The President General's Message

MY DEAR COMPATRIOTS:

Just two months from the day this is written my service as your President General will end, so this is my last message to you through the Magazine. I wish that it might be one of cheer and confidence concerning the future of our beloved country. Instead, I find myself oppressed by a sense of foreboding which makes me feel it my duty once more to point out some ominous trends of affairs which should deeply concern all patriots.

I do not mean only that we are being pushed, by events in our own country even more than abroad, nearer and nearer to active involvement in the wars being waged in the Old World. This is serious enough, and I believe, as I always have believed, that our present situation accords fully with the warnings of our past history and traditions, to prompt us to keep out of those wars; and that we ought not for a moment to consider any participation in an invasion of Europe. I am still more deeply concerned, however, by the spirit of utter defeatism with respect to our country, its institutions and its liberties, which seems to animate too many of those Americans who are engaged in driving us toward war and insisting that we must stake everything upon the victory or defeat of another nation, instead of preparing first of all to defend America.

If the position of these despairing Americans,—who for apparently different reasons are making common cause with those American internationalists and Tories who insist that our interest and duty require us to cast off all anchors and set forth permanently upon an uncharted sea of world-adventure, world-conquest and world-domination,—is correct, then we must resign ourselves to the dropping of the final curtain upon the stirring drama of the winning and maintenance of American liberty, and the resulting advancement of human achievement and happiness. Nothing so sinister as this disposition to abandon American ways and follow the European example of autocratic efficiency, to gain a wider field of world activity, has ever before developed in this country.

I am wholly sympathetic to giving all aid to the British, in their gallant defense of their homes against the brutality of continental totalitarianism, that can be given consistently with adequate preparation to defend our own country,—here, where after all we shall have to defend it if, in spite of our aid, England should be defeated. We should give that aid to Britain, not upon any theory that the present war is in any sense ours, or that the British are fighting for us, which they are not, but because we believe that England's cause is just, and because our close kinship of institutions and language, and our instinctive hatred of tyranny, make it inevitable that we desire the success of England and the defeat of Germany.

But no such just reasons are advanced by those who call most loudly for "all out" support of Britain. We are told, in substance, that if England is defeated, or even if England does not win a decisive victory, we cannot hope to defend our own country; that we must stand or fall with England, and that we shall be virtually helpless if England loses. We are therefore urged first to push forward the British navy and army, equipped with armaments provided by America, and then throw all our resources of men and materials into a bloody struggle in Europe and Asia, as a measure of "defense," upon the theory that we could not successfully defend our own continent. This counsel of cowardice simply does not make sense. If England, though admittedly at dreadful cost, has been able, for nine months since the French debacle, to hold off the Germans across the narrow Strait of Dover, why is it impossible for Americans to defend their own shores far more successfully with thousands of miles of ocean on each side of us, and with the means of defense in our hands which are the very means by which it is hoped to save England? Certainly nothing in our history justifies the suggestion that America has ever depended or must now depend upon any other nation for her defense,—not even England. Let us help England, but let it be recognized as another instance of America's supporting a just cause, not for any craven purpose of hiding behind another country for defense which we are impotent to provide ourselves; and let preparation for our own defense come first.

We are told that our own chief defense is and long has been the British navy; that if the English are defeated in their island stronghold that navy, including all the ships that we shall have provided and which remain undestroyed, must necessarily be surrendered to Germany in order to prevent the vindictive Germans from utterly destroying England; and that America, then confronted by the combined navies of Germany, France, Italy and Great Britain, would be helpless before a foe which would immediately fall upon her and devour her. This argument, if it has any validity at all, proves too much; for if such a course on the part of the British is to be contemplated as even a reasonable possibility, then certainly we should keep all the vessels of war we have and all we can build, and arm ourselves even faster than now seems necessary. For this argument presupposes that the British, finding England no longer defensible, would surrender their navy, leaving all the British dominions naked to attack, in order to gain quarter for themselves from the German invaders. That may be the opinion of Englishmen held by some of their American advocates, but I cannot so read British character; nor do I believe that any one seriously believes any such thing. If it were true, we could not afford to stake our safety upon such an ally, but this whole theory is merely another bit of fear propaganda designed to frighten Americans out of their ingrained habit of independence.

But we are being told with increasing candor by the Tories and internationalists that national independence, which they sneeringly call "isolationism," is all wrong and ought to be abandoned. We are urged to surrender all the protective advantages of our geographical remoteness from the familiar theatre of Europe's interminable wars, throw in all our "chips," and draw a hand in the Old World's dreadful game of jealousies, ambitions and wars, against which Washington warned us. We are told that it is our moral duty, at whatever cost of American lives and resources, to join Great Britain in an "all out" effort to invade and reconquer both Europe and Asia, destroy the existing dictatorships, establish all over the world the sort of political and social systems in which we believe, and then take a leading part in forever maintaining a world-wide Anglo-Saxon peace. If this fantastic dream were at all possible of fulfillment it could obviously be done only by the same military imposition of fear by which the Caesars maintained the "Pax Romana." As a wholly unashamed American nationalist, I declare that we would have no right thus to dictate to Old World peoples their ways of living, their terms of peace and their mode of government, even if we could. But if we ought and if we could, it must be by permanently transforming this free land of peace and useful industry into a military despotism, for any such program of world domination is utterly incompatible with democratic systems and procedures. Either free government must be abandoned or this scheme of dictating and permanently enforcing a "Pax Anglo-Americana" must be forgotten.

