medals for distribution, and it is known that many other societies throughout the country stand ready to carry out this idea.

It is proposed to have the plan or announcement which follows printed in blue, with our insignia at the top, and one or more of these hung in the school where the medal is to be awarded. There may possibly be some minor changes in the wording and construction of this announcement, but this follows the general plan.

The above dignified and attractive design for the medal is under consideration by the committee.

PLAN OF AWARD

The Sons of the American Revolution have as one of their chief purposes the stimulation of a vigorous patriotism. They believe that such a purpose is to be secured only as the youth of our schools become imbued with high ideals of character and citizenship. The Sons of the American Revolution have, therefore, decided annually to award a medal to the boy in the eighth grade graduating class of each elementary school who shall have best exemplified the principles of good citizenship.

The qualities to be considered in making this award shall be:

- I. Dependability, as evidenced by the record of the boy in punctuality, truthfulness, honesty, loyalty, trustworthiness, and self-control.
- II. Co-operation, as evidenced by the record of the boy in respect for authority, respect for property, respect for the rights of others, and courtesy.
- III. Leadership, as evidenced by what the boy has done to make his school a better school.

No boy shall receive the Sons of the American Revolution Medal who is not clean in speech and in personal habits.

He must also be a non-user of tobacco, inasmuch as no eighth-grade boy in New York State can use tobacco without violating the law of the Commonwealth.

The method of determining what boy shall receive the medal shall be as follows:

Some time within the ten days preceding the eighth-grade commencement exercises, each division of the senior eighth grades in each school shall meet and by vote of the class nominate not more than five boys whom the class considers to be eligible to receive the medal. From this five the final selection shall be made by the principal of the school and a majority vote of all of the teachers who have had the nominees in class during the eighth-grade year.

Further information may be had from the Secretary General.

NEW JERSEY'S THIRTY-FOURTH ANNIVERSARY

Broadcasting the message of the Society of the Sons of the American Revolution was an innovation delightfully experienced by a group of members of the New Jersey Society, which met in the studio of the Westinghouse Company, at the Waldorf-Astoria, New York, on the evening of March 7, the thirty-fourth anniversary of the organization. Arrangements had been made for the patriotic program by the Newark Chapter quartet. After several selections were rendered, the address on the New Jersey Society was given by David L. Pierson, Secretary, who spoke as follows:

"Organized on March 7, 1889, the New Jersey Society, Sons of the American Revolution, has today attained its thirty-fourth birthday. It is composed of descendants of ancestors who assisted in creating the independence of the United States, is non-sectarian, non-political, and, while it has many lines of patriotic activity, the dominant thought and action are in the maintenance of the principles and traditions of the founders of the Republic.

"The Society came into being clothed with the pure spirit of patriotism on the mighty wave of aroused public sentiment incident to the preparation and carrying out of the plans for the celebration of the centenary of General George Washington's inauguration as the first President of the United States, on April 30, 1889. On this day, in accordance with the request of the New Jersey Society, delegates from many of the States met in the Fraunces Tavern, New York, and effected the National organization. There are now fifty separate societies.

"Constructive work of the Society includes the institution of Flag Day, on June 14, and Constitution Day, September 17, now so well remembered by the people; the enacting of flag laws, preventing the use of the flag of Stars and Stripes for commercial and other wrongful purposes; helping the aliens to become citizens; the restoring of innumerable genealogical lines of the older American families; awarding of prizes to students for their essays on American history; marking of scenes connected with the War for Independence, and of the lives of eminent Americans connected therewith; correcting defects in text-books relating to historical narrative of our country and encouraging the study of history by all the people.

"Let us not forget the injunction of the immortal Washington, whose birthday anniversary was so recently and widely celebrated. In his Farewell Address, declining a third term as President of the United States, he there declared a sound principle for the American people, that 'in time of peace prepare for war,' not to prepare for the destruction of life and property, but to so order our daily routine that we might give a full measure of individual service for the stability and uplift of the government of the people, by the people, and for the people; and not wait till war clouds hover over the horizon before demonstrating our fealty to the institutions of our country.

"New Jersey, the Belgium of the Revolutionary War, has many patriotic shrines connected with the great awakening of a liberty-loving people. Old Nassau, the famous seat of learning at Princeton, is the identical building around which waged the battle of Princeton, on January 3, 1777; the Ford Mansion, at Morristown, where Washington made his headquarters in the rigorous winter of 1779-1780, is preserved forever as a repository of notable possessions of the chieftain and of the people of his time; the Wallace House, at Somerville, headquarters of the commander in the winter of 1778-1779; Rocky Hill, the headquarters, near Princeton, where the farewell address to the soldiers of the army was written on November 2, 1783; the Springfield battlefield, where was fought the decisive engagement of the war, on June 23, 1780; the battle of Trenton, December 26, 1776; the battle of Monmouth, June 28, 1778, are all among the many other prized possessions of the Jersey folk.

"We have come into our great heritage over a long and tedious route, often beset with danger. Sentinels of freedom have always and will forever guard and guide the way for the Ship of State to pass along. Eternal vigilance is the price of Liberty!

"At the beginning of the War for American Independence the music sung in the colonies was entirely of foreign origin till William Billings, a native of Massachusetts, wrote the hymns in the era immediately preceding the opening of hostilities with the mother country, and which have made his name immortal as the Father of American Music.

"Among the compositions emanating from the pen of this gifted son of New England was the call to heroic service of the soldiers enrolled in Washington's Army, and which he named "Chester." This was sung on the march, around the camp fires at the bivouac, and in the cantonments. The spirited music to which the ennobling words were set was provocative of incomparable results, cheering the weary soldiers as they trudged over the frozen roadways, in the quiet of the evening hour at the end of the long day's march, or as they sat huddled together in their huts at Valley Forge and at Morristown, waiting for the advent of the season of life and warmth to begin anew the struggle for supremacy of right over wrong."

This hymn was then sung by the Newark Chapter quartet.

Compatriot Rev. Warren P. Coon gave an address on "One Hundred Per Cent Patriotism," during which he declared for the perpetuity and sanctity of the American home, and in defining the sentiment of simplicity spoke of three things necessary for the proper equipment of every domicile—the Bible, the flag, and the red tablecloth. This latter was found in nearly every home, the speaker declared, a third of a century ago, particularly in the New England home.

The Board of Managers of the New Jersey Society enjoyed a dinner at the Essex Club, Newark, on Friday night, March 9, in remembrance of the thirty-fourth anniversary of the organization. Judge Adrian Lyon, President, presided, and the address was delivered by Rev. Dr. Lyman Whitney Allen, past Chaplain General of the National Society and past President of the New Jersey Society. He also read an original poem on the Constitution.

Adjournment was then made to the headquarters at 33 Lombardy Street, where the regular monthly meeting was held. A letter was read from Compatriot Louis A. Bowman, Secretary of the Illinois Society, expressing the felicitations of that Society upon the attainment of the birthday anniversary. A letter was also read from Compatriot F. W. Millsbaugh, Vice-President of the Tennessee Society, also extending felicitations and expressing the hope that a large delegation would be sent to the Congress which will meet in Nashville in May.

A tribute was offered in memory of Dr. Carlyle E. Sutphen, of Newark, who died on March 7, and who was one of the well-known members.

THE ROOSEVELT MEMORIAL

The following letter from the Woman's Roosevelt Memorial Association to the New York Chapter of the Empire State Society was referred to the National Society with the request that it be published in the Bulletin:

NEW YORK CHAPTER, SONS OF THE AMERICAN REVOLUTION,
GENERAL OLIVER B. BRIDGMAN, PRESIDENT, 220 BROADWAY, NEW YORK CITY.

MY DEAR GENERAL BRIDGMAN:

The building of Roosevelt House has gone forward only as money has been received, and we have now enough to complete the building up to the auditorium. To do this we need $12,000, and we see a sure way of raising it if the men's patriotic societies throughout the United States will come to our assistance.

The auditorium should be finished at once, in order that the real work of Roosevelt House, which is educational, may begin without delay. In the auditorium we expect to have lectures given on the life and ideals of Roosevelt; there also we expect to show moving pictures which will bring the living Roosevelt vividly before the eyes of the children of New York. That work is greatly worth doing. New York needs it, and it needs it now. When Roosevelt House is opened that work should promptly begin.

Since we started our work, four years ago, we have faithfully kept our purpose before us, and now that we are in sight of its fulfillment we ask your aid in this our final effort. If you feel that we have done well, will you help us raise a part of the $12,000 we need to complete Roosevelt House?

Make checks payable to the Woman's Roosevelt Memorial Association and kindly mention your society.

Very sincerely yours,

EMILY V. HAMMOND,
(MRS. JOHN HENRY HAMMOND),
President.

KENMORE

In Fredericksburg, Va., stands a beautiful old Colonial mansion, "Kenmore," once the home of Betty Washington, George Washington's only and well-beloved sister. She was just sixteen months younger, and always there existed between them the tenderest devotion. When seventeen years old, George Washington gave her in marriage to Colonel Fielding Lewis, whose generous nature, fine family, and fortune made him a worthy mate.

In 1752 Colonel Lewis bought the land, upon which he at once began to build this stately home. It is a solid brick structure, walls two feet thick, with large, handsome rooms and its interior wood-work finished with the most exquisite refinement of detail. George Washington took the greatest pride and interest in his sister's home. He helped to plan the home and grounds and he suggested and designed the ornate walls and ceilings, which are a distinctive feature of the mansion. It is an attested fact that the mantle in the reception-room, illustrating the fable of "The Fox, the Crow, and the Piece of Cheese," he chose, to teach his nephews to beware of flatterers. It is said that at one time General Washington lived with his sister; certainly he was a frequent guest.

Kenmore stands now unchanged, on a large lawn surrounded by many of the same old trees. For years it has had the loving care of appreciative owners, but last spring it was thrown on the market, the grounds subdivided into building lots, the house to be turned into an apartment-house. Then it was that the patriotic women of Fredericksburg, with little means or backing, formed themselves into the Kenmore Association, and stormed the nation with their appeals. They secured the $10,000 necessary to hold the property. The price is $30,000. Since then they have collected $5,000 more. They have taken possession and the property is rented for enough to meet the interest on the deferred payments. They are appealing now to the patriotic societies, Daughters of the American Revolution and Colonial Dames. Both have lent their aid.

