The PRESIDENT GENERAL'S MESSAGE...

Compatriots and Patriotic Americans:

After nearly eleven months of intense effort by everyone, I can begin to observe the momentum of growth beginning to take effect. As I have travelled to all sections of our great nation, I observe much positive action in all of the Chapters, State Societies and the Districts. Congratulations to each of you for responding.

Indications are that the year just ended will be successful in many ways. There will also be some disappointments that we all must share. I am most optimistic that the positives will greatly overshadow the deficiencies.

We are well into the year of the celebration of the signing of the Constitution in Philadelphia on September 17, 1787. This has been a great document to govern us for 200 years. I hope that our descendants will be able to say in 2187 that they have enjoyed the fruits of four hundred years of a very active and applicable Constitution.

The thirty-nine who signed the Great Document in Philadelphia on September 17, 1787 are well remembered. Let us also remember those three Patriots who were there but for their own reasons did not sign. Then there were 13 other Patriotic Americans who attended the great convention, but did not remain for the final signing.

The Hon. Daniel L. Herrmann (left) was the proud recipient of the Gold Good Citizenship Medal during the Delaware Society's Ratification Day Dinner in December. He is a retired Chief Justice of the state's Supreme Court. Making the presentation were President General Clovis H. Brakebill and Society President William M. Brown.

The fifty-five delegates were all Patriotic Americans who desired that America be made a better place in which their children and grandchildren could happily live. We thank God for those Americans with such great foresight.

Mrs. Brakebill and I have had a wonderful year and we thank all of you very much for the opportunity to serve you and the Society. We have been to many interesting places and we have enjoyed very much the friendship of so many Patriotic Americans who with their families are members of the Sons of the American Revolution.

The plans are complete for the 97th Annual Congress to be held at Valley Forge next month. All who attend will have a wonderful time. I anticipate the best Congress ever under the sponsorship of the Pennsylvania Society and I look forward to seeing you there.

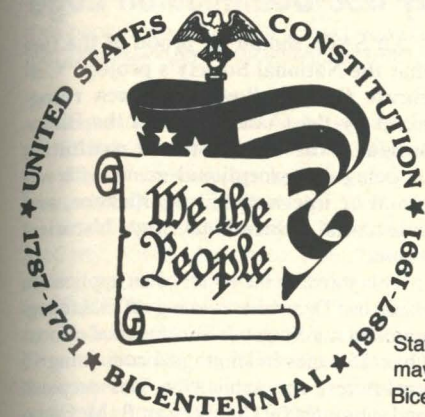

I thank you all, including the staff at National Headquarters, for making this year a great experience in our lives.

God Bless all of you.

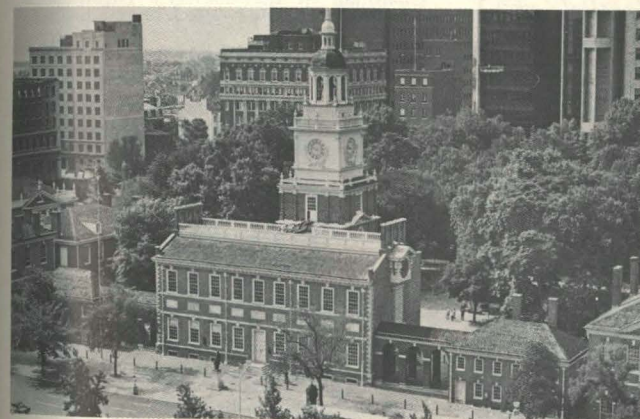

Yours in Patriotism,

Clovis H. Brakebill

An ORDINANCE for the GOVERNMENT of the TERRITORY of the UNITED STATES, North-West of the RIVER OHIO.

BE IT ORDAINED by the United States in Congress assembled, That the said territory, for the purposes of temporary government, be one district; subject, however, to be divided into two districts, as future circumstances may, in the opinion of Congress, make it expedient.

BE IT ENACTED by the authority aforesaid, That the estates both of resident and non-resident proprietors in the said territory, dying intestate, shall descend to, and be distributed among their children, and the descendants of a deceased child in equal parts; the descendants of a deceased child or grand-child, to take the share of their deceased parent in equal parts among them; And where there shall be no children or descendants, then in equal parts to the next of kin, in equal degree; and among collateral, the children of a deceased brother or sister of the intestate, shall have in equal parts among them their deceased parent's share; and there shall in no case be a distinction between kindred of the whole and half blood; failing in all cases to the widow or the intestate, her third part of the real estate for life, and one third part of the personal estate; and this law relative to descents and dower, shall remain in full force until altered by the legislature of the district.

— And until the governor and judges shall adopt laws as herein after mentioned, estates in the said territory may be devised or conveyed by will in writing, signed and sealed by him or her, in whom the estate may be, (being of full age) and attested by three witnesses; — and said estates may be conveyed by lease and release, or bargain and sale, gift, and delivered by the person being of full age, in whom the estate may be, and attested by two witnesses, provided such will be duly proved, and such conveyances be acknowledged, or the execution thereof duly proved, and be recorded within one year after proper magistrates, courts, and registers shall be appointed for that purpose; and personal property may be transferred by delivery, giving, however, to the French and Canadian inhabitants, and other settlers of the Kaskaskias, Saint Vincennes, and the neighbouring villages, who have heretofore professed themselves citizens of Virginia, their laws and customs now in force among them, relative to the descent and conveyance of property.

— Be it ordained by the authority aforesaid, That there shall be appointed from time to time, by Congress, a governor, whose commission shall continue in force for the term of three years, unless sooner revoked by Congress, he shall reside in the district, and shall exercise the powers of the office.

The Ordinance of 1787 was important to the opening of the Northwest Territory. Page 12.

Constitution Parade Set

On Constitution Day — September 17 — this year the eyes of the world will be on Philadelphia when the 200th anniversary of the signing of the United States Constitution will be commemorated.

The day will begin with what is being billed as the largest parade ever mounted in America — a Grand Federal Procession, which will start from four points of the city and converge at the Liberty Bell. Originally held in 1788, Federal processions with parades, floats and military units were organized by the delegates to the Constitutional Convention to demonstrate support for the Constitution, whose ratification was uncertain, in every state and in scores of towns.

That afternoon a special ceremony will be held outside Independence Hall. The three branches of government created by the Constitution — represented by the President, Chief Justice and Congressional leaders — will lead a great rally in honor of the historic document.

Constitution Bicentennial Plans Recognized; Societies, Chapters May Use Commission Logo

Col. Stewart B. McCarty, Chairman of our Society's Constitution Bicentennial Committee, appeared before an open hearing of the Commission on the Bicentennial of the United States Constitution in January. Especially interested in what he had to say about the SAR's commemoration program were the Commission Chairman, Former Chief Justice Warren E. Burger (left), and Staff Director Mark W. Cannon.

All SARs should be proud of the fact that the National Society's project "Celebrate Our Heritage" has been recognized by the Commission on the Bicentennial of the United States Constitution as being of "exceptional merit with national or international significance, and substantial educational and historical value."

This move is the result of an application made last December seeking official recognition of our Society's Bicentennial efforts. Over 15 pages in length and containing 15 enclosures, the application was prepared and submitted by Col. Stewart B. McCarty, Chairman of the Society's Bicentennial Copies may be made of the Commission Logo shown above for use by State Societies and Chapters. In color, it is intended to appear on a white or light-colored field. The canton of the American flag is dark blue and the stripes are bright red. The scroll lettering and borders are in gold; the eagle and flag staff are in gold. The circular lettering and dates are in dark blue. When printed in color, the following PMS color designations must be used: Gold, PMS 873C; Red, PMS 199C; Blue, PMS 281C. The Logo may also be duplicated wholly in black or dark blue on a light or white field. The Logo has been registered as a trademark of the Commission.

Committee. According to Compatriot McCarty, the document included many facets of our Society's declared objectives of being patriotic, historical and educational, rather than just this one project.

In testimony given by Compatriot McCarty before the open hearing of the Commission in January, the Chairman, Former Chief Justice Warren E. Burger,

This photo shows the 1920 Constitution Day celebration referred to in testimony given before the Commission on the Bicentennial of the United States Constitution by Compatriot McCarty.

was especially impressed with the fact that the SAR had been the first organization to publicly celebrate September 17th as Constitution Day over 70 years ago. "He was equally impressed," states Compatriot McCarty, "with the photo from our archives, provided by Former President General Carl F. Bessent, of the New York Chapter celebrating Constitution Day at the Sub-Treasury Building on Wall Street at noon, September 17, 1920, showing an audience numbering more than 10,000!"