This leads logically to the next step in the program of those Americans who would risk America's future in an effort to make over the world. We are told more and more frankly that American democracy has outlived its day and cannot continue in this modern world; that we cannot hope to preserve free popular government, as we have known it for so many generations; that the deliberate and orderly processes of representative government are too slow and inefficient; that, in order that we may take our proper role in world affairs, we must so change our political system that decisions can be taken quickly, without debate, by a government unhampered by parliamentary delays and instantly responsive to the intuitive wisdom and will of the few men who always know best what ought to be done.

Is this an exaggeration of what we are being called upon to do? Several weeks ago a distinguished leader in Congress stated that certain "responsible government officials" had said privately that we must set up a totalitarian government if we are to defeat the foreign dictators. A few months ago another very conspicuous personage declared that "we must give up some of our liberties in order to save them," naively adding that we can safely do this, because a free people can always reclaim their liberties,—forgetting that a people who have once surrendered their liberties are no longer "free," and that history offers very slight precedent for any such reclamation of liberty except by a fresh struggle, for rarely do those who have once gained despotic power consent to yield it up. Several weeks ago I myself heard a high-ranking judicial officer of the United States, speaking to an audience of my own profession, gravely say that we can hardly expect to emerge from the catastrophic experiences which loom ahead of us, with all of those freedoms which we have always counted indispensable to the American way of life. I mention these as only a few of the recent incidents which indicate, with daily increasing clarity, how far we are wandering from the American road we have known, not on an upward path of progress, but downward on a road which leads to militarism and regimentation of life, the loss of liberty and free opportunity, and the destruction of free constitutional government. We are being urged to scorn the old American ways, to acknowledge democracy as defeated and lost. We are advised to learn wisdom and gain efficiency by studying and emulating the dictators. Of what use can it be, to liberty loving Americans, to sacrifice our sons and our resources to save America, if in doing so we forsake liberty, without which America cannot be the country which our fathers built and bequeathed to us?

But there are those who would go still farther, and abolish all appearance and pretense of national independence. Some American writers and propagandists seem eager for our direct involvement in the European war, not merely to save England and bring peace to the world, which would certainly be worthy objectives, but because they believe it would afford an opportunity to remerge the United States in the British Empire. The plausibly insinuating but sinister arguments of those who are fostering the scheme called "Union Now" can logically lead to nothing else. If the United States becomes a unit of a close-knit world union, whose foreign affairs and military resources are controlled by a great central super-government, with all the dominions and possessions of the British Empire as the other constituent units of the "Union," then at last the result of the American Revolution will have been effectually reversed, and our country will revert to its former status as a colonial dominion of the Empire. As the greatest and richest unit, the United States would then permanently bear the chief burden of all the cost and sacrifice involved in policing and protecting all other units of that vast world-wide Empire. True, it is plausibly proposed that in the legislative body of the "Union" the United States should have a slight preponderance of voting power; but it is only necessary to look about and see how many Americans even now are easily susceptible to foreign influence to guess that in such a situation as that proposed it would not be difficult for the British contingent to win enough American votes, upon a critical division, to gain the majority. It is no wonder that leading British statesmen have, though with admirably discreet caution, applauded the idea.

This "message" has run beyond all my intentions as to its length. I regret to approach the close of my work as your leader with such gloomy words, but as an American steeped in long traditions of love of our country I cannot refrain from pointing out to my compatriots in this Society the perils which present themselves ahead of us.

Our country must be united in a time of such crisis as the present. We must support our government loyally in every measure which makes for our security, independence, and ultimate if not immediate peace. Even if events drive us to conflict we must still be loyal. We are committed, by the deliberate decision of our government, to the giving of generous aid to England, to the limit of our ability, and to the carrying out of that commitment, too, we must give faithful support, even at great sacrifice, no matter what may formerly have been the individual opinions of any of us as to how this should be done.

But let us think, while yet there is time, of what is yet ahead. In closing ranks, as loyal Americans, for unified support of our government, it is still our right, as citizens, to question where we are going, and use our influence, according to our patriotic consciences, to save for our children those elements of American life which are most worth while. We should stand firmly for the defense of America and the preservation of American independence and freedom, and the institutions of free government, against all factions, cults and propagandist groups, radical or Tory, who would subvert our institutions, either by substituting any totalitarian system for our democracy or by surrendering our national independence. The American Republic has made an unequalled contribution to civilization by demonstrating the possibility of free government, broad opportunity and high standards of living, with devotion to peace and its arts and not war and force. Let us never cease to stand for the maintenance of that kind of a country. We should avoid war so long as that is possible, and resort to it only in defense. But whatever comes let us be united, but firmly resolved that our objective shall be the perpetuation of American freedom, never yielding to any temptation to seek greater seeming security and efficiency by any surrender of that freedom, without which all else we might gain can be but loss.