But there is an especial appeal to the Sons of the American Revolution, because Colonel Fielding Lewis, owner and builder of Kenmore, made the first guns for the Continental Army. The "Manufactory of Small Arms" was established in Fredericksburg July, 1775. Colonel Lewis was chief commissioner, and he sacrificed his entire fortune in this vital enterprise. At one time he was so embarrassed he could not raise the money to meet his taxes (Calendar of State Papers, Vol. 1, page 503).

To the descendants of the men whom Washington led comes this appeal. Memorials of General Washington, costing thousands of dollars, are being erected everywhere, and here stands this place, dearer to him than any other, except Mount Vernon, and alive with intimate associations with him and his friends, threatened with destruction. Will not every son feel it his duty to respond to this urgent need? Will it not be a privilege to save for future generations this memorial of our glorious past?

EVENTS OF STATE SOCIETIES

The Arizona Society.—The twenty-seventh annual business meeting of the Arizona Society was held on February 22 at the office of the President. The following officers were unanimously elected: President, Harold Baxter; Vice-President, H. H. Wilson; Secretary, E. L. Freeland; Treasurer, W. B. Twitchell; Registrar, B. L. Purvines; Historian, Rt. Rev. J. W. Atwood; Chaplain, Rev. J. Rockwood Jenkins; additional members of the Board of Managers, J. C. Greenway, M. B. Hazeltine, Willard S. Wright; Delegate to National Congress, W. B. Twitchell; National Trustee, E. E. Ellinwood.

At the twenty-seventh annual dinner of the Society, held the same evening, at the Woman's Club, Phoenix, Compatriots E. E. Ellinwood and Dwight B. Heard responded to the toasts of the evening, taking as their respective subjects "Beaumarlais" and "Our Forefathers."

The Society voted to take an active part in the reception of newly made citizens upon the occasion of naturalization of candidates for citizenship in the District Court of the United States at Phoenix.

The annual oratorical contest was held, and the first prize of $20 was awarded to Floyd Davidson, student of the Chandler High School, whose oration was upon the topic "The Father of Our Country." The second prize of $10 was awarded to John L. Mixon, student of the Phoenix Union High School, whose oration was upon the topic of "The Soul of Washington."

The newly elected officers were introduced and a social hour concluded the entertainment.

The Arkansas Society, Sons of the American Revolution, held its annual business meeting at the Hotel Marion February 23, 1923, and elected the following officers for the ensuing year: Frank D. Leaming, President; J. O. Blakeney, First Vice-President; S. S. Wassell, Second Vice-President; Fay Hempstead, Secretary; E. C. Newton, Registrar; T. M. Cory, Treasurer; Alyn Smith, Historian; T. M. Cory, Representative to the National Meeting; B. W. Green, G. W. Clark, Randall Peck, and E. R. Wiles, members of the Board of Governors.

Memorials were presented and adopted concerning the late P. K. Roots and John M. Bracey. A. R. Snodgrass was recommended for National Trustee. It was agreed that the Society hold suitable celebrations of "Flag Day" and "Constitution Day." It was announced that the National Meeting will be held in Nashville, Tenn., in May.

After the business session, the Society and guests attended a banquet in one of the hotel private dining-rooms. Music was furnished by the Misses Claudia and Virginia Askew. Addresses were made by S. S. Wassell on "Francis Marion," Governor McRae on "Character of Washington," Fay Hempstead on "Count Pulaski"; Admiral A. O. Wright, of Jacksonville, Fla., explained the origin of the cherry-tree story. Greetings on behalf of the State Society, Daughters of the American Revolution, were given by Mrs. A. M. Barrow, State Regent, in verse. Greetings on behalf of the Colonial Dames were presented by Mrs. Fred'k Hanger.

The California Society.—Major Washington I. L. Adams, President General, addressed the members of the California Society of the Sons and Daughters of the American Revolution at a dinner at the Commercial Club on the evening of January 5.

The dinner was given in honor of Major Adams, who is a descendant of John Quincy Adams.

With Major Adams at the reception as a guest of honor was George Albert Smith, Vice-President General of the Sons of the American Revolution, who came out from Salt Lake City.

San Francisco, with the rest of the Nation, paid tribute to the memory of George Washington on the 191st anniversary of his birth, February 22.

Special commemorative exercises were held by the Sons and Daughters of the American Revolution at the General's statue at the Marina at 2 p. m. David Starr Jordan, chancellor of Stanford University, was the orator of the occasion.

Many patriotic organizations and societies were represented at the ceremonies, a feature of which was the placing of wreaths on the statue of the man who was "first in war, first in peace, and first in the hearts of his countrymen." Among those taking part in the tribute were veterans' organizations, including the Sons and Daughters of the American Revolution, Grand Army of the Republic, Spanish-American War Veterans, and a host of others.

The District of Columbia Society, Sons of the American Revolution, Daughters of the American Revolution, and Sons of the Revolution of the District of Columbia united in their ninth annual joint celebration on February 22, in Memorial Continental Hall. Mr. Selden Marvin Ely, Mrs. William B. Hardy, and Brigadier General George Richards, the respective heads of the three organizations, presided jointly. An elaborate and impressive program was participated in by a large audience. The invocation was made by Rev. Robert Johnston, D. D., of St. John's Episcopal Church. The presentation of the Colors was accompanied by a group representing the Spirit of '76, the Marine Band, and followed by the Pledge to the Flag, the American's Creed, and the singing of the Star-Spangled Banner. Addresses by Mrs. William B. Hardy, the Hon. Samuel M. Shortridge, of California, and the presentation of medals for prize essays by the participating societies completed the program, which was interspersed by musical selections by the Marine Band.

The annual election of officers of the District of Columbia Society took place on this date and resulted as follows: President, Mr. Samuel Herrick; Vice-Presidents, Henry L. Bryan, Admiral Hugh Rodman, and Hon. Josiah A. Van Orsdel; Secretary and Treasurer, Mr. Kenneth S. Wales; Registrar, Major Overton C. Luxford; Assistant Registrar, Charles M. Bryant; Historian, Henry White Draper; Librarian, William L. Boyden, and Chaplain, William Curtis White.

The Far Eastern Society has taken on a new lease of life under the inspiration of its new President, Prof. Austin Craig, of the University of the Philippines, and progress and increased membership in this far station of our Society may be looked for. Other officers are Hon. T. A. Street, Vice-President; Harry J. Cushing, Secretary-Treasurer, and Hayward and Samuel A. Dewing, Managers. The Society desires to establish chapters in Japan, Korea, North China, South China, Siam, Malaysia, and India and appeals to present members in these localities or compatriots in the States who have friends in the Far East to co-operate in promulgating this ambition.

The Idaho Society.—The fifteenth annual meeting of the Idaho Society was held in the Owyhee Hotel, Boise, on February 22.

The President, Compatriot A. H. Conner, reported that this Society has so successfully opposed the use of such un-American American histories as Muzzy's and West's in our public schools that they are now used only in three schools in the State.

Compatriot Addison T. Smith having called attention to the fact that forty-four States have exercised their right to place a tablet in the Washington Monument at Washington, D. C., and that Idaho is one of the four States which has not done so, a discussion ensued in connection with this matter, and it is hoped during the year to have Idaho properly represented.

The Utah Society having invited the National Congress to Salt Lake City in 1924, this selection was endorsed by the Idaho Society.

The new officers elected are: President, Charles L. Longley; Vice-Presidents, Dean Driscoll, Boise; S. E. Anderson, Pocatello; M. H. Brownell, Hailey; Bowen Curley, Idaho Falls; Stanly A. Easton, Kellogg; William H. Eldridge, Twin Falls; J. M. Elder, Cœur d'Alene; Asher A. Getchell, Boise; W. H. Gibson, Mountain Home; Rev. W. S. Hawkes, Caldwell; Miles S. Johnson, Lewiston; George N. Osborne, Wallace; Samuel H. Hays, Boise; Secretary-Treasurer-Registrar, Frank G. Ensign; Chaplain, Rev. R. B. Wright, D. D.; Historian, M. W. Wood, Lieutenant-Colonel, U. S. A. (retired).

The ladies of the Daughters of the American Revolution joined the annual Washington dinner. Compatriot Miles S. Johnson delivered a forceful address on Washington as a statesman.

The Illinois Society.—The annual celebration of Washington's Birthday, under the joint auspices of the Sons and Daughters of the American Revolution, was held Thursday evening, February 22, with a banquet, in the First Christian Church. The arrangements were in the hands of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

Reminiscences of Valley Forge as told to Oliver McDaniel, of Buffalo, by his grandfather, who was a soldier with Washington, were the basis of an interesting talk on "Valley Forge of Revolutionary Times," by Mr. McDaniel. As Compatriot McDaniel celebrated his 85th birthday a short time ago, he remembers his grandfather telling his experiences of those trying times, as he lived to be quite an old man. Very few present-day members are "grandson's" and probably fewer still can remember their grandfathers telling of events of the Revolutionary War. Compatriot McDaniel was in the Civil War for three years, and attends more regularly than many younger members. Attorney J. B. Searcy also gave an address on Valley Forge gathered from historical accounts of the memorable winter camp of Washington during the Revolution.

Grover C. Rockwood was elected President of the Association; James B. Searcy, Vice-President; Isaac R. Diller, Secretary-Treasurer; Dr. E. P. Bartlett, Historian; J. Ralph Tobin, Registrar, and Nelson L. Allyn, Chaplain.

PEORIA CHAPTER.—Resolutions urging that the Government purchase the Kahokia Mounds, near East St. Louis, and convert the ground into a park were adopted at a meeting of the Peoria Chapter, Sons of the American Revolution, in the Creve Cœur Club Saturday.

The meeting was called by the new President of the organization, Mark D. Batchelder, for the purpose of becoming acquainted with all the members. Following dinner in the club dining-room, the body went into business session, where the resolution concerning the historic mounds was discussed. Other business included appointment of Philip Gregg as chairman of the Membership Committee, Louis A. Howes as chairman of the Publicity Committee, and A. H. Hiatt as chairman of the Entertainment Committee. There are a large number of Peorians eligible for membership and steps will be taken to bring them into the fold.

