FALL 1977

The PRESIDENT GENERAL'S MESSAGE ~~~

from Baltimore, Maryland

WILSON KING BARNES PRESIDENT GENERAL

Executive Secretary.

Since your President General's message in the Summer 1977 SAR Magazine, there has been much activity in the affairs of the National Society.

Compatriot Warren S. Woodward. Executive Secretary of the National Society, unexpectedly resigned that position on September 15. 1977, effective within 30 days. He accepted a position in Houston, Texas and departed, with his family, shortly after October 15, 1977 to fill that new position. He is enjoying his new duties. On behalf of the National Society, I wished him well in his new work. Fortunately, the move from the former permanent headquarters of the National Society in the District of Columbia, to the Temporary Headquarters in the Huntington Building in Alexandria, Virginia, had been substantially completed prior to Compatriot Woodward's resignation. Your President General and others began a search for a new Executive Secretary. Their efforts were rewarded in obtaining the services of Compatriot Lt. General Herman Nickerson, Jr. as Acting Executive Secretary, with the approval of the Executive Committee. General Nickerson's appointment as Executive Secretary was authorized and approved for a two year term by actions of the Board of Trustees of the National Society, at its meeting on October 22, 1977. General Nickerson has excellent qualifications for the position of Executive Secretary and your President General is happy to report that he is doing a splendid job in that position. The National Society is indeed fortunate to have General Nickerson as

The staff at Temporary Headquarters has been restored to normal operations with the employment of new personnel who also are performing well. The backlog of applications and other matters is being gradually reduced. Your help and consideration during this transitional period are invited.

The National Headquarters Committee is hard at work in locating a new Permanent Headquarters for the National Society. It hopes to have a definitive recommendation for the Executive Committee's action prior to the next Meeting of the Board of Trustees in Atlanta, Georgia on February 11, 1978.

It is sad to report the untimely death of Compatriot W. Giles Parker on November 3, 1977. Compatriot Parker had been President of the Maryland Society SAR and Chancellor General of the National Society. He had held many Chairmanships of important Committees at both the State and National level, and, at the time of his death, was Chairman of the Resolutions Committee of the National Society. Your President General, with a number of State SAR officials and members, attended his funeral on November 5, 1977. He will be sorely missed.

At the meeting of the New Jersey Society on November 12, 1977 at the Wedgewood Inn, Morristown, New Jersey, your President General, who was the principal speaker at this well attended and interesting meeting, asked Compatriot William Y. Pryor of the New Jersey Society to accept appointment to fill the balance of the term of Compatriot Parker as Chairman of the Resolutions Committee. Compatriot Pryor has accepted this appointment. Compatriot Pryor's legal training and devotion to American ideals makes him a suitable person to fill this important position and your President General is most happy that Compatriot Pryor has agreed to serve. All State Societies SAR, Chapters and members are urged to send in suggested Resolutions for consideration of the National Resolutions Committee. These proposed resolutions should be mailed to:

Compatriot William Y. Pryor 64 Sellswood Drive Essex Falls, N.J. 07021

The meeting of the Board of Trustees of the National Society on October 22, 1977 at Temporary Headquarters was a productive and harmonious meeting. In addition to appointing General Nickerson as Executive Secretary, the Board of Trustees decided that instead of an editorial in the SAR Magazine by the Executive Secretary, the President General should, in his discretion, incorporate in his Message any needed comments of an editorial nature in conformity with the Resolutions of the National Society adopted at the preceding National Congress. Your President General commends to the activities of all Compatriots the article by Compatriot Jerry Asher, National Chairman, SAR Americanism Committee, on page 38 of the Summer 1977 SAR Magazine, entitled: "Help Defend Our Canal Zone: Surrender Impending at the Capitol." Compatriot Asher's carefully prepared article is in accord with the Resolution of the National Congress at Milwaukee on the subject of the Panama Canal.

Your President General has appointed Compatriot Ordway P. Burden, 250 East 87th Street, New York, N.Y. 10028, of the Empire State Society SAR, as Chairman of the Law Enforcement Committee of the National Society to fill the unexpired term of General Nickerson who resigned this Chairmanship upon his appointment as Executive Secretary. Compatriot Burden is well qualified for this important Chairmanship and his acceptance of this appointment will be of substantial benefit to the National Society.

The good work of Compatriot Joseph B. Head, Chairman of the Liberty Bell Program Committee and of Mrs. Head, still continues. All compatriots are invited to give their full support to this most important work for the patriotic education of the school children of America.

The President General is most happy over the spirit of cooperation and fraternal regard which appears to prevail in the National Society. All compatiots should now concentrate upon the formation of new chapters and the obtainment of new members for the National Society.

At each visitation to regional, State Society or Chapter meetings, your President General's first question has been and will be, "What have you done to form new Chapters?" When I come to you on an official visitation, please have a favorable answer to this vital question!

EDITOR'S NOTES

By action of the Trustees on October 22, 1977, the 87th Annual Congress Proceedings and Minutes of the Trustees Meeting at Milwaukee will be approved at the next Trustees Meeting on February 11, 1978, in Atlanta, Georgia. After approval, they will be printed.

Your magazine should reflect current history being made by our Society in general and our Compatriots in particular. The contents of each issue, in my opinion, reflect that objective.

This issue of the magazine has been abbreviated so that we can get back on the SUMMER, FALL, WINTER, and SPRING schedule. The decision to accelerate this Fall issue was mine and should not be viewed as reflecting unfavorably on the Publisher-Printer's reputation for high quality work. In the event you have suggestions for improving our publication, please address them to your Editor.

Everything we do in life costs us in time, money and materials. Our purposes are served best when we get the maximum benefits from our efforts. Let me suggest a few ways Compatriots can help:

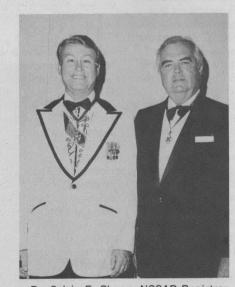

- a. Meet deadlines for submission of materials:
- b. Do not ask for exceptions to deadlines, except in rare cases;
- c. Check your photographs to be certain we can identify accurately those pictured and the event named:
- d. Use our Genealogical Inquiries service; and,
- e. Notify us immediately of your change of address or of any difficulty being experienced in receiving your magazine.

Time, patience, and perseverance will accomplish all things. Please take time to tell us your ideas; have patience with us when we appear to you to be at odds with your views; and together we will persevere in producing a magazine second to none.

A HOOSIER COMPATRIOT'S SEARCH IS ENDED

Compatriot Cyril L. Johnson, Secretary of the Indiana SAR, found, in Washington County, the grave of his great-great-great grandfather, Benjamin Racer who was a private in the Pennsylvania militia.

A marker was dedicated in Sheets Cemetry. The ceremony was attended by five SARs representing the Parkersburg Chapter, and five representatives of the Marietta DARs.

The philosophy expressed at the dedication is worthy of recording here. "Because we believe that remembering the past is conserving strength for the future, we dedicate this Government Marker of Benjamin Racer. Ideals of honesty, integrity, and faith that men have proven in the past should be guides for the present and the future. Let no man tell you that the democratic struggles and growth in our country have been in vain."

Plan NOW to attend the 88th Annual Congress May 27-31, 1978 The Galt House Louisville, Kentucky By William H. Forman, Jr.

DAVID FORMAN SERVED THE YOUNG AND STRUGGLING UNITED STATES as a Brigadier General during the American Revolution. After the nation's independence was won, he was a judge of the Court of Common Pleas in Monmouth County, New Jersey. He was also the vice president of the Society of the Cincinnati in the State of New Jersey shortly after its formation.