Loren E. Bowen

of the National Society, which takes care, very nicely, of the essential "mechanics" of the Congress. The local committees are now diligently searching for "sandwich material" with which to fill in the empty time spaces so that no one need suffer for lack of some place to go or something to hear or see. However, the committees are not unmindful of the fact that some delegates prefer to feel free, at times, to do just as they please! To visit with friends, go here or there, or just "stay put."

The interest in and the enthusiasm over the coming of the Congress to Columbus are manifest on every hand and are very heartening to the various committees and the members of Benjamin Franklin Chapter. For example, the Tea at the Governor's Mansion in honor of Mrs. Souers, being arranged by the ladies, is but one indication of the sincere interest of Governor and Mrs. Bricker in the Congress. The same is true of the tea at the home of President and Mrs. Bevis at Ohio State University. President Bevis has assured the committee of his very real interest in the meeting and of his readiness to cooperate in any way possible for its success. Many other prominent citizens and live organizations have expressed a keen interest and readiness to cooperate. Therefore, the committee feels warranted in assuring all prospective visitors to the city of a royal welcome. So come, and be presented not only with the keys to the City of Columbus, but also with the great seal of the State of Ohio!

Talk about "surprises"! Just wait till you see "OHIO, THE BEAUTIFUL", and its famous capital city! Now, just what would you like to see? Beautiful natural scenery? We have it. Great cities and commercial centers? Ohio has more large cities of real importance than any other state in the Union.

Are you interested in great institutions of learning? Then see any one of Ohio's six state universities, the greatest of which is the Ohio State University at Columbus, with its 14,000 or more students, a campus of more than one thousand acres and a nationally famous stadium and museum.

Perhaps you are interested in prehistoric effigy mounds? If so, then be sure to see Ohio's four notable mounds: "Eagle Mound" and "Opossum Mound," both in Licking County, the two "Serpent Mounds," one in Warren County and one in Adams County, this latter being the most famous prehistoric effigy mound in the world. In addition to these, there may be seen seven of the most noted works of the mound builders' art.

Maybe you are interested in caves, or famous springs? If so, Ohio has some twenty or more caves with names, ten or more famous lakes and a number of unique springs, such, for example, as "Blue Hole" in Erie County, which is 75 feet in diameter, 45 feet deep and discharges 5,000 gallons of water per minute. Are you interested in historic spots? Then come and let us show you the sites of some twenty-seven old military forts built in Ohio during the Indian wars. But, why prolong the list? Time and space forbid even the mention of the shrines to her noted sons, including seven presidents of the United States.

ERDIS G. ROBINSON,
General Chairman.

WILLIAM ALEXANDER, Secretary.

We regret that spacing arrangements for this issue has made it necessary to omit the list of National Trustees which usually precedes the frontispiece. Please refer to the January S. A. R. Magazine for this information.

Credential blanks for the 51st Congress will be issued to State Secretaries from National Headquarters after April 15. State officers are reminded that a duplicate of their list of delegates is due at the office of the Secretary General, prior to the Congress, and should be sent as soon as possible.

Credentials to National Officers, including National Trustees, are sent directly to these officers from National Headquarters in Washington, and should not be supplied by State officers from the blanks issued to them.

Washington Guard Revived

An event of national importance in S. A. R. and D. A. R. circles was consummated at the Bar Association Building in Mineola, Long Island, N. Y., the evening of February 17, 1941, the occasion being the inauguration of the WASHINGTON GUARD POST No. 1 of the LONG ISLAND CHAPTER, Sons of the American Revolution.

The WASHINGTON GUARD is an organization of boys from fourteen to seventeen years inclusive who will be eligible for membership in the S. A. R. when they reach the required age of eighteen. It was first promulgated a number of years ago under auspices of the New Jersey Society but has been quiescent since until now. The occasion was the monthly dinner meeting of the LONG ISLAND CHAPTER S. A. R. under whose auspices GUARD POST No. 1 has been organized. This is the first Post to be established under the new plan.

In a brief but impressive service Captain Richard V. Goodwin, President of the Empire State Society, installed the officers of the newly formed Post. He served in place of Messmore Kendall, immediate Past-President General of the National Society, who was unable to be present. Captain Goodwin presented the Charter to Commander Harmon Delavan Swits 3rd, who had been elected to head the new Post.

Brief words of greeting and advice were spoken to the boys by William H. Pouch, second vice-president of the Empire State Society, by Captain Rexford Crewe, Treasurer, and by Gardner Osborn, Historian of the State Society.

G. Burchard Smith, president of the local Chapter, presided and presented the guests from the Empire State Society. He also introduced the fourteen charter members of POST No. 1 who were present as guests of the LONG ISLAND CHAPTER. Mr. Smith then presented Harmon D. Swits, 2nd, Chairman of the WASHINGTON GUARD committee.