The Kentucky Society.—In an atmosphere reminiscent of America's glorious traditions, members of the Kentucky Society, Sons of the American Revolution, were fervently urged at their annual dinner, January 26, at the Pendennis Club, to keep aloft the American light of liberty by sacred regard for the Constitution and respect for laws of the land. Governor Morrow, Helm Bruce, and Major W. I. Adams made speeches.

Allegiance to the flag was repledged, and the speaker, Major Washington Irving Lincoln Adams, of Montclair, N. J., President General of the National Society, appealed for added stimulus and application of that spirit in law enforcement and the spread of 100 per cent Americanism.

Attention was called at the meeting to the "open violation" of the Eighteenth Amendment; thoughts were turned to the Nation's heroic dead and the heritage of American citizens; steps were advocated to combat insidious un-American propaganda, and the need was emphasized for improvement of text-books dealing with American history.

Dr. Curran Pope, Vice-President of the Society, presided at the dinner, with Dean Richard L. McCready pronouncing the invocation. F. W. Millspaugh, Vice-President of the Tennessee Society, urged members of the Kentucky Society to attend the National Congress of that body to be held at Nashville in May.

New members taken into the Society, with special installation ceremonies, were William B. Pirtle, Normal Milner Cooty, Ellerbee W. Carter, Henry Clayborn Armstrong, Ranson Haselip Bassett, Murray Brawner, J. Carter Stewart, John B. Lewman, all of Louisville; George M. Covington, Russellville; Hansford Lee Threlkeld, Morganfield; James Clinton Stone, Lexington; Samuel Hanson Stone, Lexington; Dr. John G. South, resident of Panama, but a native of Frankfurt.

Talented entertainers gave a program over WHAS, the radiophone of The Courier-Journal and The Louisville Times. Major Adams also made an address over WHAS. He was introduced by Mayor Huston Quin. R. C. Ballard Thruston and Marvin H. Lewis gave a reception at the Pendennis Club at 1:30 o'clock in the afternoon in honor of Major Adams.

The Louisiana Society held its annual meeting on Wednesday, January 24. The entertainment of Major W. I. Lincoln Adams, President General, took place at the Sazerac Restaurant. The occasion was a purely informal one. The business features of the affair were conducted briefly, and following the election of officers the meeting was given over to the guest of honor and the speakers of the evening, the whole constituting the regular annual meeting of the Louisiana Society deferred from the first Saturday in December, 1922.

The program included an invocation and automatic roll-call, in which each member in turn rose, stated his name, his business, city of residence, and his Revolutionary ancestor or ancestors; reports of the Treasurer, Financial Secretary, and President. The toastmaster, Henry W. Robinson, introduced the speakers, and addresses were made by Mr. Edwin T. Merrick, Past President of the Louisiana Society, on "England and America"; Mr. J. Edward Kirby, late President of the Iowa Society, national speaker, Near East Relief, on "America and Russia"; Hon. Thomas W. Robertson, late Vice-President of the Louisiana Society, on "Uncensored School Books," and Major W. I. Lincoln Adams, President General of the National Society.

The Louisiana Society has again issued a splendid Year Book, with roster of its members, which it has widely distributed.

The Maine Society.—Charles L. Hutchinson, of Portland, was elected President of the Maine Society, Sons of the American Revolution, at their annual meeting, February 22, at the Congress Square Hotel. Other officers elected were: Vice-Presidents, Oliver L. Hall, of Bangor; Willis Blake Hall, of Cape Elizabeth; Albert M. Spear, of Augusta; Treasurer, Enoch O. Greenleaf of Portland; Secretary, Francis L. Littlefield, of Portland; Registrar, James C. Woolley, of Portland; Historian, John Francis Sprague, of Dover-Foxcroft; Chaplain, the Very Rev. Edmund Randolph Laine, Jr., of Portland; Librarian, William T. Cousens, of Portland; Associate Managers, Frederic L. Tower, of Portland; Dr. J. Fred Hill, of Waterville; Converse E. Leach, of Portland; Mark A. Barwise, of Bangor; Edwin J. Haskell, of Westbrook.

It was voted to endorse the efforts of Lucy Knox Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, to obtain funds sufficient to enable them to build a Henry Knox Memorial at Thomaston.

The new President, Charles L. Hutchinson, was elected a Trustee of the National Society.

The principal after-dinner speaker was Rev. Dr. Henry Stiles Bradley, pastor of the State Street Church, who spoke of George Washington. Dr. Bradley exhibited some curious documents which once belonged to Washington and read extracts from them. He also read a long description of Washington, which traced his lineage back to nearly all of the great men and women of the old world.

The Massachusetts Society of the Sons of the American Revolution and its junior organization, the Washington Guard, observed the 191st anniversary of Washington's Birthday, February 22, 1923, at the headquarters of the Society, 9 Ashburton Place, Boston. This meeting was in the nature of a father-and-son gathering, and each member of the Sons of the American Revolution in attendance was requested to bring as his guest a son or a member of the Washington Guard.

The program for the day included an assembly at the headquarters, 9 Ashburton Place, in the morning, followed by attendance at the Governor's reception at the State House in a body, the Sons of the American Revolution escorting the Washington Guard. An informal reception was held by the officers and guests of the Society at headquarters and dinner was served in Wilder Hall; reception of the Colors; an address, "George Washington," by Frederick Jackson Turner, Professor of History, Harvard University; an address to the Washington Guard, Rev. Frederic W. Perkins, D. D., Chaplain General, National Society; presentation of service medals, and roll-call of chapters. Each chapter was requested to respond with a three-minute table talk.

Each Chapter of the Massachusetts Society, Sons of the American Revolution, was requested to send a delegation to the meeting of February 22, to arrive in season to attend the reception to be given in the Hall of Flags at the State House by Governor Channing H. Cox, who is one of our compatriots. There was also a good representation from the Washington Guard upon that occasion. Headquarters at 9 Ashburton Place is within two minutes' walk of the State House and within one minute of the Boston City Club, Ford Hall, and the Court House. It is open daily, except Sunday, from 9 to 5, and is at the service of the members as a place of meeting. Several of the Greater Boston Chapters are finding it very convenient to hold their meetings there.

THE GEORGE WASHINGTON CHAPTER, Sons of the American Revolution, of Springfield, held its annual meeting and banquet at the Nayasset Club, at Springfield, on the evening of February 22. The chief officers of the National and State societies, namely, President General Washington Irving Lincoln Adams, of Montclair, N. J.; Vice-President General Harry T. Lord, of Manchester, N. H., and Dr. Charles H. Bangs, President of the Massachusetts Society, were guests of the local chapter. Officers or members of the National or State societies were cordially invited to attend this meeting.

Dr. Bangs spoke on "The Enduring Washington," in an inspiring address, in which he declared that from the perspective of nearly a century and a quarter we now behold that figure of history that stands out as the enduring Washington.

After dinner came the business session, President Charles F. Warner presiding. In his annual report President Warner told of the six meetings in addition to the annual meeting held during the year, referred particularly to the bridge celebration and the Chapter's part in it, to the National Congress held here last year, and closed by urging the campaign for introduction of new blood into the Chapter, which as it is has a record membership of 243 active members, 12 having been voted in during the year.

The Nominating Committee brought in the following nominations for new officers, who were unanimously elected: President, Frank P. Forbes; Vice-President, Henry C. Haile; Secretary, Henry A. Booth; Treasurer, Frederick M. Jones; Historian, Moses Lyman; Registrar, Seth H. Clark; Auditor, Harry M. Seabury.

Just previous to the meeting the municipal chime vesper program, rung between 6 and 6:45 o'clock in recognition of Washington's Birthday, included the group of tunes used in the larger cities whenever the President General and other officers of the National Society, Sons of the American Revolution, are present. The airs in regulation order were: "America," "Doxology," "America the Beautiful," "Hail, Columbia," "Old Haddam," "Chester" (first American battle song), "Onward, Christian Soldiers," and "Taps."

Reference was made prior to the address of the President General that this is his birthday, which he had been celebrating in two States, Connecticut and Massachusetts. Major Adams, who was here at the National Congress, as was Dr. Bangs, brought a message of the success of Sons of the American Revolution chapters everywhere throughout the country, as he has recently observed their activities in his tour through 26 States.

OLD ESSEX CHAPTER.—Rev. Frederic W. Perkins, Chaplain General of the National Society, Sons of the American Revolution, invited the compatriots of Old Essex Chapter, with their wives and friends, to attend a special service in commemoration of Washington's Birthday on Sunday afternoon, February 18, at 5 o'clock, in the First Universalist Church, Lynn.

Appropriate music by an enlarged choir and an address by Dr. Perkins were given. An organ recital at 4:25 preceded the service. Representatives of the official board of the State Society were present.

OLD MIDDLESEX CHAPTER, Sons of the American Revolution, of Lowell, held its twenty-seventh annual meeting and dinner on Friday evening, February 9, at the Richardson Hotel. The officers of the Massachusetts Society, Sons of the American Revolution, were invited to attend in a body. Burton N. Wiggin, the First Vice-President of the Massachusetts Society, was one of the charter members of Old Middlesex Chapter when it was organized, on January 17, 1896. It was the home Chapter of Moses Greeley Parker, who served the Society long and faithfully and filled the offices of President of the Massachusetts Society and President General of the National Society. The late Brigadier-General Philip Reade, U. S. A. (retired), also was a member of Old Middlesex.

OLD SALEM CHAPTER.—The annual meeting of Old Salem Chapter, Sons of the American Revolution, was held at the Salem Club, in Salem, on February 26. Dr. Frank A. Gardner gave a talk on the Black Watch Regiment and the origin and use of the Scotch plaids and tartans.

The following officers were elected for 1923-24: President, Isaac H. Sawyer; Vice-Presidents, William W. Woodman, William D. Chapple; Treasurer, Samuel D. Lord; Secretary, Osborne Leach; Executive Committee, Walter P. Richardson, Lawrence W. Jenkins, Warren R. Bowen, Jesse H. Wade.

SETH POMEROY CHAPTER, Sons of the American Revolution, of Northampton and Holyoke, met for luncheon at Boyden's in observance of Lincoln's Birthday. President of the Chapter, Rev. Dr. Henry G. Smith, presided and opened the meeting by a reading of the Governor's proclamation. President Smith then called upon L. L. Campbell to read the "Gettysburg Address." All present stood during this reading.