Use of Logo Authorized

With this recognition the National Society is granted authorization to use the Commission's Bicentennial Logo in connection with "Celebrate Our Heritage." The Logo must always be reproduced in its entirety, as shown in an accompanying illustration (State Societies and Chapters may copy this for their own use, if desired). It may not be altered nor may it be overprinted with any legends, symbols or markings. In addition, the following legend must be placed beneath the Logo: "Officially Recognized by the Commission on the Bicentennial of the United States Constitution."

Copies of the Logo in various sizes for reproduction may be obtained from the Commission on the Bicentennial of the United States Constitution, 736 Jackson Place, N.W., Washington, DC 20508. Their phone number is (202) USA-1787.

State Societies and Chapters are also encouraged to purchase the official Bicentennial Commission flag for display at meetings or for carrying in parades. For details, see the article on page 10 written by Compatriot McCarty.

New Displays at Headquarters

In the photo at the right is one of two new displays that Compatriots will want to see when visiting National Headquarters. Featured are Revolutionary War flag replicas contributed by Former President General Arthur M. King, including poles and mounts.

Below is Museum Board Chairman James A. Williams alongside a variety of George Washington artifacts and memorabilia. Those from his private collection include a Revolutionary soldier's discharge signed by Washington and a badge issued in observance of Washington's 100th birthday.

Centennial Events Launched in Kansas

A program to commemorate the 1992 Centennial of the Kansas Society was launched in December with a "Genealogy Happening" held at Fort Smith Community College. Similar events in the future will be staged each year through 1989 in a different part of the state.

Centennial Chairman Robert E. Burt congratulated Boy Scouts Mark and Michael Finley for completing work on their Genealogy Merit Badge at the "Genealogy Happening". Compatriot Burt is also Chairman of the National Society's Boy Scout Committee.

According to Robert E. Burt, Centennial Chairman, more than 60 people attended 16 workshops devoted to genealogical research. Among the presentors were SARs and DARs, with subjects covered ranging from research at the National Archives to making use of probate and court house records.

Compatriot Burt states that important objectives of the program are to make the public more aware of the SAR and to seek out potential members.

THE OLDEST AND NEWEST MEMBER of the Oklahoma Society is 99-year-old Maurice F. Montgomery (left), who received his membership certificate recently from President Charles O. Cruzan. He resides in Caney, Kansas, just across the line from Oklahoma.

NEW GIFT FROM THE HAMILTON'S — During the February 28 Trustees meeting at National Headquarters, a copy of the famed painting "Signing of the Declaration of Independence," originally rendered by John Trumbull, was unveiled. It was commissioned by Former President General and Mrs. Howard L. Hamilton (she observed while he pointed to Thomas Jefferson, whose home "Monticello" is located in Charlottesville, Virginia, where the Hamilton family resides). Mrs. Hamilton is a distant cousin of Jefferson. Also participating in the ceremony were (at left): Thomas P. Curtis, a member of the Wisconsin Society who painted the copy in oil, and Museum Board members William H. Roddis, FPG Carl F. Bessent and FPG Benjamin H. Morris. On the far right was Board Chairman James A. Williams. Trumbull's work was commissioned by Congress in 1817 and now hangs in the Capitol Rotunda in Washington, DC.

HOW SARs CAN CELEBRATE THE CONSTITUTION BICENTENNIAL

A Continuing Source of Information and Guidance Offered by the NSSAR U.S. Constitution Bicentennial Committee. Prepared by the Chairman, Col. Stewart B. McCarty.

This is the sixth article in the series on "How SARs Can Celebrate the Constitution Bicentennial" — and this is the year of the celebration, with the primary focus being on September 17th, although there are significant related events occurring during the year.

There is a noticeable ground-swell of activities taking place throughout the country at the grass-roots level, as well as events on a national level. Reports coming in from the field indicate that SARs are doing their share in celebrating this event. It might be helpful to review previous articles in the Winter, Spring, Summer and Fall 1986 issues, and the Winter 1987 issue of The SAR Magazine to see what has been done so far by various levels of our Society.

Ideas and Activities Being Reported

- As previously reported, our application to the Commission on the Bicentennial for recognition of our project "Celebrate Your Heritage", which commemorates this event, was submitted on December 17, 1986. Also reported was our testimony on this project at a Public Hearing of the Commission on January 23, 1987. On February 20, 1987 our project was granted official recognition by the Commission; this fact was reported at the Trustees Meeting on February 28th in Louisville. A separate news story on the significance of this recognition appears elsewhere in this issue of the magazine. Of special importance, we will be able to use the National Bicentennial Logo in connection with "Celebrate Your Heritage". With it must be used the legend "Officially Recognized by the Commission on the Bicentennial of the United States Constitution". An example of this is covered in the separate story. It also means that we may purchase the official Commission Flag for use by Chapters and State Societies. Such a flag was presented to the President General on February 28th for display in the Headquarters Museum (see accompanying photo). Interested Chapters and State Societies may request purchase information on flags, as well as other Bicentennial memorabilia (such as table flag sets and T-shirts) from the Merchandise Store at NSSAR Headquarters in Louisville.

- As you know, we will hold our 97th Annual Congress in Valley Forge, PA on June 6-10, 1987. We will be meeting there in commemoration of the "Miracle at Philadelphia", during the period when the Constitution was being drafted. We will also be having our Trustees Meeting there on September 17-19, 1987, during the period celebrating the bicentennial of the signing of this significant document. While in Philadelphia at these times, we will be march, as well as indications of interest from Virginia, New Jersey and Texas. Any other interested societies, please contact the Chairman of this Committee just as soon as possible.

- President Donald Stearn of the United Kingdom Society reports through our Alternate Trustee Col. Asa Bates, that they have held a number of events recently with distinguished attendees, including their Society Trustee, Lord Hailsham, with Lady participating in appropriate commemorative events.

Displaying the official Constitution Bicentennial Commission Flag at the February 28 Trustees Meeting were President General Clovis H. Brakebill (left) and Col. Stewart B. McCarty, Chairman of the National Society's Constitution Bicentennial Committee. As revealed in the accompanying article, the flag may be purchased by State Societies and Chapters from National Headquarters.

- We have received approval from the Chairman of "We The People 200" Committee to have an SAR marching unit of our combined State Society Color Guards in period military uniforms for the "Grand Federal Procession" on September 17. At the Trustees Meeting on February 28th I received a commitment from the Color Guards of Massachusetts and Maryland to Hailsham and Ambassador Kingman Brewster. They are now planning a Constitutional-type symposium for October which will include the Ambassador, and could be quite grand. Congratulations on your excellent programs, President Stearn!

- The District of Columbia Society presented the SAR Medal of Appreciation to Mrs. Elizabeth J. Rohn, Coordinator, Private Programs, Commission on the Bicentennial of the U.S. Constitution, on March 18, 1987 at their election night dinner at Ft. Myer. This award was in recognition of her considerable efforts, in commemorating the Bicentennial of the Constitution. Mrs. Rohn not only assisted us at the national level, but did so at various state levels as well. She is a member of the DAR from Texas. Our heartiest congratulations and thanks, Mrs. Rohn!

- Dr. North E. West, President of the Stones River Chapter in Tennessee ordered FIVE of the Project '87 "Blessings of Liberty" mounted poster exhibits for his area. He then established a program to place one kiosk in each of the 15 Rutherford County public school libraries on a two-week rotating basis, complete with copies of the 12 essays elaborating on the posters' theme. During the summer, the posters will be displayed in the two public libraries and the library of Middle Tennessee State University, as well as selected bank lobbies. He estimates that at least 25,000 people will be exposed to the posters and their message. Congratulations, President West — we wish there were a hundred more Compatriots just like you! If you want to know how he did it, contact Compatriot West at 510 Eventide Drive, Murfreesboro, TN 37130.

- Compatriot Augustus di Zerega V, of the Washington Chapter, Kansas, has obtained copyright rights from the Christian Science Monitor to provide copies of an excellent article on Virginian George Mason's contributions to the wording of the Constitution. Mason was largely responsible for the first ten amendments, which became known as the Bill of Rights. This article should be of great interest in your communities during this celebration period. Please get in touch with Compatriot di Zerega for ordering details: 447 N. Belmont, Wichita, KS 67208. Congratulations Compatriot di Zerega for your efforts on this excellent program!

- The Washington Chapter of the Kansas Society also conducted an event in celebration of the Bicentennial of the Constitution on January 17th in conjunction with the St. Francis Medical Center. Dr. Melvin Kuhn of Wichita State University, dressed as Alexander Hamilton, presented views on the Constitutional Convention from Hamilton's viewpoint. Chapter President Schwartz presided at the event; participants included the Color Guard from Connell Air Force Base, with the C.A.R. giving the Pledge of Allegiance. Also participating were members of the DAR and the Medical Center. Local service organizations and veterans groups were also invited to attend. Thank you for your great program, Dr. Kuhn and President Schwartz — Kansas is certainly off and running early in the year!