In installing the officers, Captain Goodwin stressed the objects of the organization as expressed in the Charter, which reads in part:

It is your sacred duty to revive and keep alive, especially within your territory the spirit of pure and unselfish patriotism which inspired the Fathers of the Republic, and diligently to promote the lofty aims and objects of your Post as set forth in the Constitutions of the National Society and of the Empire State Society of the Sons of the American Revolution, to the end that our country may be preserved, free, independent, and united, that constitutional government may be maintained and that Peace and Happiness, Truth and Justice, Liberty and Fraternity may be established among you for all generations.

In accepting the Charter young Commander Swits earnestly pledged himself and his fellow members to follow the injunctions set forth in the charter.

Frank F. Pierson on behalf of himself and Overton C. Tremper, who are to be S. A. R. liaison members with the Post then outlined the projects planned for the coming year. These include a deeper study of points of historical interest in the local area, field trips every month, and the promotion of a deeper reverence for the American flag and the republic for which it stands.

Membership cards and pins were presented to the boys by Compatriot Martin M. Mansperger, chairman of the WASHINGTON GUARD committee of the Empire State Society who was the organizing president of the LONG ISLAND CHAPTER S. A. R.

Following are the officers and other charter members of the new Post:

Commander—Harmon Delavan Swits, 3rd;
1st Vice-Commander—Gifford Boies Doxsee;
2nd Vice-Commander—George Walters, Jr.;
Adjutant—Martin Matheny Mansperger, Jr.;
Treasurer—William Foster Hale. Ensigns: William Willet Raynor, Franklin Olcott Sheard, Smith Gregory Pearsall, Frederick

The reorganization of the WASHINGTON GUARD is very largely a result of the personal work and enthusiasm of Compatriot Mansperger who through his earnest effort covering a period of several months has accomplished the establishment of the first Post and has inspired the cooperation of national, state, and local officials of both the Sons and the Daughters of the American Revolution in furthering the development of the WASHINGTON GUARD into what it is hoped will rapidly become a movement nation-wide in its scope.

Revolutionary Heroes Honored

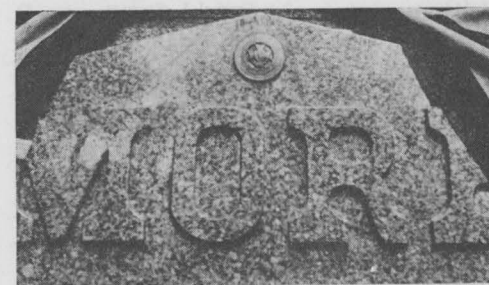

The grave of John More, a Revolutionary soldier was suitably marked with impressive ceremonies last summer when the John More Association of Roxbury, N. Y., held its 11th annual reunion of the Descendants of John More and Betty Taylor.

The entire program extended over a period of one week.

Special interest in these events is attached to the fact that the Official Grave Marker of the Sons of the American Revolution was placed and dedicated on this occasion, through the efforts of Compatriot Harold K. Van Alan of the District of Columbia Society, of Champion, Michigan, a descendant of the soldier and member of the More Association. A handsome monument commemorates this patriot and the More Descendants, and the S. A. R. Plaque was placed conspicuously upon its base as will be noted in the accompanying illustration.

Colonel Alva J. Brasted, former Chaplain General of the National Society S. A. R., made the dedicatory address and represented the National Society and as a descendant of John More.

We are also informed of the similar marking of a Revolutionary soldier's grave with the S. A. R. Marker by Compatriot Theodore J. Town, at Laurel Hill Cemetery, Philadelphia, in tribute to his ancestor, Rev. John W. Neveling, a Minister of the Reformed Church and a Chaplain in the American Army throughout the Revolutionary War. He preached to Battalions in the cause of freedom and so important was the influence he exerted that the British government offered a large reward for his apprehension. To afford relief to the Continental Congress which was in dire financial straits he reduced his large estate to cash and loaned £5,000 to the Government for which he was reduced to poverty the remainder of his life.

Compatriots Theodore J. and Charles M. Town are great great grandsons of the Patriot John Neveling. The Marker was dedicated early in the summer of 1940, and unveiled by Theodore Neveling Town, great-grandson of the Patriot.

It is always gratifying to have our Compatriots take personal interest in providing the symbol of service with which the S. A. R. is prepared to indicate its reverence for our patriotic forebears.

William Constant Stores Wheeler

December 4, 1847- February 2, 1941

Real Son

(From the report of the Vt. S. A. R. Obituary Committee.)

William Constant Stores Wheeler passed away at his home in East Woodbury, Vt., February 1, 1941, at the age of 93. Mr. Wheeler was ill but two days. Interment was in the family lot in South Woodbury cemetery.

William C. S. Wheeler was born December 4, 1847 in East Woodbury, Vt., the son of Comfort and Permella (Ainsworth) Wheeler. At the age of fifteen Mr. Wheeler joined the Union Army as a member of Company I, 11th Vermont regiment. He served for four years, finally being stricken with pneumonia, hospitalized in Washington, and discharged from the service. He later went as one of the veterans detailed to quell the Fenian raids, in St. Albans. For sixty-three years he resided in the same house, remaining unusually hale and hearty practically to the moment of death. At the age (circa) of ninety he worked up a number of cords of four foot wood with a bucksaw, and the ensuing year picked some bushels of wild berries.