In his introduction of the speakers who were to give personal reminiscences of Lincoln, President Smith said that in his thinking upon the subject he knew of only three now alive in Northampton who were old enough to vote at the time of Lincoln's first election. To be able to claim such an honor one must be 83 years of age or over.

After the formalities of speaking had been finished, John E. Morse, of Hadley, who had a selected portion of his Lincolniana arranged for the members' inspection, explained to those interested the significance of the numerous medals and other memorabilia in the collection.

The recent sudden death in Boston of Thomas Munroe Shepherd, one of the most prominent citizens and a descendant of one of the oldest families, has been a great loss to this Chapter and community.

Secretary William L. Root, of this city, represented Pittsfield at the annual Washington's Birthday dinner of Berkshire Chapter, Sons of the American Revolution, at the Richmond Hotel, at North Adams. Twenty-five members of the Chapter and guests were present. The Chapter extended hearty congratulations to Dr. Crosby A. Perry, of Pittsfield, a real son of the American Revolution now living, who will be 85 on March 1. Dr. Perry is a life member of the Chapter. An interesting address on "Washington, the American," was delivered by Mortimer W. Thomas, vice-principal of North Adams High School.

NEW BEDFORD CHAPTER, Sons of the American Revolution, was organized January 26 with about thirty members and the pledge to make the number one hundred within the year. Its members include leading business and professional men of the city, and there is much enthusiasm displayed. The meeting of the organization was held at the New Bedford House. Compatriot Clarence R. O'Brien has taken the lead in organizing the Chapter. A full board of officers was elected, of whom Herbert E. Cushman was elected President; Arthur W. Forbes, Secretary, and Clarence R. O'Brien, Treasurer. A delegation of officers in the Massachusetts Society attended the meeting and were very much pleased by the enthusiasm manifested. Lieutenant-Colonel John S. Barrows (retired) is chairman of the Publicity Committee.

The Michigan Society.—This year the Detroit Chapter observed Washington's Birthday with a dinner, to which the ladies were invited, given in the ladies' dining-room of the Detroit Athletic Club, Thursday evening, February 22. There was an attendance of about 100.

Addresses were made by Professor Thomas Harrison Reed, of the University of Michigan, upon "Washington and Present Affairs," and Compatriot Col. Frederick M. Alger, of Detroit, upon "Preparedness." Rev. James A. Vance, D. D., Chaplain of the Chapter, pronounced the invocation. President Carl F. Clarke presided. Others at the speakers' table were William P. Holliday, President of the Michigan Society; Raymond E. Van Syckle, Secretary, and General Charles A. Coolidge, ex-President. Captain Donald McMillan, the Arctic explorer, was also a guest.

KENT CHAPTER.—A dinner meeting of Kent Chapter, Sons of the American Revolution, was held at the Peninsular Club, Tuesday, January 16, to which ladies and guests were invited. Dr. Mary L. Hinsdale, of Junior College, spoke on the subject, "Shall the United States Mix in World Politics? or, Echoes from Williams Institute." Miss Hinsdale, a forceful speaker, based her address on impressions received at the Conference on International Relations held last summer at Williams College, Massachusetts. This conference has been addressed by diplomats, bankers, and others, of world-wide fame, who are qualified to discuss international relations, particularly as they affect the United States. Miss Hinsdale also touched upon our "Debt to France" and the tender friendship which existed between Washington and Lafayette.

WASHTENAW CHAPTER.—Professor George W. Patterson and Mrs. Patterson entertained the Sons of the American Revolution and their wives at their home, on Hill street, Thursday evening, in celebration of Washington's Birthday. This was the occasion of the annual meeting and election of officers, and at a brief business session preceding the evening's program the following were chosen for the ensuing year: President, Dr. W. B. Hinsdale; Vice-President, J. J. Goodyear; Secretary, W. Hackley Butler; Treasurer, Milton E. Osborn; Chaplain, Junius E. Beal; Historian, George W. Patterson.

Arthur L. Cross, professor of European History, standing before a large draped American flag at one end of the living-room, read a most interesting and valuable paper, entitled "Importance of Country History."

The Minnesota Society of the Sons of the American Revolution went on record at their annual dinner meeting at the Minneapolis Club as opposed to the activities of the Ku Klux Klan and all violators of the Eighteenth amendment to the Constitution.

A resolution expressing condemnation of the present movement of spreading activities of the Ku Klux organization was introduced by Judge E. F. Waite, of the Hennepin County District Bench, and adopted unanimously. Dr. Douglas F. Wood, President of the Minneapolis Chapter, No. 1, during 1922, was elected President of the State Society at the meeting. Other officers elected were: Judge Grier M. Orr, St. Paul, First Vice-President; Walter Wheeler, Minneapolis, Second Vice-President; Charles H. Bronson, St. Paul, Secretary; Charles W. Eddy, St. Paul, Treasurer; H. C. Varney, St. Paul, Registrar; the Rev. M. D. Edwards, St. Paul, Historian; the Rev. S. W. Dickinson, St. Paul, Chaplain. Kenneth G. Brill, of St. Paul, retiring President, presided at the dinner.

Following the dinner a roster of members who have died since the last annual meeting was read, with short sketches of their lives, and Color Sergeants Patton and Wellinger, of the Third Infantry, at Fort Snelling, attired in their Colonial uniforms, marched in with Buglers Pintar and Camadula, of the same regiment, who sounded "taps." A program of entertainment was furnished by members.

MINNEAPOLIS CHAPTER NO. 1 held a Washington's Birthday meeting at which the members of the Officers' Reserve Corps Mess, 7th Corps Area, were guests. There was an attendance of 80, about equally divided between the Chapter members and the officers. The principal address was given by the Rev. Phillips E. Osgood, Rector of St. Mark's Episcopal Church, who spoke on Washington's personal traits. At this meeting a joint resolution was adopted commending Congressman Walter H. Newton, of Minneapolis, for his successful efforts in detecting and greatly assisting in warding off a blow at the Amended National Defense Act of June 4, 1920, and the effort to strike at the heart of the act by the omission from the Army Appropriation Bill of the item providing for the maintenance of the various divisional and regimental headquarters of the organized reserve divisions. His determined stand in Congress saved the citizen army and the plans of the Government under the National Defense Act and provided $60,000 for rental of headquarters throughout the country. This retains in Minneapolis the divisional and regimental headquarters of the 88th Reserve Division and keeps the reserve division intact. In case of an emergency, mobilization of troops in Minnesota, Iowa, and North Dakota would be directly from the divisional headquarters in Minneapolis, where quicker action could be had than in case they were located at Fort Snelling, where an attempt was made to locate them, in an effort to partly cripple the service.

Since then the Chapter has listened to overtures from the Children of the American Revolution with a view to encouraging the Society and leading gradually to the further upbuilding of the Sons of the American Revolution. There was a conference likewise with the Loyal League committee of Daughters of the American Revolution in reference to the promotion of patriotic work among the children of the schools.

Matters of a substantial nature are now in consideration and announcement will be made later. We expect to make preparation for an interesting meeting on Lexington Day.

Minneapolis Chapter has lately received the application of Earle Brown, the sheriff of the county in which Minneapolis is situated, descendant of Captain David Brown, who fired the first shot in the Revolutionary War. Information in the application reads as follows:

"Captain David Brown lived at Concord, Massachusetts, and commanded the Concord Minute Men on April 19, 1775, when at the North Bridge the regulars poured their first volley across the river into the ranks of the farmer boys and instantly killed Captain Davis, of the Acton Company. Captain Brown, raising his own gun to ready, gave the command, 'Fire!' at the same time firing his own gun and bringing down the first Britisher in the War of the Revolution."

The Missouri Society held its annual meeting at the Hotel Statler, March 3, and elected the following officers: President, Linn Paine; Vice-Presidents, Charles W. Bates, Samuel McKnight Green, Charles M. Hay, and J. W. Fristoe; Honorary Vice-Presidents, George M. Shields, William B. Homer, James M. Withrow, L. D. Kingsland, Harmon J. Bliss; National Trustee, George R. Merrell; Secretary, J. Alonzo Matthews; Treasurer, I. Shreve Carter; Registrar, Homer Hall; Historian and Genealogist, W. H. H. Tainter; Chaplain, Rev. Joseph Harris Harvey; Board of Managers, Ashley Cabell, Charles M. Hay, Casper S. Yost, G. S. Johns, L. D. Kingsland, E. R. Kinsey, Samuel McK. Green, C. Walter Hughes, Isaac H. Orr, Norman E. Tevis, Paul V. Bunn, and Cabell Gray.

President Linn Paine addressed the Society, outlining the purposes and objects of the organization, and announced a program of activities that had been approved for the advancement of the highest ideals in American citizenship. The program includes an observance of the anniversary of the battles of Lexington and Concord on the 19th of April, a celebration on Flag Day, June 14, and the annual banquet of the Society, October 19. It was further proposed to arrange a general celebration of the 136th anniversary of the adoption of our Federal Constitution, which will occur September 17.

President Paine included in his address a tribute to the memory of Amedee B. Cole, former State President and former Vice-President General of the Sons of the American Revolution, and Robert E. Adreon, who had also served our Society as State President.

The Montana Society.—The 29th annual convention of the compatriots of the Montana State Society of the Sons of the American Revolution was held Thursday evening and the 191st anniversary of the birth of George Washington was celebrated by the united Sons and Daughters of the American Revolution at a reception held at the Sulgrove home.

The business meeting was presided over by Judge Lyman H. Bennett, who wielded the historic cherrywood hatchet-gavel, made from a tree on the Westmoreland home of Washington.

Officers elected for 1923 are: Lyman H. Bennett, Virginia City, President; John N. Wolfe, Roundup, Vice-President; Leslie Sulgrove, Helena, Secretary-Treasurer; Robert H. Howey, Helena, Registrar; Alfred G. Badger, Butte, Historian; W. R. Burroughs, Helena, Chaplain; Scott Harrison, Helena, Librarian.

Appropriate resolutions were passed relating to the decease during the past year of the President, Paris B. Bartley; the Registrar, Willis J. Egleston, and of Dr. L. H. Thurston, of Roundup, who died February 19, 1923.