- Compatriot Paul H. Davis, Chairman of the California Society Bicentennial Constitution Committee, established an excellent program in his state, awarding bonus points to six of the State Chapters whose activities deserved high recognition. Congratulations Chairman Davis, I hope your successor fills your shoes as well as you did!

- The Project '87 "Blessings of Liberty" poster exhibit program provided many Chapters and Compatriots with an opportunity to place mounted and unmounted poster sets in public facilities to show support for the celebration. Our participation in the program at a discount ended on December 31, 1986. In the overall context, our participation was excellent — with a total of just over 90 sets of posters ordered. This number included SAR and DAR orders. Although our centralized order program has ended, these poster sets are still available directly from Project '87 at their current prices. Since there have been requests for these poster sets recently, those desiring to order should write to: Project '87 (Attn.: Sally Hoffman), 1527 New Hampshire Avenue, N.W., Washington, DC 20036. (202-483-2512).

Publications of Interest

- The DAR of the District of Columbia, under State Regent Mrs. May Day Taylor, have adopted as a Constitution Bicentennial Project the publication of "Abraham Baldwin: Patriot, Educator, and Founding Father", by Dr. E. Merton Coulter. Dr. Coulter was a noted author and scholar at the University of Georgia, where he edited the Georgia Historical Quarterly for 50 years, and wrote over 20 books dealing with regional history before his death in 1981. This definitive biography of Abraham Baldwin is being published from Dr. Coulter's manuscript, discovered by State Regent Taylor while at the University of Georgia making arrangements for their portrait of Baldwin to be placed on loan at DAR National Headquarters — as reported in the Winter 1987 issue. Congratulations State Regent Taylor and the DC DAR for your excellent project! As an added note from State Regent Taylor, in the Rotunda of the National Archives can be seen the mural "The Constitution", by Barry Faulkner, which shows a number of those who participated in the drafting and signing of the Constitution. Make a point to see this mural on your next visit to Washington.

- For those who may have an interest in the "America the Beautiful, America the Bountiful" series of 51 original watercolor paintings by Massachusetts illustrator Gloria LeVaggi, and especially her series on the Framers and Signers of the Constitution and the twelve Original States, which show the portraits and signatures of each Signer (but one), you can write directly to her for details of format and production. Her address is: Miss Gloria LeVaggi, 29 Ellendale Road, South Attleboro, MA 02703 (617-399-8676). Miss LeVaggi's Cannon Rotunda Exhibition during January 1987 was covered in the Winter 1987 issue on page 22. Again, congratulations on a brilliant exhibit, Miss LeVaggi!

Please continue to report on your activities and plans to the Chairman, so we can pass along the information to all other SARs!

Winning of the Northwest Territory

Varied actions were taken after the Revolutionary War to make this vast area a viable part of the United States — including adoption of the Ordinance of 1787 and making peace with the Indians living there.

By Compatriot Nolan W. Carson

Passed by Congress in 1787, the Northwest Ordinance specified the form of government for territories "North-West of the Ohio" and provided a plan to all territories to become states. Shown is page 1 of two pages. The document was attested by the signature of Charles Thomson, Secretary of the Congress. (Courtesy National Archives.)

In 1987 Americans will celebrate the bicentennial of the birth of two extremely significant state documents. The first, of course, is the bicentennial of the signing of the Constitution of the United States on September 17, 1787 which will be celebrated widely throughout the Nation. The other bicentennial, the 200th anniversary of the adoption of the Ordinance of 1787 by the Confederation Congress on July 13, 1787, will likely go unnoticed by most Americans since the importance of this document to the growth and development of our Republic is not well known. Many historians, however, consider the Ordinance of 1787 to merit mention along with the magnificent Declaration of Independence and the durable Constitution as a very unique and enlightened state paper.

The Ordinance was a charter adopted by the Congress "for the government of the territory northwest of the river Ohio" and is often referred to as the Northwest Ordinance. It set forth a detailed framework for governing the vast unsettled territory ceded to the fledgling nation in 1783 by the Treaty of Paris. The Territory included all of the lands north of the Ohio River stretching from the western border of Pennsylvania to the Mississippi River. It also provided a mechanism for the admission of these lands, when populated, to the Union as new States on an equal basis with the original thirteen States. The Northwest Territory now comprises the States of Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan and Wisconsin and the eastern third of Minnesota. Significantly, the plan for admission to Statehood as embodied in the Northwest Ordinance was followed in the admission later of most of the other States into the Union.

The passage of the Northwest Ordinance and the subsequent government sales and grants of land within this vast and fertile region were eagerly awaited by land-hungry citizens of the eastern seaboard States, Revolutionary War veterans and land speculators seeking to make their fortunes. Herman J. Viola — in his The National Archives of the United States (Harry N. Abrams, Inc. 1984) — eloquently described the incredible desire for land as a major factor in the growth and development of the Nation. He wrote "The dominant factor in shaping our country and our character has been the land, which lured millions of colonists, immigrants, and refugees to these shores. We fought and destroyed Indians for it. We waged wars over it. We rewarded our soldiers with it. We farmed it, mined it, and lumbered it. We reclaimed it, despoiled it, and perhaps belatedly, conserved it. We have mapped it, sketched it, and photographed it. We have regulated it, sold it and preserved it. And most of what we have done to the land is documented in the National Archives." The Northwest Ordinance resides in the National Archives today beside other treasured documents which are part of the

An ORDINANCE for the GOVERNMENT of the TERRITORY of the UNITED STATES, North-West of the River OHIO.

BE IT ORDAINED by the United States in Congress assembled, That the said territory, for the purposes of temporary government, be one district; subject, however, to be divided into two districts, as future circumstances may, in the opinion of Congress, make it expedient.

Be it ordained by the authority aforesaid, That the estates both of resident and non-resident proprietors in the said territory, dying intestate, shall descend to, and be distributed among their children, and the descendants of a deceased child in equal parts; the descendants of a deceased child or grand-child, to take the share of their deceased parent in equal parts among them; And where there shall be no children or descendants, then in equal parts to the next of kin, in equal degree, and among collateral, the children of a deceased brother or sister of the intestate, shall have in equal parts among them their deceased parents share; and there shall in no case be a distinction between kindred of the whole and half blood; (saving in all cases to the widow of the intestate, her third part of the real estate for life, and one third part of the personal estate; and this law relative to descents and dower, shall remain in full force until altered by the legislature of the district.) And until the governor and judges shall adopt laws as herein after mentioned, estates in the said territory may be devised or bequeathed by wills in writing, signed and sealed by him or her, in whom the estate may be, (being of full age) and attested by three witnesses; — and real estates may be conveyed by lease and release, or bargain and sale, signed, sealed, and delivered by the person being of full age, in whom the estate may be, and attested by two witnesses, provided such wills be duly proved, and such conveyances be acknowledged, or the execution thereof duly proved after proper magistrates, courts, and registers shall be appointed for that purpose; and by delivery, giving, however, to the French and Canadian inhabitants, and Vincent's, and the neighbouring villages, who have heretofore professed themselves now in force among them, relative to the descent and conveyance of property, shall be appointed from time to time, by Congress, a governor, three years, unless sooner revoked by Congress; he shall reside in the territory, and shall have a freehold estate therein, in five hundred acres of land, while in the exercise of his office.

There shall be appointed from time to time, by Congress, a secretary, whose commission shall continue in force for four years, unless sooner revoked, he shall reside in the district, and have a freehold estate therein, in five hundred acres of land, while in the exercise of his office; it shall be his duty to keep and preserve the acts and laws passed by the legislature, and the public records of the district, and the proceedings of the governor in his executive department; and to transmit authentic copies of such acts and proceedings, every six months, to the secretary of Congress: These shall also be appointed a court to consist of three judges, any two of whom to form a court, who shall have a common law jurisdiction, and reside in the district, and have each therein a freehold estate in five hundred acres of land, while in the exercise of their offices; and their commissions shall continue in force during good behaviour.

The governor and judges, or a majority of them, shall adopt and publish in the district, such laws of the original States, criminal and civil, as may be necessary, and best suited to the circumstances of the district, and report them to Congress, from time to time, which laws shall be in force in the district until the organization of the general assembly therein, unless disapproved of by Congress; but afterwards the legislature shall have authority to alter them as they shall think fit.

The governor for the time being, shall be commander in chief of the militia, appoint and commission all officers in the same, below the rank of general officers; all general officers shall be appointed and commissioned by Congress.

Previous to the organization of the general assembly, the governor shall appoint such magistrates and other civil officers, in each county or township, as he shall find necessary for the preservation of the peace and good order in the same: After the general assembly shall be organized, the powers and duties of magistrates and other civil officers shall be regulated and defined by the said assembly; but all magistrates and other civil officers, not herein otherwise directed, shall, during the continuance of this temporary government, be appointed by the governor.