David Forman was born on November 3, 1745, near Englishtown in Monmouth County, New Jersey. His parents were Joseph Forman and the former Elizabeth Lee. His father was a shipping merchant of New York, who in later life retired from business and settled on one of his farms in Monmouth County.

The Forman family of Monmouth County was descended from Robert Forman, a dissenter, who emigrated from Buckinghamshire, England, to Holland and then to Long Island. It was there in 1645 that he and seventeen other Englishmen founded Flushing under Dutch authority. Robert Forman died at Oyster Bay, Long Island, in 1671.

Little is known of David Forman's early life and education. He was educated at the College of New Jersey which is now Princeton University.

He married Ann Marsh on February 28, 1767. The marriage ceremony was held in Princeton at the home of Ezekiel Forman, his elder brother.

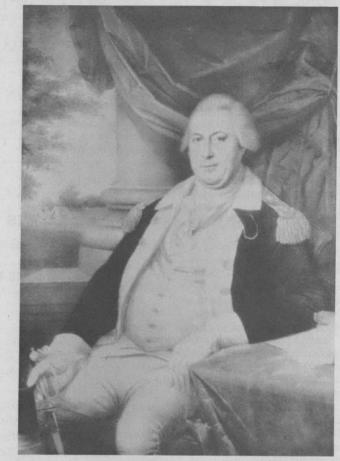

In 1775 a Committee of Observation was formed in Monmouth County to prepare for the armed conflict with Britain. David Forman became a member of the Monmouth County Committee on March 6, 1775.

Shortly after the beginning of the American Revolution in June, 1776, a brigade of New Jersey Militia was sent to reinforce the Army commanded by General George Washington. Joseph Reed was chosen to serve as Brigadier General but he declined the office. Thus, Colonel Nathanial Heard, who commanded the Monmouth and Middlesex Battalion, became the brigade's commanding general. Lieutenant Colonel Forman was promoted to the rank of Colonel in command of the Battalion. After the Americans retreated from Long Island, General Washington sent the Battalion to suppress a Tory uprising in Monmouth County during November, 1776.

In the following month the Continental Congress authorized the organization of sixteen new regiments. Colonel Forman was selected by General Washington to command one of the new units. The planned strength of each regiment was 728 men but this goal was seldom realized. Thus, he commanded Forman's Regiment of the Continental Army from February, 1777, to July, 1778.

On March 5, 1777, the New Jersey Legislature promoted Colonel Forman to the rank of Brigadier General in the Militia. During the following summer he was engaged in watching and reporting to Congress the movement of the British fleet as it conveyed troops from New York to the mouth of the Delaware River.

Later that year the New Jersey Militia Brigade under the command of General Forman joined General Washington's army. During the Battle of Germantown on October 4, 1777, the New Jersey Brigade joined a Maryland division in forming one of the four columns that attacked the British. Advancing down the Old York Road to attack the enemy's right flank, the column was misdirected by their guides. As a result their arrival at the destination point was late. For despite considerable initial advances, the rest of the Americans retreated in disorder. The British failed to exploit their victory. Both armies numbered under 10,000 men.

Brigadier General David Forman,—from an oil by Charles Willson Peale in the Berkshire Museum.

Early in November, 1777, David Forman resigned his commission as Brigadier General due to a difference with the New Jersey Legislature. He apparently held the Continental Colonelcy and the New Jersey Generalship simultaneously since it was a common practice at the time for the same person to hold several offices. The cause of his resignation is explained in a letter that he wrote to General Washington at Princeton on November 7th. The Legislature apparently wanted to investigate his election to the Generalship and General Forman naturally wished to be present during the proposed investigation. At the same time he was equally desirous of attending to his military duties. Thus, he requested the Legislature to postpone the investigation for a few days until the Militia was assembled and put in some order. The request for postponement was denied. Confronted with the alternatives of having the investigation conducted in his absence or of resigning, he chose to resign. The matter was not fully explained in his letter for he told General Washington that his action would be approved when his full explanation was received. Governor William Livingston tried to persuade General Forman to withdraw his resignation, but he persisted in resigning.

On January 1, 1778, General Forman applied to General Washington for a contract to supply the army with salt. He and his partners had invested ten thousand pounds in the works which were situated at Barnegat. He was authorized to detain sixty men, two subalterns, and a captain out of the detachment of his regiment then stationed in Monmouth to guard the works. But late in March, 1778, the guard was withdrawn as the Council of State opposed its continuance.

Early in the summer of 1778, General Sir Henry Clinton ordered the 10,000 British troops of his command to evacuate Philadelphia. The Continental force of about 13,500 men pursued.

On a hot sultry June 28th the Americans launched an attack on the retreating British at Monmouth Court House. Major General Charles Lee commanded the attacking force, and General Forman was a member of his staff. Despite a successful advance, General Lee ordered the Americans to retrea

General Washington arrived, exchanged harsh words with General Lee, and ordered the retreat to stop. The Americans then rallied and fought the British to a standstill until nightfall. During the night the British withdrew and continued their retreat to New York. General Forman's nephew Major Thomas Marsh Forman, also served in the Battle of Monmouth.

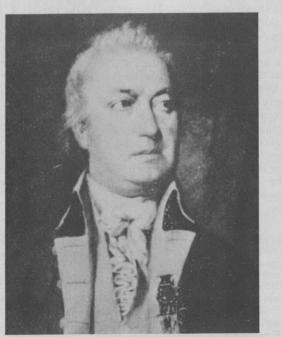

Immediately following the Battle General Lee sent an insulting letter to General Washington demanding an apology for the harsh words exchanged. General Washington refused to apologize, and General Lee demanded a trial by court-martial.

The court-martial was held at Brunswick from July 4th until August 12th. During the trial General Forman testified that he had advised General Lee to order certain military movements during the Monmouth conflict but that his advice had been ignored. Other officers joined in testifying against General Lee. Thus, he was found guilty of disobedience of lawful orders, misbehavior before the enemy, and disrespect toward a superior officer. He was sentenced to a suspension from the service for twelve months.

In December General Lee published his "Vindication." It was so abusive of General Washington that Colonel John Laurens challenged him to duel. General Lee was wounded in the duel and could not accept another challenge from Major General Anthony Wayne.

Shortly after the Battle of Monmouth, General Washington instructed General Forman to facilitate Colonel Laurens in getting on board Vice Admiral D'Estaing's ship in the French fleet then stationed off the New Jersey coast.

Shortly thereafter Colonel Laurens wrote the following letter to his father:

Brigadier General David Forman—from a pastel by James Sharples owned by Mrs. Gertrude Wells Barney.

18th July, 1778

My Dear Father:

I am very happy in having an opportunity of introducing to your acquaintance, General Forman, a gentlemen for whom I have the highest esteem, on account of his indefatigability and great sacrifices in the public service.

You will discover at a first interview that he is a man of enlightened understanding, and will receive much satisfaction from his account of the most interesting military transactions of the present day. I must refer you to this gentleman, likewise, for a more minute relation of the obstacles which have delayed the French fleet. We were on board of the Admiral together, and he had an opportunity of being acquainted with the difficulties under which the Admiral has struggled.

Whatever civilities or services it may be in your power to offer to Gen'l Forman, will give particular pleasure to Your most affectionate, John Laurens.

To the Honble Henry Laurens, Esq., President of Congress, Philadelphia.