The Nebraska Society.—The annual meeting of the Nebraska Society, held February 22, was preceded by a joint luncheon of the Sons of the American Revolution and Daughters of the American Revolution at the Lincoln Hotel in celebration of Washington's Birthday; 135 sat down to luncheon. The program was in charge of President B. F. Bailey, and included music, brief responses by Mrs. A. R. Congdon, Regent of Deborah Avery Chapter, and by Mrs. E. L. Troyer, Regent of St. Leger Cowley Chapter. Brief addresses were given by Dr. Joshi, Hindu lecturer from Baroda College, India, and by Colonel John N. Banister, of Omaha, a member of the Nebraska Society. President Bailey presented Rev. Harmon Bross, Adjutant General of the Nebraska Grand Army of the Republic, and Judge J. B. Strode, past President of the Nebraska Sons of the American Revolution, as the two oldest and best loved members of our order. They were greeted with cheers.

The annual business meeting of the Nebraska Society was well attended. The Secretary's report showed 252 members of the State Society at the beginning of the year, an addition of 28 new members and the loss of two, one of them ex-Congressman W. L. Stark, of Aurora, by death.

The principal accomplishments of the Society during the past year include:

A compilation of a printed year book; presentation of a steel engraving, "Washington Crossing the Delaware," to the Masonic Home at Plattsmouth, October 28, 1922; participation in patriotic meetings and plans; Sons of the American Revolution dinners, with addresses, under auspices of Lincoln Chapter; Nebraska historical sites; co-operation with the other organizations in patriotic instruction and civic welfare.

A resolution by Compatriot Bobbitt favoring English in schools was adopted. The present officers were re-elected. A new board of managers was chosen as follows: Ralph Moseley, Lincoln; E. D. Crites, Chadron; H. E. Newton, Aurora; M. H. Deffenbaugh, Fairmont; George Rogers, Omaha; T. N. Bobbitt, Lincoln.

The presentation of the steel engraving to the Masonic Home at Plattsmouth last October was a noteworthy occasion. The presentation speech was made by President Bailey and responded to by Judge Begley, of Plattsmouth.

A delegate convention was held in Lincoln, at the Chamber of Commerce Building, February 14, to celebrate the Birthday of Abraham Lincoln and to plan an original permanent celebration of the day throughout the years. Sixteen delegates from each of the patriotic societies of Lincoln were in attendance. Dr. B. F. Bailey, President of the Nebraska Society, Sons of the American Revolution, was chairman. A fife and drum corps, composed entirely of members of the Grand Army of the Republic, rendered stirring patriotic music. It was a splendid revival of patriotic sentiment. Lincoln, as the only capital city of the United States named in honor of President Abraham Lincoln, recognizes its great privilege in making each Lincoln Birthday a great patriotic celebration.

The New Jersey Society.—Under the happiest auspices the New Jersey Society observed the birthday anniversary of General George Washington with a banquet at the Washington Restaurant, Newark, on the evening of Tuesday, February 20. This date was selected because of the many celebrations planned for the day itself, and nearly 200 compatriots answered the call of the Committee of Arrangements, of which Compatriot John W. Halsey was chairman. Features of the celebration, aside from the excellent addresses delivered, were the turning on of a spotlight on the statue of Washington, in Washington Park, near the dining hall, by the city authorities, in compliance with the request of the committee; the appearance of the Newark Chapter quartet, dressed in the uniform of Continental soldiers and imitating the Spirit of '76 as the members marched into the banquet hall to the music of the fife and drum; the wearing by all the members of the three-cornered Continental hat, and the wonderful spirit of harmony patriotically and fraternally prevailing throughout the evening.

Judge Adrian Lyon, President, was the toastmaster, and the ceremony of the presentation of the Colors, the pledge to the Flag, singing of the "Star-Spangled Banner," and the special singing of the hymn "Chester," used by the troops of Washington, were features.

Fulfillment of the hope that the Sons of the American Revolution and the Sons of the Revolution will be merged in one organization is among the possibilities of the not distant future, Major Washington Irving Lincoln Adams, President General of the Sons of the American Revolution, stated in his address. Major Adams urged the Society to stand by the Constitution and to encourage citizens generally to do likewise. He read a letter from President Harding, who has been invited to deliver an address at the Nashville Congress of the Sons of the American Revolution next May.

"General George Washington" was the theme of Rev. Dr. Frank A. Smith, Chaplain.

Exercises were held at the headquarters of the Society, 33 Lombardy Street, Newark, on the morning of Washington's Birthday anniversary, in charge of the Newark Chapter. Compatriot Sylvester H. M. Agens, President, presided. The invocation was offered by Rev. M. S. Waters, Historian of the State Society, and David L. Pierson, Secretary, gave an address on "The Stalwart Character of Washington." Afterward a procession was formed, and proceeding to the Washington statue, in Washington Park, a block away, a wreath was there placed as a tribute to the Father of His Country, in behalf of the Society.

NEWARK CHAPTER attended services at the Centenary M. E. Church, that city, on Sunday evening, February 18, when the pastor, Rev. James Brett McKenna, preached a patriotic sermon in remembrance of Washington.

A reception was tendered Major Washington I. L. Adams at the home of Compatriot Thomas W. Williams, former Vice-President General, at 78 North Arlington Avenue, East Orange, on Friday evening, March 16. The affair was arranged by Orange Chapter, and during the evening there were addresses by the guest of honor, Judge Adrian Lyon, President of the State Society, and by the host.

The annual meeting of the New Jersey Society will be held on Saturday, April 21, and the annual church service, in remembrance of Lexington and Concord, will be held in the Trinity Church Cathedral, Newark, on Sunday, April 22.

On Lincoln's Birthday anniversary, February 12, the State Secretary conducted, as he has done for the past twelve years, exercises at the East Orange City Hall, in memory of the martyred President, after which a procession was formed, and proceeding to the statue of Lincoln on the Parkway, a wreath was there placed as a tribute of the people of the city. Rev. Dr. George M. Gordon, a member of the Orange Chapter, offered the invocation.

Secretary David L. Pierson spoke at the meeting of the Rotary Club, Morristown, at noon and at the Hillside Grammar School in the afternoon of February 21. Members of the State organization attended the annual exercises at the Washington Headquarters, in Morristown, at noon on February 22. It was reported that the day was more generally observed than it had been at any other time in recent years in New Jersey, and that it was a hopeful sign of a return to the old-time patriotic standards in the era of peace.

A conference of the clergy of the State Society, Chapter Presidents, and members of the Board of Managers was held at the headquarters, 33 Lombardy Street, on January 31. Secretary David L. Pierson, who arranged the program, opened the meeting by announcing Rev. M. S. Waters, Historian, as the presiding officer, and from 11 a. m. till late in the afternoon there was a constant flow of ideas for increasing the usefulness of the Sons of the American Revolution, and particularly as to its relationship with the church, which was the theme of the morning session. Addresses were delivered by Judge Adrian Lyon, President; Bishop Wilson R. Stearly, Rev. Dr. Frank A. Smith, Rev. Joseph F. Folsom, Rev. George P. Eastman, Gilbert D. Maxwell, Vice-President Elvord G. Chamberlin, Rev. George P. Liggitt, Superintendent Frederick E. Emmons of the Elizabeth public schools, and a number of others. Bishop Stearly advocated the establishment of a Bureau of Speakers for the purpose of supplying speakers to organizations desiring patriotic addresses. This is now being considered by the Executive Committee, with these suggestions offered by Secretary Pierson:

That the clergymen recommend to presbyteries, classes, diocesan and other organizations of clergymen that either sermons be preached on the Sundays nearest the patriotic anniversaries or that some mention be made from the pulpit.

That the Flag of Stars and Stripes be presented at the altar of churches following the offertory or some other point in the service, and that "America" be sung.

That the men's clubs be requested to have a patriotic or a Sons of the American Revolution meeting once each year at least.

That the church women have one patriotic festival each year for children, with historical tableaux, flag drills, etc.

That the clergy induce their fellow-clergy to become members of the Sons of the American Revolution if eligible.

That the singing of patriotic selections be encouraged at meetings of the various church societies.

That the clergy enjoin upon congregations the display of the Flag of Stars and Stripes on the patriotic anniversaries, announcing them on the Sunday nearest the date.

That special effort be made to observe Constitution Day, September 17, and, where possible, have the church bell ring at the noon hour on the anniversary, calling the attention of the people to its advent.

That Sons of the American Revolution members pledge themselves in every possible way to assist the aliens to understand the living in harmony with the Constitution and the institutions of the country.

That all clubs, societies, and organizations of men be invited to co-operate in the forward movement patriotically.

That a Bureau of Speakers be established and all Sons of the American Revolution members gifted with public speaking enroll therein.

Illness prevented Major W. I. L. Adams, President General of the National Society of the Sons of the American Revolution, from being present Saturday afternoon, February 10, at a reception given in his honor at the headquarters of the State Society, 33 Lombardy Street. A framed picture of Major Adams, showing him in the regalia of his office, was presented to the Society by J. Stewart Gibson, President of the Montclair Chapter.

Mr. Gibson praised the work of Major Adams, who was both a charter member and past President of the Montclair Chapter, as National Executive, referring to the recent transcontinental trip, in which he visited many State Societies.

The picture was formally received by Judge Adrian Lyon, President of the New Jersey Society, in which he expressed appreciation to the Montclair members.

Memorials for Frederick B. Bassett and Augustus S. Crane, both long and active members of the Society, were read.

The reports of Secretary Pierson, Treasurer Frank E. Quinby, Registrar William J. Conkling, and Librarian Russell B. Rankin all showed the Society to be in a flourishing condition.

The Secretary was directed to write the Governor, the Senate, and the House of Assembly, favoring the bill now before the Legislature, which grants an appropriation for assistance with the Congress at Washington in building the memorial bridge across the Delaware River in commemoration of the crossing of the river by Washington and his troops.

Secretary Pierson reported he had attended a conference on Friday at the Y. W.

C. A., at which plans were discussed for a concentration of all Americanization work in the city under one management.

A series of patriotic luncheons, arranged for the second and fourth Wednesdays of each month, at the Essex Club, Newark, for members of the New Jersey Society, and inaugurated on February 14, have been proving a success in developing the spirit of good fellowship and general interest in the Society's welfare. They are given at noon, and after the menu has been served a speaker dwells on a popular subject for twenty minutes, bringing the entire assembly within the hour usually allowed for the lunch period. The speaker at the first one was President General Major Washington I. L. Adams. Judge Adrian Lyon addressed the compatriots on February 28 on the "Constitution of the United States and Its Relation to the Sons of the American Revolution."