For the prevention of crimes and injuries, the laws to be adopted or made shall have force in all parts of the district, and for the execution of process, criminal and civil, the governor shall make proper divisions thereof; — and he shall proceed from time to time, as circumstances may require, to lay out the parts of the district in which the Indian titles shall have been extinguished, into counties and townships, subject, however, to such alterations as may hereafter be made by the legislature.

No soon as there shall be five thousand free male inhabitants, of full age, in the district, upon giving proof thereof to the governor, he shall have authority, with the consent of the legislature, to elect representatives to the Congress.

fabric of our Nation's heritage.

Quickly Written and Adopted

During the hot days of early July 1787, at the same time the delegates to the Constitutional Convention were laboring in Philadelphia to hammer out a new charter to replace the failing and ineffective Articles of Confederation, the Confederation Congress was in session in New York City. A committee wrote and the Congress adopted, in eight days, this innovative structure of a temporary government for the Northwest Territory.

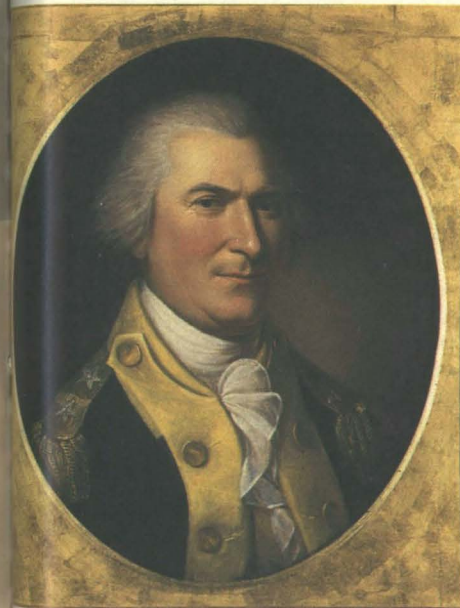

The Ordinance authorized the appointment of a Territorial Governor by the Congress as well as a Secretary and a court consisting of three judges with common-law jurisdiction. The Governor and the judges were empowered to adopt temporary laws for the Territory strictly modeled after civil or criminal laws in force in the thirteen Original States, subject to the right of the Congress to disapprove.

The Ordinance further provided that when 5,000 free male adults resided in the Territory, a house of representatives was to be elected by the male freeholder residents. This body, together with a five-member legislative council appointed by the Congress, was given the authority to adopt all laws for the Territory, subject to the assent of the Governor. In order that the new inhabitants of the Northwest would have a voice in the Congress along with the original States, the legislature of the Territory was authorized to elect a Delegate to Congress with the right to debate but not vote.

Throughout the Ordinance it is clear that the Congress intended that this plan of territorial government was only a temporary mechanism pending admission of parts of the area into Statehood as equal partners with the original States. The Ordinance provides that not less than three

General Arthur St. Clair by Charles Wilson Peale. In 1787 St. Clair was appointed the first Governor of the Northwest Territory by the Confederation Congress. Born in Scotland, in 1736, he served in the British army during the French and Indian War. He was appointed a colonel in the Continental Army at the outbreak of the Revolution, later being forced to evacuate Fort Ticonderoga. Between 1785 and 1787 St. Clair served in the Congress and became its President in 1787. (Illustration courtesy Independence National Historical Park, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania.)

nor more than five States should be formed in the territory — and whenever any of the States so formed had 60,000 free inhabitants, "such State shall be admitted, by its delegates, into the Congress of the United States, on an equal footing with the original States, in all respects whatever."

As a result of these provisions, Ohio was admitted as a State in 1803, Indiana in 1816, Illinois in 1818, Michigan in 1837 and Wisconsin in 1848. Minnesota, whose borders include a part of the old Northwest Territory, became a State in 1858.

Land Rights Spelled Out

An example of the land-oriented bent of the drafters of the Ordinance is contained in a lengthy section that authorized lands and other property to be devised or bequeathed by written wills. In addition, it painstakingly prescribed that the estate of one who died without a will would descend to the decedent's children or their descendants in equal parts, with a widow being entitled to a life interest in one-third of the real estate and one-third of the personal property outright. The laws of descent and distribution still in force in many states are remarkably similar to these provisions. The purpose of this section was to insure that the unpopular English law of primogeniture prescribing the inheritance of lands exclusively by the eldest son would never apply in the Territory. The section contains an interesting exemption "saving, however, to French and Canadian inhabitants, and other settlers of the Kaskaskies, Saint Vincents, and the neighboring villages, who have heretofore professed themselves citizens of Virginia, their laws and customs now in force among them, relative to the descent and conveyance of property."

Individual Rights Detailed

Those provisions of the Ordinance which have drawn most attention from historians through the past two centuries are those that granted important individual liberties and the right of eventual Statehood to the inhabitants of the Territory — and guaranteed the inviolability of those rights in the future. This compact was, in fact, a Bill of Rights for those who would populate the Territory. The introduction to this list of rights and liberties stated: "And for extending the fundamental principles of civil and religious liberty, which form the basis whereon these republics, their laws and constitutions are erected; to fix and establish those principles as the basis of all laws, constitutions, and governments, which forever hereafter shall be formed in the said territory; . . .

Currently serving as Secretary General, Compatriot Carson has been an SAR since 1951. He has held a wide variety of important posts, including those of Chancellor General, Ohio Society President and National Trustee, Cincinnati Chapter President and Chairman of several committees. A graduate of the University of Michigan Law School with a Jurist Doctor Degree, he is now a partner in the Dinsmore & Shohl Law Firm, Cincinnati. During World War II, he served in the United States Army for three years as a Master Sergeant. Mrs. Carson is an active DAR.

William Henry Harrison by James Henry Beard. Harrison was born in Virginia in 1773 and entered the Army in 1791, soon becoming aide-de-camp to General Anthony Wayne. He distinguished himself at the Battle of Fallen Timbers in 1792. What followed in his career is described in the accompanying article. (Illustration courtesy Cincinnati Historical Society, Cincinnati, Ohio.)

"It is hereby ordained and declared, by the authority aforesaid, that the following articles shall be considered as articles of compact, between the original States and the people and States in the said territory, and forever remain unalterable, unless by common consents . . ."

Religious liberty was obviously of paramount importance to the drafters and Article I of this Bill of Rights provided "No person, demeaning himself in a peaceable and orderly manner, shall ever be molested on account of his mode of worship, or religious sentiments, in the said territories."

Other basic rights provided by the authors included entitlement to the writ of habeas corpus; trial by jury; judicial proceedings according to the common law; bail except "for capital offenses where the proof shall be evident, or the presumption

In early 1784 — not long after the Treaty of Paris was signed on September 3, 1783 — Abel Buell produced this unique map of the United States. He made no claim as the actual collector of the data he presented; comparison with other well-known maps and geographical texts shows he relied on some of the best material available. To the modern viewer, the face of America may seem jumbled.

As British colonies, many of the 13 original states had been granted land as far west as the Mississippi. With the end of the Revolution, these states hastened to reaffirm their rights to these vast regions. Nowhere was the situation more tangled than in the Northwest Territory — bounded on the south and east by the Ohio River, on the west by the Mississippi River, and on the north by the Great Lakes and Canada. Virginia claimed all of it — and what is now Kentucky.

great"; moderate fines; and no cruel or unusual punishments. The people were also guaranteed proportionate representation in the legislature and full compensation if a person's property is taken or his services demanded by the government without his consent "for the common preservation." Of unusual importance to the people of that time was a provision that prohibited any law in the Territory that in any manner should interfere with or affect private contracts. The new Constitution which was unveiled in Philadelphia two months after the Ordinance was passed contained a similar contract clause in Article I, Section 10.

The importance of education was also stressed in the document's text, but funding was not provided. Article III of the compact stated "Religion, morality, and knowledge being necessary to good government and the happiness of mankind, schools and the means of education shall forever be encouraged."

By the time Buell finished his map, the situation in the Territory had already begun to clear up. In 1784 Virginia ceded to the government all of the land north of the Ohio (Kentucky did not become a state until 1792). Massachusetts relinquished her extensive claim the same year, and Connecticut shortly afterward gave up all but a relatively small tract of what is now northwestern Ohio. To this area, called the Western Reserve, she retained property rights until 1795.

In parts of the East, however, boundary conflicts were just as confusing — as a glance at the map will indicate. Vermont, for example, was claimed by Massachusetts, New Hampshire and New York. These conflicts were eventually resolved. (Illustration courtesy New Jersey State Historical Society and the National Committee for the Bicentennial of the Treaty of Paris, Washington, DC.)