During the latter part of the war from June, 1780, until late in 1782, General Forman commanded New Jersey State Troops. He rendered very important service in gathering intelligence on the movements of the British ships near New York. There were months during that period when no reports were sent, but when important movements were made General Forman would send dispatches to Washington four or five times a month. In June, 1780, he had established posts for more than fifty miles along the New Jersey coast so that it was impossible for any number of ships to be off the coast without his being immediately informed of it.

General Forman frequently rode his horse out to some high point along the coast to make observations personally. The zeal and fidelity of his work can be appreciated only by an examination of his letters to General Washington. The letters are full of the most minute details as to the movements and positions of ships in the waters adjacent to New York. As to the fidelity and intelligence with which General Forman performed his duties, it is best to let the most competent judge, General Washington himself, speak. The following letter was written after the movement resulting in the surrender of Major General Lord Charles Cornwallis had started.

Headquarters, Head of Elk, Sept. 7, 1781.

Dear Sir: I have received yours of the 6th inst. I feel myself not only personally, but with respect to my Country, so much indebted to you for your exertions on all occasions, that I cannot refrain from expressing my obligations on the subject. Be assured, Sir, it shall always be retained in grateful remembrance, and every opportunity embraced to convince you of my esteem and Friendship. It is with particular pleasure I inform you that Count de Grasse with twenty sail of the Line, arrived in the Chesapeake,  (he then tell his plans.) Should anything of an interesting Nature come to your knowledge, I wish to receive the earliest account of it, and by your returning Expresses, I will forward the news of the day, and the success of our movements.

I am, Dear Sir, With every sentiment of esteem, Yours, Go. Washington

Gen. Forman.

In the preceding July when the arrival of Count DeGrasse was expected, some of the Militia cavalrymen were stationed at such distances that dispatches could travel from Monmouth to General Washington's headquarters at Dobbs Ferry in twelve or fifteen hours. After the Army started south the letters were directed to be sent to a designated officer who re-forwarded them to General Washington. The express riders' dispatch service was discontinued in the latter part of 1781. But beginning in August, 1782, and for some months thereafter, General Forman again sent information as to the enemy's naval strength.

Besides sending intelligence reports, General Forman was very active in Monmouth County in supressing the Tories and Loyalist refugees from the New Jersey coast and the desperadoes known as Pine Robbers. He was hated by the Tories who called him, "Devil David." However, his friend, the Rev. Dr. John Woodhull, often remarked that General Forman was worth more to the American cause in Monmouth County than five hundred men.

Early in the war Colonel George Taylor of Middletown deserted to the Tories. During the latter part of the war, a young man named Stephen Edwards left his home at Shrewsbury and joined the Loyalists in New York. He was sent by Colonel Taylor to Monmouth with written instructions to ascertain the strength of the American force there. He was arrested on a Saturday at midnight at his father's house, taken to the court house and tried by court-martial on the following day. He was found guilty of spying and sentenced to death. His execution took place at 10 o'clock on the following Monday morning. General Forman was one of the judges who presided at the trial.

Captain Joshua Huddy was another judge at the trial. He was taken prisoner by the Tories at Toms River on April 2, 1782, and was hanged on Middletown Heights ten days later in retaliation for the death of Philip White, who had been shot in attempting to escape while being conveyed to jail. In addition, the Tories chose to hang Captain Huddy because of his connection with the Edwards trial.

General Forman took the leading part in obtaining evidence as to the facts of White's death about which there had been false reports. He next brought the matter to the attention of General Washington upon the advice of the American Commissioners for the exchange of prisoners to whom the matter had been first submitted. General Washington wrote to General Clinton demanding that those persons guilty of executing Captain Huddy be delivered to the Americans. Lippincott was tried by a British court-martial for hanging Captain Huddy. His defense of instructions from a higher authority was successful for he was acquitted.

General Clinton complained about American cruelty to Tories in New Jersey, especially in Monmouth County. As a result General Washington warned Governor Livingston that he would deliver to the British any New Jersey Militiamen caught violating the laws of war.

Frustrated by Lippincott's acquittal, the Americans decided to retaliate upon one of the British prisoners. A very youthful officer, Captain Charles Asgill, was selected by lot. But his family was influential, and his mother appealed to the French government to intercede in her son's behalf. Thus, Congress finally ordered the young man's release.

In April, 1783, Major General Henry Knox proposed to the Officers of the Continental Army that they form the Society of the Cincinnati to commemorate their victory over Britain. As a result of his proposal, several Officers met on May 13, 1783, at Verplanck House, the headquarters of Major General Baron Friedrich Wilhelm von Steuben near the Hudson River village of Fishkill, New York. General von Steuben, the senior Officer present, presided during the meeting in which the United Stafes' first hereditary veterans' organization was formed. General Washington was unanimously elected to serve at the Society's first president general.

The Society was named for the Roman Patriot of the fifth century B.C., Lucius Quinctius Cincinnatus. The scene of Cincinnatus' being called to arms to defend the Roman Republic is depicted on the Society's insignia. Shaped in the form of an eagle, the insignia hangs from a light blue and white ribbon—thus uniting forever the colors of the United States and France.

Societies were later formed in the nation's original thirteen states and in France. The New Jersey society was organized at Elizabethtown on June 11, 1783.

Mrs. David Forman—(Ann Marsh)—from an oil by Charles Willson Peale in the Brooklyn Museum.

General Forman was elected to honorary membership in the New Jersey Society on September 22, 1783. He became a hereditary member on July 4, 1787; and he served as the Society's vice president from 1791 to 1793.

After the war David Forman was a judge of the Court of Common Pleas in Monmouth County.

David and Ann Marsh Forman had eleven children— Joseph, Sarah Marsh, Elizabeth Lee, Ann, David Lee, Augustine—a daughter, Emma, Eliza, Malvina, Rivine, and Alfred. Six of the children died before him.

The affection which his children had for him was great. Owing to his wife's extremely delicate health, he often took upon himself the care of them. He and his family also attended the Old Tennent Church in Monmouth.

In February, 1794, David Forman and his family moved to Chestertown, Maryland. On September 10, 1796, he left Chestertown to visit Natchez, Mississippi, where he owned a large landed estate. While there during March, 1797, he had a stroke of apoplexy. This resulted in the paralysis of his left side.

By August his health and strength had improved considerably. He traveled down the Mississippi to New Orleans, then under Spanish domination. While enroute to New York, the vessel on which he was traveling was seized by a British privateer and taken to the Bahama Islands. The grave anxiety and disappointment was too much for him in his weakened condition. For on September 12, 1797 David Forman died at the age of fifty-two.

David Forman served the new nation as a soldier and judge. His career of public service brings to mind the ideals of the Society of the Cincinnati. Those ideals are contained in the Society's motto—''omnia reliquit servare rempublicam—He left all to preserve the Republic.''

Compatriot Calvin E. Chunn, Registrar General of the National Society and a member of the Sacramento Chapter, is being endorsed and recommended by various Chapters to the National Society Nominating Committee for election as President General at the Louisville Congress next year. This would make him the first Californian and Westerner that the National Society has had as President General.

At the October 15 meeting President Coffroth informed members that Compatriot Donald M. Dozier, PhD, chairman of Resolutions committee, CSSAR, recently testified on the Panama Canal Treaty before the Senate Committee. Compatriot Dozer said administration claims that a new treaty with Panama will protect U.S. interests are a "vain utopian dream". President Coffroth then displayed bumper stickers "Save Our Canal—Sink the Treaty" ordered from the Santa Barbara chapter.