Mr. Wheeler married Agnes Evaline Pierce. Their two sons, Earl Wheeler and Delburn C. Wheeler, have neither married. Mrs. Wheeler died May 7, 1939 at the age of eighty.

There are many unusual features in the story of William Constant Stores Wheeler. His father, Comfort Wheeler, was born in 1766. In April of 1780 he enlisted in the Revolutionary Army, at the age of fourteen, and served three enlistments: under Captain Duel at Shongun, N. Y., for three months; under Captain Keith at Killingly, Conn., for three months; and finally under Captain Corbin for one year, when he was detailed as orderly to General Nathanael Greene. Comfort's third marriage, at the age of 76, was to Permella Ainsworth, mother of Constant. Thus, when Constant was born his oldest half-brother (by the first marriage) was sixty-three years old.

As a youngster he recalled hearing the Revolutionary veterans of the neighborhood retelling the tales of battles and experiences of that war. Upon one occasion he recalled his father pointed to him and remarked that, "if that boy lives to be twenty-one years old he will be a real curiosity." William did much more than that—he lived to be ninety-three, and very much an object of amazed interest. He was the last living REAL SON of the Revolution, so far as known; the last Civil War veteran of his community (that sent 144 men). He and his father voted for every President of the United States to the present time, his father from Washington to Buchanan, he from then on. This is a record unparalleled to our knowledge.

Mr. Wheeler took an active part in the Civil War, participating in the battle of Fort Stevens (the only one witnessed by Lincoln), and seeing extensive and various service. With his passing a chapter most exceptional, most fascinating and completely astounding in the history of our Society and State comes to a close. The legend of William Constant Stores Wheeler and his father should ever be kept in the forefront of our Society, as one of its most unique and historically important chapters.

Mr. Wheeler was an honorary member of the Vermont Society, Sons of the American Revolution.

The S. A. R. Library

The special "Boost the S. A. R. Library Campaign" inaugurated last autumn has proved quite a success due to the excellent work of the National Library Development Committee appointed by our President General. In addition to the many donations of books, pamphlets, periodicals, prints and relics there were a number of cash contributions. The January issue of the Magazine listed some of these cash gifts. Those desiring to add to the library fund may do so by sending their remittance directly to the Treasurer General indicating that the money is to be used in the work of the library and to purchase needed volumes.

Compatriot Wallace McCamant, former President General, gave ten dollars to the library fund. Compatriot R. V. Goodwin, President of the Empire State Society, donated eleven dollars and fifty cents so that there might be purchased a unit of D. A. R. lineage books. Compatriot H. M. Fulton of the District of Columbia contributed a dollar. The Kansas State Society and the THOMAS JEFFERSON CHAPTER of that Society each gave ten dollars.

Special mention is made of the gift of eighteen volumes of "The Chronicles of Oklahoma" by Compatriot J. Garfield Buell. He advises the Librarian General that as additional volumes are published he will arrange to have the S. A. R. Library receive copies.

LOUIS CHARLES SMITH,
Librarian General.

Brief Book Reviews:

(Copies of these recently published books have been donated to the S. A. R. Library by the authors or publishers as indicated in the list of donations to the library.)

"The Trojan Horse in America," a Report to the Nation, by Martin Dies; published by Dodd, Mead & Co., New York. ($2.50.)

For more than two years the Dies Committee has been uncovering un-American activities. With energy and ingenuity it has made an exhaustive, thorough investigation. The unparalleled powers granted such a Congressional committee have enabled it to employ a large staff of experts, to take testimony from any one it choose to call. That the results have been startling and highly worthwhile has been apparent virtually from the start, so much so that they have convinced even the most bitter political opponents of the committee. Many new facts are revealed for the first time in this book. But most important is the perspective it gives the reader, revealing the method and scope of the whole investigation and showing the significance of its findings.

"George Washington as the French knew him," a collection of texts, edited and translated, with an introduction by Gilbert Chinard; published by the Princeton University Press at Princeton. ($2.50.)

This handsomely printed book—a beautiful addition to any library of Americana—is one of the most interesting as well as one of the most unusual works of the outstanding Franco-American scholar, Gilbert Chinard. It presents in attractive form, and with the greatest fidelity to the originals, translations of the opinions of Washington held by thirty-four Frenchmen, many of them famous in history. The book contains three illustrations, two of them collotypes, including the little known portrait of Washington by Madame de Bréhan.

"White's Conspectus of American Biography," revised and enlarged; published by James T. White & Co., 70 Fifth Ave., New York. ($15.00.)

This work, first published in 1906, and now brought up to date, is an entirely original and unique publication—an epitome of the whole field of American biography. It records, in tabulated form, the names, with term of office, of all those who have held high administrative positions or who have otherwise achieved national recognition in government, education, the arts and sciences, the church and the professions.

"Index Volume, The National Cyclopaedia of American Biography"; published by James T. White & Co. ($15.00.)