Indians Also Benefitted

The American Indians who were in 1787 the principal inhabitants of the Northwest were also beneficiaries of the compact. "The utmost good faith shall always be observed towards the Indians; their lands and property shall never be taken from them without their consent; and in their property, rights, and liberty they never shall be invaded or disturbed, unless in just and lawful wars authorized by Congress; but laws founded in justice

What was to become Marietta, Ohio was first settled by a handful of New Englanders who travelled to the area in 1788 under the leadership of Rufus Putnam. Much of what remains today from the city's founding has been restored and is operated by the Ohio Historical Society as the Campus Martius Museum. At the left is Putnam's home, which is furnished with Putnam family and other period pieces. It is located within a wing of the museum. Housed also are exhibits depicting the early settlement of Ohio. and humanity shall, from time to time, be made, for preventing wrongs being done to them, and for preserving peace and friendship with them." In carefully excepting "just and lawful wars authorized by Congress" the framers may have had a premonition that disputes and savage conflicts with the Indians in the Territory would continue for more than 25 years.

A commercially important provision was also added to the articles of compact in the Ordinance. This clause stated that all navigable waters leading into the Mississippi and St. Lawrence Rivers, including of course the Ohio River, "shall be common highways, and forever free, as well as to the inhabitants of the said territory as to the citizens of the United States, and those of any other States that may be admitted into the confederacy, without any tax, import or duty therefor."

The final Article of the compact, and the single provision of the Ordinance which has commanded most notice over the years, prohibited slavery and involuntary servitude in the Northwest Territory but permitted fugitive slaves from other States to be reclaimed and returned. A version of this anti-slavery clause was contained in the draft of an earlier ordinance written by Thomas Jefferson and adopted in 1784 for the government of the Northwest. The Ordinance of 1784 was never in operation since it was replaced by the 1787 enactment before actual settlement began.

Written Rights Had Precedents

The concept of embodying a Bill of Rights to guarantee basic individual rights and liberties in a document binding on the legislative body itself is an American innovation. This idea was not new in 1787 when the Ordinance was adopted. Some of the same rights contained in the Ordinance were included in the Massachusetts Body of Liberties adopted in 1641 and the Pennsylvania Frame of Government issued by William Penn in 1682. In fact all of the Original Colonies provided various forms of fundamental rights to their citizens in constitutions or laws adopted during the Revolutionary period.

It is not surprising that the drafters of the Ordinance included a Bill of Rights since the individual States they represented had already provided various guarantees to their own citizens. What is surprising is that the Constitution which was being written at the very same time in Philadelphia did not contain a Bill of Rights. In fact, the absence of a list of individual liberties was considered by many to be a serious deficiency in the Constitution and was somewhat of an obstacle to its ratification. A Bill of Rights, consisting of the first ten amendments to the Constitution, was later added and became effective when the ratification process was completed on December 15, 1791.

Authorship Debatable

The authorship of the Northwest Ordinance has been the subject of much debate by historians over the two centuries since its adoption. Most now give major credit to Nathan Dane, a member of Congress from Ipswich, Massachusetts, who was a member of the committee that was responsible for drafting the measure and reporting it to the Congress for action. Various writers attribute some of the credit to Reverend Manasseh Cutler, also from Massachusetts, who was the agent sent by a group seeking to invest in Territorial lands, known as the Ohio Company, to urge Congress to enact promptly an ordinance governing the Northwest Territory. The truth probably is that no single author was responsible. Rather, various men undoubtedly contributed ideas and specific clauses. Some of the principles were most certainly taken from Jefferson's Ordinance of 1784 and others were crafted from provisions found in the constitutions of the Original States.

Delegates from only eight States were present at the Congress on the day the Ordinance was adopted — those from Delaware, Georgia, Massachusetts, New Jersey, New York, North Carolina, South Carolina and Virginia. Significantly the President of the Congress in 1787, General Arthur St. Clair of Pennsylvania, was later that year appointed as the first Governor of the Northwest Territory.

Ordinance, Constitution Exhibit Underway

Under the direction of Executive Secretary Frank B. Jones, the Indiana University Alumni Association has assumed responsibility for developing a travelling exhibition of original historical documents relating to the Ordinance of 1787 and the Constitution. The alumni associations of seven other Big 10 Universities located in the old Northwest Territory States, are co-sponsors.

Documents to be displayed are being drawn from the prestigious collections of such well-known organizations as The Lilly Library at Indiana University; The Clements Library, University of Michigan; The Newberry Library, Chicago; The Ohio Historical Society; The State Historical Society of Wisconsin; and the James Ford Bell Library of the University of Minnesota.

Beginning July 1, the exhibition will have the following schedule:

- July/August — The Ohio Historical Society, Columbus
- September/October — The Lilly Library, Bloomington
- November/December — The Clements Library, Ann Arbor
- January/February — The Newberry Library, Chicago
- March/April — The State Historical Society of Wisconsin, Madison
- May/June — The Minnesota Historical Society, St. Paul

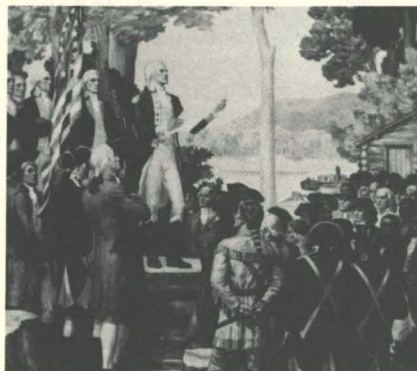

companies, including the Ohio Company, and on April 7, 1788, less than nine months after the Ordinance passed, a band of settlers led by Rufus Putnam on behalf of the Ohio Company founded a new village on the Ohio River at the mouth of the Muskingum River. This settlement, first called Adelphi and later Marietta after Queen Marie Antoinette of France, was located near Fort Harmar which had been established earlier. General St. Clair, a distinguished officer during the Revolution and now Governor of the Territory, arrived at Marietta three months later and made Marietta his headquarters. An Ohio Company Land Office was opened in Marietta in 1788 to handle the many transactions which were expected. The building still stands there today.

Much of Governor St. Clair's attention during his 15-year tenure as Governor of the Territory was occupied in dealing with the Indians of the area. A major campaign against the Indians in northern Ohio and eastern Indiana led by General Josiah Harmar in 1790 ended in disaster. A year later General St. Clair himself commanded a large but poorly trained force in another disastrous military action against the Indians in northern Ohio. During the engagement, 613 of his men were killed and 237 wounded. The young Nation was stunned at these defeats but both commanders were later exonerated from blame. Anthony Wayne, who became a Major General for his gallant service during the Revolution, was then called back to duty. After months of drilling his troops in newly settled Cincinnati, he marched toward the Indian villages of northern Ohio and on August 20, 1794 decisively defeated the Shawnee Chief Blue Jacket at the Battle of Fallen Timbers near present day Maumee, Ohio. Wayne's victory was followed a year later by the signing of the Treaty of Greene Ville by Wayne and over 90 representatives of the Indian Nations. Under the treaty huge tracts of Indian lands were ceded to the United States and relative peace reigned in the Territory during the next fifteen years.

W. H. Harrison Becomes Involved

William Henry Harrison, son of Benjamin Harrison, a Signer of the Declaration of Independence from Virginia, came to Fort Washington at Cincinnati in 1791 as a young Ensign. He was General Wayne's aide-de-camp during the campaign against the Indians and later served as Secretary of the Northwest Territory and Delegate to Congress from the Territory. After the Territory was split into two districts just prior to Ohio's admission to Statehood, he was appointed Governor of the Indiana Territory and worked diligently to free up land from Indian occupation through negotiated treaties.

In this mural by Ezra Winter, Winthrop Sargent, Secretary of the Northwest Territory, reads the Ordinance of 1787 to settlers of the region. Behind him is General Arthur St. Clair, the new Territory Governor. (Courtesy George Rogers Clark National Historical Park, Vincennes, Indiana.)

In 1811, Harrison defeated Shawnee Chief Tecumseh's brother at the Battle of Tippicanoe in Indiana for which he gained considerable fame. During the War of 1812, he was appointed Commander of the Army of the Northwest and decisively defeated a large Indian force led by Tecumseh and his British allies at the Battle of the Thames in lower Canada. During the battle Chief Tecumseh was killed, and Harrison's victory signaled the end of important Indian hostilities in the Territory. General Harrison was elected as the ninth President of the United States in the "Tippicanoe and Tyler too" campaign of 1840. Interestingly, Vice President Richard Mentor Johnson of Kentucky, who was running for re-election with President Van Buren against Harrison and Tyler in 1840, served under General Harrison at the Battle of the Thames and is credited with firing the rifle ball that killed Tecumseh.

Benjamin Harrison, who was born near Cincinnati and lived in Indianapolis, Indiana, was a grandson of General Harrison, and became the 23rd President of the United States. His wife, Carolyn Scott Harrison, was the first President General of the National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

SAR COMPATRIOTS!