Three members of the Sacramento

Chapter SAR have been working hard to establish a new SAR Chapter in Modesto. Compatriot Maurice Lathrop has done a lot of "leg work" in making contacts in Modesto. Compatriot Richard Sweet and Compatriot Robert Bussman from Stockton are also working toward the formation of this new chapter. We offer our congratulations and encouragement to these outstanding and energetic compatriots.

The Colonel Jeremiah Wadsworth Branch of the Connecticut Society installed a bronze plaque on the grave stone of Jeremiah Wadsworth located in the Old Burying Ground at the Center Church on Main Street, Hartford, Connecticut, in recognition of his services as Commissary General of the Continental Armies. Jeremiah Wadsworth's grave stone, with broken shaft appears behind the plaque. Presentation ceremony was held on April 30, 1977. George Athanson, Mayor of Hartford, made the acceptance speech.

Additionally on behalf of the Chapter, President Robert G. Elliott presented the SAR Law Enforcement Commendation Award to Detective Ted Earl Reigel. Officer Reigel, a five-year veteran of the Daytona Beach Police Dept., currently assigned to the Criminal Investigation Division, was recommended by the Staff Officers of Chief Philip L. To quote Chief Ash, "A diligent and determined effort on the part of this criminal investigation led to the apprehension of the perpetrator. Countless hours were directed to resolving this most difficult case, many of them while in an off-duty status."

LOUISIANA SOCIETY

The General Philemon Thomas Chapter has been quite active. Programs have included Mr. Chester Freeman of Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith, who spoke on the economic outlook for the Nation, and Mr. William C. Bailey of the Mid-Continent Oil and Gas Association, who spoke on the energy issue. State Senator Ken Osterberger discussed the issues before the regular session of the Louisiana Legislature which had just convened, and our own Compatriot Congressman W. Henson Moore spoke on National Defense at our April meeting, to which Members' wives were invited.

On July 12, the Chapter held its seventh annual Gold Good Citizenship Award Banquet at which the Medal was presented to the Honorable Joe W. Sanders, Chief Justice of Louisiana. The Chapter is proud that all seven awards of the Gold Medal have been presented by the newly elected President General in his first official act after the SAR Congress, and that the recipients of the Medal have been gentlemen who have been highly respected—not just in Louisiana, but in many cases in the Nation and on the international level. The Chapter has also awarded six R.O.T.C. medals at state universities.

Commander Richard K. Thorndike reports that the Massachusetts Continental Color Guard made several appearances this year. February 19 was at the Annual Meeting in the Harvard Club. March 26th saw a small group add a dash of color to the opening of the DAR Spring Conference at the Copley Plaza Hotel with no other than Mrs. Fleck at the helm. Then on to Bedford on April 16th for the traditional pole capping ceremonies and a chance to expel the winter dust and moths from uniforms for THE DAY on April 18th at Lexington. Our sincere thanks to Father John for this invitation. April 18th saw a large turnout of the Color Guard to participate in the Lexington

May 29th was a banner day, for we had one of the best turnouts of the Color Guard since we performed for Queen Elizabeth. It was Braintree's pleasure to have us join their ranks of other units celebrating Memorial Day. May 30th three members of the Color Guard added a bit of color to the parade at Beverly Farms where we shall meet in 1979.

A night of enjoyment was in store for the Color Guard and their friends at the Boston Pops on June 10th.

June 17th saw a select group of the younger members of the Color Guard under the direction of Compatriot Massie open the Summer Conference of the Children of the American Revolution at the Sheraton Tara in Framingham.

Then on to Wisconsin to join forces with the Maryland Color Guard, who sent eight men for the first two days of the National Congress. Those representing our Color Guard were Stephen R. Holt, Russell P. Mead, Eugene E. Richards, State President Robert C. Bolton and Commander Richard K. Thorndike.

I have already been buttonholed by Dr. Grady Roundtree, the 1978 Congress Chairman, to bring a representative group of our Color Guard to Louisville, Kentucky. It promises to be spectacular. Compatriots please consider this in your vacation plans for 1978. Maryland plans to send a group of their Color Guard.

Here's the new Vermont SAR Bicentennial plaque. From left to right are Colonel John Williams, past president of the Vermont Society, the plaque on a boulder from nearby Indian Hill, and Harold Stillwell, president, Vermont Society SAR. (Declaring independence January 16, 1777 as New Connecticutt, the State changed its name and joined the Union as the fourteenth state in

The plaque commemorates the encampment of about 2,500 American Revolutionary troops under the command of General Benjamin Lincoln. From Pawlett three parties of troops of about 500 men each assailed Ticonderoga, Mount Independence and Skenesborough (Whitehall) under the leadership of Colonel John Brown, Colonel Samuel Johnson and Colonel Benjamin Ruggles, respectively. Near Ticonderoga and Lake George Landing the Americans captured over 330 prisoners, took or destroyed considerable stores, numerous horses, carriages, boats and released about 118 American prisoners and captured enemy outposts such as Mount Independence, scaled in a heroic assault by Captain Ebenezer Allen's Company of Colonel Samuel Herrick's Vermont Rangers. These successful operations helped lay the groundwork for the defeat and surrender of General Burgoyne's Army at Saratoga, 17 October, 1777.

The Vermont SAR maintains eighteen historical markers, awards medals for excellence in ROTC and makes good citizenship awards. Members are lineal descendants of veterans or supporters of the American War of Independence. Interested persons are invited to contact Vermont SAR President Harold Stillwell, Woodstock, Vermont.

H. Bacon, Registrar of the Empire State Society. The DAR delegation was headed by Mrs. Charles Link of the On-Ti-Ora Chapter.

Abraham Ten Broeck, engaged General Burgoyne's army on October 7, 1777, in what was to be known as the second Battle of Saratoga. On behalf of the G.W. Chapter, President Calkins presented a $100 check for the maintenance of the Revolutionary War Veterans' graves, located in the cemetery, to the Honorable Frank DeBenedictus. A wreath-laving ceremony, the responsibility of the Thomas Nelson and the Richmond Chapters, has been added to the other activities of the Yorktown Association at the grave of Governor Thomas Nelson, Signer of the Declaration of Independence and defender at Yorktown in the final engagement of the war. This year Compatriot Carroll Wright, Past Vice President General, brought the message and the wreath was placed by direct descendants of Governor Nelson: Past State President, Thomas Nelson of the Thomas Jefferson Chapter, his son, Thomas Nelson Jr. with his son, Thomas Nelson III, and a brother of Thomas Nelson Sr., Dr. William Nelson of Denver, Colorado.

The Culpeper Minutemen Chapter has begun a program under the leadership of Pres. (Capt.) John Kearns and Registrar John Board of locating and registering the graves of American Revolutionary War soldiers and other patriots who may be buried in Culpeper and adjoining Northern and Central Virginia counties.

The Chapter also plans to compile the names of all Culpeper Minutemen who served in the Revolution and erect memorials to them. The troop of Minutemen was organized by Lieut. John Marshall in 1775 when mustered on a hillside west of the Town of Culpeper. The detachment was made up of patriots from Culpeper, Loudon, and Fauquier Counties.

The Lt. David Cox Chapter held its annual meeting with the New River Pioneer Chapter, DAR, and the local CAR Chapter at the resort of Shatley Springs, North Carolina. Pres. James J. Todd presided at the dinner.

Among the distinguished guests, in addition to the past presidents and current officers of the Chapter, were Miss Celene Phipps, Regent of the New River Pioneer Chapter, DAR, Va. Soc. Surgeon Palmer W. Fant, M.D., Va. Soc. 1st V.-P. Walter A. Porter, M.D., who is also Surgeon General of the National Society, SAR, and Va. Soc. Pres. Braxton H. Tabb, Jr. Pres. Tabb was heartily welcomed as the guest speaker.