Complete indexes to all volumes of White's National Cyclopaedia of American Biography are now contained in one lock-leaf cover with sufficient space for future expansion. This work makes accessible a wealth of general information on the achievements of distinguished Americans, past and present, in all fields of human endeavor. The cross-reference feature and the topical index which it contains are very helpful. References to American industrial histories are also to be found.

"Outlines in United States History," by S. Laura Ensign and Miriam W. Brooks; published by A. Flanagan Co., 920 N. Franklin St., Chicago. (35¢.)

This is a very good outline of United States history. It should be helpful not only to students of American history but to all of those doing any research in that field and desiring readily to refresh their memory.

"The American Agricultural Press, 1819-1860," by Albert Lowther Demaree; published by Columbia University Press, New York. ($4.00.)

This volume presents a complete cross section of one of the earliest and most important vehicles of public opinion. The author has succeeded in reflecting in this work the whole scope and variety treated in the American Agricultural Press of the period, 1819-1860; subjects which range the whole gamut of activity and interest of the person of the early nineteenth-century American farm, to whom were being offered patent medicines; mechanical devices for increasing crops; schemes for multiplying yields, games, puzzles, and riddles for pastimes; the arguments for women's rights; the economy of plantations; accounts of the treatment of slaves; and the like. The heroes of this history are not politicians but the pioneers in the crusade for better agriculture, and this book shows what a wealth of unused biographical material is also available to historians on the lives of these neglected agrarian leaders.

"The Cultural Approach to History," edited for the American Historical Association by Caroline F. Ware; published by the Columbia University Press, New York. ($3.50.)

History books have but covered a partial field of study. The historian has specialized in facts found in the archives. Today a new approach is in the mind of the scholar, it being cultural in nature. With a history of this kind in use it will weaken Mr. Dooley's comments regarding the written records of the past, for among his observations the following has been often quoted: "I know histhry isn't thru because it ain't like what I see ivry day in Halsted Sthreet. If any wan comes along with a histhry iv Greece or Rome that'll show me th' people fightin', gettin' dhrunk, makin' love, gettin' married, owin' th' grocery man an' bein' without hard-coal, I'll believe they was a Greece or Rome, but not before . . . histhry is a post-mortem examination. It tells ye what a counthry died iv. But I'd like to know what it lived iv."

"Letters of Jonathan Oldstyle," by Washington Irving, with a biographical notice; published by the Columbia University Press. ($1.60.)

This is the first complete collection of the first venture in publication of our first man of letters. This edition is reproduced in facsimile from the edition of 1824 with an introduction by Stanley T. Williams.

"Barksdale Family History and Genealogy (with collateral lines)," compiled by John A. Barksdale; published by the compiler at San Rafael, California (P. O. Box 113). ($15.00.)

This work represents one of the finest and most complete genealogies published in this generation. Its historical and biographical material will prove of unusual value to genealogical researchers. The Barksdale family is truly indebted to the compiler.

Events of State Societies

(Editor's Note: State and Chapter Officers are requested to furnish news items of their activities for publication in this department. Such items should be sent to National Headquarters for our next issue on or before JUNE 1, 1941.)

California Society

SAN FRANCISCO CHAPTER—On the evening of December 17 the Chapter held a High Jinks and Christmas Party at the Hotel Stewart with a goodly number of the members in attendance. The entertainment included the Southern Pacific's motion picture, "Ski Lodge Travel Log." The pictures were excellent and were greatly enjoyed by the members. Refreshments were served after which the members enjoyed an informal Christmas party and gifts were exchanged. The gathering proved to be a most successful one and afforded an opportunity for the members to become better acquainted. Several members of the ALAMEDA COUNTY CHAPTER were present on this occasion.

At the January meeting the Chapter adopted a resolution approving the action taken by the State Society with reference to a Constitutional Amendment against the Third Term for any President of the United States.

The February 28 meeting was given over to a discussion by the members of "America's problems relating to the present war in Europe." At this meeting Sea Scout Ship No. 431 was officially adopted by the Chapter. Members of the Chapter will serve on the Troop Committee of the Scout Ship, and the present committees studying the movement is composed of L. K. Cofer, Rev. G. B. Gifford, J. C. Russell, Harold Putnam and Harry E. Marshall.

Colorado Society

The annual meeting was held at the Olin Hotel, Denver, on the afternoon of February 22nd, for the transaction of business and election of officers which resulted as follows: President, Spencer Cole; Vice President, Frazer Arnold; Secretary, R. Ewing Stiffler; Treasurer, Dwight C. Meigs; Historian and Registrar, Edward W. Milligan; Chaplain, Rev. Jesse Penney Martin. Managers: Frank R. Jamison, George E. Tarbox, Jr., Fred W. On the evening of the same day the annual banquet was held, when the Daughters of the American Revolution and members of the American Legion were guests. The address of the guest speaker, Mr. Edward J. Gebben, of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, was on "National Defense."

District of Columbia Society

Wives of members of the Society were guests of honor at the society's annual "Ladies' Night" banquet at the Mayflower Hotel commemorating 50 years of organization on the evening of January 21st.