We cordially invite you to become a member of our distinguished organization, which boasts similar patriotic, historical and patriotic objectives. Many SARs already are.

Identified as Associates, F&PAs are lineally descended in the male line of either parent from an ancestor who settled in any Colony now included in the U.S. prior to May 13, 1657; and whose forefathers in the same male ancestral line adhered as Patriots to the cause of the American Revolution from 1775 to 1783.

To receive a descriptive brochure, write to Judson P. Mason, Sr., Rt. 2, P.O. Box 1678, Lancaster, VA 22503.

Congress attendees will visit Liberty Bell Pavilion located within Independence Hall National Historical Park, Philadelphia. The bell is housed in a glass-enclosed area to permit its being viewed 24 hours a day. Park Service guides relate the bell's colorful history during normal visiting hours.

CENTENNIAL HERITAGE FACTS

NSSAR Headquarters

By Former President General
Carl F. Bessent

Prior to 1927 the business of the National Society was conducted by each elected officer from his business office or his home. In reality the National Headquarters was the President General's home.

On May 18, 1925 at the 37th SAR Annual Congress in Swampscott, Massachusetts, a Resolution was passed that a National Headquarters be established in Washington, DC. In President General Harvey Foote's words: "We must establish a National Headquarters in Washington in our own building."

On June 6, 1926 in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, the Board of National Trustees passed a Resolution that a committee be appointed to raise $250,000 to provide a suitable National Headquarters in Washington. Compatriot Henry F. Baker, a future President General, was appointed Campaign Chairman. He stated the dignity and prestige of the Society demands that there be established in Washington a Headquarters suitable to our needs.

The SAR Annual Congress meeting in Richmond, Virginia, in May 1927 authorized the purchase of the Norman Williams Mansion and its valuable furnishings, located at 1227 Sixteenth Street, Northwest, Washington, DC for $145,000. Compatriot Baker had raised $25,000 for the initial down payment.

On August 26, 1927 President General Ernest Rogers, Compatriot Baker, and Secretary General Frank B. Steels met in Washington to complete the purchase of the property. Due to certain legal restrictions in the SAR Constitution at the time, the three Compatriots individually signed a note for $120,000 and took the property. After the restrictions were cleared, the property was transferred to the National Society. The $120,000 was mortgaged with the American Security and Trust Company with a yearly interest of $6,600.

The National Society began operations at the Sixteenth Street Headquarters on October 1, 1927.

An unusual fact is that the first gift to the Headquarters Fund Campaign was $200 given by Mrs. John Miller Horton of Buffalo, New York. She was the Regent of the Buffalo Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution. The gift was in honor of her father, Compatriot Pascal Paoli Pratt.

The 40th SAR Annual Congress was held in Washington, DC in 1928. Only $51,000 had been pledged to the mortgage. Former President General Louis Ames addressed the Congress on why the National Headquarters was important in the nation's Capitol and presented a new Headquarters Fund Plan.

By May 10, 1929 $110,000 had been pledged by Compatriots.

On November 1, 1929 President-Elect Herbert Hoover visited the Sixteenth Street SAR National Headquarters to be inducted into membership as a Life Member of the Pennsylvania Society.

The financial condition of the country after 1929 made the raising of large amounts of money extremely difficult, but determined Compatriots resolved to clear the Headquarters indebtedness.

In 1932, the Bicentennial of George Washington's Birth, after five years of Headquarters ownership, all but $40,000 of the mortgage had been paid. The mortgage was finally liquidated on August 26, 1935 by issuing Certificates of Indebtedness to SAR members, and these were paid off by 1955.

On May 20, 1940 a 47-inch by 34-inch bronze memorial tablet was unveiled at the Headquarters. It listed the names of Compatriots, State Societies and Chapters who carried the financial burden and generously donated to acquire the Headquarters. This tablet is at the entrance of the present Headquarters.

In 1956 the National Education Association desired the Sixteenth Street Headquarters property and offered a price of $250,000. A committee was appointed to explore the possibilities of the offer.

In 1957 at the 67th Annual Congress in Salt Lake City, Utah, Philadelphia tendered a very attractive offer for the National Headquarters to relocate there. President General Eugene Carver stated: "Our National Headquarters belongs in Washington as long as Washington is our nation's Capitol."

Admiral William Furlong was appointed Chairman of the National Headquarters Committee. He visited and inspected over 30 properties seeking a site in Washington.

On February 8, 1958 President General George Tarbox convened a Special SAR Congress in Washington, DC, with 88 delegates present. The Congress finally resolved to purchase the General Patrick Hurley home of 8,000 square feet located at 2412 Massachusetts Avenue, Northwest, Washington, DC for $165,000. A Congressional Bill was approved by the 85th United States Congress to give the proper zoning for the SAR to purchase and occupy the property.

The new Headquarters was opened for business on September 1, 1958 enabling the staff to function with a greater degree of efficiency. The new building gave an improved office arrangement and offered better working conditions.

The transaction, the sale of the Sixteenth Street property for $294,000, the purchase of the Massachusetts Avenue property for $165,000 with alterations and improvements of $52,475, allowed $76,000 to be added to the Permanent Fund.

A Memorial Library and Auditorium to the Massachusetts Avenue Headquarters was proposed in 1963 for an estimated cost of $500,000. President General Charles Anderson appointed a special committee to develop plans and raise the necessary funds. At the 1964 SAR Annual Congress, Special Committee Chairman Herschel Murphy, a Former President General, reported the proposed structure would cost $1,500,000. A fund campaign was initiated with limited results.

The possibility of losing the District of Columbia real estate tax exemption and the increasing cost of operating the National Headquarters in Washington raised the question of establishing the Headquarters elsewhere. There were continual offers made to purchase the valuable Massachusetts Avenue property.

The National Trustees meeting in Washington, DC, on February 12, 1977 authorized the sale of the National Headquarters property. On March 17, 1977 the SAR National Headquarters on 2412 Massachusetts Avenue was sold to the Ivory Coast Government for use as their embassy for the price of $800,000.

Temporary SAR Headquarters were located at 2560 Huntington Avenue in Alexandria, Virginia, just off the Capitol Beltway. Over 4,700 square feet of office space was rented from June 1977 until January 1979.

On May 30, 1978 the 88th Annual Congress meeting in Louisville, Kentucky, approved a National Headquarters Acquisition Commission with the authority to acquire a National Headquarters property. President General Calvin E. Chunn appointed Former President General Walter Martin as Chairman. One Compatriot from each of the 13 SAR Districts was appointed to serve on the Commission.

Four particular properties were visited and surveyed: the Alcoa Building in downtown Atlanta, Georgia; a mansion property at University Circle in the Western Reserve section of Cleveland, Ohio; the large Emory Estate in the outskirts of Cincinnati, Ohio; and, the Kentucky Grand Lodge of the Free and Accepted Masons in Louisville, Kentucky.

After a careful evaluation, the Commission decided to purchase the Grand Lodge structure located at 1000 South Fourth Street and Kentucky Avenue for $404,000. The actual purchase was made on December 12, 1978 and the SAR took possession on January 1, 1979.

There was a special dedication ceremony held at the National Trustees Meeting in Louisville on February 3, 1979 with President General Chunn presiding. Local dignitaries attending included Louisville Mayor William Stansbury, County Judge Mitch McConnell and United States Congressman Romano Mazzoli.

The two-story steel and concrete fireproof structure of 14,000 square feet was built in 1954. In 1984 a 1,400 square foot extension was constructed on the southwest corner of the building to give an improved office arrangement and to provide space for automation equipment. Former President General and Mrs. Arthur M. King gifted the funds for the project. The $176,000 addition was dedicated at the 95th SAR Annual Congress on June 1, 1985.

There are continual improvements and enhancements to the SAR National Headquarters and it should satisfy all staff and Society requirements of the National Society for a long period into the future.

Eagle Scout Scholarship Winners Selected

A record number of State Societies — 40 in all — participated in the National Society's competition among Eagle Scouts for two cash scholarships.

When the Boy Scout Committee, under the chairmanship of Robert E. Burt, met in Louisville prior to the February 28 Trustees meeting, Eagle Scout John H. Kedeshian of Forest Hills, New York, was chosen to receive the $4,000 scholarship at the 97th Annual Congress to be held in King of Prussia, Pennsylvania this coming June. Selected for the $1,000 scholarship was Kevin R. Finch of Blacksburg, Virginia; he was given his check at a recent Virginia Society function.

Compatriot Burt reminds State Societies that Scouts passing the Eagle Scout Board of Review between September 1, 1986 and August 31, 1987 are eligible for this year's competition.