The Lynchburg Chapter dedicated a monument in the Old City Cemetery of Lynchburg, Va., to mark the grave of Sgt. Henry Holdcroft Norvell, last of the Revolutionary soldiers known to be buried in the cemetery and whose grave had not been marked.

Officiating at the dedication in addition to Pres. S. Vance Wilkins, Jr., of the Lynchburg Chapter, were Mayor Joseph Freeman of Lynchburg and Comp. (Col.) Richard Scott Blackburn

Hudgins. Mrs. Robert L. Hill unveiled the memorial, which she had presented to the Lynchburg Chapter in memory of our late Comp. Henry W. Cheatham.

Later in the day, after a delightful luncheon given by Pres. and Mrs. S. Vance Wilkins, Jr. for the compatriots, their wives, and invited guests, the Chapter held its summer meeting. Comp. Fred M. Davis was awarded the Virginia Society Medal for his splendid and outstanding services to the Lynchburg Chapter over the years. Mrs. Robert L. Hill (Ann Rowe) was then presented with the Martha Washington Award by Pres. Wilkins for her conspicuous service to our Society.

On July 4, the Thomas Jefferson Chapter joined the Jack Jouett Chapter, DAR, in laying wreaths at Mr. Jefferson's grave. Mrs. Clifford C. Kelsey, Regent of Jack Jouett Chapter, presided and the Invocation was given by Mrs. Frederick Tracy Morse, Past-Chaplain General, NSDAR, and Honorary State Regent of the Virginia DAR. Col. Carroll Wright, Past-President of the Thomas Jefferson Chapter, Past-President of the Virginia Society, and Past Vice-President General of the National Society, SAR, gave the tribute to Mr. Jefferson.

NEWS OF THE ATLANTIC MIDDLE STATES CONFERENCE

The Atlantic Middle States Conference of 1977 was held in Wilmington, Delaware, on July 29-30, with the Delaware Society as host. Delegates and their ladies from Delaware, the District of Columbia, Maryland, New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania, and Virginia enjoyed a reception Friday evening.

Vice-President Gen. Carl F. Bessent (also President of the Maryland Society) presided at the business meeting, July 30. The Pledge of Allegiance was led by Mrs. Wilson K. Barnes, Past Organizing Secretary-General of the DAR and wife of the President General, SAR. The Invocation was given by Maryland Society Secretary Earl M. Altizer, and the American's Creed was led by Carl Bessent. Delaware Society President Robert L. Meekins welcomed the delegates to his State.

Gen. Bessent introduced Delaware Society Vice-President William Hearn as Secretary of the Conference. It was noted that the States represented in the Conference have a total membership of 6,200 compatriots or about 32% of the total membership of the SAR. Vice-President Gen. Richard E. Crane of the North Atlantic District spoke on the importance of grass-root activities in each District, especially at the Chapter level, with administrators serving merely to aid and coordinate Chapter activities, making for a harmonious whole.

V.-P. Gen. Bessent introduced Comp. Floyd G. Hoenstine of Pennsylvania who organized the first Atlantic Middle States Conference in 1964. He called on the late Giles Parker for a historical résumé of the Conferences, and it was brought out that the Atlantic Middle States organized because they were sending large numbers of delegates to the National SAR Congresses, but the delegates were unorganized and uninstructed and were electing no national officers from their area. The Atlantic Middle States organized the first District Conference, and now other Districts have also organized similar meetings. These Conferences are not provided for in the National SAR Constitution, but are unofficial get-togethers of delegates with common regional interests.

There was a discussion of the new temporary National Headquarters and of the requirements for a new permanent Headquarters. Pres. Gen. Wilson K. Barnes was introduced and gave his views on the location of a new National Headquarters. The late Compatriot Giles Parker and Secretary General Frankin W. Kinnamon both spoke in favor of locating the permanent National Headquarters in the environs of the nation's Capital. A motion was placed on the floor and passed, that "It is the recommendation of the Atlantic Middle States Conference that the permanent National Headquarters of the SAR be located in the immediate vicinity of the nation's Capital."

After a coffee break, the delegates reconvened to hear reports from the various national and district officers. D.C. Society President Peter A. Dixon invited the Atlantic Middle States Conference to meet in the District of Columbia in July 1978. Compatriot Warren Burdette of the Maryland Society reported that the SAR's "Keep America First" poster can be purchased in billboard size for only $12.00 (or two for $20), and that outdoor advertising companies will often put these up free as a public service when billboard space is available. Virginia Society Chancellor George S. Knight suggested that this information be placed in the National SAR Magazine, and his motion was approved by the Conference.

Vice President General Bessent raised the question of "Who were the Signers of the Constitution from each State? Have wreaths been laid on their graves in commemoration of Constitution Day?" He then closed the 14th Atlantic Middle States Conference after a motion was passed thanking the Delaware Society for their hospitality.

THESE COMPATRIOTS REALLY DO GET AROUND!

Tom Rodoumes, in the Southern California Safari Club Newsletter, reported on the whereabouts of Compatriot Max Hurlbut who has been moving deasil and widdershins to far-away places. He says:

"I wondered why we hadn't seen Max Hurlbut around lately and just received a note from him that explains everything. He just returned from a couple of months in Asia (courtesy of the U.S. Army) and Africa. He is a Captain in the USAR (Military Intelligence/Special Forces). Max was attached to the special Warfare Command in Pingtung, Republic of China (Taiwan). He qualified for the Chinese "Three Plum Flower" (Master) Parachutist badge and the Rough Terrain Wing. On his first jump—as "wind dummy" for a stick of student jumpers, Max missed the Drop Zone (a sweet potato field) and landed in a flooded rice paddy. The Chinese are dedicated soldiers—their incentive is on the Mainland a few miles to the west. General Lul also presented Max with the coveted Chinese Army Adviser's Badge.

"Max jumped with the 'Police Aerial Reinforcement Unit' of the Royal Thai Border Patrol Police on the Southern Border of Tailand. This is the strike Force that parachutes in and engages Communists penetrating their borders. They jump from old C—7A Caribous.

"Max then traveled from Bombay to Johannesburg and into Salisbury, Rhodesia to visit some friends. He hunted a week in Matetsi, Matabeleland, and shot a good sable. Max was in Victoria Falls the day the Zambians tried to create an incident by lobbing a few ineffective mortar rounds over the Zambezi. Max made it back in time to enjoy the Awards Dinner and it was good to see him again."

The Rome Chapter of the Georgia Society SAR presented an American flag to the Polk County Historical Society. The flag was presented to and is to be used at the newly opened and redecorated quarters in Cedartown. In the photo, Jack Harris (center) president of the Rome Chapter, presents the flag to George Mundy (right) president of the Polk County Historical Society as Hugh Watts Randall, a member of the Rome Chapter of the Georgia Society and the Polk County Historical Society looks on.