Dr. Earley Vernon Wilcox, president of the Shakespearean Society in Washington, was the principal speaker at the dinner, which was followed by dancing. The organization was extended greetings by allied patriotic groups, including the Daughters of the American Revolution, represented by Mrs. Geoffrey Creyke, State vice regent, and the Children of the American Revolution, whose national president, Mrs. John M. Kerr, spoke briefly. Robert M. Tracy, vice president general of the S. A. R., commended the society on its 50 years of patriotic services.

Dr. Clifton P. Clark, President of the Society, presided. Honored member guests included Joseph I. Keefer, collateral descendant of Mary Ball, George Washington's mother. Attractive souvenir programs were provided and several new members were inducted into the Society.

The Society has celebrated its golden anniversary with special programs each month during the year, and has printed a brief historical outline of its progress in its regular Bulletins, reviewing its activities during the half-century of organization.

On February 22nd, the Society observed Washington's Birthday by a luncheon meeting at the Mayflower Hotel, when the speaker was Compatriot William A. Miller who gave an interesting paper on "Col. James Smith of the Conococheague, First Rebel of the American Revolution." Baritone solos by Mr. Harry McMains were a feature.

JOHN MORTON CHAPTER, Terre Haute—At its annual meeting this chapter elected Frank L. Richart, President and August R. Markle, Secretary.

Plans were adopted for marking the grave of Joshua Patrick, a Soldier of the Revolution and of the War of 1812, who died January 10, 1842 and was buried in Woodlawn Cemetery with military honors. A monument erected by the family was broken many years ago and nothing of it now remains to identify it except a photograph of the broken stone, now missing, with the inscription below his name, "A Soldier of the Revolution." This photograph was taken some twenty years ago and at that time it was expected that the great granddaughter of Joshua Patrick would erect a stone but death intervened and there is now none of the family to care for the grave. The Chapter deems it a duty and a privilege to pay this tribute.

Born in 1760, Joshua Patrick served through the Revolution and in the second War for Independence, was wounded near Detroit, placed on the brig "Adams" and recaptured by the Americans at Fort Erie.

Several other graves await service records before marking with the Society's Official Marker.

In addition to the officers of the new Chapter who were named in our January issue, twelve of the new members were present and a number of applications are pending. The holiday season was selected for this meeting to insure the presence of as many of these young men as possible, several of whom are attending college.

The impetus and inspiration for the formation of this Chapter are largely due to the splendid encouragement and personal labor of Mrs. Loren E. Rex, mother of the Chapter's President, who is Chaplain General of the National Society Daughters of the American Revolution, National Chaplain of the Daughters of American Colonists, and who performs many active services in a number of similar patriotic groups. The National and Kansas Societies desire to express their appreciation of this fine accomplishment to Mrs. Rex and the hope that her most successful efforts will continue in behalf of the membership and future activity of the Chapter so successfully inaugurated.

The old silver spoon here illustrated belonged to George Rex, for whom the new Chapter is named and has been handed down from generation to generation to the present Compatriot Daniel F. Rex. It is marked "G. R. 1750-1821." The Rex Genealogy, compiled by Mrs. Loren E. Rex, is promised for the National S. A. R. Library.

Supplee presided and presented Mr. G. Ridgely Sappington, Past State President and member of the National Executive Committee as Toastmaster. The speaker of the evening was the President General, Hon. Loren E. Souers, who with Mrs. Souers accepted the invitation of the Maryland Society. Mr. Souers' address was forceful and eloquent and brought to the critical attention of the large audience the need for thoughtful revival of the precepts of Washington and the pertinent inquiry as to how he would regard the present day movements and theories of government. Without answering his query directly, Mr. Souers' implications were obvious as he quoted from a number of Washington's papers.

A delightful program of songs was rendered by Mr. Jeffrey Gould, baritone and Miss Sarah S. Ziebler, accompanist, and guests at the speakers' table were presented, including Secretary-Registrar General Frank B. Steele of Washington, Mr. Henry F. Baker, Past President General, George S. However, Compatriot Breckenridge is at present confined to his home, recovering from the after-effects of an attack of influenza. His physicians look for complete recovery in due time, but state that he should not undertake any new responsibilities in the near future, and advise against his acceptance of the office of President-General of our National Society.

The Wisconsin Society is planning on sending one or two boys to the Badger Boys State, preferably sons of the Society members.

The Boys State, sponsored by the American Legion, is "the American Legion's laboratory of practical political science." A limited number of boys selected for their qualifications in leadership, character and service, gather for an eight days session where they learn through actual practice the operation of government. The boys divide into two mythical parties. Cities and counties spring into existence and a state government is organized to function according to the laws of the State of Wisconsin. The boys become candidates for election, vote their candidates into office, have their Senate and Assembly, County Board of Supervisors, City Council, introduce and argue bills and enforce regulations and laws. They learn through actual execution, the duties of public offices and discover the government is what they, as citizens, make it.

The purpose of the Boys State is to inspire these young citizens who are the future men of America to serve their government well and honestly and as true Americans to respect and preserve it.