The State Secretary gave an address at the annual Historian's Day of Orange Mountain Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, held in East Orange on February 26. On January 7 he addressed the Rotary Club of Newark at the Robert Treat Hotel, and at the meeting of the New England Society of Orange, on February 24, told the members of the wonderful awakening all over the country in the celebration of Washington's Birthday. Compatriot Thomas W. Williams, a former Vice-President General of the National Society, is President of this influential organization.

At a reception held at the headquarters on January 8 for newly elected members Rev. M. S. Waters, Historian, gave a very instructive address on "The Struggle of the English and the French for Supremacy on the North American Continent." He also exhibited a number of relics—bullets, buckles, etc.—taken from the battle-field at Fort Duquesne, at the time of Braddock's defeat, July 9, 1755.

The New Jersey Society has suffered a severe loss in the death of Augustus S. Crane, publisher of the Elizabeth Daily Journal, whose State and National number were 162. Compatriot Crane died at Summit, N. J., January 9.

ELIZABETHTOWN CHAPTER has been engaged in Americanization work through its committee, of which Compatriot Harry F. Brewer is chairman, by instructing aliens desiring to become citizens. The certificates of the Department of Labor have been given to a large number who have been passed by the superintendent of schools, thus saving the tedious waiting in the court of naturalization.

ORANGE CHAPTER held a very enjoyable meeting on January 19, the subject being "How to Make a National Anthem Poetically and Musically." During the program a number of slides containing musical scores were thrown upon a screen and concluded with the music of a new hymn, "America."

The Chapter also met on the evening of February 16, when Rev. Charles Thomas Walkley gave an address on "Some Side Lights of Colonial Literature," dealing principally with the conditions in England about the period of the Puritan disturbance. A. P. Bachman gave a paper on "The Witch of Whiskey Lane."

MONTCLAIR CHAPTER rose to very great heights on Sunday, February 25, when, under its auspices, the annual service at the beautiful First Congregational Church, in remembrance of the immortal Washington and his 191st birthday, attracted a congregation of over 1,500 persons.

J. Stewart Gibson, President of the Chapter, was in charge of the ceremonies, and the Pledge to the Flag was given by Major Washington I. L. Adams, President General, who is a member of the Board of Trustees of the church. Judge

Adrian Lyon, President of the State Society, brought the greetings of that organization, and the address was delivered by Rev. Dr. Howard Duffield, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of New York City. He said that while Washington inveighed against entangling alliances he said nothing about "ennobling alliances."

NEWARK CHAPTER, at its meeting held at the home of Compatriot Edward S. Rankin on January 24, listened to three addresses—by Compatriot Rankin, on "Newark's Wonderful Heritage"; Rev. M. S. Waters, on "The Struggle of the English and the French for Supremacy in America," and Secretary David L. Pierson, on "The Suffering of the Troops of Washington at Morristown in the Winter of 1779-1780." The Newark Chapter quartet gave a number of excellent vocal selections.

Under the auspices of Montclair Chapter and the American Legion, a meeting will be held in the Wellmont Hall, Bloomfield Avenue, Montclair, on Thursday, April 26, for the reception of newly made citizens. Compatriot Gilbert D. Maxwell, chairman of the Chapter committee, is deeply interested in making the affair a great success, which it promises to be.

The President General has presented to the Montclair High School, through his home Chapter, a solid gold Sons of the American Revolution medal for the best essay by a senior of that school on an historical subject connected with our national history.

THE PASSAIC VALLEY CHAPTER, Sons of the American Revolution, and the Beacon Fire Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, both of Summit, N. J., held a joint reception in the Y. M. C. A. auditorium on the evening of February 22, 1923, in celebration of Washington's Birthday.

American flags were used artistically in a decorative effect. Instead of the guests and speakers being on the platform, they sat on the main floor, in a semi-circle, with a background of palms and ferns. The effect was very homelike and cozy. The flags were fastened to the walls and suspended from the chandeliers. On the stage was draped a large flag, below which was a picture of the immortal Washington. In the center of the room was a long serving table, presided over by Mrs. Corby and Mrs. Meyer, dressed in colonial costumes, who supplied each guest with a small American flag.

The guests of honor were Mrs. Henry Dusenbury Fitts, New Jersey State Regent of the Daughters of the American Revolution, and John Lenord Merrill, of East Orange, past State President of New Jersey, Sons of the American Revolution, who made the principal address. After the addresses a social hour was enjoyed, during which refreshments were served by high-school boys and girls in colonial costume, in which they had previously danced a minuet.

The Beacon Fire Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, was organized only last December. It is a very wide-awake organization and will do much toward increased activity in Passaic Valley Chapter, Sons of the American Revolution.

PASSAIC VALLEY CHAPTER, at its meeting on January 13, discussed pro and con Muzzy's History and other text-books. An address on "The Patriotism of Abraham Lincoln" was given by Rev. Oscar R. Hawes.

CAPTAIN ABRAHAM GODWIN CHAPTER, of Paterson, at its meeting on January 29, received a report of its Committee on Pageant, of which Compatriot Ide Gill Sargeant is chairman. A most ambitious presentation is to be made in one of the parks of the city in the early summer, dealing in episodes relating to the history of Passaic County and of the city. It was here that Alexander Hamilton, in 1792, installed "The Society for Useful Manufactures," being the beginning of the industrial life of the country. Dr. Frank R. Sandt, who is actively engaged in furthering the observance of events leading to and through the War for American Independence, said that he hoped to have a general exhibition in the moving-picture theaters in the country of these scenes, beginning with the anniversary of the Boston Tea Party next December.

WEST FIELDS CHAPTER on February 15 enjoyed an evening devoted to the life of Washington, and on Sunday, February 18, attended service at the First Congregational Church, Westfield, at 4 p. m., when Rev. George P. Eastman, Chaplain of Orange Chapter, gave an address on Washington.

The New York (Empire State) Society.—Compatriot Col. Henry W. Sackett has presented to the Society a silk "Bunker Hill" flag, and Compatriot William L. Allen a silk "Bourbon" flag, a replica of the one used by Lafayette in the Revolution. Compatriot George Royce Brown has presented the Color Guard with a set of 36 brassards. The annual meeting of the Society will be held on April 19, at the Army and Navy Club, 112 West 59th Street, New York City, at which time the election of officers and delegates to the National Society Congress will take place.

Compatriot Louis Annin Ames, Past President General of the National Society, represented the Society at the funeral of the late Hon. Morris B. Beardsley, Past President General, at Bridgeport, on March 7, and was one of the pall-bearers.

NEW YORK CHAPTER.—The regular meeting of the Chapter was held on Wednesday evening, February 21, at 8 p. m. As usual, the dinner was held at 6.30 p. m., at which over 150 members were in attendance. The guests were President General W. I. Lincoln Adams, Director General Marvin H. Lewis, of the National Society; Col. C. Robert Churchill, President of the Louisiana Society, and Hon. Henry Lane Wilson, member of the Indiana Society and former Ambassador from the United States to Mexico, who as speaker of the evening made a most interesting address on "George Washington," which was received with much appreciation by the compatriots present. This address will be published in the April Bulletin of the Empire State Society and sent to each member. The next meeting of the Chapter will be held on April 19, 1923.

The annual church service was held on February 18, at the Church of the Divine Paternity. The sermon was by Rev. Joseph Fort Newton, D. D., Chaplain of the Chapter, and a reception was held in the parish house after the service.

BUFFALO CHAPTER.—The Buffalo Chapter celebrated Washington's Birthday with a dinner at the Lafayette Hotel on February 22. The Chapter was fortunate in having some very distinguished guests at this banquet, and the occasion was one of the most delightful ever held by this Society. The guest of honor and principal speaker was Rev. Josiah Sibley, D. D., of the Second Presbyterian Church of Chicago. Doctor Sibley came to the Buffalo Chapter on the recommendation of Vice-President General Louis A. Bowman. The high praise bestowed upon Doctor Sibley by Compatriot Bowman was more than borne out when that eloquent and scholarly gentleman addressed the Chapter. Doctor Sibley is a speaker of rare charm and great force. He carries his hearers with him from the moment of beginning to the final eloquent closing, and there is never an instant that his audience is not stirred with his remarkable power of expression and his original and stirring thoughts. His subject was the "Soul of America," and his masterful treatment of that great idea was such that the Chapter will remember this event for many years to come. The Chapter was more than fortunate to have with it on this occasion not only the splendid Regent of the Buffalo Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, Mrs. John Millor Horton, who spoke in her usually delightful and charming manner, but also, on account of our sister Chapter having had a Washington's Birthday celebration on the same afternoon, the dinner was graced by the presence of Mrs. Anthony Wayne Cook, of Cooksville, Pa., who it is understood is a candidate for President General of the Daughters of the American Revolution, and also by the presence of Mrs. Charles Nash, the State Regent of New York State Daughters of the American Revolution. Both of these charming ladies gave delightful greetings from their respective National and State Organizations. The dinner was presided over by the President, Commander Thomas W. Harris, and about seventy-five ladies and gentlemen attended.

THE NEWBURGH CHAPTER.—At the meeting of this Chapter on February 27th, a "Flag Etiquette" was adopted, and it will be printed for distribution among the various patriotic organizations. The business meeting was preceded by a dinner. The Rev. S. F. White addressed the members on the "Greatness of a Country." The Chapter is to place a Sons of the American Revolution marker on the grave of Jeremiah Webb, a Revolutionary soldier, at Andes, Delaware County, New York at an early date.

THE ROCHESTER CHAPTER.—At the annual meeting of the Chapter the following officers were elected to act for the coming year: Raymond G. Dann, President; Wm. B. Boothby, Vice-President; Edward J. Seeber, Secretary; John B. Howe, Treasurer; Edward R. Foreman, Registrar; A. Emerson Babcock, Historian; Rev. James T. Dickinson, D. D., Chaplain.

SYRACUSE CHAPTER.—The Syracuse Chapter held a very pleasant and profitable meeting on the evening of February 22, in commemoration of Washington's Birthday, at the home of Compatriot and Mrs. H. Winfield Chapin, in James Street. The meeting was addressed by Mr. Franklin H. Chase, Associate Editor of the Syracuse Journal, giving some interesting data of his recent trip of two years in the Orient and Europe.