The National Society of the Sons of the American Revolution, at its 87th Annual Congress, assembled from June 25 through June 29, 1977 at The Pfister, Milwaukee, Wisconsin, and adopted the following resolutions:

THE PANAMA CANAL

Resolution No. 1

WHEREAS, the title to and ownership of the canal zone, under the right "in perpetuity" to exercise sovereign control thereof, were vested absolutely in the United States and recognized to have been so vested in certain solemnly ratified treaties by the United States with Great Britain, Panama and Columbia, to wit:

1. The Hay-Pauncefote Treaty of 1901 between the United States and Great Britain, under which the United States adopted the principles of the convention of Constantinople of 1888 as the rules for operation, regulation, and management of the canal; and

2. The Hay-Bunau-Varilla Treaty of 1903 between the Republic of Panama and the United States, by the terms of which the Republic of Panama granted full sovereign rights, power, and authority in perpetuity to the United States over the canal zone for the construction, maintenance, operation, sanitation, and protection of the canal to the entire exclusion of the exercise by the Republic of Panama of any such sovereign rights, power, or authority; and

3. The Thomson Urrutia Treaty of April 6, 1914 proclaimed March 30, 1922 between the Republic of Columbia and the United States, under which the Republic of Columbia recognized that the title of the canal and the Panama Railroad is vested "entirely and absolutely" in the United States, which treaty granted important rights in the use of the canal and railroad to Columbia; and whereas the canal is of vital and imperative importance to hemispheric defense and to the security of the United States and Panama; and

WHEREAS, under Article IV, Section 3, clause 2 of the United States Constitution, the power to dispose of territory or other property of the United States is specifically vested in Congress, it is the solemn duty of Congress to safeguard the Panama Canal and Zone;

NOW THEREFORE, be it resolved that the National Society of the Sons of the American Revolution urges its members to demand of the President, the Senate and the House of Representatives that there be no relinquishment or surrender of sovereign rights and jurisdiction over the canal and zone, nor any cessation, dilution, forfeiture, negotiations, or transfer of any of these sovereign rights, power, authority, jurisdiction, territory, or property that are indispensably necessary for the protection and security of the United States and the entire Western Hemisphere.

STRIP MINING

Resolution No. 2

WHEREAS, strip mining of coal is essential to the production of energy at minimum cost for the operation of the industrial economy of the United States; and

WHEREAS, the increased use of coal is to be encouraged, rather than discouraged, if dependence upon foreign oil is to be diminished; and

WHEREAS, strip mining of coal is a matter involving the private use of property and any legislation in regard to same is solely within the constitutional authority of the States, and is clearly beyond the power given to the Congress by the United States Constitution; and

WHEREAS, there is pending in the U.S. Congress one or more strip mining bills which will severely curtail the production of coal and will be destructive to the industrial base of the Nation;

NOW THEREFORE, be it resolved that the National Society of the Sons of the American Revolution opposes any attempt by the U.S. Congress to legislate in the area of strip mining beyond its constitutional authority, and in derogation of the constitutional power of the States.

ENVIRONMENTAL PROTECTION AGENCY

Resolution No. 3

WHEREAS, the Environmental Protection Agency has arrogated to itself dictatorial and virtually un-appealable powers heretofore unthought of directly affecting the lives of each citizen and the development of each community in the Nation; and

WHEREAS, its abuses of power are legion, extending to land use planning, the attempted paralyzing of the development of cities and communities, the closing of factories resulting in increased unemployment, and the virtual assumption of total power over local governments and businesses to the detriment of the economic life of the Nation:

NOW THEREFORE, the National Society of the Sons of the American Revolution urges its members to express to their members of Congress their opposition to the excesses of this uncontrolled administrative agency to the end that suitable legislation be enacted for the control of the E.P.A.

REPUBLIC OF CHINA

Resolution No. 4

WHEREAS, Republic of China on Taiwan is a traditional and proven friend of the United States which asks nothing of this Nation but the honoring of treaty commitments; and

WHEREAS, in recent year overtures have been made by the United States Government to Communist China which demands, as a condition to the further development of diplomatic relations, the breach or rupture of the ties between the United States and the Republic of China; and

WHEREAS, such repudiation of the Republic of China as a quid pro quo would be a cynical and treacherous treatment of one of the few remaining dependable friends of the United States in the world:

NOW THEREFORE, be it resolved that the National Society of the Sons of the American Revolution opposes any such betrayal of the Republic of China in the future as a condition to developing closer relations with the Communist government of mainland China.

WITHDRAWAL OF AMERICAN FORCES FROM KOREA

Resolution No. 5

WHEREAS, The President has indicated his intention to withdraw U.S. forces from Korea during the next few years; and

WHEREAS, North Korea countinues to indicate its undeviating intention to "unify" all of Korea under its rule; and

WHEREAS, the United States has, only two years ago, witnessed the disastrous results of withdrawal of its forces from a similar involvement in South Vietnam when the U.S. Congress determined to terminate its support of allied non-communist native forces; and

WHEREAS, the Sons of the American Revolution commend General Singlaub for his courageous stand and risking his professional career, in order to alert the American people to the danger of withdrawing American Troops from Korea.

NOW THEREFORE, be it resolved that the National Society of the Sons of the American Revolution opposes any withdrawal of American forces from South Korea without approval by the Congress coupled with adequate assurance by the Congress of continued logistic support of allied forces after American withdrawal, insofar as it is constitutionally possible for Congress to make such commitment.

NATIONAL DEFENSE

Resolution No. 6

WHEREAS, the Secretary of Defense, has recommended a reduction in the budget for the Department of Defense; and the size of the defense budget is important to every American because it is directly related to the security and wellbeing of the nation; and

WHEREAS, total government expenditures have increased by 224%; and defense costs have risen by only 68%.

WHEREAS, the American people have the national will and determination to continue to support a defense budget which will enable us to maintain our political, strategic and tactical programs; and

WHEREAS, numerous opinion polls have established that the American people support a defense budget that will make our armed forces superior to those of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics:

NOW THEREFORE, be it resolved that the National Society of the Sons of the American Revoltuion urges its members to express their support of an adequate national defense budget by a decrease in non-defense spending and an increase in total defense spending, and their support for the following program: (1) the Trident submarine; (2) the B1 bomber; (3) the Cruise missile; (4) the antiballistic missile system; (5) the modernization of the American Navy to be equal to or superior to the Soviet Navy; and (6) adequate tactical air forces, missile systems and modern ground forces.

BILINGUAL BALLOTS

Resolution No. 7

WHEREAS, the Congress of the United States has recently enacted legislation requiring bilingual ballots and bilingual voters information be printed in Counties, Cities and Districts where 3% of the population have minority surnames; and

WHEREAS, very few voters have used the bilingual ballots in the various counties where such ballots have been prepared at enormous expense; and

WHEREAS, the English language is the language of the United States of America; and

WHEREAS, it has most after been a mark of pride for immigrants to learn English; and

WHEREAS, almost all immigrants to the United States have mastered the English language and become good American citizens;

WHEREAS, all citizens of the United States should be encouraged to become literate in English in the best interests of the American Heritage; and

WHEREAS, the preparation of bilingual ballots greatly increases the cost of elections;

WHEREAS, the state governments are more sensitive to the needs of their varied constitutents.

NOW THEREFORE, the National Society of the Sons of the American Revolution urges its members to express their opinion to their Congressman and their Senators that Congress should repeal the bilingual ballot legislation and require ballots and voting information to be printed in English.