A typical day's program for Boys State, which has proven very successful, is as follows:

6:30-7:00 Reveille, calisthenics, and flag raising.

7:45-8:15 Cleaning and inspection of quarters.

 CHARLES S. McCULLOH, New York, December 26, 1940

Attention of our members is called to some of the recent publications of the National Education Association, particularly "The American Citizens Handbook," by Joy Elmer Morgan, especially useful in the induction of new citizens as well as in public schools. Also a neat little "United States Flag Code" pamphlet. So many inquiries are made for this last that we are glad to know of it. Inquiries should be made of Compatriot Belmont Farley, Director of Public Relations, National Education Association, Washington, D. C.

Gratifying Results

The Chairman of the Grandfathers Committee for the Children of the American Revolution has been gratified beyond belief by the immediate response to the call published in the January issue of our Magazine, there being received about fifty responses from S. A. R. Grandfathers and more than one hundred grandchildren named who would be eligible to join the C. A. R.

However, the practical results have not been proportionate to the number of responses, many of which were in the nature of inquiry only, and the names below show the only accepted C. A. R. members or applications pending. This is not too surprising, as to prepare and submit applications takes time, as we all know, and we have reason to believe that a large proportion of the grandchildren named in our correspondence will eventually be enrolled.

Every response to the appeal in January has been acknowledged and the compatriot advised as to the nearest chapter of the C. A. R., and urging him to enroll his grandchildren therein and a copy of the letter sent to the National C. A. R. Office in Washington. Here the staff has enthusiastically cooperated by following up the prospect and communicating with the respective grandfathers and also the chapter officers in the locality of the grandchildren. The fees for joining are but $1.00 and with $1.00 for annual dues the expense is so nominal that it would seem no Grandfather would hesitate to enroll his grandchildren without delay.

Here is the Honorary list of those who have already enrolled their grandchildren:

Honorary Grandfathers	Grandchildren Enrolled (or pending)
M. A. Baldwin, Montgomery, Ala.	Elizabeth Frances Baldwin
	Marion Augustus Baldwin, Jr.
Maxwell P. Lewis, Cincinnati, O.	Anne
W. D. Rodenbaugh, Mt. Vernon, N. Y.	June Amy Rodenbaugh
	William B. Rodenbaugh
	Jean A. Haney
	Joseph Haney
	Edward N. Hibbard, Jr.
William J. Walker, Jefferson, Tex.	Frank Taylor Walker and one other

The following have signified their intentions to enroll their grandchildren and we understand the preliminary steps have been taken:

George E. Bidwell, Dayton, O. (4); W. G. Bramham, Durham, N. C. (2); Edwin P. Banta, New York, (3); Eugene C. Bonniwell, Philadelphia; Ralph M. Brann, New York, (3); William C. Bryant, Pittsburgh, (2); Smiley Caldwell, Jr., Ford City, Pa. (2); F. W. Connolly, Dorchester, Mass.; Robert F. Constant, Buffalo, N. Y. (2); J. F. Dabney, Houston, Tex.; Frank Durland, Chester, N. Y. (2); Earl E. Edinger, Wilmington, Del.; James E. Emmons, Newport, Vt. (2); Charles H. Fisher, Cleveland, (2); Elmer E. Foss, San Jose, Calif. (2); Charles F. Hackett, Parker, S. D. (2); R. F. Hatch, W. Hartford, Conn.; Ely C. Hutchinson, New York; W. F. Kerfoot, Oklahoma City; Sherman C. Kile, San Antonio (4); Henry McBride, Norwood, O. (2); Joseph W. McCartney, Indiana, Pa. (3); J. H. McCully, Palo Alto, Calif.; Tracy Manville, Pittsburgh; Augustus M. Mayo, Lake Charles, La. (10); Allen R. Moore, Mt. Vernon, Wash. (8); Howard S. Morrison, Wausau, Wis. (5); Isaac P. Patterson, Cleveland, O.; Paul P. Pinkerton, San Springs, Okla.; J. V. Reed, Waterbury, Conn. (2); Thomas W. Scott, Norfolk, Va.; David W. Timberlake, Westfield, N. J. (3); Samuel Van Dorn, Covington, Ind. (6); L. O. Whitcomb, Toledo, O.; Frank T. Walker, Jefferson, Tex.; Alexander D. Walter, Pittsburgh; Dana R. Witham, Bergen, N. J. (7); J. L. Warner, Wilmington, Del.; R. W. White, Minneapolis; R. M. Wood, Gladewater, Tex.

We feel sure all of the above will shortly be enrolled.

Please keep up the good work, and let me hear from more and more grandfathers.

FRANK B. STEELE, Chairman.

THE Officers of the Society are very much pleased with the progress being made in the retirement of the Certificates of Indebtedness which were issued against our Headquarters Building.

With the redemption on July 1st, 1941 of the Certificates called on that date (a list of which appears elsewhere in this issue), there will be less than half of the original issue of these Certificates outstanding.

In 1935 there were $41,370.00 worth of Certificates sold. After July 1st there will be only $20,000.00 worth outstanding and when these have been retired the Society will own its Headquarters Building without any incumbrances.