NEWBURGH CHAPTER.—At the banquet of the Sons of the American Revolution given in the banquet hall of Crook's restaurant, Newburgh, the Rev. Dr. S. F. White, the speaker of the evening, spoke on the greatness of the United States and the qualities in a man necessary to make him a fit American citizen. After the address regular business of the organization was transacted.

During the regular business, the Chapter approved of the appointment of Samuel L. Stewart and the Rev. J. Woodman Babbitt as delegates to the National Congress, which will be held in Nashville, Tenn., in May, and James W. Barnes as member of the board of managers of the Empire State Society. The Rev. Mr. Babbitt, for the Committee of Flag Etiquette, told of the modification by headquarters of the displaying of flags. He was authorized to procure 250 copies of these modified regulations. They are on cardboard 7½ inches by 13 inches and will be distributed among the schools and organizations in Newburgh for their guidance and use of flags on patriotic occasions.

Communications were received from the Empire State Society and a relative in LaPorte, Indiana, asked that the Newburgh Chapter mark the grave of Jeremiah Webb, a Revolutionary soldier, who died at Stamford, Conn., on October 22, 1830, and who was buried at Andes, Delaware County, New York. As soon as the weather permits, the Newburgh Chapter will set a bronze marker over the grave. Webb served in two companies of the Connecticut militia. President Perkins approved of a membership committee of the board of managers of the Empire State Society. A number of requests have been received from citizens of Newburgh to become members of the organization.

It was voted that hereafter the regular monthly meeting will be held on the fourth Tuesday of the month. The entertainment committee will endeavor to procure interesting speakers for these meetings. There was also some talk about the annual banquet, to be held in the Palatine Hotel on April 19, the anniversary of the Battle of Lexington. The committee will try to obtain the services of the Rev. S. Parkes Cadman, of Brooklyn, as speaker.

The Ohio Society.—The Chapters in the larger cities have been quite active along Americanization lines—assisting foreigners in preparing their applications for naturalization; distributing copies of the Constitution of the United States and of our booklet, "Information for Immigrants," and holding public ceremonies before judges of the United States courts, to which the families of the applicants are invited. These meetings, with short patriotic addresses by members and inspiring patriotic songs, have been interesting and greatly enjoyed by the families, who take pride in their new citizenship. The State officers have distributed hundreds of copies of the Constitution of the United States and our booklet, "How to display the Flag," to the public schools in the State, and a number of appreciative letters have been received from superintendents of these schools, and many of the schools observed the birthday anniversaries of both Washington and Lincoln.

One Chapter has been organized—Lafayette Chapter, at Akron. A petition was filed December 28, 1922, by members of the Society residing in Summit County, Ohio, requesting authority to organize a Chapter with jurisdiction in the County of Summit. January 4, 1923, a warrant was issued by the State officers authorizing the organization of a Chapter. The members of this Chapter have a good field for recruiting. They are enthusiastic and give promise of active service along patriotic lines.

RICHARD MONTGOMERY CHAPTER, at Dayton, seems to have the lead in the number of interesting meetings held during the year, which is reported for the encouragement of other Chapters. This Chapter reports nine special meetings during the year, celebrating patriotic anniversaries with members of the D. A. R., and are assisting them in building up a reference library.

ETHAN ALLEN CHAPTER, organized just one year ago, has doubled its membership. An interesting meeting was held at Steubenville February 22. The members joined the Daughters of the American Revolution in observance of the day with a banquet and a number of fine addresses, interspersed with patriotic songs. Hon. Joseph B. Doyle, Historian General of the National Society, was one of the speakers, who made a patriotic talk on Washington and his high character, and he said there were two great traits of his character which in the passing years we did not hear much about—his truthfulness and his religion. He was a sincere Christian and had faith in God and called upon Him in the crisis of our Government. In evidence of this great trait of character Mr. Doyle read Washington's prayer, sent out to the Governors of the States on June 8, 1783, which is as apropos today as it was in the founding of the American Government.

The alphabetical list of battles of the Revolution, published in the Year Book for 1922, is commended very highly by librarians in the State, as they have so many inquiries with reference to them. Sixty members have been admitted to the State Society since the last annual meeting, April last, and it has been a busy and prosperous year in patriotic service.

LAFAYETTE CHAPTER of Akron is the newest organization of the Ohio Society and held its initial organization meeting on January 31. Cordial letters of greeting and encouragement were received on this occasion from Mrs. J. M. Allen, Regent of the Cuyahoga Portage Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution, and Mrs. E. E. Crites, President of the Anna Hudson Chapter of the Children of the American Revolution, both of whom expressed great satisfaction at the realization of the efforts of those who had interested themselves in the new organization, and assuring personal co-operation in interesting new members to join. Officers of Lafayette Chapter were elected as follows: President, Edward L. Howe; Vice-President, James G. Grant; Registrar, Charles Henry Stinaff; Secretary-Treasurer, Mason Jay Snow. A second meeting was held shortly after, at which Hon. D. C. Rybolt, Mayor of Akron, addressed the members on patriotism. A later meeting is scheduled for April 19, when, if weather permits, the grounds of the beautiful home of President Howe will be opened for a patriotic meeting befitting the occasion.

The Oklahoma Society.—A most enjoyable meeting was held on February 22, with a splendid address on George Washington by Compatriot H. H. Hagan, of Tulsa.

Compatriot Hagan drew a picture of Washington's life and character that was not only inspiring and brilliant, but also gave his auditors an insight into the daily life of this great man that was most clear and enlightening. Among other things he said: "Unfortunately, Washington has become a tradition, a vague demigod enveloped in a cloud of dignity, and our age scoffs at tradition and has forgotten dignity. The strong, incorruptible, unselfish, clear, and far-sighted Washington has become a dim personality, whose example is rarely followed and whose only precept generally remembered is his warning against entangling alliances. . . . Yet there is no one from whom the present generation could with greater profit catch inspiration. Washington loved freedom. . . . Unless a halt is made, we are rapidly approaching the day when the conduct of the individual will be so circumscribed by oppressive, petty, and obnoxious regulation that individual liberty in this country will be completely destroyed. . . . Washington rose superior to the fetters of partisanship and the clamors of factions. He recognized only one guide, one mentor, the good of the whole commonwealth, the welfare of the entire citizenship. When he thought the best interests of the Government dictated otherwise, he was unswerving and uncompromising in his determination, and no amount of public outcry could change his decision or influence his course of action." After a most comprehensive summing up of Washington's life and character, Mr. Hagan ended his masterly address with these impressive words: "Let us resolve that the priceless heritage of Washington, he of whom it has been fittingly said that God left him childless in order that he might be the father of his country—let us resolve that his heritage, the heritage of a nation united, of a nation proud and inviolate, of a nation whose people are free, just, contented, and God-fearing, of a nation whose institutions are unoppressive, whose motives are pure, whose traditions are glorious, whose ideals are unsullied—let us resolve that that heritage shall not be lost or surrendered or little by little frittered away, but that we will hand it down to our children as it was bequeathed to us by our fathers, intact and revered, so that to them and to all mankind America may continue to be a land of liberty, of justice, of tolerance—the hope and inspiration of the world.”

The election of officers resulted as follows: Ben W. Riley, Oklahoma City, President; L. A. Norton, Duncan, H. H. Hagan, Tulsa, and W. S. Kerfoot, Hinton, Vice-Presidents; E. F. McKay, Secretary-Treasurer (re-elected); J. B. Thoburn, Historian (re-elected); George R. Tabor, Oklahoma City, Registrar; George L. Bowman, Kingfisher, Trustee; L. C. Murray, Tulsa, Chaplain; A. N. Leecraft, H. T. Deupree, and L. H. Buxton, Managers.

A committee, headed by Compatriot R. L. Williams, judge of the United States District Court for the Eastern District of Oklahoma, was appointed to arrange a marker or tablet at the grave of Montfort Stokes, the only veteran of the Revolutionary War known to have been buried in the soil of what is now the State of Oklahoma. Because the exact location of the grave is not known, the memorial will be built in a small inclosure on a little knoll near Fort Gibson, where the veteran rests with others of his fellows.

The Oregon Society was favored by a visit of President General W. I. Lincoln Adams and Vice-President General George Albert Smith on January 12-13. A most cordial welcome was extended to the distinguished guests by officials and members of the State Society. They were entertained at luncheon and dinner on January 12 by Past President General Wallace McCamant. On January 13 the Board of Managers of the Oregon Society gave a luncheon to the President General, the Vice-President General, and Past President General McCamant. On the evening of January 13 a most enjoyable reception was held, more than one hundred compatriots and numerous guests, representing the Grand Army of the Republic, the American Legion, and other patriotic societies, being present. Dr. Stuart McGuire, a favorite Portland singer, added to the enjoyment of the evening with several finely rendered vocal selections. The visit of the National Society officials was a season of refreshment and inspiration to the Oregon Society, and will undoubtedly result in more general interest and activity among the members.

The annual meeting of the Oregon Society was held on February 22, and officers for the ensuing year were elected as follows: President, B. B. Beekman; Vice-President, Winthrop Hammond; Secretary, B. A. Thaxter; Treasurer, H. C. Ewing; Registrar, Alfred Parker; members of the Board of Managers, B. S. Sanford, P. P. Dabney, J. S. Cooper, Jr., and H. L. Bates. Compatriot H. C. Ewing was elected as successor to Compatriot A. A. Lindsley, who has served as Treasurer for seventeen consecutive years, but whom ill-health compelled to resign on February 8. In recognition of Compatriot Lindsley's long and devoted service to the Society, he was elected a life member and awarded the insignia of the Sons of the American Revolution as a token of appreciation. Compatriot Bates was elected a member of the Board of Managers to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Compatriot Charles F. Beebe. All the other named officers were re-elected. The election of Delegates to the Annual Congress to be held at Nashville in May and nomination of Trustee of the National Society for Oregon were delegated to the Board of Managers.

The Society at the annual meeting authorized the offering of the customary prizes of $25.00, $15.00, and $10.00 for the best three essays on subjects relating to the American Revolution, submitted by school children of the State during the scholastic year of 1923-24.