Eagle Scout Steve Retzlaff won the Nebraska Society's scholarship competition. He received the Bronze Eagle Trophy from National Trustee Royce N. Kent.

Foundation Promoting Our Freedoms

By William G. Dorwart, Publicity Chairman, 97th Annual Congress

Compatriots planning to be in the Philadelphia area this year — such as when at the 97th Annual Congress or the September Trustees meeting — will want to visit the Freedoms Foundation, which is located near Valley Forge National Historical Park.

The idea for the Foundation was conceived by Don Belding, who started the advertising firm of Foote, Cone and Belding. In the late 1940s he enlisted Kenneth Wells and E. F. Hutton to help develop an organization that would educate Americans about America. To this end, they drew up a summary of basic freedoms which they called the CREDO and which is the heart of the Foundation's message and the philosophic basis of its programs. An old dairy barn was acquired for headquarters.

Awards Program Important

The National Awards Program, the Foundation's first activity, was initiated to recognize and draw attention to those whose positive words and deeds promote our country's rich heritage and unique freedoms.

Draped in bunting, the former barn was transformed into a theater for the first awards ceremony in November, 1949. Forty recipients received their awards from General Dwight D. Eisenhower, who told them: "You have now become marked as among America's disciples — your work will never end until all people everywhere come to believe in justice, in freedom, in equality among men, in peace for all the world." Since that eventful night, more than 40,000 awards have been granted. Eisenhower, who was an illustrious SAR, served as the Foundation's Chairman during its first 20 years.

The Knox Building features a display showing evolution of the Medal of Honor.

Another important activity is that of conducting programs designed to educate thousands of high school students from across the country in the fundamentals of our constitutional government — motivating them to return home with an understanding of their heritage and its responsibilities.

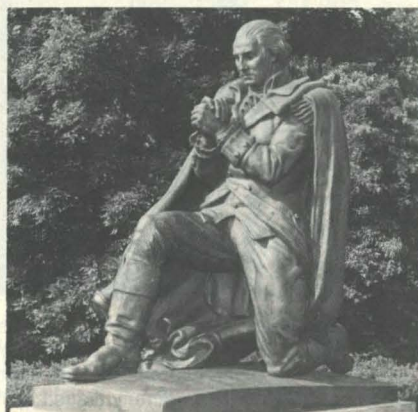

The first of several new buildings to be erected on campus, the Martha Washington

Building, was completed in 1963. Constructed with contributions from nearly 10,000 individuals and organizations, the structure has housed the Foundation's administrative staff since its opening. It was dedicated by Mamie Eisenhower, the ceremony taking place 185 years (almost to the day) after Martha Washington ended her three-month stay with her soldier-husband in Valley Forge.

The early and mid-sixties were the days of greatest expansion for the Foundation. The campus doubled in size, equalled by a surge of support from the public and national organizations. An ambitious plan to create a facility for research and study was assured.

More Programs Created

thur — were erected on campus during this period. They were quickly put to use as the Foundation intensified its efforts to promote students' awareness and understanding of our personal, social and economic freedoms. The year 1965 marked the beginning of what was to become the Foundation's leading activity, youth leadership conferences.

The election of Robert W. Miller as President of the Foundation in 1975 saw the beginning of a new era in which he brought the Foundation back to financial health after several years of difficulties. In so doing he was able to build up educational activities in internationally recognized programs which included not only our fifty states but also Canada, South America and Europe.

Through a generous grant of $2 million from Thomas and Dorothy Leavey, Mr. Miller was instrumental in raising the Foundation's visibility through the Leavey Awards. Initiated in 1977, they now offer twenty $7,500 cash awards and one $15,000 prize that go to high school teachers and college faculty members who develop innovative classroom projects which inspire their students' commitment to the American private enterprise system.

By the end of the decade, these programs became the Foundation's leading activity. Nearly 50,000 students had attended the youth conferences and an estimated 285,000 more had been influenced through the participation of 3,000 classroom teachers from all fifty states in the graduate seminars and work shops. Today these figures have nearly tripled.

Chapel Constructed

The year 1967 saw the construction of the Faith of Our Fathers Chapel. One unique feature is the stained glass window of Washington at prayer — a duplicate of the one in the Prayer Room of the United States Capitol. The side windows devote one panel each to the portraits and signatures of the fifty-six patriots who signed the Declaration of Independence.

Another outstanding feature of the Freedoms Foundation is the Medal of Honor Grove that enshrines the names of Medal of Honor recipients. The General Henry Knox Building, named for the Revolutionary War leader who later became the first Secretary of War, contains the citations for each medal awardee, by states.

The Medal of Honor Grove itself contains 52 acres of woodland and is designed as a living memorial. A section is designated for each of the fifty states, plus Puerto Rico and the District of Columbia. Each state area has a tall fiberglass obelisk centered on a large brick plaza contained by a concrete curb. The obelisk is modeled after the design of the Washington Monument. The state seal is mounted on one side of the obelisk and a donor plaque on the opposite side. The names of the recipients of the Medal of Honor from that state are placed on the two remaining sides.

July Atlantic Middle States Conference Set

FPG Benjamin H. Morris reported as Chairman of the Nominating Committee(*).

The reports of virtually all General Officers and Committee Chairmen were submitted prior to the meeting and distributed to attendees. Pertinent remarks follow.

SG Carson, reporting on behalf of the Executive Committee, stated that the Committee approved a recommendation of the U.S. Stamps Committee that the National Society offer first-day covers affixed with stamps commemorating the ratification of the U.S. Constitution by the thirteen original states (*). Two items were presented for consideration:

(1) A Bylaw change to change the title of Executive Secretary to Executive Director. A motion to present this change to the 97th Annual Congress this coming June was seconded and carried.

(2) Endorsement of a proposal by the France Society to finance and build a monument at Yorktown to commemorate French and U.S. cooperation, at no expense to the National Society. A motion to this effect was seconded and carried.

Edward S. Hoyt, Chairman of the Budget Committee, presented the budget for 1987-88 and moved that it be approved. Following discussion, the motion was seconded and carried.

Robert F. Ritchie, Chairman of the Bylaws Committee, presented a Bylaw amendment creating the position of President General—Elect, as proposed by FPG Morris. A motion to this effect was made and seconded. Following discussion, a majority vote recommitted the motion to the Bylaws Committee for further study.

Registrar General Neil Shepherd stated that since it is logistically impossible to handle gift memberships, he moved that the Trustees vote to ask the next Congress to repeal Bylaw 1, Section 6 dealing with gift memberships. The motion was seconded and carried.

Duane L. C. M. Galle, Chairman of the Medals and Awards Committee, stated that the Committee recommends that a special Trustees emblem be adopted consisting of the SAR badge in gold, without the eagle, and a gold scroll at the bottom with the word "Trustee." This would be worn on the SAR neck ribbon and on the lapel as a lapel pin in lieu of the SAR rosette. It could be worn by a Trustee or former Trustee. It was moved, seconded and carried to adopt the emblem.

The meeting was adjourned at 2:25 p.m.

Also featured was presentation of the Bronze Eagle Trophy to Scout Stephen Retzlaff, who was named the top Eagle in the Society's scholarship competition.

New Hampshire Society

Members of the Society's Colonial Honor Guard fired a musket salute at a November ceremony marking the 257th anniversary of the birth of Josiah Bartlett, the first delegate at the Continental Congress to vote for independence from Great Britain. He signed the Declaration of Independence along with New Hampshire's William Whipple and Matthew Thornton, and became the first Governor of the state.

Empire State Society (NY)

During the Buffalo Chapter's 14th Annual Law Enforcement Dinner, Officer Joseph Biehunik (left) received the Law Enforcement Commendation Medal from President Bruce E. Munger. He has served the community for 20 years.

Last June this historical marker was dedicated by the Stone Arabia Battle Chapter and other local organizations on the spot where the once important Fort Herkimer had stood in the Town of German Flatts on Route 5S. Patriots manned the fort during the Revolutionary War; it also was active during the French and Indian War. The marker was the result of efforts expended by a committee consisting of Compatriots, members of the recreated Third Battalion of the Tryon County Militia (sponsored by the Chapter), Herkimer County Historian H. Paul Draheim and Compatriot William H. Watkins, Site Manager of the Herkimer Home State Historic Site.

The story behind the raising of the Revolutionary War gunboat Philadelphia from the bottom of Lake Champlain was described at a recent Huntington Chapter meeting by Hudson Hagglund. It was his father, a marine salvage expert, who saved the relic that is now on permanent display at the Smithsonian Institution. The speaker used as part of his presentation an original newsreel film taken as the vessel broke the surface of the lake during the salvage effort in 1935. The Philadelphia had been part of the fleet commanded by the Continental Army's Benedict Arnold at the Battle of Valcour in 1776. After 159 years under water, the ship was found 90% complete with three cannons, a china coup, two anchors, shot gauge, bar shot, cannon balls and a stew pot.