COERCIVE CORRUPTION OF FEDERAL SYSTEM

Resolution No. 8

WHEREAS, in recent years the Congress has established a regular pattern of circumventing the clear purpose, effect and meaning of the Constitution of the United States by coercive provisions in acts of Congress in many areas which allow or require the Federal bureaucracy to withhold Federal funds from States that do not enact legislation to suit the notions of the Congress or of the Federal bureauracracy; and

WHEREAS, such acts of Congress, and regulations blatantly attempt to accomplish by indirection that which is beyond the constitutional authority of the Congress; and

WHEREAS, such coercive provisions of Congressional acts are deliberately designed to preempt effectively the power and authority of the States to legislate in fields specifically reserved to the States by the Constitution by illegal use of public funds, such provisions being manifestly corrosive and destructive to the Federal system as established by the Constitution;

NOW THEREFORE, be it resolved that the National Society of the Sons of the American Revolution condemns such trend and practice by the Congress and urges its members as individuals to make their voices known to their Congressman and Senators to the end that such coercive provisions be removed from all acts of Congress now containing the same, and that future acts of Congress contain a criminal penalty proscribing any withholding of Federal funds from a State which does not enact certain specific legislation required by the Congress, or comply with certain "guidelines" devised by non-elected Federal administrators; and that further to insure that such dissolute practices by the Congress cease the enactment is urged of the following:

PROPOSED CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT

The Congress shall enact no law which, directly or indirectly, allows, permits or requires the award of tax funds of the United States to, or the withholding of such funds from, local or State governments conditioned upon the enactment by such governments of any particular type of legislation.

It is the sense of this Amendment that the Congress is prohibited from accomplishing indirectly through the coercive force of Federal grants to local governments what it can not accomplish directly by legitimate Constitutional legislation.

The Congress shall enact appropriate legislation establishing a criminal penalty for acts inconsistent with the foregoing on the part of any individual in any bureau or administrative agency of the Federal Government having to do with the administration or spending of funds of the United States

ELECTION DAY REGISTRATION

Resolution No. 9

WHEREAS, the integrity of the ballot is essential to the success and survival of popular based representative governments; and

WHEREAS, the proposal of the Carter administration to enact legislation which would allow the registration of voters at the polls on election day without any assurance or opportunity to ascertain whether such individual is a qualified voter in the precinct in which he attempts to register himself; and

WHEREAS, for all practical purposes an election result cannot be changed after the election regardless of the amount of vote fraud that is subsequently revealed; and

WHEREAS, election day registration is an open invitation to fraud, the stealing of elections, and the corruption of the election

NOW THEREFORE, be it resolved that the National Society of the Sons of the American Revolution opposes any legislation that would allow the registration of voters on election day, and urges its members to express their opposition to such legislation to their Congressman and their Senators.

The Padre Says...

The Reverend SAMUEL J. HOLT Chaplain General

"Now faith is the substance of things hoped for, the evidence of things not seen." Hebrews 11:1

The Bicentennial Almanac' has two entries for September 19, 1777. First, "Congress once again flees from Philadelphia, this time to Lancaster, Pennsylvania." Second, "General Burgovne is defeated at Freeman's Farm, near Saratoga, New York by Colonel Morgan and a captain at militia, Henry Dearborn.'

If you had been asked to judge on September 20, 1777 which of these two items was the more important, what would have been your reply? Not being a serious chess player, it would seem like asking if the loss of the Queen's Bishop was less important than the taking of a pawn. How could you compare the loss of the capital to a backwood's engagement?

Yet in one day less than eight months, the British were to depart from Philadelphia, while in just less than a month Burgovne was to surrender his army at Saratoga. The news of that surrender was to rock Europe and give an enormous boost to the American cause. It resulted in a treaty with the French who were followed by Spain and Holland to support the Revolution and involve England in a war.

But Saratoga was no magic wand that brought victory over- night to the American forces. The winter that followed at Valley Forge was an experience that almost destroyed our cause. There was not only the suffering of the men in their inadequate quarters, but a demoralization of the entire revolutionary effort. Troops mutinied and deserted due to the lack of food, shelter and pay. Their families were suffering back home. The Americans had only worthless continental paper money to compete with British gold for food and supplies. When Washington ordered the farmers within seventy miles to thrash out half of their grain by February 1 and all by March 1 or have it seized as straw, the farmers burned it. Washington wrote, "Idleness, dissipation, and extravagance seemed to have laid hold of most; speculation, peculation and an insatiate thrist for riches have got the better of every other consideration and almost every order of men."

Washington himself did not escape envenomed personal attack. Congress was as exacting as it has ever been and gave little heed to his wishes. Benedict Arnold, though entitled to promotion for his brilliant services, and recommended by his commander-in-chief, was passed over, while Gates was appointed adjutant-general without consulting Washington, and the commissary department reorganized against his strongly expressed opposition. Gates reported to Congress instead of to Washington as was his duty. Finally a cabal was organized to displace Washington and place Gates at the head of the army. John Adams wrote, "I am wearied to death by wrangles between military officers, high and low. They quarrel like cats and dogs." What faith or hope did these events evoke?

There was beginning to arrive help from abroad. There was Lafavette and other foreign officers. Among these, there was Baron von Steuben, the Prussian drill master who was to provide discipline to the individualism of the frontiersmen. There was a promise in the trained leadership that begin to arrive that the troops which survived Valley Forge would make a conquering army.

Faith is never built only out a series of affirmatives. It is born in a mixture of events. From its first squalling moment, it is faced with negatives that would destroy it. It survives where men and women are willing to sacrifice their lives if need be for its continued existence. Certainly, our day is a mixture of good and evil, of defeats and victories. But faith is more than any of these, and in the end it shapes the future. It is the "substance of things hoped for, the evidence of things

MAINE COMPILES A FINE INDEX

As a Bicentennial project, the Maine Old Cemetery Association has collected information on more than 6.000 veterans of the American Revolution in Maine. This material has now been indexed and deposited at Fogler Library, University of Maine, Orono.

In 1973 MOCA started planning a project listing all the known graves of Revolutionary veterans in the state. An earlier list showed 1,678 such graves in Maine. This new project has turned up records of more than 7,000 veterans of the American Revolution living in Maine at one time or another. Many came after the war to settle on Bounty Lands or on other tracts of newly opened areas. Once here, they stayed: their burial places scattered over Maine.

The results of four years of investigation and research by a committee representing all the counties of the state, assisted by well over 200 individuals and organizations, including the SAR, are now available for the public. The information has been computer-indexed as to birth, marriage, death, and location of grave (if known). Other details on the cards include some service records, with sources of information.

The Patriot Medal was awarded at a joint meeting of the New Hampshire, Vermont and Maine Sons of the American Revolution to Alexander Hamilton by the Maine chapter in Concord. Hunt, Maine President; Hamilton, who is National Librarian General of the SAR; and David Doliber, Vice-President General for New En-in Maine is not fully complete-nor will it ever be. Some never were marked, even by field stones.

MOCA will continue to welcome further information from any source. Names and details can be added to the information now in the Fogler Library and to the computer index. It is hoped that everyone using the Index of Revolutionary Veterans Buried in Maine will make notes of any errors and omissions, to be included in a revision in 1978. Simple directions for reporting such information are provided for those using, or even just looking at, the Index, copies of which are available also at Cutler Library (Farmington), Maine Historical Society (Portland), and Maine State Library (Augusta).

Those unable to consult the Index in person can request from the Special Collections Dept., Fogler Library, Orono, Maine 04473, a photocopy of the page(s) on which appears a specified surname (e.g., Scott). If they find a name on which they want further information, they can then request from the Fogler Library a photocopy of the note cards deposited there. A charge is made for the photocopying.

The first "exposure" of the index (bound sheets) is offered now in the hope that all who look at it will make notes of corrections and additions and mail them to: MOCA-AR (or Rev. Soldiers), Box 324, Augusta, Maine 04330.

If your ancestor is not listed, send his name and any facts you may know. If you come across a gravestone in some remote area that shows the resting place of one who might have served in the Revolution, send the location of it and a copy of the inscription on it. If you enjoy genealogical and historical research, MOCA would welcome your help with a list of "puzzlers". (1,500 names submitted are not yet included in the Index because of inadequate identification or too little information.) Research is continuing under the direction of Mrs. John P. Burnham, RFD Orchard Drive, Wilton, Maine 04294.