The Society also voted an appropriation of $100.00 to the Oregon State Library for traveling libraries made up of volumes dealing with the Revolutionary War period. The State Library already has sixteen such traveling libraries, provided from funds donated by the Oregon Society. The report of the State Librarian shows that these libraries have been in constant use and have been forwarded to all sections of the State. These traveling libraries have been very helpful in connection with the annual essay competitions, but their use has not been confined to school children.

The annual banquet of the Oregon Society was held on the evening of February 22, at the University Club, in Portland. There was a good attendance and a most enjoyable program of addresses and music. The addresses were as follows: "Washington—the Sleepless Sentinel of Our Free Institutions," by Dr. William Wallace Youngson; "Then and Now," by Compatriot Captain James S. Gay, Jr., Past State Commander, Veterans of Foreign Wars; "An Associate of Washington," by Compatriot Judge Robert Tucker. Mr. A. E. Davidson was soloist of the evening, with Compatriot Ralph W. Hoyt as accompanist.

On the evening of February 22 a reception was tendered at the Portland Public Auditorium to seven hundred citizens naturalized during the past year. The meeting was held under the auspices of the Portland Americanization Council, a beneficiary of the Portland Community Chest, and sponsored and conducted by representatives of numerous civic and patriotic organizations. Both the Daughters and the Sons of the American Revolution are affiliated with this Council. The Auditorium was thronged and splendid addresses of welcome and encouragement were delivered. Each of the new citizens was presented with a silk American flag.

The Rhode Island Society.—The annual meeting of the Rhode Island Society was held on Thursday, February 22, at 12 o'clock, noon, at the rooms of the Rhode Island Historical Society, on Waterman Street, in Providence, for the election of officers and transaction of other business.

Luncheon was served at the rooms of the Historical Society after the meeting. The annual dinner was held at 6:30 o'clock that evening, at the Turks Head Club. The banquet exercises included addresses by Telfair Minton, Esq., of Boston, whose subject was "History and Evolution of the Flag of the United States of America"; Hon. Marvin H. Lewis, of Louisville, Ky., Director General of the National Society, who was the guest of honor, and Hon. Chester W. Barrows, of Providence, Justice of the Superior Court of Rhode Island.

Resolutions "viewing as un-American," any proposal to substitute another language for English as the vehicle of instruction in Rhode Island schools were unanimously adopted. Copies of the resolutions, which urge the General Assembly to "keep intact the educational legislation of 1922," were ordered forwarded to the Senate, the House of Representatives, and the Governor.

Addison Pierce Munroe, Vice-President of the Society, was elected President to succeed Herbert A. Rice, and Dr. George Thurston Spicer was elected Vice-President. Other officers elected at the business meeting were: Secretary, Theodore Everett Dexter; Treasurer, William Luther Sweet; Registrar, Edward Kimball Aldrich; Historian, Charles Dean Kimball; Chaplain, Rev. Alfred H. Wheeler; Poet, William Mabley Muncy.

The Tennessee Society.—The annual February 22 dinner of the Tennessee Society, held at the Chamber of Commerce, in Nashville, brought out the largest gathering of the compatriots in the history of the Society. President Boardman briefly touched upon the plans made for the entertainment of the Thirty-fourth Annual Congress in May, and the short business session was followed by an able and eloquent address by Dr. Charles Turck, of Vanderbilt University Law School. The flag ceremony was in charge of Captain Douglas Henry, Commander of Davidson County Post, No. 6, of the American Legion. Twenty-eight gentlemen were admitted to membership at the meeting. Some years ago, while visiting Mount Vernon, Compatriot L. W. Culbreath, of Stanton, Tenn., was presented with a root of the ivy growing on Washington's tomb. He brought it home and planted it. Dr. Culbreath sent to us for the dinner a generous box of the ivy, which formed the table decorations.

The Texas Society.—Owing to the fact that it was impossible to secure a quorum for an annual meeting on Washington's birthday, February 22, this meeting was postponed until April 21, 1923, San Jacinto Day, commemorating the battle of San Jacinto, when Texas gained her freedom from Mexico, at Hotel Galvez, at 10 o'clock a. m. San Jacinto Day is a Texas holiday.

It is the desire of the officers and Board of Managers to have as large a meeting as possible, as it has been several years since this Society has had a meeting, and there are many matters of importance to be brought up and voted on.

At the National Convention to be held this year in Nashville, Tenn., on May 21 and 22, it is the desire that as large a representation from the Southern states as possible attend this meeting. Delegates will be appointed from the Texas Society to attend this Congress at the meeting to be held April 21.

The Utah Society.—At the annual meeting of this Society, held on December 26, 1922, the following officers were chosen for the ensuing year: President, John Quayle Cannon; Vice-President, Abbot Rodney Heywood; Secretary, Gordon Lines Hutchins; Treasurer, Elias Smith Woodruff; Registrar, Chauncey P. Overfield; Historian, Levi Edgar Young; Chaplain, Rev. Hoyt E. Henriques; National Trustee, Daniel Samuel Spencer.

At the same meeting of the Society it was unanimously decided to invite the National Society of the Sons of the American Revolution to hold the Thirty-fifth Annual Congress in Salt Lake City during the summer of 1924. The Utah Society is composed of two hundred and twenty members and is both numerically and financially able to properly entertain the National Congress and will esteem it an honor and a privilege to have an opportunity of extending a very cordial western welcome.

The official reception and entertainment of President General W. I. Lincoln Adams took place on January 10. The President General was met at Ogden by Vice-President General Hon. George Albert Smith and a committee of compatriots as escort to Salt Lake City, where he was escorted to the Utah Hotel, afterward being taken on a tour of the city by the Vice-President General and the President of the Society. In the evening he was entertained at a dinner at the Hotel Utah, attended by President General John Q. Cannon, former Presidents Judge M. L. Ritchie, G. L. Hutchins, D. R. Gray, Vice-President General George Albert Smith, Professor Levi Edgar Young, Dr. E. S. Wright, George J. Gibson, and Joseph Kimball. A most delightful evening was enjoyed.

He was entertained at a special organ recital at the Tabernacle, after which he was tendered a luncheon at the Alta Club, the guests including many present and past officers of the Society. After the luncheon the President General was escorted to Ft. Douglas, where a reception was tendered in his honor by the officers at the Post.

The President General then proceeded to the Utah State Capitol and addressed a joint session of the Utah State Legislature.

In the evening a banquet was given at the Hotel Utah in his honor, which was attended by ninety-seven compatriots, guests, and their ladies. This was one of the most delightful occasions in the history of the Society in Utah.

With deep regret the Utah Society announces the death of Hon. Abbot Rodney Heywood, Vice-President of the Utah Society of the Sons of the American Revolution, which occurred at Ogden, Utah, January 9, 1923. We do not have to dwell upon the unusual and magnificent qualities of Major Heywood, and his passing leaves a niche that it will be difficult to fill.

The Washington Society.—SEATTLE CHAPTER, at its meeting on November 4, 1922, adopted the following resolution with regard to school text-books:

WHEREAS, The free public school, originating and developing in America, giving American youth the education and training so necessary to a life of usefulness and good citizenship, is one of the most valuable of all American institutions and one of the principal bulwarks of liberty and independence; and

WHEREAS, National safety and national unity demand the maintenance of our public-school system free from the influences, whether foreign or domestic, which tend to degrade American ideals and to corrupt our national traditions; and

WHEREAS, Among America's richest treasures are its Revolutionary history, the Boston tea party, Paul Revere's ride, Putnam leaving his plow in the field, Lexington, Bunker Hill, Patrick Henry's speech, Valley Forge, Saratoga, Yorktown, great landmarks of a heroic race, as daring in conception, as thrilling in execution, as momentous in result as anything in ancient romance, the divine birthright of every American child, in which he absorbs and lives and breathes the very spirit that made this United States; and

WHEREAS, Indisputable evidence proves an insidious and treacherous propaganda in operation to place in our public schools American history text-books designed to destroy faith in the forefathers and respect for American history and institutions;

Now, therefore, be it Resolved, That Seattle Chapter, Sons of the American Revolution, realizing that eternal vigilance is the price of peace, freedom, and security, regards with grave concern this condition in our schools, and urges upon our educational authorities (school boards, superintendents, supervisors, principals, and teachers) the vital need for a careful review of American history text-books, that steps may be taken to bar obnoxious books from our schools, and that only such text-books be permitted therein as teach the simple heroic truth of American history, and written not by aliens, but by American historians.

House Bill No. 170, referring to the proper selection of school history text-books, was introduced in the Washington State Legislature at the session just closed. This bill was drawn by a member of Seattle Chapter, Compatriot Harry Denton Moore, and was introduced into the House by another member of Seattle Chapter, Compatriot William Phelps Totten. It passed the House by a vote of 70 to 4. It was placed on the Senate calendar too late, and the Senate adjourned before it was reached. There seems little doubt that it would have been passed if the Senate had been given a chance to vote on it.

Since March 8, 1922, there were held by this Chapter 35 luncheons (meetings of the Chapter) to December 31, 1922, and during 1923, to date, 10 luncheon meetings—a total of 45 meetings since the last election of officers. The Chapter marched in the Independence Day parade, July 4, 1922, and again with the Americanization parade, directed by the Veterans of Foreign Wars, August 19, 1922, with our Bunker Hill Phalanx in Revolutionary uniform.

Gold, silver, and bronze medals were presented to the winners of the annual high school oratorical contest, held Wednesday evening, February 21, in the Broadway High, the presentation being made at the annual banquet following the annual meeting of the Washington State Society, February 22, 1923.

WOULD YOU LIKE A LIFELIKE PORTRAIT OF

Abraham Lincoln

Photo printed in sepia on extra-heavy offset paper, size 17 x 23. Direct from original photograph sent the Club by his Son, who said:

"The negative was unfortunately cracked and only six prints were made before it was destroyed. I think it is unequalled as a likeness and to me a pleasing picture of my Father."

Postpaid, $1.00

Money back if not satisfactory

LINCOLN CLUB

Crosby Building, Buffalo, N. Y.

Every member of the S. A. R. will, I am sure, be glad to aid the Club in its object of "More American Pictures in More American Homes." The Lincoln Picture is excellent and well worth the price.

FRANK B. STEELE, Sec. Gen. S. A. R.