In mid-October the Society's newest Chapter, Chautauqua County, held its first Law Enforcement Awards Banquet honoring two City of Jamestown Police Department officers, Christopher A. Felt and Stephen F. Szejbka. They are credited with saving the life of a young man who was attempting to commit suicide. (Photo courtesy The Post-Journal, Jamestown.)

In the spotlight at the New York Chapter's 52nd Colonial Debutante Ball were these vivacious young ladies and their handsome escorts. The January event was held in the Grand Ballroom of the Hotel Pierre in New York City.

Ohio Society

Serving as guest speaker at the Veterans Day Meeting sponsored by the George Rogers Clark Chapter in Springfield was T. Sgt. Ray Cruise, who is stationed at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base. He discussed the role of the military and civilians in promoting patriotism.

The Washington's Birthday Observance, sponsored by the Cincinnati Chapter in February, was highlighted by the presentation of several awards. Included were a trophy and check for $50 to the Chapter's winner of the Douglass G. High Historical Oration Contest and a Bronze Good Citizenship Medal to the Eagle Scout selected among entrants in the scholarship competition. The Law Enforcement Commendation Medal was awarded to four men, as detailed in an accompanying photo. An address by LTC Vincent J. Lewis of Wright-Patterson Air Force Base was titled "Ethics and Technologies of the Aerospace Environment."

Addressing the Annual Presidents Day Luncheon of the Benjamin Franklin Chapter in Columbus was Secretary General Nolan W. Carson (second from left). He expressed his deep concern about the nation's defense capabilities and voiced support of research and development leading to SDI implementation. Other dignitaries on hand for the February event were (from left): Secretary Charles G. Rousculp, Ohio Society Central District Chairman John R. Williams and President David S. Ralph.

First held in 1893, this year's SAR-DAR Washington's Birthday Luncheon sponsored by the Western Reserve Society was a resounding success. Attended by representatives of more than 20 local patriotic, military and other organizations, the gathering was held in the Crawford Auto Museum at the Western Reserve Historical Society, Cleveland. Over 250 people attended. The

The Lafayette Chapter's Presidents Day Meeting featured an address about General Arthur St. Clair, Governor of the Northwest Territory 1782-1802, by Thomas L. Vince, Librarian and Curator of the Hudson, Ohio Library. Congratulating him on his remarks was President R. Joseph McIntyre. On hand for the gathering to mark the Bicentennial of the Northwest Ordinance were members of the DAR and other patriotic societies.

Oklahoma Society

Larry E. Silver (right), Washington County Sheriff, was awarded the Law Enforcement Commendation Medal at a January meeting of the Bartlesville Chapter. Making the presentation was Society President Charles G. Cruzan.

As in the past, the Tulsa Chapter provided evening attendants at the DAR Christmas Doll Tree on display at a shopping mall during mid-December. Chapter Chaplain Chester D. McHargue and his wife are shown at the "tree," which contained almost 900 dolls dressed by volunteers and later given to needy families. DARs were on hand during the day.

Oregon Society

Dr. Forrest Blodgett, Society President, recently presented the Bronze Eagle Trophy to Eagle Scout Anthony Parks for having won the statewide scholarship competition. The lad had originally entered the competition held by the Southern Oregon Chapter.

Pennsylvania Society

"George Washington and the Constitution" was the topic of a talk given by Society President Dr. Charles S. Hall to attendees at the Philadelphia-Continental Chapter's Annual George Washington's Birthday Commemoration and Luncheon held in February at the Engineers Club, Philadelphia. Prior to this gathering, Chapter Compatriots repeated a long-standing tradition of laying wreaths at the statue of George Washington and the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier of the Revolution.

The Chambersburg Chamber of Commerce Building was the setting for the Washington's Birthday Meeting held by the Conococheague Chapter during February. Two guest speakers, Ron McClure and Mike Kulpak dressed as mountain men, offered an interesting presentation entitled "Black Powder Era — Indian and Early Settler Ways."

Mrs. Hattie Cole Fertig Lontz was recognized for outstanding service to the community by being awarded the Martha Washington Medal at the December meeting of the Tiadaghton Chapter in Williamsport. Doing the honors were Society President Dr. Charles S. Hall (left) and Chapter 3rd Vice President Rev. D. Gene Patterson. A retired school teacher, she has helped hundreds of people trace their lineage, including numerous SARs and DARs.

Members of the Harris Ferry Chapter joined with local Harrisburg DARs in February for a dinner to commemorate George Washington's Birthday. Dr. Michael Birkenner, Millersville State University, spoke on "George Washington and the United States Constitution."

Each year for many years the Erie Chapter has invited an outstanding student from each high school in the area to participate in a "Book Night" dinner, along with parents or a counselor. A book of interest in American history selected by the Chapter is given to the students for presentation to their school libraries. Last November the volume consisted of an original "Perry Victory Centennial Souvenir" printed 73 years ago on the 100th anniversary of the Battle of Lake Erie, and on the raising of the Brig Niagara from her watery grave of 73 years. Fourteen copies of the historical document were given by Compatriot Richard Wright, who had kept a supply since 1913. It was a timely selection as the Niagara is to be completely renovated to sail again on the Great Lakes by 1988.

Tennessee Society

Distinguished attendees at the February gathering of the Andrew Jackson Chapter in Nashville included these Compatriots (from left): Alexander Heard, Chancellor Emeritus of Vanderbilt University and a past recipient of the Gold Good Citizenship Medal; General William G. Moore, Jr., USAF (Ret) and a holder of the DAR Medal of Honor; and General Austin Shofner, USMC (Ret) and a holder of both the Gold Good Citizenship Medal and the DAR Medal of Honor.

George Washington Birthday Celebrations were held in February by the Stephen Holston, Andrew Jackson and Memphis Chapters. The Memphis Chapter's program featured an actress and actor from Theatre Memphis performing a skit in which they portrayed George and Martha Washington. Costumed in Colonial attire, they focused on the personal hardships that the couple experienced due to his absence for long period of times.

Texas Society

The February meeting of the Patrick Henry Chapter in Austin followed the established custom of observing George Washington's Birthday with a luncheon held jointly with four local DAR Chapters. President William E. Tinsley addressed the group on the military careers of Generals Knox, Lee and von Steuben of Revolutionary War fame.

Bruce Hagmann (left), President of the newly created Bluebonnet Chapter, was pleased to accept the Chapter's Charter in February from Dr. Robert Kurth, President of the Texas Society. Serving the area around Fredericksburg, the Chapter was formed by Compatriots who transferred from the Hill Country Chapter, about 25 miles away in Kerrville. This is the fourth new Chapter to be established during Compatriot Kurth's term, a first for the Society!

The January meeting of the Hill Country Chapter saw Kerr County Sheriff Cliff Greeson awarded the Law Enforcement Commendation Medal by President Frank Watkins.

Last year the Society passed an amendment to the Bylaws establishing a Life Membership Program. Seeing a need to place the fund on a stable financial foundation, Past President Dr. George H. Brandau enlisted the aid of 15 Compatriots to contribute. Each responded generously. Ten of them were saluted at the Society's recent Annual Meeting. Presiding was President General Clovis H. Brakebill (shown at podium), also a Past Society President. There are now 36 Life Members.

Utah Society

Commander Bruce Valley, USN, spoke to a January meeting of the George Washington Chapter about the importance of the SDI program. He pointed out that "the underlying reason why the President decided to launch the SDI was that the nuclear threat from the Soviet Union would increase in the future and we would be less safe from this threat by the turn of the century."

Washington Society

Speaking before a February meeting of the Alexander Hamilton Chapter in Tacoma was General David Byars, USA (Ret), Acting Director of the Washington State Historical Society. He told about the Wilkes expedition exhibit on loan to the Society from the Smithsonian Institution.

OVER ONE-HALF MILLION DOLLARS PAID TO SAR MEMBERS AND THEIR FAMILIES!

NSSAR Insurance Plans Are Working For You. . .

We are pleased to announce, SAR members and their families have now received $511,000.00 from the National Society's Group Insurance Programs.

SAR Group Insurance Plans work. Benefits you receive help fill the gaps not covered by regular insurance, including Medicare. Unlike regular insurance that goes to a hospital or doctor, your benefits go directly to you in addition to any other insurance you may have.

Best of all, as an SAR member you are guaranteed coverage under your SAR Group Plans, regardless of your age and regardless of health status.

For more information, call the NSSAR Insurance Plans administrator. (Or mail the coupon, if you prefer). There's no charge for the call which is a toll-free number: 1-800-621-1917. In Illinois call collect: 312-726-2575.

Please send more information about the NSSAR Group Insurance Plan(s) I have checked below.