The Badge of Merit —

given to those wounded in battle. But few know that this badge of service has special significance for the bicentennial. Our nation's revolutionary Commander in Chief, George Washington, first initiated the idea of an award "to foster and encourage every species of military merit." He designed that award as a "figure of a heart in purple cloth..."

Only three men are known to have received the "Badge of Merit" before the close of the American Revolution. Following these awards, the practice was forgotten for nearly a century and a half. The granting of the honor was revived commemoratively as a tribute to Washington on the bicentennial of his birth, February 22, 1932.

The first known recipient of the Badge of Merit was a Connecticut man, a sergeant in the Second Regiment of Light Dragoons, named Elijah Churchill. He was cited for "several enterprises against Fort St. George and Fort Slongo on Long Island...." He left no transcript of his military exploits but there are several stories of the twin assaults. Churchill's colorful comanding officer, Maj. Benjamin Tallmadge, gives perhaps the most reliable account.

The Manor of St. George, near Mastic Beach, Long Island, had been taken over by the British and was manned by a redcoat detachment and a force of loyalist Rhode Islanders. It was well stocked with arms, dry goods, and food supplies. Determined to "annoy the enemy on Long Island," Tallmadge received Washington's approval to attack the new fort. The major chose November 21, 1780 for his mission, and most people today as a military honor ed dragoons, he crossed Long Island and quietly proceeded to filter up the Sound. The marchers were slowed down by rain, but by daybreak, November 23, they were in an attack position.

> group within forty yards of the main were a pillar of smoke. Twenty prisoners sally port before a sentry spotted them. The sentinel's challenge and opening shot became the signal for simultaneous attacks on all three sides of the triangular fort. Tallmadge wrote that before the smoke from the Britisher's musket had cleared, his sergeant (who may well have special recognition of Sgt. Elijah Churbeen Elijah Churchill) had reached the redcoat with his bayonet "and prostrated him."

> Just at the point when the Americans were hauling down the union jack, a ington had commissioned to select the second-story window. The dragoons 1783 to pick candidates for award. They chopped their way into the building and chose Churchill, who had, according to threw the offenders out on their heads. the board, "acquitted himself with great turn the energies of his men to bringing probably on May 3, 1783, Sgt. Churchill the fort's cannon to bear on two offto leave with the tide.

> The successful reduction of Fort St. George moved Benjamin Tallmadge to "annoy" the British on Long Island again the following year. On the evening of Oct. 2, 1781 he assembled boats at the returned in 1961 by a descendant of mouth of the Saugatuck River and sent two detachments under Maj. Lemuel Trescott and Sgt. Churchill across Long Island Sound. The object of this endeavor was Fort Slongo, a British outpost on Long Island's north shore. The fort was manned by British regulars and quartered a number of armed Tory woodcutters who lived in adjacent huts.

Maj. Trescott's men landed at 3 a.m.,

The Purple Heart is well known to along with Churchill and 100 dismount- joined forces with Churchill's group, ravine to just below the fort. The tactics used on the south shore were again successful. By early morning all the Tallmadge managed to march his stored wood and Fort Slongo itself and a "handsome brass cannon" were carried off, along with arms and ammunition.

It would seem that bravery in the face of the enemy during the taking of one fort would have been ample grounds for chill, but this able noncommissioned officer was reported "at the head of the body of attack" in the capture of two.

The special board that General Washvolley of musket fire poured out of a Badge of Merit honors met April 24, Tallmadge had to stop the slaughter and gallantry, firmness and address." Later, was "invested with the badge of merit." shore British schooners that were about He was casually requested to pick up the badge and an accompanying certificate at General Washington's headquarters in Newburgh.

> That very first Purple Heart, presented by Washington to Churchill, was Elijah Churchill and is displayed at the New Windsor Cantonment, a New York State historic site near Vails Gate, N.Y.

Editor's Note: The other two "Badge of Merit" recipients before the close of the American Revolution were Sgt. William Brown (1761-1808) and Sgt. Daniel Bissell (1754-1824).

Books for

The American Revolution...

PENNSYLVANIA, 1755-1855, by John Blair Linn, state in 1832, distances from Harrisburg and with a new preface by Milton Rubincam, F.A.S.G., F.G.S.P. Covering one hundred years of an area embracing all of present day Union County and large portions of Snyder, Centre, and Lycoming Counties, much important information is also included on Penn's Township, formerly in Cumberland County, the founding of Sunbury, Northumberland County, and the Connecticut Claims. Source material includes assessment lists beginning in 1755, quotes from Committee of Safety minutes, and muster rolls. Extensive lists of early inhabitants, as well as marriages and deaths add to the value of this long-out-of-print reference volume. The well-known authority on Pennsylvania genealogy, Dr. William H. Egle, worked with the author on this publication and checked all of the original proofs. It is a vital tool for research in one of the earliest frontier areas. Reprint. 625 pages. Map. Cloth. $17.50.

The projected nine-volume series will list all persons forcibly transported from England to the American colonies from the earliest times to the American Revolution. A work that points toward a new and enlightened direction in genealogical and historical research. The Pa Genealogical Magazine calls it "a must for all reference libraries dealing with the title period." 329 pages. Cloth. $20.00.

GAZETTEER OF THE STATE OF NEW JERSEY by Thomas F. Gordon, with a new preface by Donald A. Sinclair. The classic work on early New Jersey settlements. Reprint. 266 pages. Map. Cloth.

MISSOURI LAND CLAIMS. Index by Patricia Chadwell, with an introduction by Anton Pregaldin. A reprint of the report of the General Land Office, published in 1835, this government document, heretofore virtually useless for the lack of an index, reveals the final reports for adjustments in land ownership in the state. Included in the scope of the investigation were all unconfirmed lands issued by grant from France and Spain prior to 1804, with over 1000 names included, opening a new field for Upper Mississippi Valley history and genealogy. Included among the entries are such names as Moses Austin, Reason Bowie, members of the Boone family, Chouteau, De Lassus, Menard, and other early frontiersmen, many of Anglo-American orgin. 450 pages. THE NEW YORK MAGAZINE: MARRIAGES AND DEATHS, 1790-1797. Compiled and edited by Kenneth Scott, F.A.S.G. and Kristin L. Gibbons. Containing funeral and marriage notics for the critical period in population movement at the end of the 18th century, the Magazine covered not only New York state, but all the United States, Canada, the West Indies, as well as Americans who died abroad. Names of approximately 6,000 persons are given, frequently with ages, places, professions, and, in marriages, the name of the bride's father - an important fact for genealogists. A special feature is the "List of Subscribers" which includes such notables as Washington and Adams. Wrappers. $15.00.

This is a unique source for the earliest vital statistics of the area, as regular registrations of births and deaths did not begin until the twentieth century. An important addition to reference literature on early Kentucky. 166 pages. Index. Illustration. Wrappers. $10.00.

SYNOPSIS OF THE HISTORY OF LOUISIANA by the Chevalier Guy Soniat du Fossat. Written by an officer of the French army who arrived in New Orleans in 1751, this short summary of the state's history and peculiar nature covers such topics as the various posts, including the Illinois country, flora and fauna, Indians and their customs, the arrival of the Spaniards, with particular emphasis on Governor Galvez's part in the war against England, the currency of the colony, and many other, often curious, areas of life on the frontier in Louisiana. A biography of the Chevalier written by one of his descendants, Charles T. Soniat is an added feature. This is one of the few personal observations still extant from the days of the colony. 45 pages. Winter, 1975-76. Wrappers. $7.50.
